Proposal for a

DECISION OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL

Concerning the implementation of a programme of support for the European audiovisual sector (MEDIA 2007)

{SEC(2004) 955}

(presented by the Commission)
EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. JUSTIFICATION FOR COMMUNITY ACTION

The audiovisual sector is a vector for the expression of European citizenship and culture and plays a primary role in building a European cultural identity, in particular regarding young people. Increased circulation of European audiovisual works has proved to be an important means of strengthening intercultural dialogue, mutual understanding and knowledge among European cultures to form a basis for European citizenship. Community support to the audiovisual sector is part of a strategy to give Europeans a choice. Unless Europeans are able to watch fiction, drama, documentaries and other works that reflect the reality of their own lives and histories, and those of their neighbours, they will cease to recognise and understand them fully. Circulation of European audiovisual works can only be achieved by reinforcing the sector and enabling the creative potential of European cultures to be fully realised. The European audiovisual sector has not only great political and cultural value but also considerable social and economic potential. In the Lisbon European Council’s conclusions, it was stated that the “content industries create added value by exploiting and networking European cultural diversity”. Community action to support the competitiveness of the audiovisual industry will contribute to achieving the objectives set by the Lisbon strategy.

Moreover, in the draft Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe one of the objectives under Article 3 is that “the Union shall respect its rich cultural and linguistic diversity, and shall ensure that Europe's cultural heritage is safeguarded and enhanced”. It is the task of Community action to give European cultures a say in the harmonious construction of a common European identity and the political concept of European citizenship. Article 151.2 of the EC Treaty states that action by the Community shall be aimed at supporting and supplementing the action of the Member States in the area of artistic and literary creation, including in the audiovisual sector. Alongside the single market for television broadcasting established by the “Television without Frontiers” Directive, the EU has taken measures to promote the European audiovisual industry¹ which is a unique vehicle for the exchange of ideas.

Finally, support for the audiovisual sector will contribute to achieving the objectives of other European policies, as audiovisual works are an essential vehicle for transmission of knowledge in the field of education, science, environment, research and governance. Finally, audiovisual production could constitute a basis for cultural cooperation and dialogue with third countries, in particular in the Mediterranean area.

2. THE EUROPEAN AUDIOVISUAL SECTOR AND THE ROLE OF COMMUNITY ACTION

The European audiovisual sector is fragmented in terms of both its production structure and the cultural framework in which it operates. Whilst it is clear that this fragmentation has resulted in a culturally diverse and highly independent production industry, providing a voice for the different cultural traditions that make up our European heritage, it has, however, prevented European industry from achieving a larger market share with respect to non-European imports both within the Union and worldwide. The European audiovisual industry struggles to match the high competitiveness of its American counterpart.

New Community action for the audiovisual industry should contribute to translating European cultural values into a competitive worldwide industry, by overcoming the obstacles that prevent operators from benefiting from the advantages of the Internal Market for non-national audiovisual productions. The typically small size of audiovisual enterprises, whose existence is linked to individual audiovisual products, and the labour intensity of the audiovisual production process mean that the sector is not able to profit fully from the positive effects of economies of scale seen in other industries. With its specific and unique value chain and production and distribution cycles, the audiovisual sector carries very high financial risks. The current economic context heightens its dependency on public policy. Private investors in the actual economic context are even less inclined to bear the risks associated with the production process of the SMEs active in the audiovisual sector. In addition, the high risks associated with production and distribution stem from the fact that the success, and therefore the economic viability, of individual projects is based on a number of random and unpredictable factors, notably public taste, cultural aspects, the experience of those associated with the projects, and the “story” in question.

The role of public policy for the sector is to increase positive externalities to maximise the development potential of the industry. In this respect the exploitation of the potential of the Internal Market is a positive externality for the sector and can only be strengthened at European level. Due to the structure of the sector, full exploitation does not mean that public policy should try solely to create large market players, but rather to create an environment adapted in particular to SMEs that will facilitate circulation of non-national audiovisual works throughout the European Union. A more competitive audiovisual industry will have positive effects on growth and employment for the whole Union and will consolidate the European cultural values at the basis of European citizenship.

Community support will contribute to creating a favourable socio-economic environment for the European audiovisual sector. It aims at stimulating private financing for the sector to enable companies active in the audiovisual sector to improve their competitiveness and financial solidity. The new programme will focus on supporting the creative process at all levels of the production chain with the objective of enabling the sector to fully exploit the economic and cultural potential of the European Internal Market. Community action will therefore be integrated into a single programme intervening in the pre-production and in the post production phases in line with the principle of subsidiarity. National funding for the audiovisual sector is, in fact, centred almost entirely on support for production and little if any effort is made to develop a European dimension in production and circulation of European audiovisual works. It is clear that the task of promoting Europe-wide distribution of audiovisual works is best carried out and co-ordinated at Union level. The European dimension in cultural production can similarly be enhanced effectively only at a European level.

3. THE MEDIA PROGRAMMES

Community support measures in favour of the European audiovisual industry take the form of the MEDIA Plus and the MEDIA-Training Programmes. The current programmes run from 1 January 2001 until the 31 December 2006 and result from proposals made by the European Commission in December 1999 on the basis of Articles 157 and 150(4) respectively of the Treaty. Community action in the sector has been monitored and evaluated throughout its implementation to ensure that it remains appropriate and effective. The evaluation process consists of ex-ante, mid-term and ex-post evaluations. In the evaluation and monitoring function the Commission has benefited from the data provided by the European Audiovisual Observatory, which has provided an important tool for analysis and follow up of the sector.

The mid-term evaluation of the current MEDIA Programmes, together with the Preparatory action “i2i Audiovisual: Growth and Audiovisual” has recently been carried out for the Commission services by an external independent consultant. The MEDIA Plus Programme has supported the audiovisual industry by means of grants to SMEs\(^2\) active in the audiovisual sector and has encouraged the creation of a Single European Market by promoting the circulation of audiovisual works in Europe and worldwide. The valorisation of the cultural richness of audiovisual production in Europe has been the means of promoting the industry within Europe and on the International market. Full exploitation of the cultural and economic potential of the European audiovisual sector depends also on the integration of Europe’s audiovisual heritage in the Member States’ education and cultural policies.

The evaluation confirmed that Community intervention operates in line with the sector’s needs (newcomers, funding crisis, consolidation of the industrial base, international expansion), which are increasingly at the heart of the problems experienced by European professionals. In economic terms, effectiveness is measured by the fact that MEDIA Plus accompanies risk-taking by European SMEs, which are otherwise increasingly hesitant to develop European actions and strategies and to try to get a foothold on European markets. The preparatory action I2I for SMEs has been effective in contributing to the construction of financial plans for these companies. The action has represented a first attempt to intervene in response to the increasing financing needs of the sector. It has shown the necessity of pursuing support policies aiming at attracting private investments for the European audiovisual sector. These support measures are effective in strengthening the SMEs operating in the sector.

Community action has had an added value for the sector in all participating countries. It has been successful in supporting European audiovisual production and in consolidating European culture. The programme has had a positive impact within the different countries of the Union. In countries with a high production capacity, the programme has been particularly effective. In countries with low production capacities, the programme has been an essential player in the development of the industry. The programme has ensured a more balanced distribution of support by the adoption of positive discrimination measures directed at those countries with low production capacity.

The results of the MEDIA Training Programme have shown the need for intervention at Community level to increase the acquisition and improvement of competencies and skills by professionals within the European audiovisual sector. The programme set up has been effective in responding to these needs and has added a European dimension to professional audiovisual training. In Development, the impact on SMEs active in the sector has been positive, also in terms of enabling them to formulate better business plans for their productions. It has guaranteed reinvestments in new productions.

The Distribution component of the MEDIA Programme, the largest in terms of budget allocation, has had a positive effect on the circulation of European works on the European and International markets and supported 90% of the films distributed outside their countries of origin. It has also increased co-operation among European operators with the creation of distributors’ networks at European level. Support to cinema exhibition has also proved to be an effective instrument to increase the circulation of European audiovisual works. Positive results were also registered in the promotion of European industry in Europe and world-wide. The MEDIA Plus and Training programmes have become essential instruments for the European audiovisual industry and have recognized European added value for the sector.

4. PUBLIC CONSULTATION

In view of the preparation of MEDIA 2007 the Commission services widely consulted all interested parties on the sector’s needs. The public consultation, which took place between 12 May and 12 August 2003, confirmed the positive impact of Community policy for support of the European audiovisual sector. Furthermore, the results of the public consultation exercise clearly show the need for continued Community action, in view of the structural deficiencies and market failure in the sector. The accession of ten new Member States will bring about significant changes within the EU audiovisual market, the problems of financing for SMEs have become more acute and the advent of digital technology has created further barriers that need to be overcome to enable the operators active in the sector to profit from the potential offered by the Internal Market. MEDIA 2007 should continue to target its actions on the pre- and post-production phases, but these actions will change in the light of technological and market evolution to reflect the changes brought about by digitisation. In addition, MEDIA 2007 should include measures to address the problems facing the professionals from the new Member States, as well as innovative and focused actions in respect of digitisation and measures for facilitating access to financing for SMEs.

5. GLOBAL OBJECTIVES

Community action will be integrated into a single programme intervening in the pre-production and in the post production phases. This intervention is in line with the principle of subsidiarity. Furthermore, the enhancement of the circulation of European audiovisual works entails a specific European added value that transcends the borders of National policies.

MEDIA 2007 will have as global objectives, of equal importance, to:

- Preserve and enhance European cultural diversity and its cinematographic and audiovisual heritage, guarantee its accessibility for European citizens and promote intercultural dialogue;

- Increase the circulation of European audiovisual works inside and outside the European Union;

- Strengthen the competitiveness of the European audiovisual sector in the framework of an open and competitive market.
The programme will take into account four horizontal priorities:

Firstly, the importance of the creative process within the European audiovisual sector and the cultural value of Europe’s cinematographic and audiovisual heritage need to be integrated within the actions proposed.

Secondly, strengthening of the production structures of the SMEs, which constitute the core of the European audiovisual sector, as a means of enhancing its competitiveness. This will mean contributing to the spread of a business culture for the sector and facilitating private investments in the sector.

Thirdly, the programme will reduce, within the European audiovisual market, the imbalances between countries with a high production capacity and countries with low production capacity or a restricted linguistic area. This priority responds to the need to preserve and enhance cultural diversity and inter-cultural dialogue in Europe. This priority will contribute to the transparent and competitive functioning of the Single Market with its potential of economic growth for the whole Union.

Finally, the programme will follow and support market developments with regard to digitisation. The programme will put in place measures to accompany the changes that digitisation is producing in the audiovisual sector at all stages of the production and distribution chain as well as in terms of new competencies for the professionals of the sector.

6. SPECIFIC OBJECTIVES AND INTERVENTIONS

6.1. Pre-production

– Acquisition and improvement of skills in the audiovisual sector

The programme will support projects aiming at improving the creative and management skills of European audiovisual professionals as well as adapting their technical skills to digital technologies. It will aim to encourage a European dimension in promoting networking of professionals and training projects, including film schools, as well as individual training projects, including scholarships. Finally, it will promote a European strategy regarding cooperation of professionals, both for co-productions and the elaboration of business plans.

The actions put in place will be grants to training projects with a European added value. In addition, special scholarships for professionals from the new Member States will be established, with a view to enabling those professionals to meet the challenges of the enlarged European audiovisual market. This action will contribute to narrowing the gap between the countries with high production capacities and the countries with low production capacities and/or restricted linguistic areas.

– Development:

The programme will support the development phase of production from independent SMEs in the documentary, animation and drama genres as well as multimedia. It will encourage companies to elaborate international promotion and marketing strategies for their projects from the pre-production phase. The programme will also assist companies in elaborating sound financial plans for their production and will facilitate access to credit for independent SMEs from the European audiovisual sector.
The programme will provide grants to independent production companies for the development of single projects. It will support the development of a catalogue of works both for companies with a limited investment capacity and for companies with higher investment capacity. Support will be provided for the development of sound financial plans related to the works and the catalogue of works.

Given the specificity of the audiovisual sector, particular attention will be given to the encouragement of synergies between the need for improvement of skills and competencies and the development component of the programme. The co-ordination and greater integration of these two components will have a positive effect on the value chain for European audiovisual production.

6.2. Post-production

– Distribution

Community action will concentrate its efforts on transnational distribution support, in line with the principle of subsidiarity and as a complementary approach to Member State support mechanisms. Support for the distribution phase (cinema, TV, video, DVD and on-line) remains a priority for the consolidation of the Single Market in Europe and for improving the competitiveness of the industry. Only the implementation of a European distribution strategy will enable European audiovisual works to face world competition.

The new programme will strengthen the European distribution sector by encouraging investment in production, acquisition, marketing and promotion of non-national European works and by encouraging co-ordinated marketing strategies between the different actors of the sector (distributors, sales agents, producers, exhibitors...) within the limits of EU competition law. It will improve the circulation of European non-national films on the European and International markets by encouraging their export, distribution and cinema exhibition. Furthermore it will promote the transnational circulation of the European audiovisual works of independent production companies by encouraging co-operation among broadcasters, producers and independent distributors.

The programme will continue to build on the results achieved through the actions set up under the MEDIA Plus Programme, namely the automatic scheme and the selective scheme for distributors as well as groupings of distributors. In addition it will support distribution companies for catalogues of works with lower commercial potential and high cultural value.

In line with the priority of digitisation, actions will be implemented to support the digitisation of European audiovisual works. In particular an automatic scheme for the creation of digital prints of European non-national films will be put in place. Support will also be granted for dubbing, subtitling and multilingual copies as a means of enhancing cultural diversity. Finally, support to digital exhibition will be provided in terms of facilitating access to financing for investments in digital equipment.

– Promotion

The programme will encourage the circulation of European cinematographic works and television programmes within the framework of professional markets within Europe and world-wide. It will also encourage co-operation and co-ordination of European operators through the support of common actions undertaken on the European and international markets.
by private or public national organisations for promotion as a way of enhancing a European promotion strategy. Finally the programme will ensure that the festivals’ role in the formulation of cultural policy and audience education realises its full potential.

The actions envisaged include ensuring access for professionals to European and International audiovisual markets, guaranteeing the broadest access possible of the European and international public to European cultural diversity and to intercultural dialogue, encouraging common actions between national film and audiovisual programme promotion organisations and encouraging promotion of Europe’s cinematographic and audiovisual heritage.

6.2.1 Pilot Projects/Digital technology

Innovation is vital to ensure the widest choice for the audience at the end of the audiovisual value chain. In this respect, the pilot projects have proved to be a successful test bed. Whilst certain of the areas previously covered have now been introduced into the programme, this “test laboratory” remains vital. The results of the pilot projects will be publicised widely in order to encourage the dissemination of best practices by means of conferences, and the organisation of events on-line or off-line.

7. Simplification

The new programme will structurally simplify Community intervention for the audiovisual sector. The establishment of a single integrated programme (MEDIA 2007) replacing the two existing programmes (MEDIA Plus and MEDIA Training) and the integration of 4 budget headings into a single one (the budget heading for MEDIA 2007 will integrate the two current programmes, the decision on the European Audiovisual Observatory as well as the follow up of audiovisual policy) will contribute in a decisive manner to a better allocation of resources for the beneficiaries and the Commission services.

The Commission will consider all possible means to ease constraints for the beneficiaries, in accordance with the current financial regulations. The Commission will in particular concentrate on:

– simplification of the application forms and procedures;

– transparency in awarding procedures and in exchange of information with applicants;

– the application of the proportionality principle, as far as possible, with regard to the verification of the financial capacity of the applicants and reporting requirements for the beneficiaries, when small grants or clearly identifiable budgetary items are concerned.
To improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the programme, the Commission will delegate the management of the programme to an executive agency, as established by the Council regulation on the executive agencies for the management of Community programmes\(^3\) and of the guidelines on the functioning of the executive agencies financed by the general budget of the European Communities\(^4\).

In the light of the above the Commission proposes that the European Parliament and Council adopt the appended Decision concerning the MEDIA 2007 Programme.

\(^4\) C (2003) 4645 of 12/12/2003
DECISION OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL

Concerning the implementation of a programme of support for the European audiovisual sector
(MEDIA 2007)

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Articles 157(3) and 150(4) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission³,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee⁶,

Having regard to the opinion of the Committee of the Regions⁷,

Acting in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 251 of the Treaty⁸,

Whereas:

(1) The European audiovisual sector has a key role to play in the emergence of European citizenship because it is one of the principal vectors for conveying cultural values to Europeans and especially young people. Community support is designed to enable the European audiovisual sector to play its part in consolidating European citizenship. It is intended to enhance competitiveness and, in particular, to increase the market share in Europe of non-national European works.

(2) It is also necessary to promote active citizenship and to do more to combat all forms of exclusion, including racism and xenophobia.

(3) Community support to the audiovisual sector takes account of Article 151 of the Treaty, which stipulates that:

the Community shall contribute to the flowering of the cultures of the Member States, while respecting their national and regional diversity and at the same time bringing the common cultural heritage to the fore;

⁶ OJ C of, p..
⁷ OJ C of, p..
⁸ OJ C of, p.
the Community shall take cultural aspects into account in its action under other provisions of this Treaty, in particular in order to respect and to promote the diversity of its cultures.

(4) Community support to the audiovisual sector is also in keeping with the new strategic aim defined for the Union by the Lisbon European Council\(^9\), namely to boost employment, economic reform and social cohesion in a knowledge-based economy. In its conclusions, the Council stated that “the content industries create added value by exploiting and networking European cultural diversity”. This approach was confirmed in the conclusions of the Brussels European Council\(^10\).

(5) Finally, Community support to the audiovisual sector is based on the considerable experience acquired in the MEDIA I, MEDIA II, MEDIA Plus and MEDIA–Training programmes\(^11\), which have helped the European audiovisual industry to develop since 1991. This has emerged clearly in the evaluation of the above programmes\(^12\).

(6) This showed that Community action should concentrate mainly:

- upstream of audiovisual production, on the development of European audiovisual works and on the acquisition and improvement of audiovisual skills, the latter needing to be seen as an integral part of the audiovisual pre-production process;
- downstream of production, on distribution, cinema exhibition and promotion of European audiovisual works.

(7) The preparatory action “Growth and Audiovisual: i2i Audiovisual”, complementary to the MEDIA Plus and MEDIA Training programmes, marked a further stage in implementing the policy of Community support for the audiovisual sector. It was intended specifically to provide a remedy for the problems of access to funding of small and medium sized enterprises in this sector. The evaluation of “Growth and Audiovisual: i2i Audiovisual” confirmed that it met the sector’s needs and confirmed the need to pursue Community action along these lines.

(8) For the purposes of implementing Community support, the specific nature of the audiovisual sector must be taken into account and it must be ensured that administrative and financial procedures are simplified as far as possible and adapted to the aims pursued and the sector’s practices and requirements.

\(^10\) 2003
\(^11\) Programmes which were established by Council Decision 90/685/EEC (MEDIA I), Councils Decisions 95/563/EC and 95/564/EC (MEDIA II), Council Decision 2000/821/EC (MEDIA Plus) and Decision 163/2001/EC of the European Parliament and the Council (MEDIA-Training) respectively.
Article 3 of the Treaty establishing the European Community stipulates that for all activities it envisages the Community shall aim to eliminate inequalities and to promote equality, for men and women.

Increased transparency and dissemination of information about the European audiovisual market can make operators in the sector, and especially small and medium-sized enterprises, more competitive. They also make it easier for Community action to be evaluated and followed up. Participation by the European Union in the European Audiovisual Observatory should help it to achieve these aims.

It should be emphasised that any strategy for cooperation between players in the audiovisual sector must comply with the European Union’s competition law.

European Union accession countries and those EFTA countries which are parties to the EEA Agreement are recognised as potential participants in Community programmes in accordance with the agreements concluded with these countries.

The European Council in Thessalonica of 19 and 20 June 2003 adopted “The agenda for the Western Balkans: Moving towards European integration”, providing that Community programmes should be open to countries in the process of stabilisation and association on the basis of framework agreements to be signed between the Community and these countries.

The other European countries which are parties to the Council of Europe Convention on Transfrontier Television are an integral part of the European audiovisual area and should therefore be enabled to participate in this programme on the basis of supplementary appropriations in accordance with conditions to be laid down in the agreements between the parties concerned; those countries should be able, if they wish and taking into account budgetary considerations or priorities of their audiovisual industries, to participate in the programme or benefit under a more limited cooperation formula on the basis of supplementary appropriations and specific arrangements to be agreed between the parties concerned.

Cooperation with non-European third countries developed on the basis of mutual and balanced interests may create added value for the European audiovisual industry in terms of promotion, market access, distribution, dissemination and exhibition of European works in those countries; such cooperation should be developed on the basis of supplementary appropriations and specific arrangements to be agreed upon with the parties concerned.

Suitable measures should be implemented to prevent irregularities and fraud and to recover funds which have been lost or transferred or used improperly.

This Decision establishes a budget for the entire duration of the programme which constitutes a benchmark within the meaning of points 33 and 34 of the Interinstitutional agreement between the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission of 6 May 1999 on budgetary discipline and improvement of budgetary procedure.\(^1\)

\(^1\) OJ C 172 of 18.6.1999, p.1
The measures required to implement this Decision should be adopted in accordance with Council Decision 1999/468/EEC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission\textsuperscript{14},

5. DESCRIPTION AND GROUNDS

5.1. Need for Community intervention

5.1.1. Objectives pursued

MEDIA 2007 will have as global objectives to:
– Preserve and enhance European cultural diversity and its cinematographic and audiovisual heritage, and guarantee its accessibility for European citizens as well as to promote intercultural dialogue;

– Increase the circulation of European audiovisual works inside and outside the European Union;

– Strengthen the competitiveness of the European audiovisual sector in the framework of an open and competitive market.

The programme will take into account four horizontal priorities in the programme:

Firstly, the importance of the creative process within the European audiovisual sector and the cultural value of Europe’s cinematographic and audiovisual heritage need to be integrated within the actions proposed.

Secondly, the strengthening of the production structures of the SMEs, which constitute the core of the European audiovisual sector, as a means of enhancing its competitiveness. This will mean contributing to the spread of a business culture for the sector and facilitating private investments in the sector.

Thirdly, the programme will reduce, within the European audiovisual market, the imbalances between countries with a high production capacity and countries with low production capacity or a restricted linguistic area. This priority responds to the need to preserve and enhance cultural diversity and inter-cultural dialogue in Europe. This priority will contribute to the transparent and competitive functioning of the Single Market with its potential of economic growth for the whole Union.

Finally, the programme will follow and support market evolutions with regard to digitisation. The programme will put in place measures to accompany the changes that digitisation is producing in the audiovisual sector at all stages of the production and distribution chain as well as in terms of new competencies for the professionals of the sector.

The improvement of the competitiveness of the industry will be pursued in a more capillary way by reinforcing the strategic and coherent approach of the programme. Community action will be integrated into a single programme intervening in the pre-production and in the post production phases. Community intervention is in line with the principle of subsidiarity with Member States’ policies, as these are mainly directed to support the production of audiovisual works. Furthermore, the enhancement of the circulation of European audiovisual works entails a specific European added value that transcends national policies.

5.1.2. Measures taken in connection with ex ante evaluation

The ex ante evaluation was intended to set out the lines for future Community intervention in the European audiovisual sector. It was an integral part of the process leading to the design of the programme. It followed the Guide on ex-ante evaluation (published by DG BUDG in December 2001) and reflected the conclusions of the analysis carried out.
It was based upon several sources of information and summarised a number of different exercises. In particular, the document relied upon information provided by the European Audiovisual Observatory (EAO) as well as the conclusions of an economic analysis of the film industry carried out for the Commission by an external consultant. In terms of future developments in the sector, the conclusions of a further study carried out for the Commission were used. It also drew on the findings of the ex post evaluation of the MEDIA II programme\textsuperscript{21}, and the mid term evaluation of the MEDIA Plus and MEDIA-Training programmes, as well as the evaluation of the Preparatory Action ‘i2i Audiovisual: Growth and Audiovisual’. An independent consultant, appointed following an open call for tender launched by the Commission, carried out the last two evaluations\textsuperscript{22}. Lastly, information provided by the MEDIA Programme Technical Assistance Office (TAO) was used.

The document also drew on the results of the far-reaching public consultation exercise. The public consultation on the new generation of programmes for the European audiovisual sector was launched on May 12\textsuperscript{th} and ended on August 12\textsuperscript{th}. It consisted of three different exercises: a public hearing held in Brussels on July 1\textsuperscript{st} and 2\textsuperscript{nd}; an on-line consultation on the MEDIA web-site and focus group meetings with industry professionals on specific aspects of Community policy (including the pilot projects and i2i Audiovisual) held in several Member States. The consultation was carried out on the basis of the public consultation document published on the web-site.

All interested parties, notably private and public bodies active in the audiovisual industry, were invited to participate in the consultation, by means of a written contribution or intervention at the public hearing. The consultation of all industry stakeholders was deemed necessary to understand and properly take into account the needs of the sector. The public hearing was well attended and the Commission received more than 40 contributions from the sector and from the Member States.

The information contained in the various studies, the findings of the evaluation exercise carried out on MEDIA Plus, MEDIA Training, i2i Audiovisual and MEDIA II together with the results of the far-reaching public consultation have provided the basis to elaborate the lines of the new generation of programme.

Two key messages emerge from the ex ante evaluation:

- The continuing need for Community action in the areas currently covered by the MEDIA Programmes (supported by the professionals and institutions). The actions undertaken by the MEDIA Plus and Training Programmes were considered to be effective and appropriate to the needs of the sector, in view of the structural deficiencies and market failure in the sector. Certain proposals were made with a view to improving the focus or functioning of existing actions, notably with a view to integrating digital technology throughout the Programme lines;

\textsuperscript{21} BIPE report for the European Commission.
\textsuperscript{22} Invitation to tender No S230-182-679 awarded to APRIL
The new generation of programmes would need to take into account the changes bought about by enlargement and the acute difficulties of the SMEs from the sector in accessing finance. Co-production would need to be considered for support.

Specific points were made on a number of areas:

– The importance of complementarity between Community and Member State actions as part of the reinforcement of the sector and of increasing its competitiveness;

– The need to ensure that the instruments put in place are adapted to the production cycle of the SMEs that are the core operators within the audiovisual industry;

– The elaboration of mechanisms to favour co-production and notably to cover gap and bridge financing;

– The need for additional measures focusing on the financing needs of SMEs to be included in the new generation of programmes to increase the full potential of the action at each stage of the chain in the audio-visual sector (balance the negative effects for a segment of the market which suffers from the lack of interest of commercial banks);

– The need to develop in co-ordination with the Member States and other European financial institutions, specific instruments within the MEDIA programme to reduce the shortage of capital which constitute the main characteristic of the independent audiovisual sector;

– The problems faced by the sector in finding matching funds, especially in the new Member States;

– The need to provide flexibility throughout the Programme, partly to address regional, linguistic and cultural diversity (such as restricted linguistic/geographic markets or the specific situation of the new Member States’ audiovisual sectors) but also to allow for future market and technological changes;

– The importance of working with broadcasters to benefit from this important European distribution and promotion opportunity – suggestions were put forward in respect of the need for specific skills and competencies and subtitling/dubbing;

– The need to restructure the promotion line of the Programme, bearing in mind the limitations of national promotion for film, and the role played by promotion outside the EU;

– The need to integrate digital throughout the programme and the question of digitising content systematically to benefit from all exploitation possibilities;
In respect of the improvement of skills and competencies there was a need to ensure that digital was covered fully by actions under the programme;

Visibility and coherence of initiatives (perhaps in association with TV channels for European “events”) on the promotion mechanism to foster “audience education”.

5.1.3. Measures taken following ex post evaluation

Experience acquired from MEDIA II influenced the design of MEDIA Plus in the following ways. The focusing of resources on the three strands of training, development and distribution was maintained. However, the instruments set up under MEDIA II were adapted to take account of the results recorded over the period 1996-2000 and to take account of the sector's changing needs. These results were confirmed in the context of the mid-term evaluation of MEDIA Plus and MEDIA Training.

The choice of a single programme reflects the needs of the sector and notably the heterogeneous nature of the European markets, in socio-economic, financial, and regulatory terms. The results of the preliminary impact assessment carried out by DG EAC confirm that Community action should target pre and post production in a more capillary manner. The assessment clearly demonstrates that there is a need for simplification and integration of the different components of the European audiovisual value chain. In view of this, the design for a new programme reflects this need and streamlines and integrates the two current MEDIA Programmes into one programme, focusing on pre and post-production. This reflects the interlinkage between the various activities in the production and distribution value chain. In particular this approach recognises that the pre-production process depends on the quality of professional skills and competencies. The new programme therefore places an important emphasis on the role played by the acquisition and improvement of the skills and competencies of professionals, which has a positive impact along the whole of the European audiovisual value chain. It also recognizes the importance of establishing exchanges of competencies among European professional for the promotion of European co-operation.

The Programme will be simpler for the Commission to manage and for the user, for a number of reasons. First, there will be a simplification of internal procedures: for example to render the issue of financial capacity of an applicant proportional to the size of the subsidy requested. The Commission will propose a clause in the draft decisions setting out that the levels of financial and administrative complexity that can be imposed on applicants and beneficiaries must be proportionate to the size of the grant, with the intention that this should lead to significant procedural simplification. The aim here is to respond to the demand in the public consultation to reduce the complexity of these programmes.

The Programme will be simpler for the beneficiary. A number of measures will be introduced to facilitate access and use by potential beneficiaries. An example is that of their reporting obligations: given that those that benefit from the MEDIA programme are mostly small and micro-enterprises, it is absolutely essential to reduce the amount of resources allocated to the administrative follow-up of projects without allowing the quality of the information provided to deteriorate.

The Commission regards these measures as the starting point for a clearer and simpler approach to an extremely complicated sector. This approach will still need to evolve. The introduction of new technology and technical innovations has to be taken into consideration, just like the changing structural, economic and cultural landscape of the audiovisual industry in general. The new programme should retain and build on flexibility; the European audiovisual sector is adapting to constantly changing parameters. The aim is to continue to build on the simplified procedures and new integrated approach to constantly evaluate and respond to changes that impact on the Programme.

5.2. Action envisaged and budget intervention arrangements

Pilot projects

These have proved to be a success in responding to market evolutions resulting from the introduction of information and communication technologies. Whilst certain of the areas previously covered have now been introduced into the programme, this “test laboratory” remains vital to respond to changes. The new programme will focus on those areas considered by the sector as likely to be influenced by the use of new information and communication technologies. The results of the pilot projects will be publicised widely in order to encourage the dissemination of best practices by means of conferences, and the organisation of events on-line and off-line.

5.3. Methods of implementation

The implementation mechanism will follow the general regulation for Community actions. It includes grants, scholarships and co-financing schemes, based on detailed financial requests. The Community fully finances services such as the organisation of expert panels, market studies, evaluation of projects and technical assistance. The financing will be awarded following calls for tender and calls for proposals.

The MEDIA Programme is implemented by the Commission, through its own services and an Executive Agency. At national level and in co-operation with national authorities MEDIA desks ensure the interface with the beneficiaries of the Programme.

The new programme will provide the legal basis for the expenditure required for monitoring the implementation of Community instruments of audiovisual policy. In particular, the new programme will pursue the existing participation of the Commission to the European Audiovisual Observatory. This co-operation will facilitate access to and dissemination of information among the operators of the sector and enhance transparency of practices in the production process.

These costs include the programme’s contribution to the functioning costs of the Education and culture Executive agency, and notably the personnel costs to the agency for this programme. These costs correspond to an estimation of 81 people (statutory personnel at the agency and contractual agents) in 2007 and 106 people in 2013; the increase of personnel over the period results from the increase in the volume of activity entrusted to the agency, stemming from the increase in the budget allocated for the different activities for which it will be responsible for the management.

7. IMPACT ON STAFF AND ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENDITURE

7.1. Impact on human resources

The officials currently managing the existing programme will also be in charge of the management of the MEDIA 2007 Programme.

It is envisaged to further expand the human resources currently deployed on the management of the MEDIA Plus and MEDIA Training programmes. The rationale of that expansion is the new scope of the Programme, notably in respect of digital and financing measures. The estimation of expenses is based on an average for 2007-2013. In particular, the evolution of human resources takes into account the increase of operational credit for the programme, and increase from 19 to 21 officials from 2007 to 2013.

The requirements for human and administrative resources expenditure will be met within the budget allocated to the Direction General responsible within the context of the annual allocation procedure. The allocation of posts will depend on the one hand on the internal organisation of the next Commission and on the other hand on a possible reallocation of posts among services as a result of the new financial perspectives.

The Commission services will monitor the implementation of the programme at three levels. Firstly, the data collected through the European Audiovisual Observatory will enable the Commission services to follow the economic evolution of the European audiovisual sector and will provide an essential instrument to assess the relevance of the objectives of the programme with to the evolving needs of the sector. Secondly, the MEDIA Desks network will enable the Commission services to monitor the evolution of nationals markets and policies with a view of ensuring synergies between European action and national supports. Finally, the follow-up of individual contracts will ensure feedback from the beneficiaries on the effective implementation of the programme. In the context of this follow-up the Commission will consult, when necessary, the operators from the sector to ensure that the specific objectives and the implementation of the programme remain adapted to the evolution of the sector.
8.2. Arrangements and schedule for the planned evaluation

Details and frequency of planned evaluation:

The Commission will draw up two Programme evaluation reports based on an external independent evaluation, which will be communicated to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions.

Mid-term report: the first report will be drawn up three years after the start of the programme. The object of this report is to provide an initial assessment of the impact and effectiveness of the programme on the basis of the results obtained. Any changes or adjustments that are deemed necessary will be proposed by the Commission for the second half of the programme.

Final Report: the second report will be drawn up no later than 31\textsuperscript{st} December 2015.

Furthermore, in the light of the experience acquired under the MEDIA II
Programme, the Commission plans to continue its practice of auditing beneficiaries (around 30 per year) in order to check that Community funds are being used properly. The results of audits will form the subject of a written report.

Evaluation of the results obtained:

Information providing a measure of the performance, results and impact of the Programme will be taken from the following sources:

- statistical data compiled on the basis of the information from application dossiers and the monitoring of beneficiaries' contracts;
- audit reports on a sample of programme beneficiaries (30 per year);
- consultations with MEDIA Desks and Antennae and on national markets;
- consultations with experts and institutional bodies (national and international professional associations);
- consultations with audiovisual professionals and with specialist training bodies.
9. ANTI-FRAUD MEASURES

All the contracts, conventions and legal undertakings concluded between the Commission and the beneficiaries under the programme foresee the possibility of an audit at the premises of the beneficiary by the Commission’s services or by the Court of Auditors, as well as the possibility of requiring the beneficiaries to provide all relevant documents and data concerning expenses relating to such contracts, conventions or legal undertakings up to 5 years after the contractual period. Beneficiaries are subject to the requirement to provide reports and financial accounts, which are analysed as to the eligibility of the costs and the content, in line with the rules on Community financing and taking account of contractual obligations, economic principles and good financial management.
