- (2) With a view of sound and uniform administration of the licensing system it is appropriate to lay down common provisions as regards application for and issue of licences.
- (3) In order to unambiguously identify an applicant for a licence and a titular holder of a licence, the Economic Operators Registration and Identification (EORI) number should be used for this purpose.
- (4) It is necessary to establish the appropriate level of the security for the licences to be issued, so as to guarantee that the products will be imported or exported during the period of validity of the licence.
- (5) It should be possible to issue extracts of licences that have the same effect as the licences from which they are extracted, so that several operations can be carried out at the same time under one licence.
- (6) It is necessary to lay down periods of validity of the import and export licences. This validity can vary for specific products and has to be fixed in order to define when the obligation to export or import is to be fulfilled.
- (7) In view of international trade practice in respect of the agricultural products concerned, level of tolerances should be defined with regard to the quantity of products imported or exported as compared with the quantity indicated on the licence.
- (8) The import and export licence constitutes a right and give rise to an obligation to release for free circulation or to export. It is necessary to define when the undertaking to export or import is fulfilled and how to prove it.
- (9) It is appropriate to lay down provisions on the procedure to be followed when a licence is destroyed or lost.
- (10) In order to reduce the administrative burden in those cases where the amount of security required for a licence is relatively small, a threshold should be fixed under which no security is required.
- (11) In order to reduce the administrative burden it is appropriate to set out maximum quantities for specific products for which a licence is not required.
- (12) Action should be taken in cases where the obligation to import or export is not fulfilled, especially in cases of recognised force majeure. In such cases that obligation may be considered cancelled or the period of validity of the licence may be extended.
- (13) It is necessary to lay down some additional notification requirements for import licences for hemp, garlic and ethyl alcohol of agricultural origin in order to take into consideration the specificities of those sectors.
- (14) Taking into consideration the need of a smooth transition from the current rules to those being introduced by this Regulation, some transitional provisions should be adopted.
- (15) The measures provided for in this Regulation are in accordance with the opinion of the Committee for the Common Organisation of the Agricultural Markets,

HAS ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

2. Extracts shall have the same legal effects as the licences from which they are extracted, within the limits of the quantity in respect of which such extracts are issued.
3. The procedures for the application for licences and the issuing and return thereof shall also apply to extracts. The licence issuing authority may provide for simplified application procedures.

2. The IT applications of the licence issuing authority may provide direct access for the customs office to the electronic licence or extract. If direct access is not available, the declarant or the licence issuing authority shall send the licence or extract to the customs office in electronic format.

If the IT applications of the licence issuing authority or customs office are not suited for applying the first subparagraph, licences or extracts may be sent in paper format.

On a paper licence, the customs office shall indicate and validate the quantity released for free circulation or exported, or if provided by national administrative rules, validate the quantity indicated by the declarant, in Sections 29 and 30 of the titular holder's copy, endorse it, and return that copy to the declarant, or, if specific legislation requires so, return that copy to the licence issuing authority.

3. Where the quantity released for free circulation or exported does not correspond to the quantity indicated on the licence, customs shall correct the entry on the licence by indicating the actual quantity within the limits of the quantity available on the licence.

4. If the space for making attributions on paper licences or extracts is not sufficient, the authorities may attach extension pages, validated through allongement stamping.

Where a licence issuing authority has a doubt on the accuracy of entries on the licence or extract, it shall return the licence or extract to the competent customs authority.

The first subparagraph shall not apply where it concerns minor or evident errors which the licence issuing authority or competent customs authority can remedy by applying the legislation correctly.

6. At the request of the licence issuing authority, the titular holder or transferee shall return the licence or extract.

Where on the basis of risk management there is a need to verify, or a doubt concerning the authenticity of a paper licence or extract, or entries or endorsements thereon, the authority concerned shall return the licence or extract, or a photocopy thereof, to the competent authorities responsible for checking.

The request for verification and the reply of the result shall be communicated by electronic means in accordance with Council Regulation (EC) No 515/97 <sup>(1)</sup> using the standard form as set out in the notice on import and export licences for agricultural products. Authorities may agree on further simplification including direct consultations using the customs office list (COL) published on the Commission's official web-site. <sup>(2)</sup>

The requested authority shall ensure that a reply to the requesting authority is sent within 20 calendar days when the authorities are established in the same Member State. Where different Member States are involved, the reply shall be sent within 60 calendar days.

7. Where a licence or extract is returned, the competent authority shall on request give a receipt to the party concerned, or note and stamp a date of receipt on a photo-copy produced by the party concerned.

Article 14

Fulfilment of the obligation and proof

1. The security for a licence shall be released if the obligations referred to in Article 24 of Delegated Regulation (EU) No 907/2014 and this Article have been fulfilled.

2. The right to have the products released for free circulation or to export shall be considered to have been exercised, and the corresponding obligation shall be considered to have been fulfilled, on the day the relevant customs declaration is accepted within the period of validity of the licence and provided that:

(a) in case of release for free circulation, the products are actually released for free circulation;

(b) in case of export, the products have left the customs territory of the Union within 150 calendar days from the day of acceptance of the customs declaration.

3. Proof of the fulfilment of the obligation to have the products released for free circulation shall be the titular holder's or transferee's copy of the licence or extract, duly endorsed by customs, or its electronic equivalent.

4. Proof of the fulfilment of the obligation to export shall be:

(a) the titular holder's or transferee's copy of the licence or extract, duly endorsed by customs, or its electronic equivalent; and

(b) the exit certification by the customs office of export to the exporter or the declarant referred to in Article 334 of Implementing Regulation (EU) 2015/2447.

<sup>(1)</sup> Council Regulation (EC) No 515/97 of 13 March 1997 on mutual assistance between the administrative authorities of the Member States and cooperation between the latter and the Commission to ensure the correct application of the law on customs and agricultural matters (OJ L 82, 22.3.1997, p. 1).

5. The proof referred to in point (b) of paragraph 4 shall be provided and checked as follows:
- (a) the exporter or declarant referred to in point (b) of paragraph 4 shall transfer the exit certification to the titular holder, and the titular holder shall submit the proof in electronic format to the licence issuing authority. If the exit certification is annulled due to corrections by the customs office of exit, the customs office of export shall inform the exporter or his customs representative, and the exporter or his customs representative shall inform the titular holder, who shall inform the licence issuing authority accordingly;
  - (b) the procedure set out in point (a) shall include submission of the Master Reference Number (MRN) concerned as defined in Article 1(22) of Delegated Regulation (EU) 2015/2446 to the licence issuing authority
    - if more than one Member State is involved in the export procedure, or
    - if the customs office of export is in another Member State than that of the licence issuing authority, or
    - if the MRN is used in the export procedure completed within the Member State where the export declaration was lodged;
  - (c) the licence issuing authority shall check the information received, including the correctness of the date of exit of the customs territory of the Union, on the basis of risk management. If the MRN and the MRN databank <sup>(1)</sup> do not enable appropriate checks, customs shall, at the licence issuing authority's request and on the basis of the MRN concerned, either confirm or correct the date of exit.

If the customs office of export is established in another Member State than the licence issuing authority, the procedures set out in the second subparagraph of Article 13(6) apply mutatis mutandis.

Authorities may agree that the procedures set out in the first subparagraph are carried out directly between the authorities concerned. Licence issuing authorities may arrange simplified procedures for the purposes of point (a).

6. The proof of having the products released for free circulation must be received by the licence issuing authority within 60 calendar days of the expiry of the period of validity of the licence.

The proof of export and exit of the customs territory of the Union must be received by the licence issuing authority within 180 calendar days after the expiry of the licence.

If the periods provided for in the first and second subparagraphs cannot be respected due to technical problems, the licence issuing authority may, at the request and proof of the titular holder, extend those periods, if necessary ex post, up to a maximum of 730 calendar days, taking account of Article 23(4) of Delegated Regulation (EU) No 907/2014.

7. The licence issuing authorities may waive the obligation to provide the proof referred to in paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 if they are already in possession of the necessary information.

Replacement and duplicate licences or extracts

1. Where a paper licence or extract issued for products referred to in Article 2(1)(a) or (2)(a) of Delegated Regulation (EU) 2016/1237 is partly or totally destroyed, or lost, the titular holder or transferee may request the licence issuing authority to issue a replacement licence or extract. The replacement licence or extract substitutes the original licence or extract, including all rights and obligations concerned.

For replacement licences under this paragraph a security shall be lodged as set out in Article 5.

If the lost or partially destroyed original licence is found, the titular holder shall return the original licence to the licence issuing authority, who shall release the remaining security for the original licence forthwith.

2. A replacement licence or extract may only be issued once and for the period of validity and the balance of quantity remaining available for the original licence or extract.

A replacement licence or extract shall not be issued where the issue of licences or extracts for the product in question is suspended or where it concerns an import or export tariff rate quota.

3. The security for the replacement licence, together with the security for the original licence if it was not found, shall be released in accordance with Article 14.

4. Where the request concerns a partly or totally destroyed licence or extract issued for products other than those referred to in Article 2(1)(a) and (2)(a) of Delegated Regulation (EU) 2016/1237, the following conditions shall apply:

- (a) the titular holder or transferee shall prove the total or partial destruction to the satisfaction of the licence issuing authority;
- (b) the replacement licence or extract shall not be issued if the titular holder or transferee has failed to show that he has taken reasonable precautions to prevent the destruction of the licence or extract, or where the evidence provided by the titular holder is unsatisfactory;
- (c) the security to be lodged for the replacement licence or extract shall be 150 % of the security for the original licence, with a minimum of 3 EUR per 100 kilograms or per hectolitre or head, taking account of the balance of the quantity remaining available at the moment of destruction, and of the positive tolerance, if applicable. The balance of security available for the original licence may be used when lodging the security for the replacement licence. Any excess of the security for the original licence compared to the security for the replacement licence, taking into account the remaining available quantity shall be released immediately.

5. When replacement licences or extracts are issued, the licence issuing authority shall immediately notify the Commission of:

- (a) the licence issuing number of replacement licences or extracts issued and the licence issuing number of replaced licences or extracts;
- (b) the products concerned with their Combined Nomenclature code ('CN code') and their quantity.

The Commission shall inform the Member States thereof.

6. Where a paper licence or extract is lost or destroyed, and the lost or destroyed document has been used wholly or in part, for the sole purpose of releasing the still outstanding security concerning the release for free circulation or export which were already registered on the original licence, the following conditions shall apply:

- (a) the titular holder or transferee may request the licence issuing authority to issue a duplicate licence or extract to be drawn up and endorsed in the same way as the original document. A duplicate licence or extract may only be issued once;
- (b) the licence issuing authority may supply the titular holder or transferee with a duplicate licence or extract, clearly marked 'duplicate' on each copy;
- (c) the duplicate licence or extract shall be presented to the customs authority competent for the declaration for release for free circulation, or export, where that declaration was accepted under the lost licence or extract. That customs authority shall make entries on and endorse the duplicate concerning the release for free circulation or export carried out under the original licence or extract.

Article 16

Force majeure

1. The competent authority of the Member State that has issued the licence or extract may recognise a case of force majeure taking account of Article 50 of Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) No 908/2014 <sup>(1)</sup> and decide to:

- (a) either cancel the obligation to have the products and quantity indicated on the licence be released for free circulation or exported during the period of validity of the licence, as referred to in Article 14(1) of this Regulation, and release the security, or extend the period of validity of the licence by a period of maximum 180 days following the expiry of the original period of validity of the licence, taking account of the circumstances of the case; or
- (b) extend the period for the submission of the proof of release for free circulation or export as referred to in Article 14(6) of this Regulation, within the limits set by that provision, without partial forfeiture of the security.

A decision taken pursuant point (a) shall relate only to the quantity of products that could not be released for free circulation or exported as a result of force majeure.

2. In their notification pursuant to Article 50(4) of Implementing Regulation (EU) No 908/2014, the competent authorities shall inform the Commission of the products concerned with their CN code and of the quantities involved and indicate whether it concerns release for free circulation or export and whether it concerns a cancellation of the licence or an extension of either the period of validity of the licence or the period for the submission of the proof of release for free circulation or export, specifying the new period. The Commission shall inform the other competent authorities thereof through its dedicated website accessible for licence issuing and customs authorities.

3. If pending a decision on force majeure the titular holder or transferee expresses the need to further use the licence in relation to the quantity for which force majeure is not requested, the licence issuing authority shall issue an extract for that balance, marked with information as set out in the notice on import and export licences for agricultural products.

That extract shall not be transferable.
