EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

Subject: Proposal for a Council decision concerning the signature and conclusion of a scientific and technical cooperation agreement between the European Community, on the one part, and the Government of New Zealand on the other part

New Zealand is the only non European industrialised country with which the EC still does not have a Science and Technology agreement in force. Currently the cooperation between the Community and New Zealand is based on a Technical Arrangement for Cooperation in Science and Technology between the Commission and the Government of New Zealand which was signed and entered into force on 17 May 1991. This arrangement does not foresee an institutionalised coordination of cooperative activities nor does it provide for specific rules covering the treatment and protection of intellectual property rights.

Over the last year and a half the New Zealand government has repeatedly stated at the highest political level its wish to upgrade the above "Science and Technology arrangement" to a formal agreement. Furthermore, in a letter to Commissioner Potočnik of 17 October 2006 the New Zealand Minister for Research, Science and Technology stated the case for an upgrade more concretely. The letter identified a number of priority areas of interest for New Zealand, where they would like to strengthen collaboration, notably through the Framework Programme. These areas are: Food, Agriculture and Biotechnology, Information and Communication Technologies, Health, Environment and Researcher mobility. They fully correspond to the areas that the Commission services consider interesting and promising for future collaboration from a European point of view.

Therefore, Commissioner Potočnik replied on 23 November 2006 to the letter of the New Zealand Minister for Research, Science and Technology and confirmed that he shared this assessment as regards the usefulness of a formal Science and Technology cooperation agreement between the Community and New Zealand and that he would welcome the conclusion of an S&T cooperation agreement.

Thus, upon a proposal of the Commission, the Council authorised the Commission on 18 September 2007 to negotiate on behalf of the European Community an S&T cooperation agreement with the Government of New Zealand and issued the relevant negotiating directives. The negotiations resulted in the attached draft agreement text initialled on 20 November 2007.

The Agreement is consistent with the negotiating directives: it is based on the principles of mutual benefit, reciprocal opportunities for access to each other's programmes and activities relevant to the purpose of the Agreement, non-discrimination, the effective protection of intellectual property and equitable sharing of intellectual property rights.

Furthermore, the agreement foresees in Article 6 (3) (c) that the Joint Committee that is established by the two executive agents of the Parties may make, subject to each Party's domestic approval processes, technical amendments to the Agreement as may be required. The two negotiating sides agreed that these technical amendments should be restricted to the modification of technical terms and references that might be altered in the course of change from one Framework Programme to the other. In order to ensure a quick implementation of these technical amendments and with a view to avoiding an onerous procedure for amendments which leave the substance of the Agreement untouched, the Commission requests the Council to authorise it, according to Article 300 (4) EC Treaty, to approve the modifications provided for in Article 6 (3) (c) of the Agreement on behalf of the Community

According to Article 13 (2) of the Agreement it will be concluded for an initial period of five years and continue in force after this initial period unless either Party notifies the other that it shall be terminated.

The negotiation and conclusion of a Science and Technology co-operation agreement with New Zealand lies in the European interest. Such an agreement would allow to fully exploit the co-operation potential with this industrialised country. Given that an informal "Science and Technology arrangement" has already existed since 1991, the additional administrative burden and workload deriving from an upgrade would be relatively limited.

In light of the above consideration the Commission proposes to the Council

- To approve on behalf of the European Community the attached decisions;
- To notify the New Zealand authorities that the European Community has completed the procedures necessary for the entry into force of the Agreement.

1. Unless otherwise mutually decided by the executive agents, the following rules will apply to Intellectual Property rights created or introduced by the Parties in the course of Direct Cooperative Activities:
  - (a) The Party creating the Intellectual Property will have full ownership. In cases where the Intellectual Property has been jointly created and the respective share of the work by the two Parties cannot be ascertained, the Parties will have joint ownership of the Intellectual Property.
  - (b) Except as set out in paragraph 2, the Party owning or introducing the Intellectual Property will grant the other Party the access rights necessary to carry out any Direct Cooperative Activities. Such access rights will be granted on a royalty-free basis.
  - (c) Except as set out in paragraph 2, where the Parties jointly own the Intellectual Property, each Party will grant the other Party a non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use and exploit that Intellectual Property for the other Party’s own purposes.
2. Unless otherwise mutually decided by the executive agents, the following rules will apply to copyrights and related rights of the Parties created or introduced by the Parties in the course of Direct Cooperative Activities:
  - (a) When a Party publishes scientific and technical data, information or results arising from and relating to Cooperative Activities, by means of journals, articles, reports, books, the internet, or in other forms, including video tapes and electronic storage devices, the publishing Party will make utmost efforts to obtain for the other Party, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free licences in all countries where copyright protection is available, in order to translate, reproduce, adapt, transmit and publicly distribute such works. However, the publishing Party has no obligation to obtain such licenses from third parties that the publishing Party did not know, at the time of first publication, owned any Intellectual Property in such works.
  - (b) All publicly distributed copies of a copyrighted work under the provisions of paragraph 2(a) will indicate the name(s) of the author(s) of the work unless the author(s) explicitly declines to be named. They will also display a clearly visible acknowledgement of the cooperative support of the Parties.

  - (b) A Party receiving undisclosed information may communicate that information to its agencies, or persons employed through these agencies, for the specific purpose of carrying out Direct Cooperative Activities. The receiving Party will impose an obligation of confidentiality for such undisclosed information on the agencies, their employees and third parties, including contractors and sub-contractors.
  - (c) Only with the prior written consent of the Party providing the undisclosed information, should the other Party disseminate such undisclosed information more widely than is permitted in paragraph 4(b). The Parties will cooperate to develop procedures for the request and obtaining of prior written consent for such wider dissemination. Upon request, each Party will grant such consent to the extent permitted by its laws and regulations.
  - (d) Information arising from seminars, meetings, assignments of staff and of the use of facilities arranged under the Agreement will be treated as undisclosed information when the Party providing the information identifies it as such, according to paragraph 4(a).
  - (e) If one Party becomes aware that it will be, or expects to become, unable to meet the restrictions and conditions of dissemination of this Annex, it will immediately inform the other Party. The Parties will thereafter consult to define an appropriate course of action.

7. ANTI-FRAUD MEASURES

When the implementation of the Framework Programme calls for the use of external contractors or entails granting financial contributions to third parties, the Commission will carry out financial audits, where appropriate, in particular if it has reason to doubt the realistic nature of work performed or described in the activity reports.

The Community's financial audits will be carried out either by its own staff or by accounting experts approved according to the law of the audited party. The Community will choose the latter freely, while avoiding any risks of conflicts of interest which might be indicated to it by the party subject to the audit.

In addition, the Commission will make sure, in carrying out the research activities, that the financial interests of the European Communities are protected by effective checks and, where irregularities are detected, by deterrent and proportionate measures and penalties.

In order to achieve this aim, rules on checks, measures and penalties, with reference to Regulations Nos 2988/95, 2185/96 and 1073/99, will be incorporated in all contracts used in the implementation of the Framework Programme.

In particular, the following points will have to be provided for in the contracts:

- the introduction of specific contractual clauses to protect the financial interests of the EC in carrying out checks and controls in relation to the work performed;
