Miscellaneous

The GUE/NGL Group withdrew its Amendment 31.

Mr Haglund moved the following oral amendment to Amendment 27:

- '17. In this context recalls that the draft amending budget 03/2011 shows a budgetary surplus of EUR 4.54 billion in payments in 2010, EUR 1.28 billion of which stems from fines and interest on late payments; is disappointed by the Commission's proposal to lower the Member States' contributions by this entire amount; stresses that, while having no impact on the overall deficit level of Member States, this part of the surplus can make a clear difference to the EU's annual budget, and can, at the same time, enable the pressure on Member States' national budgets to be reduced should it be necessary to enter additional payments in the EU budget for needs not foreseen when the annual budget was established; is of the opinion, for these reasons, that the revenue stemming from fines and interest on late payments should not be deducted from the GNI-based own resources but should be entered in the EU budget in a "reserve for appropriations" intended to cover any extra payment needs which may arise in the course of the year.'
