

COMMISSION DECISION

of 18 September 1986

establishing an Advisory Committee on the protection of the environment in areas under serious threat (Mediterranean basin)

(86/479/EEC)

THE COMMISSION OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Economic Community,

Whereas the action programme of the European Community on the environment (1982-86) adopted by the Council on 7 February 1983⁽¹⁾ expressly states that the environment must be regarded as the basis constituting the limits to further economic and social development;

Whereas the Commission adopted on 11 April 1984 a communication defining a strategy and a plan of action for the protection of the environment in the Mediterranean⁽²⁾, calling for the implementation of a range of coordinated measures which would create conditions conducive to the harmonious development of the region's socio-economic activities;

Whereas the European Parliament has adopted a resolution on the abovementioned communication approving the proposal to establish an advisory committee⁽³⁾;

Whereas the Mediterranean basin is a region with particular physical, socio-economic and cultural characteristics whose problems and potential demand special attention in Community policies;

Whereas the Commission must consult experts from the Member States on pollution in areas where the environment is under particular threat;

Whereas it is also necessary for the Community to have a forum in which the experts can meet to pool national information and experience, thus facilitating coordination of the measures taken or planned at national, international and Community level,
