Requests for split votes

EFDD:

§ 18

First part: 'Considers that, as noted by the ECB President, monetary policy is not sufficient to sustain economic recovery, nor can it contribute to solving the structural problems of the European economy, unless it is complemented by carefully designed, socially balanced and fair long-term growth- and competitiveness-enhancing policies at Member State level, in combination with sound fiscal policy and within the Stability and Growth Pact;'

Second part: 'agrees with the ECB, furthermore, that it is necessary to deepen the institutional architecture of EMU to support the abovementioned reforms and to make the euro area more resilient to macroeconomic shocks;'

First part: 'Notes that a prolonged period of an almost flat yield curve of the interest rate could affect the stability and profitability of the banking system;'

Second part: 'agrees nonetheless with the ECB's assessment that a bank's profitability ultimately depends on its business model, as well as on its structure and balance sheet, low interest rates notwithstanding;'

Third part: 'notes as well that the EU's banking sector is characterised by diversity, not least as a result of national specificities, which in turn contributes to the stability of the financial system;'

First part: 'Acknowledges that while the current policy of low interest rates has a temporarily positive effect on the level of nonperforming loans (NPLs),'

Second part: 'the high risks related to NPLs should be tackled effectively in a structural fashion;'

Tuesday 6 February 2018

Third part: 'notes the ECB's and SSM's efforts in supervising and assisting banks in the euro area in order to reduce their NPL exposure, and in particular the guidance provided by the ECB to banks on tackling NPLs in March 2017 and its actions concerning individual banks, as well as the action plan approved by the Ecofin Council of 11 July 2017, without prejudice to Parliament's powers regarding level 1 legislation; points out that an orderly implementation of the Council Action Plan requires a joint effort by banks, supervisors, regulators and national authorities; calls for stress tests characterised by wide coverage, methodological pertinence and robustness; recommends the careful monitoring of developments on the real estate markets; considers that any additional measures should ensure full respect for the prerogatives of the European Parliament;'

First part: 'Notes the positive opinion of the ECB regarding the establishment of a European deposit insurance scheme (EDIS) as the third pillar of the banking union;'

Second part: 'highlights the key role of deposit insurance for confidence-building and for ensuring the equal safety of deposits within the Banking Union; stresses that EDIS could further help enhance and safeguard financial stability;'

Third part: 'recognises that risk sharing and risk reduction need to go hand in hand;'

§ 35

First part: 'Agrees with the ECB on the importance of physical money as legal tender, given that the euro is the sole legal tender within the euro area, and reminds all euro area Member States that the acceptance of euro coins and banknotes should be the rule in retail transactions, without prejudice to the right of the said Member States'

Second part: 'to introduce upper limits to cash payments with a view'

Third part: 'to fighting money laundering, tax fraud, and the financing of terrorism and organised crime; suggests that the Eurosystem should issue commemorative Charlemagne banknotes that would also be legal tender;'

§ 38

First part: 'Asks the ECB to continue providing the necessary support to Greece, and to any other Member State, in the review of the completion of the financial assistance programme;'

Second part: 'considers that such support could involve, without prejudice to its independent status, the inclusion of Greek sovereign bonds in the PSPP, on the basis of the eligibility criteria applied to all Member States, and the extension of the CBPP3 programme to Greek legal entities governed by public and private law, in accordance with the same eligibility criteria;'
