Proposal for

COUNCIL REGULATION

amending Regulation (EC) No 2866/98 on the conversion rates between the euro and the currencies of the Member States adopting the euro

(presented by the Commission)
On 3 May 2000, the Commission adopted a proposal for a Council Decision in accordance with Article 122 (2) of the Treaty, proposing that Greece fulfils the necessary conditions for the adoption of the single currency and that the derogation of Greece is abrogated with effect from 1 January 2001.

In case of a positive decision, the Council will subsequently have to adopt the conversion rate between the euro and the drachma which will take effect from 1 January 2001 and will have to take the other measures necessary for the introduction of the euro in Greece.

The Commission presents the respective proposals ahead of the decision of the Council on the abrogation of the derogation of Greece in order to ensure flexibility with respect to the date of adoption of the regulations by the Council.

The Communication includes proposals for:

- Council Regulation amending Council Regulation (EC) N° 2866/98 on the conversion rates between the euro and the currencies of the Member States adopting the euro.
EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

On 3 May 2000, the Commission adopted a proposal for a Council Decision in accordance with Article 122 (2) of the Treaty, proposing that Greece fulfils the necessary conditions for the adoption of the single currency and that the derogation of Greece is abrogated with effect from 1 January 2001.

In case of a positive decision, the Council will subsequently have to adopt the conversion rate between the euro and the drachma which will take effect from 1 January 2001 and will have to take the other measures necessary for the introduction of the euro in Greece.

I. General considerations

The envisaged date for the adoption of the euro in Greece falls into the transitional period (1 January 1999 until 31 December 2001) during which the former currencies of the participating Member States are sub-units of the euro. Euro banknotes and coins will be introduced as from 1 January 2002. The scope of the measures to be taken for the introduction of the euro in Greece depends to a large extent on whether the length of the transitional period remaining after 1 January 2001 can be considered to be sufficiently long for Greece. Given that Greece will benefit from the experience gained in the other countries with respect to the preparations for 2002, it can be assumed that Greece will be able to comply with the established deadline of the end of the transitional period and that no specific provisions in the legal framework of the euro are necessary.

Therefore, the two Council regulations which form part of the legal framework of the euro - Regulation (EC) N° 974/98 on the introduction of the euro1 and Regulation (EC) N° 1103/97 on certain measures relating to the introduction of the euro2 – can be fully applied to Greece. They need to be amended for the sole purpose of integrating Greece and its currency into the existing framework.

II. Comments on the articles

Article 1

In the first paragraph of this article, three definitions in Article 1 of Regulation (EC) N° 974/98 are amended: Greece is included in the definition of ‘participating Member States’; the definition of ‘conversion rate’ is broadened to include conversion rates which are adopted after the start of the third stage of EMU on the basis of Article 123 (5) (ex 109 l (5); the definition of ‘national currency units’ is broadened to include units of former national currencies which are replaced by the euro after the start of the third stage.

The second paragraph provides for the substitution of the drachma by the euro as the currency of Greece as from 1 January 2001.

1 OJ L 139, 11.5.1998, pp. 1-5
Article 2

The article fixes the date of entry into force of the regulation at 1 January 2001, ensuring that it will be applicable in conformity with the timing of the other Council acts relating to the adoption of the euro by Greece, i.e. the date of the abrogation of the derogation and the date of the entry into force of the conversion rate of the drachma.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

On 3 May 2000, the Commission adopted a proposal for a Council Decision in accordance with Article 122 (2) of the Treaty, proposing that Greece fulfils the necessary conditions for the adoption of the single currency and that the derogation of Greece is abrogated with effect from 1 January 2001.

In case of a positive decision, the Council will subsequently have to adopt the conversion rate between the euro and the drachma which will take effect from 1 January 2001 and will have to take the other measures necessary for the introduction of the euro in Greece.

I. General considerations

The Regulations (EC) N° 1103/97 on certain provisions relating to the introduction of the euro\(^1\) and N° 974/98 on the introduction of the euro\(^2\) are complementary. Regulation N° 1103/97 includes those provisions where there was an urgent need for legal certainty before the date at which it was possible to take measures on the basis of Article 123 (4) of the Treaty (ex 109 l (4)). The latter article was available as a legal basis only after it was confirmed which Member States fulfilled the necessary conditions for the adoption of the single currency. Forming together the legal framework of the euro, the two regulations include a number of current definitions of notions relating to the currency. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to ensure that the definitions in the two regulations remain identical in order to avoid legal uncertainty.

II. Comments on the articles

Article 1

In this article, two definitions in Article 1 of Regulation (EC) N° 1103/97 are amended: the definition of ‘conversion rate’ is broadened to include conversion rates which are adopted after the start of the third stage of EMU on the basis of Article 123 (5) (ex 109 l (5)), and the definition of ‘national currency units’ is broadened to include units of former national currencies which are replaced by the euro after the start of the third stage.

Article 2

This article fixes the date of entry into force of the regulation at 1 January 2001, ensuring that the new definitions are applicable as from the date at which the amended Regulation (EC) N° 974/98, which includes the same definitions, enters into force.

Article 2

This Regulation shall enter into force on 1 January 2001.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

On 31 December 1998, the Council adopted the conversion rates between the euro and the eleven currencies of the Member States which fulfilled the necessary conditions and which adopted the euro with effect from 1 January 1999. The Council had decided on 2 May 1998 that Greece was one of the Member States which at that time did not fulfil the necessary conditions for the adoption of the single currency.

On 3 May 2000, the Commission adopted a proposal for a Council Decision in accordance with Article 122 (2) of the Treaty, proposing that Greece fulfils the necessary conditions for the adoption of the single currency and that the derogation of Greece is abrogated with effect from 1 January 2001.

In case of a positive decision, the Council will subsequently have to adopt the conversion rate between the euro and the drachma which will take effect from 1 January 2001 and will have to take the other measures necessary for the introduction of the euro in Greece.

I. General considerations

The conversion rates of the currencies which were replaced by the euro at the beginning of Stage Three were adopted on the basis of the first sentence of Article 123 (4) of the Treaty (ex 109 l (4)). The rates of currencies of Member States joining the euro area at a later date are adopted according to Article 123 (5). In 1998, the rates had to be fixed under the constraint that this measure would by itself not modify the external value of the euro, i.e. that the rate of conversion between the ECU basket and the euro would be 1 : 1. Therefore it was not possible to determine and to adopt the conversion rates between the euro and the national currencies before the last day of the year, after the final exchange rates of the ECU basket had been calculated by the Commission according to the established rules. This constraint is no longer existent.

Fixing the conversion rate of the drachma and substituting the euro for the drachma are complementary decisions which must take effect on the same date, as was the case for the initial eleven currencies. By contrast, the date at which the decisions are taken must not necessarily be the same; it would not, however, seem logical to adopt the conversion rate before taking a decision on the substitution of the currency.

II. Comments on the articles

Article 1

The proposed rate is the present central rate of the drachma in the exchange rate mechanism (ERM II). This is the rate following revaluation of the drachma by 3½ percent on 15 January 2000.

As for the other currencies and in accordance with Council regulation (EC) N° 1103/97 on certain provisions relating to the introduction of the euro, the rate is determined with six significant figures.
Article 2

This article ensures that the regulation will be applicable in conformity with the timing of the other Council acts relating to the abrogation of the derogation of Greece and the date of the substitution of the euro for the drachma.
