12. Order of business

The next item was the order of business.

The President announced that the final draft agenda for the July 2001 sittings had been distributed (PE 306.730/PDOJ) and that a number of changes had been proposed (Rule 111):

- Monday 2
 - no changes
- Tuesday 3
 - the PSE Group had asked for the Karas report on occupational retirement institutions (A5-0220/2001) to be put to the vote at voting time on Wednesday.
Parliament approved the request.
- Wednesday 4
 - no changes
Mr Posselt protested again that Question Time to the Council had once again been moved and reduced in length (the President assured him that, unless the Conference of Presidents decided otherwise, this would be the last time).
- Thursday 5

Topical and urgent debate:

 - Item III 'Human rights'
 - (a) the Verts/ALE Group had asked for the second heading 'Religious Freedom in Vietnam' to be replaced by a new heading 'UNGA Special Session on Aids'
Parliament rejected the request.
 - (b) three requests to add a new heading:
 - the PSE Group had asked for a new heading 'Disappeared persons in Uruguay'.
Parliament rejected the request.
 - The GUE/NGL and Verts/ALE Groups had asked for a new heading 'Human rights in Tunisia'
Parliament rejected the request.
 - The PPE-DE Group had asked for a new heading 'Refugees from Burundi in Tanzania'.
Parliament approved the request.

The order of business was thus established.

Procedural remarks

The following spoke:

- Napoletano who criticised the difficult air connections between Milan/Rome and Strasbourg and Plooi-j-van Gorsel who criticised air connections to Strasbourg from Amsterdam (the President took note of these remarks and assured Members she would take the matter up).
- on the transfer of Slobodan Milošević to the International Criminal Tribunal in the Hague: Korakas, Wurtz, on behalf of the GUE/NGL Group, Gollnisch, Bigliardo and Korakas who, referring to Mr Wurtz's remarks, explained that he had spoken on his own behalf and on behalf of his party;
- on the use of acronym 'FYROM' to refer to Macedonia: Dupuis, Katiforis, Ludford and Baltas;
- Fatuzzo on the ruling by a German court which had judged illegal a provision for awarding subsidies to state retirement homes without granting the same rights to private retirement homes; he called on the President to ensure that there was no discrimination in this area.

Monday 2 July 2001

13. Resale rights *III (debate)

Mr Beazley spoke, in reference to background noise while Commissioner Bolkestein was addressing the Chamber, to complain about the difficult conditions in which the Commission had yet again to speak before voting time. He requested that this matter be taken up with the Bureau so that from September onwards this problem would cease to exist (the President stated that he sympathised with Mr Beazley's views and clarified that the Conference of Presidents was competent in such matters and not the Bureau; he considered that one solution might be to suspend the sitting for a few moments before the Commission's speech.

Tuesday 3 July 2001

Mr Corbett remarked in reference to Rule 22(3), that the Bureau was in fact responsible for such matters (the President replied that the Conference of Presidents was responsible for drawing up the agenda and therefore for deciding if there should be any interruptions in the sitting).

7. Budgetary Calendar

The President announced that the deadlines for tabling draft amendments and proposals for amending the general budget of the European Union for 2002 had been set as follows:

AMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 1

(2) Measuring instruments can be used for a variety of measurement tasks. Those responding to reasons of public interest, affecting the daily life of citizens in many ways directly and indirectly, require the use of legally controlled measuring instruments.

(2) Measuring instruments can be used for a variety of measurement tasks. Those responding to reasons of public interest, public health, public safety, public order, protection of the environment, levying taxes and duties, consumer protection and fair trading, which affect the daily life of citizens in many ways directly and indirectly, require the use of legally controlled measuring instruments.

Amendment 2

Recital 4a (new)

(4a) The optionality clause introduced by this Directive, under which Member States may exercise their right to decide whether or not to regulate any of the measuring instruments covered by this Directive, should be applied provided it does not act as a barrier to completing the internal market and is subject to the transitional provisions of this Directive.

Amendment 3

Recital 4b (new)

(4b) There should be a specific definition of the term 'manufacturer' and his responsibility for the conformity of measuring instruments.

Amendment 4

Recital 11

(11) The state of the art in measurement technology is subject to constant evolution which may lead to changes in the needs for conformity assessments. Therefore, for each category of measurement there must be an appropriate procedure or a choice between different procedures of equivalent stringency. The procedures adopted are as required by Council Decision 93/465/EEC of 22 July 1993 concerning the modules for the various phases of the conformity assessment procedures and the rules for the affixing and use of the CE conformity marking, which are intended to be used in the technical harmonisation Directives.

Amendment 5

Recital 14

(14) Member States should take all appropriate measures to ensure that measuring instruments that carry the CE conformity marking and supplementary marking are correctly placed on the market. Manufacturers should be informed of the grounds on which negative decisions in respect of their products were taken, and the legal remedies available to them.

(14) Member States should take all appropriate measures to ensure that measuring instruments consisting of a set of devices and sub-assemblies that carry the CE conformity marking and supplementary marking are correctly placed on the market. Manufacturers should be informed of the grounds on which negative decisions in respect of their products were taken, and the legal remedies available to them.

Amendment 6

Article 1

This Directive applies to the devices and systems with a measuring function defined in the instrument specific annexes MI-001 to MI-011.

1. This Directive applies to the devices and systems with a measuring function defined in the instrument specific annexes concerning water meters (MI-001), gas meters (MI-002), active electrical energy meters and measurement transformers (MI-003), heat meters (MI-004), measuring systems for the continuous and dynamic measurement of quantities of liquids other than water (MI-005), automatic weighing instruments (MI-006), taximeters (MI-007), material measures (MI-008), dimensional measuring instruments (MI-009), evidential breath analysers (MI-010) and exhaust gas analysers (MI-011).

Amendment 7

Article 1, paragraph 2 (new)

2. Measuring instruments covered by this Directive and which have been subject to a legal metrological control are used for reasons of public health, public safety, public order, protection of the environment, levying taxes and duties, consumer protection and fair trading.

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENTAmendment 8
Article 2, paragraph 1

This Directive establishes the essential requirements that the devices and systems referred to in Article 1 have to satisfy if they are subject to legal metrological control in a Member State, and the conformity assessment that they have to undergo in those circumstances, with a view to their placing on the market and putting into use.

1.. This Directive establishes the essential requirements that the devices and systems referred to in Article 1 shall satisfy and the conformity assessment that they shall undergo in those circumstances, with a view to their placing on the market and putting into use.

Amendment 9
Article 2, paragraphs 2 and 3

2. If a Member State has not introduced legislation covering the devices and systems referred to in Article 1 and subject to the transitional provisions laid down in Article 17, it shall decide whether or not to regulate any of the instruments listed in annexes MI-001 to MI-011.

3. No Member State may prevent, prohibit or restrict the placing on the market or putting into use of any device or system covered by this Directive if that device or system meets the requirements of this Directive which apply to it.

Amendment 10
Article 3, point (b)

(b) 'sub-assembly' means a hardware device that functions independently and, together with other sub-assemblies with which it is compatible, makes up a measuring instrument;

(b) 'sub-assembly' means a hardware device that functions independently and, together with other sub-assemblies with which it is compatible, or with measuring instruments with which it is compatible, makes up a measuring instrument;

Amendment 11
Article 3, point (d)

(d) 'manufacturer' means the physical or legal person who

- carries out the technical design of a measuring instrument, or has it carried out on his behalf, and
- manufactures the measuring instrument, or has it manufactured on his behalf, and
- places it lawfully on the market under his own name, or, the physical or legal person who

- takes responsibility for the conformity of the measuring instrument to the appropriate requirements of this Directive, and

(d) 'manufacturer' means the physical or legal person who takes responsibility for the conformity of the measuring instrument to the appropriate requirements of this Directive, and who

- carries out the technical design of a measuring instrument, or has it carried out on his behalf, and

- has taken all necessary measures to bear those responsibilities, and
- places the measuring instrument lawfully on the market under his own name;

Amendment 12
Article 3, point (g)

(g) 'authorised representative' means the physical or legal person who is authorised by a manufacturer, in writing, to act on his behalf for specified tasks. An authorised representative must be established within the Community if he is to act under this Directive;

(g) 'authorised representative' means the physical or legal person who is authorised by a manufacturer, in writing, to act on his behalf for specified tasks within the meaning and provisions of this Directive. An authorised representative must be established within the Community if he is to act under this Directive;

Amendment 13
Article 5, paragraph 2

2. The CE conformity marking and supplementary metrology marking shall be affixed by, or under the responsibility of, the manufacturer.

2. The CE conformity marking and supplementary metrology marking shall be affixed by, or under the responsibility of, the manufacturer. The CE conformity marking may be affixed on the measuring instrument during the manufacturing process. The supplementary metrology marking shall be affixed after the assessment of conformity laid down in Article 7.

Amendment 14
Article 7a (new)Article 7a*Technical documentation

The technical documentation shall render the design, manufacture and operation of the measuring instrument intelligible and shall enable assessment of its conformity with the appropriate requirements of this Directive.

In so far as relevant for assessment, the documentation shall include:

- a general description of the measuring instrument;
- conceptual design and manufacturing drawings and plans of components, sub-assemblies, circuits, etc.;
- descriptions and explanations necessary for the understanding of the drawings and plans, including the operation of the measuring instrument;
- a list of the standards referred to in Article 9, applied in full or in part, and descriptions of the solutions adopted to meet the essential requirements of this Directive where the standards referred to in Article 9 have not been applied;
- results of design calculations, examinations, etc.;
- test reports;
- the EC type examination certificates or EC design examination certificates.

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 15

Article 8, paragraph 2

2. Member States shall apply the criteria set out in Annex III for the designation of such bodies.

2. Member States shall apply the criteria set out in Article 8a for the designation of such bodies. If a Member State has not introduced national legislation regulating any of the measuring instruments defined in Article 1, taking into account the provisions of Article 2, it shall retain its right to designate a body.

Amendment 16

Article 8a (new)

Article 8a

Criteria for the designation of bodies carrying out tasks pertaining to the conformity assessment modules.

The following criteria shall apply when Member States designate bodies for carrying out tasks pertaining to the conformity assessment modules:

1. The body, its director and the staff involved in conformity assessment work shall not be the designer, manufacturer, supplier, installer or user of the measuring instruments that they inspect, nor the authorised representative of any of these persons. They may not be directly involved in the design, manufacture, marketing or maintenance of the measuring instruments, nor may they represent the parties engaged in these activities. The preceding criteria do not, however, preclude in any way the possibility of exchanges, between the manufacturer and the body, of technical information for the purpose of conformity assessment.

2. The body and its staff involved in conformity assessment work shall be free from all pressures and inducements, in particular financial inducements, that might influence their judgement or the results of their conformity assessment work, especially from persons or groups of persons with an interest in the results of the assessments.

3. The conformity assessment tasks shall be carried out with the highest degree of professional integrity and requisite competence in the field of metrology.

Should the body subcontract specific tasks connected with the establishment or verification of product performance or specifications, it shall first ensure that the subcontractor complies with the provisions of this Directive. The body shall keep the relevant documents assessing the subcontractor's qualifications and the work carried out by him under this Directive at the disposal of the national authorities.

BY THE COMMISSION

AMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

4. The body shall be able to carry out all the tasks assigned to such bodies by this Article for which it has been notified, whether these tasks are carried out by the body itself or on its behalf and under its responsibility. It shall have available in particular the staff and facilities necessary for carrying out properly the technical and administrative tasks entailed in assessment and verification. It shall also have access to the equipment necessary for the required verification.

5. The body's staff shall have

- good vocational training, covering all assessment and verification operations for which the body was designated;
- satisfactory knowledge of the rules in respect of the inspections which it carries out, and adequate experience of such inspections;
- the ability required to draw up the certificates, records and reports to demonstrate that the inspections were carried out.

6. The body shall be impartial. Its remuneration shall not depend on the number of inspections carried out nor on the results of the inspections.

7. The body shall take out civil liability insurance, unless liability is assumed by the Member State under national legislation or the Member State carries out the inspections itself directly.

8. The body's staff shall observe professional secrecy with regard to all information obtained in the course of exercising their duties pursuant to this Directive or any provision of national law putting this Directive into effect, except vis-à-vis the competent administrative authorities of the Member State in which their activities are carried out.

Amendment 17

Article 12, paragraph 1, point (a)

(a) amend instrument specific annexes in respect of:

Deleted

- the maximum permissible errors and accuracy classes,
- the rated operating conditions,
- the critical change values,
- the list of conformity assessment procedures referred to in Article 7;

BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 18

Article 13, paragraph 3

3. The identification number of the notified body concerned referred to in Article 8, if prescribed by the conformity assessment procedure, shall follow the CE conformity marking and supplementary metrology marking. The measuring instrument shall carry no identification number of a notified body where that is not prescribed by the conformity assessment procedure.

3. The identification number of the notified body concerned referred to in Article 8, if prescribed by the conformity assessment procedure, shall follow the CE conformity marking and supplementary metrology marking.

Amendment 19

Article 13, paragraph 4, subparagraph 1

4. When a measuring instrument consists of a set of devices operating together, the markings shall be present on the instrument's main device.

4. When a measuring instrument consists of a set of devices and sub-assemblies operating together, the markings shall be present on the instrument's main device.

Amendment 20

Article 14, paragraph 2, subparagraph 4

Information exchanged shall be kept confidential.

Deleted

Article 17

By way of derogation from Article 18(2), Member States shall permit, for measurement tasks for which they have prescribed the use of a legally controlled measuring instrument, the placing on the market and putting into use of measuring instruments that satisfy the rules applicable before [1 July 2002] until the expiration of the validity of the type approval of those measuring instruments or, in case of a type approval of indefinite validity, for a period of ten years from [1 July 2002].

By way of derogation from Article 18(2), Member States shall permit, for measurement tasks for which they have prescribed the use of a legally controlled measuring instrument, the placing on the market and putting into use of measuring instruments that satisfy the rules applicable before ... (*) until the expiration of the validity of the type approval of those measuring instruments or, in the case of a type approval of indefinite validity, for a period of five years from the date of entry into force of this Directive.

(*) Two years after the entry into force of this Directive.

Amendment 22

Annex I, point 5

5. Durability

A measuring instrument shall be designed to maintain an adequate stability of its metrological characteristics over a reasonable period of time provided that it is properly installed, maintained and used according to the manufacturer's instruction when in the environmental conditions for which it is intended.

5. Durability

A measuring instrument shall be designed to maintain an adequate stability of its metrological characteristics over a period of time specified by the manufacturer, provided that it is properly installed, maintained and used according to the manufacturer's instruction when in the environmental conditions for which it is intended.

BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 23

Annex I, point 6

6. Reliability

A measuring instrument shall be designed to reduce as far as possible the effect of a defect that would lead to an inaccurate measurement result, unless the presence of such a defect is obvious or can be easily and simply checked using devices apart from the instrument itself.

6. Reliability

A measuring instrument shall be designed to reduce as far as possible the effect of a defect that would lead to an inaccurate measurement result unless the presence of such a defect is obvious.

Amendment 24

Annex I, point 7.2

7.2. A measuring instrument shall be suitable for its intended use taking account of the practical working conditions, and bearing in mind the intended user, shall not require unreasonable demands of the user in order to obtain a correct measurement result.

7.2. A measuring instrument shall be suitable for its intended use taking account of the practical working conditions, and shall not require unreasonable demands of the user in order to obtain a correct measurement result.

Amendment 25

Annex I, point 8.1

8.1. The metrological characteristics of a measuring instrument shall not be inadmissibly influenced by the connection to it of another device, by any feature of the connected device itself or by any remote device that communicates with the measuring instrument.

8.1. The metrological characteristics of a measuring instrument shall not be seriously and inadmissibly influenced by the connection to it of another device, by any feature of the connected device itself or by any remote device that communicates with the measuring instrument.

Amendment 26

Annex I, point 10.2

10.2. The indication of any result shall be clear and unambiguous and accompanied by such marks and inscriptions necessary to inform the user of the significance of the result. Easy reading of the presented result shall be permitted under normal conditions of use. Additional indications may be shown provided they cannot be confused.

10.2. The indication of any result shall be clear and unambiguous and accompanied by such marks and inscriptions necessary to inform the user of the significance of the result. Easy reading of the presented result shall be permitted under normal conditions of use. Additional indications may be shown provided they cannot be confused with the primary indication.

Annex I, point 10.5

10.5. A measuring instrument intended for domestic utility measurement purposes from which the measurement data can be read either by a mobile data capture unit or remotely via a transmission link shall be fitted with a display accessible to the consumer. The reading of this display is the measurement result that serves as the basis for the price to pay.

10.5. A measuring instrument intended for domestic utility measurement purposes from which the measurement data can be read shall be fitted with a display accessible to the consumer. The reading of this display is the measurement result that serves as the basis for the price to pay.

*Annex IV*This annex is deleted.

European Parliament legislative resolution on the proposal for a directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on measuring instruments (COM(2000) 566 – C5-0478/2000 – 2000/0233(COD))

(Codecision procedure: first reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission proposal to the European Parliament and the Council (COM(2000) 566) ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to Article 251(2) and Article 95 of the EC Treaty, pursuant to which the Commission submitted the proposal to Parliament (C5-0478/2000),
 - having regard to Rule 67 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Industry, External Trade Research and Energy (A5-0221/2001),
1. Approves the Commission proposal as amended;
 2. Asks to be consulted again should the Commission intend to amend the proposal substantially or replace it with another text;
 3. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council and Commission.

5. Recasting of legal acts (procedure without debate)A5-0230/2001*European Parliament resolution on the draft interinstitutional agreement on a more structured use of the recasting technique for legal acts (2037/1/2000 rev. 1 – C5-0588/2000 – 2000/2266(ACI))The European Parliament,*

- having regard to the draft interinstitutional agreement (2037/1/2000 rev. 1 – C5-0588/2000),
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Legal Affairs and the Internal Market (A5-0230/2001),
- A. whereas the European Union is a community based on the rule of law,
 - B. whereas citizens, to whom the law is addressed, must be able to understand their rights and duties with ease,

Tuesday 3 July 2001

1. Is in favour of concluding an interinstitutional agreement on a more structured use of the recasting technique for legal acts; approves the terms of the draft interinstitutional agreement; makes the future conclusion of the agreement subject to the condition that it contains a clause worded as follows:

This agreement shall enter into force on the day following its publication in the Official Journal of the European Communities.

It shall apply to any proposal for recasting submitted from the date of its entry into force. An assessment of the application of this agreement shall take place three years after its entry into force.

For this purpose the Legal Services of the institutions signatory to the agreement shall submit an assessment report and propose, where appropriate, any changes required.

2. Calls on the Commission to step up its work of electronic consolidation of the main legal acts in force and make the results accessible via the Internet;

3. Instructs its rapporteur to conduct the negotiations necessary for fulfilling the above conditions with the Council and Commission, under the authority of the President of Parliament and in close cooperation with the committee responsible;

4. Approves the draft interinstitutional agreement provided it includes the above clause; instructs its President to sign the interinstitutional agreement once the above clause has been incorporated;

5. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and Commission.

6. Framework strategy on Gender Equality – Work Programme for 2001 (procedure without debate)

A5-0224/2001

European Parliament resolution on the Commission communication to the Council and the European Parliament 'Framework Strategy on Gender Equality – Work Programme for 2001'
(COM(2001) 119 – SEC(2001) 382 – C5-0193/2001 – 2001/2089(COS))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission communication (COM(2001) 119 – SEC(2001) 382 – C5-0193/2001),
 - having regard to the Council Decision of 20 December 2000 establishing a programme relating to the Community framework strategy on gender equality (2001-2005) ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to its opinion of 15 November 2000 on the proposal for a Council decision on the programme relating to the Community framework strategy on gender equality (2001-2005) (COM(2000) 335 – C5-0386/2000 – 2000/0143(CNS)) ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to Rule 47(1) of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Women's Rights and Equal Opportunities (A5-0224/2001),
- A. having regard to the need to promote gender equality and to integrate this objective into those policies which have a direct and indirect impact on the lives of both sexes,

Tuesday 3 July 2001

- B. having regard to the Commission's key role in implementing the Community's global strategy for equality of treatment and opportunity of women and men, which covers all the Community's policies aimed at promoting such equality, either by adapting policies (proactive intervention/gender mainstreaming) and/or by implementing concrete actions aimed at improving women's position in society (reactive intervention/specific actions),
 - C. whereas the Nice European Council of 7 December 2000 approved the medium-term social policy agenda (2000-2005), and this, together with the Commission communication on the social policy agenda amounts to a comprehensive work programme for European social policy in coming years; whereas equal-opportunities policy in particular plays an important part in the process,
 - D. whereas the Stockholm European Council of 23/24 March 2001 drew up new policy options on promoting equal-opportunities policy,
 - E. having regard to the Commission's delay in forwarding the work programme for 2001, which will make it more difficult to hold a full debate for the current year,
 - F. having regard to the vague nature of the document and to the need to debate in advance and plan the goals to be achieved in realistic and measurable stages in the areas for action set out in the framework strategy on gender equality (2001-2005),
1. Calls for priority to be given to implementing the Community's framework strategy on gender equality and the recently adopted programme;
 2. Notes that the work programme fails to implement a number of proposals from the social policy agenda, in particular the draft directive on equal treatment of men and women in sectors other than employment (2002) and the feasibility study on establishing a gender institute (2001);
 3. Notes the Commission's proposals in the work programme for 2001, and asks for detailed information on the actions planned in the five areas for intervention set out in the framework strategy on gender equality;
 4. Notes that the Stockholm European Council called on the Council and Commission to develop indicators by 2002 on the provision of care facilities for children and other dependants, family benefit systems and pay differentials between men and women; calls on the Commission to submit a proposal for such indicators before the end of this year and to consult the European Parliament on this issue;
 5. Calls on the Commission to submit an assessment report to Parliament on compliance with the resolutions, recommendations and directives already adopted, such as the Council Recommendation 92/241/EEC of 31 March 1992 on child care⁽¹⁾ or the Resolution of the Council and of the Ministers for Employment and Social Policy, meeting within the Council, of 29 June 2000 on the balanced participation of women and men in family and working life⁽²⁾;
 6. Urges the Commission to propose without delay adjustments to existing directives, notably Council Directive 75/117/EEC of 10 February 1975 on the approximation of the laws of the Member States relating to the application of the principle of equal pay for men and women⁽³⁾, with a view to ensuring full implementation of equal pay legislation, Council Directive 92/85/EEC of 19 October 1992 on the introduction of measures to encourage improvements in the safety and health at work of pregnant workers and workers who have recently given birth or are breastfeeding (tenth individual Directive within the meaning of Article 16(1) of Directive 89/391/EEC)⁽⁴⁾, and the directives on the introduction of the principles of equal treatment for women and men in statutory and occupational social security schemes;

7. Recalls its resolution of 21 February 1997 on the situation of assisting spouses of the self-employed⁽¹⁾, which called for improvements to Council Directive 86/613/EEC of 11 December 1986 on the application of the principle of equal treatment between men and women engaged in an activity, including agriculture, in a self-employed capacity, and on the protection of self-employed women during pregnancy and motherhood⁽²⁾; urges the Commission to submit further directives, including one relating to Article 13 of the EU Treaty, to ensure equality of treatment of women and men in fields other than employment, and proposes that work on this should begin this year;

8. Asks for Parliament to be forwarded gender impact assessments relating to selected political areas, which have to date not been subjected to gender mainstreaming;

9. Proposes that the Commission should submit, before the end of this year, a communication on the implementation of gender mainstreaming in the new programming documents under the Structural Funds, with a view to better use of those funds in promoting gender equality;

10. Calls on the Commission to begin work as of now on the communication on the social aspects of public contracts;

11. Urges the Commission to submit the 2002 work programme by November 2001, so that it can be implemented on 1 January 2002, after Parliament has delivered its opinion;

12. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and Commission.

8. Improving the legal protection of accident victims

A5-0174/2001

European Parliament resolution with recommendations to the Commission on a fifth European Parliament and Council directive on motor vehicle liability insurance to improve the legal protection of accident victims (2000/2126(INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to Article 192, second paragraph of the EC Treaty,
- having regard to Rules 59 and 163 of its Rules of Procedure,
- having regard to European Parliament and Council Directive 2000/26/EC of 16 May 2000 on the approximation of the laws of the Member States relating to insurance against civil liability in respect of the use of motor vehicles amending Directives 73/239/EEC and 88/357/EEC (Fourth motor vehicle directive) ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to the report of the Committee on Legal Affairs and the Internal Market (A5-0174/2001),

A. whereas no proposal within the meaning of Rule 59(2) of the Rules of Procedure is in preparation,

1. Requests the Commission to submit to Parliament [before 3 October 2001], on the basis of Articles 47(2) and 95 of the EC Treaty, a legislative proposal on a fifth European Parliament and Council directive on motor vehicle liability insurance to improve the legal protection of accident victims, following the detailed recommendations below;
2. Confirms that the recommendations respect the principle of subsidiarity and the fundamental rights of citizens;
3. Considers that the requested proposal will have no financial implications;
4. Instructs its President to forward this resolution and the accompanying recommendations to the Commission and Council.

ANNEX

Annex to the resolutionDetailed recommendations as to the content of the proposal requested*A. PRINCIPLES AND AIMS OF THE PROPOSAL

1. An improved compensation procedure following accidents in national road traffic (adoption of some provisions of the Fourth Motor Insurance Directive)

1.1. The Fourth Motor Insurance Directive facilitated the settlement of claims arising from road accidents that occur in a country other than that in which the injured party is resident.

1.2. Some provisions of the directive can also be applied to the settlement of claims for damages suffered in national transport.

1.3. These provisions are the following:

1.4. Within three months of receiving a claim for compensation the insurer is required either to make an offer or to explain why he is unable to do so. Provision must be made for effective financial penalties or administrative measures to be imposed and for interest to be charged on the amount owed if the insurer fails to satisfy this requirement.

1.5. The injured party is to be able to apply to the national information centres for the information needed to identify the other vehicle and the insurer.

2. Insurer's no-claims or number of claims declaration

2.1. As a single European insurance market — especially the huge motor insurance business — should live up to consumers' expectations, it should promote cross-frontier competition among insurers.

2.2. An insured party can compare different offers only if his insurer is required to give him a no-claims declaration or a declaration of the number of claims made to his insurer in the past five years and if the new insurer is required to take this declaration into account in his system when calculating the insurance premium.

2.3. The insurer must make this declaration on the expiry of the annual insurance period if so requested by the insured party.

3. Period for the registration of motor vehicles with foreign number plates

3.1. In the internal market, which has established the free movement of goods and services, more and more motor vehicles are being purchased in a Member State other than that in which the purchaser is resident (vehicles with foreign number plates).

3.2. Delays in the re-registration of such vehicles in the purchaser's Member State pose a number of problems, particular among them being the following:

- the insurer in the Member State in which the vehicle was purchased must continue to insure the vehicle even if unable to offer his services in the purchaser's country;
- the tax of the country of origin continues to be payable on the insurance premium for the vehicle;
- the charges for the green card bureau and the guarantee fund continue to be paid in the country of origin rather than the country in which the purchaser is resident.

3.3. The periods allowed for re-registration differ widely in the Member States. They range from one day in Ireland, three days in Austria, 14 days in Denmark, one month in Finland and Sweden, three months in France and the United Kingdom and six months in Spain, Greece and Luxembourg to one year in Germany, Italy and the Netherlands.

Tuesday 3 July 2001

3.4. The re-registration of all vehicles with foreign number plates should be required within three months throughout the European Union. Provision should be made for penalties where this requirement is not satisfied.

4. Insurance for temporary residents in another Member State

4.1. As citizens increasingly exercise their freedom to live, work, or study in other Member States, they will increasingly wish to take up temporary residence outside their home country. For this period of temporary residence, they may wish to bring their personal motor vehicle with them, and to enjoy its normal use without the inconvenience of re-registration or re-insurance.

4.2. At present, a citizen taking up temporary residence in another Member State, may find that an insurance companies arbitrarily withdraws an existing motor insurance cover on the basis that the driver concerned no longer benefits from cover provided on the basis of residence in their home state. It is difficult and inconvenient for citizens to obtain new insurance cover from a local insurer for a temporary period.

4.3. To obviate this problem motor insurers would be obliged to extend home state cover for citizens who take up temporary residence for up to 12 months in another EU Member State. Citizens would be obliged to notify their insurers if they wished to exercise this right, and to provide the appropriate details of their temporary place of residence. Insurance companies would be allowed to charge a reasonable extra premium for this service, but would be prevented from foreclosing the ability of citizens to exercise this right by making a penal change.

4.4. After 12 months citizens would be obliged to re-register their vehicle (as set out in paragraph 5 and to take out local insurance cover.

5. Increase in minimum amounts insured

5.1. Article 1(2) of Directive 84/5/EEC specifies the minimum sum insured for compulsory motor vehicle insurance:

- in the case of personal injury, € 350 000 for each injured party,
- in the case of damage to property, € 100 000 per claim, whatever the number of injured parties or the nature of the damage.

5.2. Member States may provide for a minimum amount of:

- € 500 000 for personal injury where more than one injured party is involved in a single claim, or
- € 600 000 per claim whatever the number of injured parties or the nature of the damage.

5.3. Now that 15 years have passed, this system is in urgent need of reform.

5.4. Even if the price increases of recent years are ignored, the minimum amounts insured are clearly too low.

5.5. It is proposed that a uniform minimum amount insured of € 2 000 000 should be required throughout the European Union whatever the number of injured parties or the nature of the damage.

5.6. This amount should be adjusted periodically, taking into account previous year's inflation as determined by the European Central Bank and other relevant factors.

6. Extension of compulsory insurance

6.1. Article 3(1) of the Directive requires all Member States to ensure that civil liability in respect of every vehicle based in its territory is covered by insurance.

Tuesday 3 July 2001

6.2. Article 4(b) does however permit Member States to exclude certain types of vehicle (e.g. vehicles that do not exceed a certain speed and agricultural vehicles) and vehicles having special plates (e.g. plates for a limited period) from compulsory insurance.

6.3. A Member State may, however, require that, on their entry into its territory, such vehicles are accompanied by a green insurance card or a frontier insurance policy.

6.4. With the entry into force of the Schengen Agreement and the associated cessation of frontier controls, Article 4(b) of the Directive no longer serves a useful purpose.

6.5. Given the small number of exemptions from compulsory insurance, the derogation for which Article 4(b) provides is no longer justified.

7. Definition of where a vehicle having no or stolen or false registration plates is normally based.

7.1. The first motor vehicle Directive 72/166/EEC of the Council settles neither the question of compulsory compensation liability for vehicles with no or with stolen or false registration plates. There are various approaches in practice. A uniform and simple solution would be desirable.

7.2. The Court of Justice relies on the appearance of origin produced by the false or forged registration plates. The Green Card Bureau in the State in which the accident occurred is liable if the registration plate refers to another contracting State. If that is not the case the Guarantee Fund is liable, without this being said in so many words. An example: accident in France, German vehicle, false Dutch vehicle, Dutch driver. In this case the Green Card Bureau in France is liable, which claims against the Dutch Green Card Bureau.

7.3. This is a simple solution and offers protection to accident victims. It rightly makes no distinction between official and false registration plates. It does, however, resolve neither the problem of third countries (e.g. false Polish plates) nor cases where the vehicle has no registration plates at all. In such case the Guarantee Fund is called upon to intervene.

7.4. Because of these inadequacies the False Plates Agreement was concluded in 1993, under which any registration plate on a vehicle is regarded as false if it is not the last one issued to that vehicle by the competent authority. It also lays down that false registration cannot lead to any conclusions about the State in which the vehicle is normally based. Inquiries therefore have to be instituted into the origin of the vehicle.

7.5. These inquiries are often protracted and expensive. Nor does the agreement resolve cases where drivers fail to stop and the identity of the vehicle cannot be determined.

7.6. The solution has to be simple and clear and cover all imaginable cases. It might provide that where a vehicle has no or false plates, the guarantee fund in the country in which the accident occurred settles the claims. It would have to be made clear that the territory of the State in which the accident occurred was to be regarded as where the vehicle was normally based.

7.7. This solution, which would also cover vehicles from non-Community countries, would be simple and make for the rapid settlement of claims. It is therefore in the interests of accident victims.

8. Scope for settling claims by the branch of an insurer in the Member State in which it operates

8.1. The fourth motor vehicle insurance Directive requires all insurance undertakings to appoint a claims representative in each Member State.

8.2. It would be appropriate if a branch of an insurance undertaking were able to settle such claims. This is not possible at present (second sentence of Article 12a(4)(4) of Directive 88/357/EEC inserted by Article 6 of Directive 90/618/EEC: 'The appointee shall not take up the business of direct insurance on behalf of the said undertaking.') This sentence should therefore be deleted.

Tuesday 3 July 2001

9. Insurance cover on the purchase of a vehicle in another Member State

9.1. Many individuals face problems obtaining suitable insurance cover in respect of vehicles with foreign number plates which they wish to purchase and drive back to the Member State of their permanent residence. Invariably, they are only able to purchase the minimum compulsory cover, which leaves them without any insurance protection if the vehicle is stolen, for example. Furthermore, it is possible that the vehicle will only be driven in a Member State other than that of the purchaser's permanent residence for a matter of a few hours or days before it reaches its 'new' home Member State for re-registration.

9.2. To resolve these difficulties, it should be permissible for an insurer to provide, for a maximum period of 30 days, insurance for a vehicle purchased and registered in one Member State, provided there is an intention to re-register the vehicle in the Member State of the person's permanent residence.

B. ACTION TO PROPOSE

Proposal for a fifth European Parliament and Council Directive relating to insurance against civil liability in respect of the use of motor vehicles to improve the legal protection of accident victims

1. Member States shall take the necessary measures to ensure that the following provisions of the Directive also apply to compensation for personal injury and damage to property caused by accidents in which vehicles registered and persons resident in one and the same Member State are involved:

- obligation to provide a reasoned response or offer or refusal of compensation in compliance with the procedure, time limits and conditions applicable to the offer or refusal of compensation set out in Article 4(4) of the Directive. For the avoidance of doubt, the provision shall not be extended to include the involvement of the national compensation body,
- penalties for failure to fulfil this obligation and the other aforementioned requirements set out in Article 4(4) of the Directive,
- a national information centre's concurrence with the requirements set out in Article 5 of the Directive.

2. Member States shall take the necessary measures to ensure that all insurance undertakings covering the civil liability of vehicles in road traffic (risks listed under point 10 of Annex A to Directive 73/239/EEC) — excluding the civil liability of carriers — delivers to the insured party on the expiry of the annual insurance period on request a no-claims declaration or a declaration of claims reported to that insurer in the past five years (or for the period during which the said party was insured by the insurance undertaking, if shorter).

The new insurer shall take account of this declaration in his system when calculating the insurance premium as if the declaration had been provided by a national citizen.

Member States shall take the necessary measures to ensure that the certificate provided for in paragraph 1 represents sufficient evidence for the assessment of the risks to be insured and the calculation of the premium.

3. Member States shall take the necessary measures to ensure that any vehicle to which the registration requirement in their territory applies and which bears a number plate of another country is re-registered within a period of three months. Provision shall be made for suitable administrative and financial penalties should this requirement not be satisfied.

4. Member States shall take the necessary measures to require insurance companies to extend private motor vehicle insurance cover for any policy holder who takes up temporary residence in another EU Member State, for a maximum period of twelve months from the date at which the re-location took place. Insurance companies will be allowed to make a reasonable, cost-related, supplementary premium for the provision of this cover.

Tuesday 3 July 2001

5. Article 1(2) of Directive 84/5/EEC is amended as follows:

Member States shall take the necessary measures to ensure that the amount insured in the context of compulsory motor vehicle insurance is at least € 2 000 000. The Commission shall put in place a mechanism to ensure that the monetary amount specified in Article 1(2) of Directive 84/5/EEC is adjusted periodically, taking into account the rate of inflation determined by the European Central Bank and other relevant factors.

Member States may provide for a higher amount insured.

6. Article 4(b) of Directive 72/166/EEC as amended by Article 4 of Directive 84/5/EEC is deleted.

7. In Article 1(4) of Directive 72/166/EEC as amended by Article 4 of Directive 84/5/EEC, insert a second indent:

- if a vehicle of the category mentioned above bears no plates or plates not or no longer legally issued to it, the territory of the State in which the claim arose.

8. The second sentence of Article 12a(4)(4) of Directive 88/357/EEC, inserted by Article 6 of Directive 90/618/EEC ('The appointee shall not take up the business of direct insurance on behalf of the said under-taking') is deleted.

9. By way of derogation from Article 2(d) of Directive 88/357/EEC, an insurer may, for a maximum period of 30 days, provide insurance for a vehicle registered in one Member State and purchased by a person with a permanent residence in another Member State, provided there is an intention to re-register the vehicle in the Member State of the person's permanent residence.

9. Out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes

A5-0134/2001

European Parliament resolution on action taken on the Community policy on out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes (recommendation 98/257/EC and conclusions of the Tampere European Council) (SEC(2000) 405 – 2000/2209(INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission working document on the creation of a European Extra-Judicial Network (EEJ-Net) (SEC(2000) 405),
 - having regard to Article 155 of the EC Treaty,
 - having regard to Commission Recommendation 98/257/EC of 30 March 1998 on the principles applicable to the bodies responsible for out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to the Commission's 1998 communication on the out-of-court settlement of consumer disputes (COM(1998) 198),
 - having regard to Rule 163 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Legal Affairs and the Internal Market (A5-0134/2001),
- A. whereas, in its conclusions approved by the Consumer Affairs Council of 25 November 1996, the Council emphasised the need to boost consumer confidence in the functioning of the Internal Market and consumers' scope for taking full advantage of the possibilities offered by the Internal Market, including the possibility for consumers to settle disputes in an efficient and appropriate manner through out-of-court or other comparable procedures,

Tuesday 3 July 2001

- B. whereas the 1998 communication stated that 'The Commission will facilitate the networking of [extra-judicial dispute-settlement] bodies so as to promote their active collaboration in resolving specific cases. Ultimately, consumers should be able to refer cross-border disputes to the competent out-of-court body in the foreign country via the corresponding out-of-court body in their own country',
- C. whereas, in the Presidency conclusions of the European Council held in Tampere on 15/16 October 1999, it is stated that 'Alternative, extra-judicial procedures should ... be created by the Member States',
1. Welcomes the Commission's — albeit limited — initiative as a step towards facilitating the speedy, economic resolution of cross-border consumer disputes, which are often of a low pecuniary value;
 2. Stresses that in the first instance attempts should be made to solve the dispute directly between the consumer and the traders before resorting to extra-judicial solutions;
 3. Asks the Commission to consider the possibility of introducing a best practice charter to improve education of and information to consumers;
 4. Calls on the Commission to take account of the following points in developing the EEJ-Net:
 - (a) Steps must be taken to ensure that there is better coordination as between the various Directorates General at the Commission and between the EEJ-Net and FIN Net and a better flow of information to Parliament, together with more involvement of that institution;
 - (b) Clearing houses must be in a position to give preliminary legal advice and the Commission should recommend that they have at least access to trained lawyers with professional liability insurance;
 - (c) The Commission should run a large-scale information and awareness-raising campaign together with the national governments throughout the whole of the European Economic Area, and consumers' organisations and chambers of commerce should be involved in ensuring greater awareness among the public; Member States should ensure the widest possible partnership between the appropriate organisations and bodies to develop promotional and information strategies for the public;
 - (d) Start-up funding should be made available for the EEJ-Net scheme in view of its interest for the Internal Market, its crucial role in securing access to justice and the savings which are likely to ensue for the judicial system; the Commission's agreement to provide start-up funding for the EEJ-Net scheme is welcomed but it should ensure that longer-term funding is available in particular in those Member States with little experience of alternative extra-judicial systems;
 - (e) It is essential to make provision for staff training and exchanges of personnel between clearing houses in the Member States;
 - (f) In addition to the proposed memorandum of understanding, the Commission should see to it that the clearing houses subscribe to service-level agreements setting out the basic level of service which citizens may expect from the EEJ-Net across the European Union; the Commission should ensure that the memorandum of understanding includes service level agreements with reference to timely acknowledgement of receipt, and this memorandum should be supplemented at Member State level to cover working systems between the clearing houses and the extra-judicial dispute resolution bodies, setting out the minimum service level guarantees which citizens may expect from the EEJ-Net;
 - (g) As envisaged in the memorandum of understanding, the Commission should systematically monitor and supervise the operation of the EEJ-Net to check for discrepancies between the Member States, to ensure coherence and to provide invaluable feedback on the operation of the Internal Market to the responsible Directorate General and ultimately to Parliament, in particular to ensure an exchange of views and data on the overall performance of the network; furthermore, it should produce an annual report on the operation of the scheme, including a statistical breakdown of the number and nature of cross-border disputes;

Tuesday 3 July 2001

- (h) The Commission must ensure that multilingual forms and documents are prepared for use by the clearing houses; it should ensure that clearing houses and consumers can use their own language in settling disputes via the EEJ-Net, for which purpose there should in particular be a well-equipped translation capacity; the provision in the memorandum of understanding for consumers to use their own language in settling disputes is welcomed and the Commission should ensure that European complaint forms are clear and simple for consumers;
 - (i) Suitable mechanisms should be introduced for dealing with complaints about the operation of the EEJ-Net;
 - (j) Every step should be taken to ensure that the EEJ-Net and FIN Net intermesh with the EEJ-Net and that their activities and competences are properly defined and coordinated;
 - (k) The EEJ-Net should be extended as soon as possible to cover the candidate countries and the EEA States; it should also ultimately be possible for non-member countries to join the scheme;
 - (l) The Commission should provide for the flexible delivery of the EEJ-Net through both public and private sector schemes provided that they fulfil the criteria of independence and impartiality and meet agreed levels of service which citizens can expect;
 - (m) The provision of EEJ-Net access through local or Community advice facilities to better reflect consumer requirements needs to be stressed;
5. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and Commission and the parliaments of the Member States.

MINUTES

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SITTING

IN THE CHAIR: Mrs FONTAINE

President

1. Opening of sitting

The sitting opened at 09.00.

The following spoke:

- Cossutta, who recalled that 8 August 2001 was the forty-fifth anniversary of the Marcinelle disaster in Belgium in which 262 miners had died, and hoped the President of Parliament would take this opportunity to remember the tragedy and that the Belgian Presidency would commit itself to creating the right conditions to avoid a repetition of this disaster;
- Thyssen, who had learned that the Bureau would be taking a decision that day on enlargement, in particular on language matters, and asked the President to give an assurance that Members would still be able to work in their own language in Parliament's various bodies (the President took note of the request but pointed out that the Bureau would not be approving the document until September);
- Van Dam, who referred to a matter raised in plenary by Mrs Klamt on 14 June (Item 2 of that day's Minutes) and pointed out that legal moves were underway at the Strasbourg Préfecture to resolve a conflict of responsibility between the transport ministry and the interior ministry concerning Members' transport in Strasbourg which had inconveniences and delays for Parliament's drivers (the President pointed out that the Quaestors were currently considering this matter).

2. Approval of Minutes of previous sitting

The Minutes of the previous sitting were approved.

3. Petitions

Pursuant to Rule 174(5), the President had forwarded to the Committee on Petitions the following petitions which had been entered in the register on the dates shown below:

3 July 2001

by Mrs Maria Kyriazakou (No 526/2001);
by Mr Petros Soufleris (No 527/2001);
by Mr G. Batsiolas (No 528/2001);
by Mr Francisco Yuste Molina (No 529/2001);
by Mr Christian Bénazet (Syndicat Occitan de l'Éducation) (No 530/2001);
by Mr Roberto Lindi (Unione Europea dei Medici Specialisti) (No 531/2001);
by Mr Massimo Cozzi (No 532/2001).

4. Membership of Parliament

The President informed the House that Mr Seguro had been appointed a member of the Portuguese Government.

She congratulated him on his appointment and noted, pursuant to Article 12(2)(2) of the Act concerning the election of representatives to the European Parliament by direct universal suffrage, that the appointment was incompatible with the mandate of Member of the European Parliament and that Mr Seguro's seat would therefore be vacant from 3 July 2001.

Wednesday 4 July 2001

The Portuguese authorities had in the meantime informed her that Mr Manuel Antonio dos Santos had been appointed Member of Parliament to replace Mr Seguro with effect from 3 July 2001.

She welcomed the new Member and drew attention to the provisions of Rule 7(5).

5. Programme of the Belgian Presidency (statement followed by debate)

Mr Verhofstadt, President-in-Office of the Council, made a statement on the programme of the Belgian Presidency.

Mr Prodi, President of the Commission, spoke.

JOINT TEXT C5-0221/2001 – 1995/0341(COD):

Parliament rejected the joint text by RCV (PSE, ELDR, Verts/ALE) (Item 6 of Texts Adopted).

As the joint text had been rejected on a tied vote (273 for, 273 against, 22 abstentions), the President gave clarification of the relevant provisions by reading out Rule 128(2) and (3).

The following spoke:

- McMillan-Scott, who asked the President if she had voted and, having learned that she had not, considered that the President should in this case have taken part in the vote at the conciliation stage, which would have led to the joint text being approved (the President replied that she had acted in accordance with her conscience);
- Nassauer, who agreed with the President and considered the result of the vote was absolutely clear;
- Schulz, who congratulated the President for the way she had conducted the vote;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

- Cox who, on behalf of the ELDR Group, called on the Commission to present a new proposal on this subject;
- Barón Crespo who, on behalf of the PSE Group, confirmed that he and Mr Hänsch, during their presidencies, had not normally voted when presiding over votes, and expressed the belief that the Council and Commission should in future pay more attention to Parliament's concerns on this subject.

13. Electricity from renewable energy sources II (vote)

Recommendation for 2nd reading: Rothe — A5-0227/2001
(Qualified majority)

COMMON POSITION OF THE COUNCIL 5583/1/2001 — C5-0133/2001 — 2000/0116(COD):

Amendments adopted: 1, 3 and 5 to 10 collectively; 11 (1st part); 11 (2nd part)

Amendments rejected: 12 by RCV (Verts/ALE); 4; 13 by RCV (ELDR)

Amendment fallen: 2

Amendment withdrawn: 14

The following spoke during the vote:

- the rapporteur, at the beginning of the vote, noted that amendments 1, 3 and 5 to 11 were the result of a compromise with the Council;
- Mr Beysen noted a mistake in the Dutch version of amendment 11 which should be corrected along the lines of the English version;
- Mrs Korhola noted a mistake in the Finnish version of Article 2(b) of the common position;
- Mrs Auroi noted that the Verts/ALE Group had requested a roll-call vote on amendment 12, not on amendment 11;
- Mr Fiori withdrew amendment 14 which he had tabled with other Members.

Split votes:

Amendment 11 (Verts/ALE):
1st part: up to 'support system for RES'
2nd part: remainder

END OF VOTING TIME

(The sitting was suspended at 13.25 and resumed at 15.10.)

IN THE CHAIR: Mr VIDAL-QUADRAS ROCA

Vice-President

Mr Provan spoke on the report of Parliament's delegation to the Conciliation Committee on takeover bids (rapporteur: Lehne) (A5-0237/2001 — Item 12 of Minutes), pointing out that the result of the roll-call vote (273 for, 273 against), by which Parliament had rejected the joint text, did not correspond to the number of Members appearing in the list of 'results of roll-call votes' (273 for, 272 against).

The following spoke to support Mr Provan's remarks: Bill Miller, Cox on behalf of the ELDR Group who asked for a technical explanation as to how this had happened and stressed the political implications, Poettering on behalf of the PPE-DE Group who asked the President for a statement on the issue, and Barón Crespo on behalf of the PSE Group who pointed out the parliamentary tradition of a vote being valid as soon as the result was announced, and then asked whether the new Member, Mr Brienza, whose appointment had only been announced the previous day (Item 20 of Minutes), had yet been registered in the voting system.

The President stated that the result announced by the President was a true reflection of the vote. He agreed however that there was a discrepancy between this result and Parliament's list of Members which was due to the new appointment mentioned by Mr Barón Crespo. He added that the Conference of Presidents would meet at 16.15 that afternoon to confirm this explanation. He concluded that the result that morning was correct.

The following spoke in response to the President's statement: Poettering stressed that the Conference of Presidents could only take note of this information but had no power to alter the outcome of a vote (the President pointed out that the Conference of Presidents' meeting was convened by the President as a gesture of goodwill), Cox who acknowledged the explanation given and considered it inappropriate for the Conference of Presidents to meet to discuss a mere technical slip-up, McCarthy who asked whether the new Member in question was actually allowed yet to take part in the vote (the President replied that all Members present that morning had the right to vote) and Nassauer who considered that this error in the voting lists should have been corrected before publication.

21. Official welcome

On behalf of Parliament, the President welcomed members of a delegation from the Yemeni Parliament, led by its deputy speaker, Abdelwahab Mahmoud, who had taken their seats in the official gallery.

TEXTS ADOPTED1. Anti-personnel mines in developing countries II*C5-0247/2001

Common position adopted by the Council with a view to adopting a European Parliament and Council regulation concerning action against anti-personnel landmines in developing countries (7776/1/2001 – C5-0247/2001 – 2000/0062(COD))

(Codecision procedure: second reading)

The common position was approved. The act was accordingly deemed adopted in accordance with the common position.

2. Anti-personnel mines in countries other than developing countries *
(procedure without report)C5-0053/2001

Amended proposal for a Council regulation concerning action against anti-personnel landmines in third countries other than developing countries (COM(2000) 880 – C5-0053/2001 – 2000/0062(CNS))

(Consultation procedure)

The proposal was approved.

3. Marketing of fodder plant seed, cereal seed and seed potatoes * (procedure without report)C5-0163/2001

Proposal for a Council directive amending Directives 66/401/EEC, 66/402/EEC and 66/403/EEC on the marketing of fodder plant seed, cereal seed and seed potatoes (COM(2001) 186 – C5-0163/2001 – 2001/0089(CNS))

(Consultation procedure)

The proposal was approved.

4. Application of minimum reserves by the European Central Bank * (procedure without debate)A5-0246/2001

Recommendation of the European Central Bank for a Council regulation concerning an amendment to Council Regulation (EC) No 2531/98 of 23 November 1998 concerning the application of minimum reserves by the European Central Bank (ECB/2001/2 – C5-0141/2001 – 2001/0805(CNS))

The recommendation was approved.

Wednesday 4 July 2001

European Parliament legislative resolution on the recommendation of the European Central Bank for a Council regulation concerning an amendment to Council Regulation (EC) No 2531/98 of 23 November 1998 concerning the application of minimum reserves by the European Central Bank (ECB/2001/2 – C5-0141/2001 – 2001/0805(CNS))

(Consultation procedure)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the recommendation of the European Central Bank to the Council (ECB/2001/2) ⁽¹⁾,
 - having been consulted by the Council pursuant to Article 107(6) of the EC Treaty (C5-0141/2001),
 - having regard to Rule 67 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs (A5-0246/2001),
1. Approves the recommendation of the European Central Bank;
 2. Calls on the Council to notify Parliament should it intend to depart from the text approved by Parliament;
 3. Asks to be consulted again should the Council intend to amend the recommendation of the European Central Bank substantially;
 4. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council, the Commission and the European Central Bank.

5. Interest rate subsidies

A5-0215/2001

European Parliament resolution on Special Report No 6/2000 of the European Court of Auditors concerning the granting by the Community of interest subsidies on loans by the European Investment Bank to small and medium-sized enterprises within the framework of its temporary lending facility, accompanied by the Commission's replies and Special Report No 3/1999 on the management and control of interest-rate subsidies by the Commission accompanied by the Commission's replies (C5-0023/2001 – C5-0158/2001 – 2001/2015(COS))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to Special Report No 3/1999 of the European Court of Auditors (C5-0158/2001) ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to Special Report No 6/2000 of the European Court of Auditors (C5-0023/2001) ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to Rule 47(1) of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Budgetary Control (A5-0215/2001),
- A. whereas in June 1993 the European Council launched the so-called Copenhagen facility by asking the European Investment Bank (EIB), in conjunction with the Commission, to earmark ECU 1 billion in loans to increase the competitiveness of European small and medium-sized enterprises; whereas interest subsidies were fixed at 200 base points, or 2 %, were extended to beneficiaries for a period of five years and were restricted to investment projects involving the creation of jobs,

Wednesday 4 July 2001

- B. whereas on 19 April 1994 a cooperation agreement was drawn up between the Commission and the EIB which sets out a number of provisions including those regarding the definition of the subsidised SME loans, agents and intermediaries, conditions for granting interest subsidies, cost and expenses incurred, as well as records and reporting; notes that provisions should have been clearer, especially those regarding management and control issues,
- C. whereas the Facility only became fully operational in Autumn 1994, by which time interest rates had started to fall in most Member States,
- D. whereas the structure to continue to administer the Facility will need to be in place until the middle of 2002,
- E. whereas loans could not be combined with other loans at reduced rates offered by the EIB under other agreements or with ECSC loans; notes that the Court of Auditors pointed out that an exception was agreed between the EIB and the Commission for ERDF aid at an inappropriate level and therefore had no legal value; questions why this derogation was not applied to all Member States,
- F. whereas in paragraph 57 of its discharge resolution of 10 April 1997 ⁽¹⁾ for the 1995 financial year, Parliament asked the Court of Auditors and the Commission to report at the earliest opportunity on the management and effectiveness of the Copenhagen facility,
- G. whereas the Court of Auditors submitted two special reports, namely on the management and control of interest-rate subsidies by the Commission (No 3/99) and on the granting of interest subsidies on loans by the EIB (No 6/2000), regrets the quality of answers submitted by the Commission,
- H. whereas in drawing up its special report 6/2000 the Court of Auditors visited all Member States, carried out checks of beneficiary SMEs and financial intermediaries in six Member States and noted a number of weaknesses including the following:
- (i) impact on investment and job creation: the overall effectiveness of the scheme is questionable, as it was impossible to demonstrate, at microeconomic level, a causal link between job creation and interest subsidies;
 - (ii) management and control systems: the appraisal system, based on delegation to intermediaries, was weak, as subsidies were paid on the basis of sworn declarations made by the recipients themselves; no penalties were envisaged for intermediaries who sent inaccurate declarations and neither the EIB nor the Commission carried out adequate compensating checks;
 - (iii) equality of access: the Court found that the scheme did not give equality of access to customers across the Union, as banks without global loans contracts with the EIB were excluded from the scheme, whilst some agents or intermediaries did not publish the facility widely, preferring to choose the applicants themselves;
 - (iv) interest-rate subsidies in general: points out that, in its Special Report 3/1999, the Court of Auditors judged that there is a risk that intermediaries' remuneration would exceed those stipulated and that the aid intended for beneficiaries would thereby be reduced proportionately;
- I. whereas, according to article 3 of the Council decision 94/217/EC ⁽²⁾ of 19 April 1994 on the Copenhagen facility, the Commission should present to Parliament and Council a yearly report evaluating the implementation of the decision,
- J. whereas, in its fifth report on the implementation of the Copenhagen facility (COM(2000) 376), the Commission concludes, under lessons to be learned, that in hindsight the self-certification of job creation would appear to have its drawbacks and may in some cases have resulted in the over-declaration of jobs,

⁽²⁾ OJ L 107, 28.4.1994, p. 57.

Wednesday 4 July 2001

- K. whereas, while the Court cast doubt on the effectiveness of the programme to create jobs, the Commission stated that the subsidy represented extremely good value for money, declaring that 53 789 new jobs were created; questions the assumptions by which the Commission arrived at this figure,
- L. whereas on 15 February 2001 the Commission presented an evaluation (COM(2001) 86) of the effectiveness of interest-rate subsidies in the light of the Court's special report No 3/1999 on the matter,
- M. whereas the Commission identifies the strengths of interest-rate subsidies, such as low budgetary costs, leverage effect, additionality and the fact that they are a symbol of Community support, as well as their weaknesses, including the risk of inefficient allocation of resources, cumbersome administration, the risk of discrimination, low visibility and the fact that control and transparency are not always ensured,
- N. whereas the European Investment Fund (EIF) established in 1994, following the Edinburgh summit of December 1992, aims to promote medium and long term investment in SMEs by guaranteeing loan finance or by acquiring, holding or managing equity in venture capital funds and Trans-European Networks by providing loan guarantees,

European Investment Bank

- 1. Regrets that, although the Commission bears the overall budgetary and political responsibility for interest-rate subsidies:
 - (a) Management controls: the EIB allowed an unsupervised system to operate whereby payments were calculated and made by national agents on the basis of sworn statements by applicants on an actual and uninterrupted increase in the number of jobs; notes that on-the-spot checks by the Court of Auditors revealed that for 20 % of all cases audited⁽¹⁾, the number of jobs that were truly eligible was lower than the number being subsidised; notes that, as the Commission and EIB interpret the rules differently, they disagree with the Court on the error rate given;
 - (b) Competition: the EIB, under time-constraints imposed by the Council, worked with its existing customers as financial intermediaries in preference to other banks, thereby distorting competition; notes that banks used the facility to promote their own interests, for example to retain existing or attract new clients;
 - (c) United Kingdom: of the 28 recipients audited in the United Kingdom, the Court found six cases, amounting to € 149 000, where the eligibility period extended beyond 30 June 1997, and found ten cases where recipients had received too much subsidy because they had included VAT paid on the purchase of capital goods in their calculations; notes that this type of error was not found in any other country;
 - (d) Spain: although article 4 of the cooperation agreement stipulates that an SME subsidised loan cannot be combined with other subsidised loans, a derogation was agreed and only applied to one Member State; recalls that intermediaries in other Member States do not seem to have known about the existence of this derogation;
- 2. Calls on the EIB to present, at least on an annual basis, to the Parliament and Commission:
 - (a) Democratic accountability: the annual report of the Audit Committee to the Board of Governors; welcomes that the EIB has begun to publish details of its evaluations on its Internet site; encourages the EIB to continue and extend the publication of its executive summaries of audits and evaluations on its web-site;

⁽¹⁾ In 23 of the 114 cases audited, the Court found that the number of jobs truly eligible was lower than the number subsidised.

Wednesday 4 July 2001

- (b) European Investment Fund: encourages the EIB to take further steps to allow full access by the Court of Auditors to the EIF in the near future; calls for an agreement to be reached before the end of June 2001;
- (c) Instructions: clear and consistent rules for applications and eligibility criteria, which will reduce ambiguities, thereby ensuring that individuals and companies in Member States are treated in the same manner;

Commission

3. Regrets that, citing the principle of avoiding duplication of work, the Commission abdicates much of the ex-ante and ex-post controls to the EIB, which acts on the Union's behalf; notes that, as regards its management of interest-rate subsidies in general, the Commission:

- (a) Ex-ante controls: rubber-stamps proposals for projects submitted by the EIB and does not check the eligibility of projects;
- (b) Monitoring: hardly carries out any controls and relies excessively on its agent, the EIB; recalls that delegating management is not tantamount to delegating responsibility;
- (c) Ex-post evaluation: does not analyse progress reports of investments under way, relies on a high utilisation rate as proof of effectiveness and restricts itself to drawing up a list of projects implemented and sums spent, rather than carrying out impact analysis of subsidies;

4. Notes that as regards the management of the Copenhagen facility, the Commission did not carry out adequate compensatory checks of the EIB's management and control system;

5. Calls on the Commission to report to the discharge authority by 15 October 2001:

- (a) Cooperation with EIB: on ways to increase cost-effective controls on loans managed on its behalf by the EIB;
- (b) Ex-ante monitoring and ex-post controls: on steps to improve monitoring during each stage of the project and programme cycle;
- (c) Alternatives: on cost-effective alternative mechanisms, in the light of the conclusion of the Commission's report (COM(2001) 86) on the general usefulness of interest-rate subsidies, which states that the question of abandoning interest-rate subsidies should be addressed; recalls that budgetary resources approaching € 3 billion have been devoted, in favour of other instruments, as regards the following Community programmes involving interest-rate subsidies:

Measures designed to combat market failure:	ECSC conversion (Article 56)
	TENs
	Edinburgh facility for SMEs
	Development cooperation for ACP countries
	Economic development for MEDA and Slovenia
	ERDF
Measures designed to deal with external shocks	Natural disasters (Italy, Greece, Kalamata and Madeira)
	European Monetary System
	Peace and reconciliation in Ireland
	Reduction in disparities (EEA)
	Reconstruction in the Balkans (FYROM and Bosnia)

Council

6. Asks the Council to refrain from imposing ill-conceived and unworkable programmes on the EIB and Commission;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

7. Notes that, in the conclusions of the Presidency to the Stockholm summit of 23/24 March 2001, the Council agreed that the EIB should open up lending to Russia for selected environmental projects in Kaliningrad and Saint Petersburg; notes that, in addition to the EIB, the so-called 'Northern Dimension Environmental Partnership' scheme will comprise the Commission, the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the Nordic Investment Bank, the World Bank and Baltic States including Russia; expresses reservations as to the feasibility, sustainability and practicalities of this scheme; calls on all parties to ensure that rigorous control mechanisms are in place, including a clearly defined cooperation agreement;

European Bank for Reconstruction and Development

8. Recalls that the idea of the EBRD, to foster the transition from command towards market-oriented economies and to promote private enterprise, was first announced to Parliament on 25 October 1989; notes that in contrast to the Commission, the EBRD lays strong emphasis on central ex-ante control by its Chief Economist and independent ex-post evaluation of projects; welcomes the importance given to the principles of additionality and conditionality by the EBRD; looks forward to examining the Bank's effectiveness in promoting private enterprise in Central and Eastern Europe and the Commonwealth of Independent States, following an audit by the Court of Auditors;

Court of Auditors

9. Invites the Court to report in its annual report for 2000 on progress by the Commission, European Investment Bank and Member States in remedying the weaknesses highlighted in this resolution and in its special reports; looks forward to examining the audit on venture capital funds supported by the Commission;

1. Rejects the joint text;
 2. Instructs its President to forward this legislative resolution to the Council and the Commission;

7. Electricity from renewable energy sources II

A5-0227/2001

European Parliament resolution on the Council common position for adopting a European Parliament and Council directive on the promotion of electricity produced from renewable energy sources in the internal electricity market (5583/1/2001 — C5-0133/2001 — 2000/0116(COD))

(Codecision procedure: second reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Council common position (5583/1/2001 — C5-0133/2001) ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to its position at first reading ⁽²⁾ on the Commission proposal (COM(2000) 279) ⁽³⁾, that the White Paper's indicative target of 12 % for the Community as a whole by 2010 provides useful guidance for increased efforts at Community level as well as in Member States, bearing in mind the need to reflect differing national circumstances. If necessary for the achievement of the targets, the Commission should submit proposals to the European Parliament and the Council which may include mandatory targets.

Amendment 11

Recital 8

(8) Where they use waste as an energy source, Member States must comply with current Community legislation on waste management. The application of this Directive is without prejudice to the definitions set out in Annex 2a and 2b of Council Directive 75/442/EEC of 15 July 1975 on waste.

Recital 16

(16) It is however necessary to adapt, after a sufficient transitional period, support schemes to the developing internal electricity market. It is therefore appropriate that the Commission monitor the situation and present a report on experience gained with the application of national schemes. If necessary, the Commission should, in the light of the conclusions of this report, make a proposal for a Community framework with regard to support schemes for electricity produced from renewable energy sources. That proposal should contribute to the achievement of the national indicative targets, be compatible with the principles of the internal electricity market and take into account the characteristics of the different sources of renewable energy, together with the different technologies and geographical differences. It should also promote the use of renewable energy sources in an effective way, and be simple and at the same time as efficient as possible, particularly in terms of cost, and include sufficient transitional periods for national support systems of at least seven years to maintain investors' confidence and avoid stranded costs. This framework would enable electricity from renewable energy sources to compete with electricity produced from non-renewable energy sources and limit the cost to the consumer, while, in the medium term, reduce the need for public support.

Article 4, paragraph 2

2. The Commission shall, not later than ..., present a well-documented report on experience gained with the application and coexistence of the different mechanisms referred to in paragraph 1. This report shall, if necessary, be accompanied by a proposal for a Community framework with regard to support schemes for electricity produced from renewable energy sources.

Any proposal for a framework should:

- (a) contribute to the achievement of the national indicative targets;
- (b) be compatible with the principles of the internal electricity market;
- (c) take into account the characteristics of different sources of renewable energy, together with the different technologies, and geographical differences;
- (d) promote the use of renewable energy sources in an effective way, and be simple and, at the same time, as efficient as possible, particularly in terms of cost;
- (e) include sufficient transitional periods of at least seven years to maintain investor confidence.

2. The Commission shall, not later than ..., present a well-documented report on experience gained with the application and coexistence of the different mechanisms referred to in paragraph 1. The report shall assess the success, including cost-effectiveness, of the support systems referred to in paragraph 1 in promoting the consumption of electricity produced from renewable energy sources in conformity with the national indicative targets referred to in Article 3(2). This report shall, if necessary, be accompanied by a proposal for a Community framework with regard to support schemes for electricity produced from renewable energy sources.

Any proposal for a framework should:

- (a) contribute to the achievement of the national indicative targets;
- (b) be compatible with the principles of the internal electricity market;
- (c) take into account the characteristics of different sources of renewable energy, together with the different technologies, and geographical differences;
- (d) promote the use of renewable energy sources in an effective way, and be simple and, at the same time, as efficient as possible, particularly in terms of cost;
- (e) include sufficient transitional periods for national support systems of at least seven years and maintain investor confidence

Amendment 7

Article 7, paragraph 1

1. Without prejudice to the maintenance of the reliability and safety of the grid, and within the limits of the grid's capacity, Member States shall take the necessary measures to ensure that transmission system operators and distribution system operators in their territory guarantee the transmission and distribution of electricity produced from renewable energy sources. They may also provide for priority access to the grid system of electricity produced from renewable energy sources.

1. Without prejudice to the maintenance of the reliability and safety of the grid, Member States shall take the necessary measures to ensure that transmission system operators and distribution system operators in their territory guarantee the transmission and distribution of electricity produced from renewable energy sources. They may also provide for priority access to the grid system of electricity produced from renewable energy sources. When dispatching generating installations, transmission system operators shall give priority to generating installations using renewable energy sources in so far as the operation of the national electricity system permits.

COMMON POSITIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 8

Article 7, paragraph 2a (new)

2a. Where appropriate, Member States may require transmission system operators and distribution system operators to bear, in full or in part, the costs referred to in paragraph 2.

Amendment 9

Article 7, paragraph 4a (new)

4a. Member States shall ensure that the charging of transmission and distribution fees does not discriminate against electricity from renewable energy sources, including in particular electricity from renewable energy sources produced in peripheral regions, such as island regions and regions of low population density.

Where appropriate, Member States shall put in place a legal framework or require transmission system operators and distribution system operators to ensure that fees charged for the transmission and distribution of electricity from plants using renewable energy sources reflect realisable cost benefits resulting from the plant's connection to the network. Such cost benefits could arise from the direct use of the low-voltage grid.

Amendment 10

Article 8, paragraph 2, indent 1

— consider the progress made in reflecting the external costs of electricity not produced from renewable energy sources and the impact of State aid granted to electricity produced from renewable energy sources.	— consider the progress made in reflecting the external costs of electricity produced from non-renewable energy sources and the impact of public support granted to electricity production.

Proposal for a European Parliament and Council directive on the activities of institutions for occupational retirement provision (COM(2000) 507 — C5-0596/2000 — 2000/0260(COD))

The proposal was amended as follows:

Amendment 1

Title

Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on the activities of institutions for occupational retirement provision

Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on the activities and supervision of institutions offering occupational retirement provision services

BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 2

Recital 1

(1) A genuine internal market for financial services is crucial for economic growth and job creation in the Community.

(1) The creation of a genuine internal market for financial services is crucial for the development of the European economy, economic growth and job creation as well as for the modernisation of social security systems, and thus plays a vital role in encouraging economic and social cohesion in the European Union.

Amendment 3

Recital 2

(2) Major achievements have already been made in the establishment of this internal market, allowing financial institutions to operate in other Member States and ensuring a high level of protection for the consumers of financial services.

Deleted

Amendment 4

Recital 4

(4) The Action Plan for Financial Services stresses as an urgent priority the need to draw up a Directive on the prudential supervision of institutions for occupational retirement provision, as these institutions are major financial institutions not subject to a coherent Community legislative framework allowing them to fully benefit from the advantages of the internal market.

(4) The Action Plan for Financial Services stresses as an urgent priority the need to draw up a Directive on the prudential supervision of institutions for occupational retirement provision, as these institutions are major financial institutions which have a key role to play in ensuring the integration, efficiency and liquidity of the financial markets, but are not subject to a coherent Community legislative framework allowing them to fully benefit from the advantages of the internal market.

Recital 4a (new)

(4a) Since public social security systems are coming under increasing pressure, leading some Member States to lower the level of benefits, occupational retirement pensions will increasingly be relied on as a complement in future. Occupational retirement pensions should therefore be developed, without however calling into question the importance of public pension systems in terms of secure, durable and effective social protection which should guarantee a decent standard of living in old age and must therefore be at the centre of the objective of strengthening the European social model.

Amendment 6

Recital 4b (new)

(4b) Occupational retirement provision is hence becoming increasingly important as part of the modernisation of social protection systems. The social partners and/or employee and employer representatives have an important role to play in promoting and developing the occupational retirement provision pillar and in the subsequent efforts to facilitate cross-border participation in pension schemes at various levels.

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 7

Recital 4c (new)

(4c) This Directive thus represents a first step on the way to an internal market for occupational retirement provision organised on a European scale. By abolishing the rules still persisting for capital investment, and making it possible for institutions to operate across borders, the redirection of savings into the sector of occupational retirement provision is encouraged, thus contributing to economic and social progress. The Commission should therefore submit additional legislative and other proposals for developing and completing occupational retirement provision in Europe.

Amendment 8

Recital 4d (new)

(4d) The prudential rules laid down in this Directive are intended both to guarantee a high degree of security for future pensioners, through the imposition of stringent supervisory standards, and to clear the way for the efficient management of occupational pension schemes by emphasising a qualitative approach to investment.

Amendment 119

(5) Institutions that are completely separated from any sponsoring undertaking and that operate on a funded basis for the sole purpose of providing retirement benefits should have freedom to provide services and freedom of investment subject only to coordinated prudential requirements, regardless of whether these institutions are considered as legal entities.

(5) Institutions that are completely separated from any sponsoring undertaking and that operate on a funded basis for the sole purpose of providing retirement benefits, including all other nationally regulated and supervised institutions that offer funded occupational pension schemes, should have freedom to provide services and freedom of investment subject only to coordinated prudential requirements, regardless of whether these institutions are considered as legal entities.

Amendment 10

Recital 6

(6) Member States should retain full responsibility for the organisation of their social protection systems.

(6) In accordance with the principle of subsidiarity, Member States should retain full responsibility for the organisation of their social security provision as well as for the decision on the role of each of the three pillars in individual Member States. This Directive is not intended to call this prerogative into question.

Amendment 11

Recital 6a (new)

(6a) In organising the activities of occupational retirement institutions, Member States are, however, required to respect the provisions of Article 2 of the Treaty concerning equality between men and women and Article 13 concerning discrimination based on sex.

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 13

Recital 8

(8) Financial institutions that already benefit from a Community legislative framework should in general be excluded from the scope of this Directive. However, as these institutions may also in some cases offer occupational pension services, it is important to ensure that this Directive does not lead to distortions of competition. Such distortions may be avoided by applying the prudential requirements of this Directive to the occupational pension business of life-assurance companies.

(8) Financial institutions that already benefit from a Community legislative framework should in general be excluded from the scope of this Directive. However, as these institutions may also in some cases offer occupational pension schemes, the occupational pension business of life-assurance companies as a whole or with respect to certain prudential requirements should come under the scope of this Directive.

Amendment 14

Recital 8a (new)

(8a) This Directive covers all funded institutions for occupational retirement provision active under the second pillar, thereby creating a link between the social security systems under the first pillar and private pension saving arrangements under the third pillar. A specific prudential framework should be created to take account of the precise scope and purpose of the Directive.

Amendment 15

Recital 9

(9) Giving Member States the possibility to exclude from the scope of national implementing legislation institutions managing schemes with less than 100 members or beneficiaries can facilitate supervision in some Member States without undermining the proper functioning of the internal market in this field.

(9) Giving Member States the possibility, with the exception of the provisions of Article 19, to exclude from the scope of national implementing legislation institutions with fewer than 50 members or beneficiaries can facilitate supervision in some Member States without undermining the proper functioning of the internal market in this field.

Amendment 16

Recital 11

(11) In order to protect members and beneficiaries, institutions for occupational retirement provision should limit their activities to the activities, and operations arising therefrom, referred to in this Directive.

(11) In order to protect members and beneficiaries, institutions for occupational retirement provision should limit their activities to the activities, and those directly arising therefrom, referred to in this Directive.

Amendment 17

Recital 12

(12) In case of bankruptcy of an undertaking which pays contributions into an institution, a sponsoring undertaking, the member faces the risk of losing both his job and his acquired pension rights. This makes it necessary to ensure that there is a clear separation between that undertaking and the institution.

(12) In the event of bankruptcy of an undertaking which pays contributions into an institution, a sponsoring undertaking, the member faces the risk of losing both his job and his acquired pension rights. This makes it necessary to ensure that there is a clear separation between that undertaking and the institution and that minimum prudential standards are laid down to protect members.

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 18

Recital 13a (new)

(13a) As a matter of principle, the benefits paid by institutions for occupational retirement provision should be sufficient to amount to a lifelong pension. Exceptions should apply in those cases in which the beneficiary provides proof that he is using the capital due to him for the specific purpose of securing financial provision for retirement.

Amendment 121

Recital 13b (new)

(13b) When a firm or sector concludes an agreement with a view to the creation of an occupational retirement scheme, an option for the coverage of the longevity risk as well as of occupational disability and provision for surviving dependants should be offered to the future members. The latter should be given precise details of the cost of covering these risks. Institutions should be able to choose between providing the cover for the risks themselves in return for clearly identified payment, or entrusting cover to another institution. The same should apply to cases in which a beneficiary seeks the provision of a guarantee for redemption of the contributions the beneficiary has paid. The decision as to the extent of the coverage should be taken in accordance with the practices and arrangements in place in the Member States.

Amendment 20

(14) Institutions for occupational retirement provision are financial service providers and therefore should meet certain minimum prudential standards with respect to their activities and conditions of operation.

(14) Institutions for occupational retirement provision are financial service providers which bear a heavy responsibility for the future provision of occupational retirement benefits and therefore should meet certain minimum prudential standards with respect to their activities and conditions of operation.

Amendment 21

Recital 17a (new)

(17a) In compliance with the collective nature of occupational retirement provision the basic decisions of the institutions for occupational retirement provision should be taken collectively. The structure of participation is a matter of labour law and should therefore be determined in accordance with the relevant national provisions. All information to be placed at the disposal of the members and beneficiaries should also be transmitted to their representatives.

Amendment 22

Recital 22

(22) Sufficient and appropriate assets to cover the technical provisions protect the interests and beneficiaries of the pension scheme if the sponsoring undertaking becomes insolvent.

In particular in cases of cross-border activity, the mutual recognition of supervisory principles applied in Member States requires that the technical provisions be fully funded at all times.

In cases of cross-border activity the technical provisions should be funded in accordance with the rules applicable in the home Member State of the institution.

Amendment 23

Recital 23

(23) If the institution does not work on a cross-border basis, Member States should be able to permit underfunding provided that a proper plan is established to restore full funding and without prejudice to the requirements of Council Directive 80/987/EEC of 20 October 1980 on the approximation of the laws of the Member States relating to the protection of employees in the event of the insolvency of their employer.

Amendment 24

Recital 24

(24) In many cases, it is the sponsoring undertaking and not the institution itself that either covers any biometric risk or guarantees certain benefits or investment performance. However, in some cases, it is the institution itself which provides such cover or guarantees and the sponsor's obligations are generally exhausted by paying the necessary contributions. In these circumstances, the products offered are similar to those of life-insurance companies and the institutions concerned should hold the same additional own funds as life-assurance companies.

Amendments 25 and 26

(25) Institutions are very long-term investors. Redemption of the assets held by these institutions cannot, in general, be made for another purpose than providing retirement benefits. Furthermore, in order to adequately protect the rights of members and beneficiaries, institutions should be able to opt for an asset allocation that suits the precise nature and duration of their liabilities. These aspects called for a qualitative approach towards investment rules, obliging institutions to act prudently but also allowing them sufficient flexibility to decide on the most secure and efficient investment policy.

(25) Institutions are very long-term investors. Redemption of the assets held by these institutions cannot, in general, be made for any purpose other than providing retirement benefits or the transfer of the value of the accumulated pension rights in the event of a switch to another pension scheme, which then takes over the pension liabilities. Furthermore, in order to adequately protect the rights of members and beneficiaries, institutions should be able to opt for an asset allocation that suits the precise nature and duration of their liabilities. These aspects call for a qualitative approach towards investment rules, obliging institutions to act prudently but also allowing them sufficient flexibility to decide on the most secure and efficient investment policy. Compliance with the prudent person rule therefore requires an investment policy geared to the membership structure of the individual occupational retirement institution, with its actuarially determined liability projection being the major consideration in determining the corresponding asset balance.

Amendment 27

(26) Supervisory methods and practises vary among Member States. Therefore, Member States should be given some discretion on the precise investment rules that they wish to require from the institutions established in their territories. However, these rules must not restrict the free movement of capital, unless justified on prudential grounds.

(26) Supervisory methods and practices vary among Member States. Therefore, for an appropriate transitional period of up to five years, Member States which do not already apply the prudent person principle should be allowed, for the institutions established within their jurisdiction, to lay down more detailed rules in accordance with Article 18(6). This would enable the competent authorities gradually to come to terms with the supervisory requirements linked to the prudent person rule. The Commission should after three years issue a report with a view to a possible reduction of this deadline. However, these rules must not restrict the free movement of capital, unless justified on prudential grounds.

Amendment 28

Recital 28

(28) Restrictions regarding the free choice of approved asset managers and custodians limit competition in the internal market and should therefore be eliminated.

(28) Restrictions regarding the free choice by institutions for occupational retirement provision of approved asset managers and custodians limit competition in the internal market and should therefore be eliminated.

Amendment 29

Recital 29

(29) Institutions should have the possibility to provide their services in other Member States. This would potentially lead to significant economies of scale for these institutions, improve the competitiveness of the Community industry and facilitate labour mobility. This requires mutual recognition of prudential standards.

(29) Institutions should have the possibility to provide their services in other Member States. This would potentially lead to significant economies of scale for these institutions, improve the competitiveness of the Community industry and facilitate labour mobility. This requires mutual recognition of prudential standards, which are enforced by means of home Member State supervision. This means that except where there is an explicit exception, this Directive is based on the general rule that only a home Member State may legislate for, regulate, supervise or otherwise intervene in the activities of institutions established within its jurisdiction.

Amendment 30

Recital 30a (new)

(30a) Besides the mutual recognition of supervisory standards, the creation of a unified internal market for occupational retirement provision also supposes unified principles for taxation to prevent tax evasion or double taxation of contributions and benefits. Member States should therefore ensure that taxation of occupational retirement provision follows the EET model, i.e. that contributions and capital returns are exempt from taxation while benefit payments are taxed, the level of such taxation however being left to the Member States' competence, according to the principle of subsidiarity.

BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 31

Recital 30b (new)

(30b) Abolishing the fiscal discrimination against foreign providers as well as the differing and sometimes very long vesting periods for occupational pensions of migrant workers, as practised by some Member States and which are in practice equivalent to sealing off the pensions market, is a precondition not only for the creation of a unified market for the sector of occupational retirement provision, but also for implementing the fundamental principles of the single market. Member States should therefore be required to live up to their obligations and abolish these forms of discrimination, which clearly run counter to the principles of free movement of workers and non-discrimination, as established in the Treaty and the continued jurisprudence of the Court of Justice of the European Communities. Furthermore, the newly established pensions forum should intensify its activities in this area.

Amendment 32

Recital 30c (new)

(30c) Since tax policy remains a matter of national competence, Member States should be allowed to apply preferential tax treatment to occupational retirement schemes which cover biometric risks.

Amendment 33

Article 2, paragraph 2a (new)

Where, in accordance with the legislation in force in the Member States, institutions for occupational retirement provision do not have legal personality and cannot be made subject to the requirements set out in this Directive, the requirements and operating conditions shall apply to those authorised institutions acting on behalf of and in the name of the institutions whose operations and remit cover supplementary retirement pensions management.

Amendment 34

Article 3

Institutions for occupational retirement provision that also operate compulsory employment related pensions schemes which are considered to be social security schemes covered by Regulations (EEC) No 1408/71 and (EEC) No 574/72 shall be covered by this Directive in respect of their non-compulsory occupational retirement provision activities.

Institutions for occupational retirement provision that also operate compulsory employment related pensions schemes which are considered to be social security schemes covered by Regulations (EEC) No 1408/71 and (EEC) No 574/72 shall be covered by this Directive in respect of their activities which fall outside the scope of those Regulations.

Amendment 122

Article 4

ities are managed in a separate legal entity. In this case, such separate legal entity shall not be made subject to Articles 17 and 21 of Directive 79/267/EEC and to Articles 19 to 24 and 31 of Council Directive 92/96/EEC.

Amendment 120

Article 4, paragraphs 1a to 1d (new)

The institutions covered by Directive 79/267/EEC which wish their occupational retirement provision business to be subject to this Directive shall either manage their assets and liabilities in a separate legal entity or ring-fence those assets and liabilities.

If a separate legal entity is established, it shall be subject to the full provisions of this Directive.

If the institution ring-fences its assets and liabilities to deal with its occupational retirement provision business, that business shall be subject to Articles 10 to 20 of this Directive.

All other nationally regulated and supervised institutions that offer funded occupational pension schemes shall also be offered the possibility of ring-fencing their assets and liabilities.

Amendment 36

Article 4, paragraph 1e (new)

Should assets and liabilities be ring-fenced, the competent supervisory authority shall, as part of its supervisory work, verify the strict separation of the relevant occupational retirement business.

Amendment 37

Article 5, paragraph 1

1. Member States may choose not to apply this Directive, in whole or in part, to institutions running pension schemes of which less than 100 persons are members and beneficiaries. Article 20 may only be applied if a Member State chooses to apply all the provisions of this Directive to such institutions.

1. Member States may, with the exception of Article 19, choose not to apply this Directive, in whole or in part, to institutions of which fewer than 50 persons are members and beneficiaries. Article 20 may only be applied if a Member State chooses to apply all the provisions of this Directive to such institutions.

Amendment 38

Article 6, point (a)

(a) 'institution for occupational retirement provision', or 'institution', means an institution operating on a funded basis, established separately from any sponsoring undertaking or trade for the sole purpose of providing retirement benefits in the context of an occupational activity on the basis of an agreement or a contract agreed individually or collectively between the employer(s) and the employee(s) or their respective representatives or between the institution and the individual, both self-employed and employed;

(a) 'institution for occupational retirement provision', or 'institution', means an institution, irrespective of whether it takes the form of a legal entity or ring-fences its assets and liabilities, operating on a funded basis, established separately from any sponsoring undertaking or trade for the purpose of providing retirement benefits in the context of an occupational activity on the basis of an agreement or a contract agreed individually or collectively between the employer(s) and the employee(s) or their respective representatives or between the institution and the individual, both self-employed and employed, and which carries out any additional activities directly arising therefrom;

Amendment 40

Article 6, point (c)

- (c) 'sponsoring undertaking' means any undertaking or other body which pays contributions into an institution;

- (c) 'sponsoring undertaking' means any undertaking or other body, regardless of whether it consists of one or more legal or natural persons or a combination thereof, and individuals in their capacity as self-employed persons, paying contributions into an institution;

Amendment 41

Article 6, point (d)

- (d) 'retirement benefits' means benefits in the form of payments, whether for life time, a temporary period or as a lump sum, paid on death, disability, cessation of employment or when a defined age is reached, or support payments or services in case of sickness, indigence or death when they are supplementary to those benefits;

- (d) 'retirement benefits' means benefits whose purpose is life-long financial provision and which usually take the form of payments for life time. In addition to those benefits it may be agreed to provide for other risks such as death, disability, cessation of employment or support payments or services in case of sickness, indigence or death;

Amendment 42

Article 6, point (g)

- (g) 'competent authorities' means the national authorities designated to carry out the duties provided for in this Directive;

- (g) 'competent authorities' means the independent national authorities designated to carry out the duties provided for in this Directive;

Amendment 43

Article 6, point (l)

- (l) 'location':

- where an institution is concerned, the Member State where it has its registered office or its main administration;
- where a sponsoring undertaking is concerned, the Member State in which it has its registered office or its main administration if that sponsoring undertaking is a legal person, a branch or an agency or the Member State in which its head office is situated if that sponsoring undertaking is a natural person;
- where an individual is concerned, the Member State in which he or she has his or her residence.

- (l) 'location' means

- where an institution is concerned, the Member State where it has its registered office, if the institution is a separate legal entity, or, if it is not a separate legal entity, the Member State where it has its main administration;
- where a sponsoring undertaking is concerned, the Member State in which it has its registered office if that sponsoring undertaking is a legal person, a branch or an agency or the Member State in which its head office is situated if that sponsoring undertaking is a natural person;

Amendment 123

Article 6, point (1a) (new)

- (1a) 'registration' means the procedure whose purpose is to provide the competent authority in the home Member State with the details of the institution (name, registered office or main administration, etc.) and the competent manager. The competent authority shall verify the institution's compliance with the conditions of operation set out in this Directive and enter the institution in the register referred to in Article 9(1);

Amendment 45

Article 6, point (lb) (new)

(lb) 'authorisation' means a procedure which is employed in connection with cross-border activities within the meaning of Article 20 and which, pursuant to the provisions of Article 9(3), has the purpose of obtaining from the competent authority of the home Member State an explicit authorisation confirming that the conditions laid down in Article 9(1) have been met.

Amendment 46

Article 7, paragraph 1a (new)

Institutions may manage their occupational retirement business by ring-fencing their assets and liabilities. In this case only the ring-fenced assets and liabilities shall be restricted to retirement provision business.

Amendment 47

Article 9, paragraph 1, introduction

1. Member States shall ensure that:

1. Member States shall ensure, in respect of any institution established within their jurisdiction, that:

Amendment 124

Article 9, paragraph 1, point (a)

(a) the institution is registered;

(a) the institution is registered, following verification by the competent supervisory authority of compliance with the conditions of operation set out in this Directive, in a national register listing the authorised institutions;

Amendment 49

Article 9, paragraph 1, point (ba) (new)

(ba) arrangements are made for participation by members and beneficiaries in accordance with the relevant national provisions;

Amendment 125

Article 9, paragraph 1a (new)

1a. Member States shall also ensure that the institution offers its members the option of payment of a lifelong pension, disability cover and provision for survivors as possible additional benefits if the sponsoring undertaking does not itself already provide such benefits. The option of providing cover for such risks may only be exercised collectively by all members of an institution. The procedure shall be based on the relevant provisions of national law at that time. The cost of providing for such benefits shall be indicated clearly, differentiating between the costs of the actual coverage and other, especially administrative, costs. The amount of that cost shall not be contingent on the sex of the member or an individual health check.

Amendment 126

Article 9, paragraph 1b (new)

1b. Member States shall ensure that a similar option is offered to the members in order to provide a guarantee for redemption of the contributions the beneficiary has paid. The relevant costs shall be indicated clearly, differentiating between the costs of the actual coverage and other, especially administrative, costs.

Amendment 51

Article 9, paragraph 2

2. Member States may make the conditions of operation of an institution subject to other requirements, with a view to ensuring that the interests of members and beneficiaries are adequately protected.

Deleted

Amendment 52

Article 9, paragraph 2a (new)

2a. Member States may entrust management of the retirement scheme, in whole or in part, to other financial institutions operating on behalf of a retirement provision institution.

Amendment 127

Article 9, paragraph 3

3. In case of cross-border activity as referred to in Article 20, the conditions of operation of the institution shall be subject to a prior authorisation by the competent authority of the home Member State.

3. In the case of cross-border activity as referred to in Article 20, the conditions of operation of the institution shall be subject to a prior authorisation by the competent authority of the home Member State. These institutions shall also be entered in the register referred to in paragraph 1, together with an indication of the Member States in which they are operating.

Amendment 53

Article 10

Member States shall require that institutions located in their territories draw up annual accounts and an annual report. The annual accounts and the annual report shall give a true and fair view of the institution's assets, liabilities and financial position. They shall be consistent and duly approved by an authorised person responsible for auditing the annual accounts.

Amendments 130, 77 and 78

Article 16, paragraph 2

2. Member States may permit institutions for a limited period, to derogate from the provisions of paragraph 1. In order to ensure that the requirements of paragraph 1 are met again, derogation shall be subject to the following conditions:

- (a) the institution shall set up a concrete and realisable plan to re-establish the required amount of assets to fully cover the technical provisions in due time. The plan is subject to approval by the competent authority;
- (b) in drawing up the plan, account shall be taken of the specific situation of the institution, in particular the asset/liability structure, risk profile, liquidity plan, the age profile of the persons entitled to receive retirement benefits, start-up schemes and schemes changing from non- or partial funding to full funding;
- (c) the institution shall establish and disclose to the competent authority a procedure in order to transfer the assets to another financial institution or a similar body in the event of the termination of the pension scheme during the derogation period.

2. Member States shall, in the event of financial difficulties, require the institution to immediately adopt a concrete and realisable recovery plan in order to ensure the re-establishment of sufficient and appropriate assets to cover the technical provisions in due time. The plan shall be subject to approval by the competent authority.

In drawing up the plan, account shall be taken of the specific situation of the institution, in particular the asset/liability structure, risk profile, liquidity plan, the age profile of the persons entitled to receive retirement benefits, start-up schemes and schemes changing from non- or partial funding to full funding;

The institution shall establish and disclose to the competent authority a procedure in order to transfer the assets and the corresponding liabilities to another financial institution or a similar body in the event of the termination of the pension scheme during implementation of the recovery plan.

Amendment 79

9. Solvency margin requirements for life assurance undertakings I

A5-0211/2001

Proposal for a European Parliament and Council directive amending Council Directive 79/267/EEC as regards the solvency margin requirements for life assurance undertakings (COM(2000) 617 – C5-0557/2000 – 2000/0249(COD))

The proposal was amended as follows:

TEXT PROPOSED

AMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 1
RECITAL 7a (new)

(7a) To improve the quality of the solvency margin, the possibility of including future profits in the available solvency margin should be limited and subject to conditions and should in any case cease after 2009.

Amendment 2

(9) In specific situations where policyholders' rights are threatened, there is a need for the competent authorities to be empowered to intervene at a sufficiently early stage, but in the exercise of those powers, competent authorities should inform the insurance undertakings of the reasons motivating such supervisory action, in accordance with the principles of sound administration and due process.

(9) In specific situations where policyholders' rights are threatened, there is a need for the competent authorities to be empowered to intervene at a sufficiently early stage. In the exercise of those powers, however, competent authorities should inform the insurance undertakings of the reasons motivating such supervisory action, in accordance with the principles of sound administration and due process. As long as such a situation exists, the competent authorities should be prevented from certifying that the insurance undertaking has a sufficient solvency margin.

Amendment 3
ARTICLE 1, POINT 1
Article 3, point (2), paragraph 1, indent 2 and subparagraph 2 (Directive 79/267/EEC)

– the annual contribution income for the activities covered by this Directive does not exceed € 5 million.

– the annual contribution income for the activities covered by this Directive does not exceed € 5 million for three consecutive years. If this amount is exceeded for three consecutive years this Directive shall apply with effect from the fourth year.

Upon notification by the assurance undertaking to the competent authority of the home Member State, however, and with the agreement of that competent authority, this undertaking shall be concerned by this Directive, once it fulfils the provisions of Articles 18, 19 and 20.

Nevertheless, the provisions of this Article shall not prevent a mutual insurance undertaking from applying, or continuing, to be licensed under this Directive.

Amendment 4
ARTICLE 1, POINT 2
Article 18, paragraph 1, (Directive 79/267/EEC)

1. Each Member State shall require of every assurance undertaking whose head office is situated in its territory an adequate available solvency margin in respect of its entire business at all times.

1. Each Member State shall require of every assurance undertaking whose head office is situated in its territory an adequate available solvency margin in respect of its entire business at all times which is at least equal to the requirements in this Directive.

A5-0226/2001

Proposal for a European Parliament and Council regulation on the implementation of the Internet Top Level Domain '.EU' (COM(2000) 827 – C5-0715/2000 – 2000/0328(COD))

The proposal was amended as follows:

TEXT PROPOSED

AMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 1

Recital 1a (new)

(1a) The establishment of the .EU TLD will contribute to the promotion of the European Union's image on global information networks and give added value to the Internet naming system by complementing the country code Top Level Domains (ccTLDs).

Amendment 2

Recital 6a (new)

(6a) The Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers ICANN is currently responsible for the delegation of codes representing TLDs to Registries, without prejudice, however, to what may happen in the future. The Council Resolution of 3 October 2000 encourages the implementation of the principles applied to ccTLD Registries adopted by the Governmental Advisory Committee (GAC). The Registry should enter into a contract with ICANN which complies with the GAC principles.

Amendment 3

Recital 6b (new)

(6b) 'Whois'-type databases which provide minimum information on a domain name-holder are an essential tool in boosting user confidence.

Amendment 4

Recital 7a (new)

(7a) In accordance with international practice, Internet management is based on the principles of non-interference, self-management and self-regulation. These principles should be incorporated into Community practice.

Amendment 5

Recital 9a (new)

(9a) This Regulation is without prejudice to Community law in the field of personal data protection and should be implemented in compliance with the principles relating to privacy and the protection of personal data.

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENTAmendment 6
Recital 10a (new)

(10a) Member States should be able to prevent the registration in the .EU TLD of domain names containing established geographical, geopolitical or historical concepts which affect the territorial organisation of a Member State.

Amendment 7
Recital 10b (new)

(10b) The new .EU TLD registry will not be empowered to issue sub-domain registrations using Member State domain identities.

Amendment 8
Recital 10 c (new)

(10c) When reference is made to interested parties, provision should be made for consultation encompassing, in particular, undertakings, organisations, natural persons and public authorities.

Amendment 9
Article 1

This Regulation charges the Commission with the implementation of the .EU Top Level Domain (TLD), sets out the conditions for such implementation, including the designation of a Registry, and establishes the public policy framework within which the Registry will function.

The objective of this Regulation is to implement the .EU Top Level Domain (TLD) within the European Community. No later than six months after the entry into force of this Regulation, the Commission shall publish a call for expressions of interest in the Official Journal of the European Communities. Furthermore, the Regulation charges the Commission with the implementation of the .EU TLD sets out the conditions for such implementation, including the designation of a Registry, which shall be published in the Official Journal of the European Communities, and establishes the general policy framework within which the Registry will function.

Amendment 10
Article 1, paragraph 1a (new)

This Regulation shall apply without prejudice to arrangements in Member States regarding country code TLDs.

Amendment 11
Article 2, paragraph 1

1. For the purposes of this Regulation, 'Registry' means the entity entrusted with the organisation, administration and management of the .EU TLD including maintenance of the corresponding databases, registration of domain names, operation of the Registry TLD name-servers and dissemination of TLD zone files.

1. For the purposes of this Regulation, 'Registry' means the entity entrusted with the organisation, administration and management of the .EU TLD including maintenance of the corresponding databases and the associated public query services, registration of domain names, operation of the Registry of domain names, operation of the Registry TLD name-servers and dissemination of TLD zone files.

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 32

Article 3a (new)

Article 3aRegistration

The Registry shall be responsible only for registering domain names, in principle on a first-come, first-served basis. However, registration of EU domain names by the Registry may be implemented gradually to ensure that holders of prior rights recognised in law and public policy have sufficient time to register their names. Registration per se shall, in principle, confer no legal rights on the registrants, and the Registry shall incur no legal liability as a result of its having inadvertently registered a specific name in breach of the rights of a third party.

Amendment 34

Article 4, paragraph 2, point (a)

- (a) adopt a policy and procedure to prevent speculative and abusive registration of domain names, which shall conform to best practices, including the recommendations of the World Intellectual Property Organisation (WIPO);
- (a) adopt a policy and procedure to revoke speculative and abusive registration of domain names, which shall conform to best practices, including the recommendations of the World Intellectual Property Organisation (WIPO). This policy shall be based on the principle that an entity wishing to register must have the related rights to the registered names;

Amendment 35

Article 4, paragraph 2, point (b)

- (b) adopt an extrajudicial settlement of conflicts policy and procedure to promptly resolve disputes between domain names and intellectual property rights, which shall conform to best practices, including the recommendations of the WIPO. This policy shall provide adequate procedural guarantees for the parties concerned and shall apply without prejudice to any court proceeding.
- (b) adopt a policy and procedure for the extrajudicial settlement of conflicts to resolve disputes between domain names and intellectual property rights promptly and free of charge or on no more than a cost-recovery basis, which shall conform to best practices, including the recommendations of the WIPO. This policy shall provide adequate procedural guarantees for the parties concerned and shall apply without prejudice to any court proceeding;

Amendment 36

Article 4, paragraph 2, point (ba) (new)

- (ba) adopt terms and conditions for the registration of domain names to be used by on-line traders which shall, at a later date, incorporate a requirement to adhere to a duly accredited code of conduct for on-line commerce and join a duly accredited on-line extrajudicial dispute-resolution scheme.

Amendment 37

Article 4, paragraph 2a (new)

2a. Member States may prevent the registration in the .EU TLD of domain names containing established geographical, geopolitical or historical concepts which affect the territorial organisation of a Member State.

Amendment 38

Article 4a (new)

Article 4aBona vacantia

The Registry, in consultation with the Commission and interested parties, shall adopt a policy, based on national best practice, for dealing in an open, transparent and non-discriminatory manner with domain names which have become bona vacantia.

Amendment 39

Article 5, paragraph 1

1. The Commission shall be assisted by the committee established by [Draft] Directive XX/XX/EC on a common regulatory framework for electronic communications networks and services.

1. The Commission shall be assisted by the committee established under Article 19(2) of Directive 2001/.../EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of... on a common regulatory framework for electronic communications networks and services ⁽¹⁾. Until the entry into force of that Directive, the Commission shall be assisted by the committee established under Article 9 of Council Directive 90/387/EEC of 28 June 1990 on the establishment of the internal market for telecommunications services through the implementation of open network provision ⁽²⁾.

Wednesday 4 July 2001

I. The Future of Europe*Enlargement*

1. Welcomes the new commitment given to the negotiations by the Council's statement that the enlargement process is irreversible; calls on the Commission and the governments of the Member States and the candidate countries to do everything in their power to ensure that the prospect of citizens of the candidate countries participating in the 2004 European elections becomes a reality;
2. Asks the Commission and the Council to examine every possible option in order not to endanger the timetable for enlargement;

Ireland

3. With regard to the Irish referendum, reiterates its view that the European Council must accept full responsibility not only for the drafting of the Treaty but also for its ratification; welcomes the European Council's willingness to contribute in every way possible to helping the Irish government find a way forward and meet the concerns of the Irish people;
4. Urges the European Council to concede that the exclusively intergovernmental and closed method of treaty reform contributed directly to the negative verdict of the Irish people;
5. Hopes the Irish government will meet the deadline for ratification of the Treaty by the end of 2002;

The future of the Union

6. Regrets the European Council's proposal for 'the possible creation of an open forum in order to prepare the next IGC, and demands that a properly constituted Convention representing Member States' governments and parliaments, the European Parliament and the Commission is established by the Laeken European Council in December;
7. Expects the Belgian Presidency to make an ambitious and detailed proposal along these lines, which should be adopted at the European Council at Laeken in order for the Convention to start its work, and to make constitutional proposals to serve as the basis for the work of the IGC;
8. Expresses its concern that the Council was not able to agree and adopt draft rules on a statute for European political parties;

Circumstances of the Summit

9. Deeply deplores the acts of violence and provocation committed at the European Council at Göteborg by organised groups and specialised commandos representing a small percentage of the demonstrators present; considers this behaviour totally unacceptable in a democratic society which attaches great importance to the maintenance of the principle of freedom of expression and the right to demonstrate publicly and peacefully; expresses its solidarity with all citizens affected by the violence, as well as with the Swedish authorities;

II. Sustainable Development

10. Welcomes the importance given by the Swedish Presidency to the issue of sustainable development; emphasises that no sustainable development strategy will be effective and efficient without full information and participation of all citizens; notes with regret that the European Council has managed to agree on general principles for a sustainable development strategy but has failed to take decisions on concrete actions;
11. Reiterates that the Prodi document on sustainable development contained a series of interesting ideas and measures; welcomes statements by the Commission that these proposals will continue to be its basis for further work; urges the Belgian Presidency to further specify, at Laeken, concrete actions and quantified targets for sustainable development in time for the 2002 European Council in Barcelona;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

12. Urges the Council to implement fully the decisions taken in Göteborg, particularly as regards the addition of a third, environmental dimension to the Lisbon strategy, and the implementation of headline objectives and measures in the Sixth Environmental Action Programme, which must be the environmental cornerstone of the EU's sustainable development strategy;
13. Calls to be fully involved in the preparation of, and the follow-up to, this process, together with the different stakeholders in the European Union and in the candidate countries.
14. Stresses that sustainable development is a matter of solidarity between the regions and populations of Europe and the world; calls therefore on the Council and the Commission to prepare fully the EU strategy for the World Summit on Sustainable Development, to be held in Johannesburg in 2002, in which the European Union should develop real political leadership;
15. Welcomes the confirmation of the EU's commitments to the Kyoto process and urges the Council and the Commission to take all necessary steps to prepare for rapid ratification of the Kyoto Protocol by the Union and its Member States and to take the concrete measures necessary for its implementation;
16. Welcomes the commitment contained in the European Council Conclusions to addressing threats to public health and believes that, in terms of winning public confidence and support, the issue of food safety is of particular importance; in that context, agrees that it is essential that the Council and Parliament rapidly agree on the final adoption of the regulation on the European Food Safety Authority and of food law;
17. Emphasises that there is an urgent need for a revision of the common agricultural policy and the common fisheries policy with a view to sustainable development, and demands a clear timetable for these reforms;
18. Welcomes the support given to measures to ensure sustainable transport and to improved transparency in prices, and calls for the priorities identified for the revision of the guidelines for the trans-European transport networks to be integrated into all EU proposals on transport;
19. Welcomes, with respect to development, the renewed commitment to reaching the UN target for official development assistance of 0,7 % of GDP, an objective which Member States have not met in the past;

III. Follow-up to the Stockholm European Council

20. Welcomes the integration of elements of the Union's sustainable development policy into the Broad Economic Policy Guidelines; stresses that further efforts should be made to incorporate in this policy field a few additional policy targets which are not covered by the guidelines and the proposed policy recommendations;
21. Considers that implementation of these recommendations is an essential element in enabling the euro to establish itself as a stable currency, and in improving competitive pressures in the European economy;
22. Underlines the challenges posed by recent developments in the economic outlook for the European economy, with the emergence of inflationary pressures and the downgrading of earlier growth forecasts; stresses in consequence the need for further, innovative measures, on both the supply and the demand fronts, to remove bottlenecks in labour and product markets and increase investment in education, quality of life, social inclusion and environmental protection;
23. Considers that the economic and social dimensions of the Lisbon strategy must include the sustainable development strategy ('mainstreaming') and calls for the development of a strong analytical basis which will allow for future actions;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

24. Welcomes the fact that the European Council has adopted Parliament's three basic framework principles for securing the long-term sustainability of pension systems: safeguarding the capacity of systems to meet their social objectives, maintaining their financial sustainability and meeting the changing needs of society; expects to be involved in the process and points out that creating more and better jobs will reinforce the sustainability of social protection systems;

25. Welcomes the further negotiations on the tax package; stresses the importance of fixing a deadline for a final agreement on the tax package as a whole; insists therefore on the further acceleration of the negotiations with third countries;

26. Calls on the Council to speed up the formal adoption of the common position on the directive on informing and consulting employees in the EU; stresses the need for a set of effective sanctions for non-compliance;

27. Regrets that the European Council once more failed in its intention to make progress on the Single European Sky;

IV. Transatlantic Relations

28. Applauds the renewed commitment to ratifying the Kyoto Protocol in spite of the US withdrawal, but remains severely disappointed by the unilateral, non-cooperative position adopted by the United States on such a global issue; calls for continued diplomatic efforts to ensure that the USA plays a full part in international efforts to combat climate change and that all the parties to the Protocol honour their undertakings on this subject;

29. Is hopeful that the identification of five strategic themes ranging from addressing security challenges to promoting economic development and a multilateral trading system will make transatlantic relations more coherent and focused over the next few years; emphasises the need for the USA and EU to work together towards a common definition of their roles and responsibilities in their strategic global partnership;

30. Welcomes the successful conclusion of the long-standing banana dispute between the USA and the EU, and hopes that other outstanding trade disputes can be resolved in a similar manner;

31. Notes the preliminary WTO ruling that the Foreign Sales Corporations (FSC) Act violates world trade rules, and hopes that the US will prove its commitment to international trade arbitration by modifying the relevant legislation in order to avoid a transatlantic trade dispute before the definitive ruling is handed down;

32. Regrets that the death penalty continues to be used in 38 jurisdictions in the United States, having a disproportionate effect on the poor and minority groups; notes that an alarming number of citizens have been erroneously incarcerated and sentenced to death and that the death sentence has also been imposed on juvenile and mentally retarded offenders; calls therefore upon the United States and its constituent States to comply with international standards and place a moratorium on all executions;

V. External Relations

On European security and defence policy

33. Shares the Council's view that progress has been made in developing the EU's capabilities, structures and procedures in the field of conflict prevention and crisis management, especially with regard to the development of a permanent and effective relationship with NATO, but calls for more efforts to be made to reach an agreement permitting permanent EU access to NATO assets and capabilities; reminds the Member States of their commitment to restructuring their defence budgets to the level needed to reach the ambitious objectives of the ESDP and reaffirms its belief that a parliamentary dimension for the ESDP must be ensured;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

34. Believes that the development of the European security and defence policy strengthens the Union's capacity to contribute to international peace and security in accordance with the principles of the UN Charter;

35. Welcomes the declaration of the European Council on the prevention of the proliferation of ballistic missiles and reiterates its grave concern about the US missile defence system initiative;

36. Stresses the need for the USA to consult its European partners and all countries concerned, as announced during the discussion with the US President in Göteborg; reaffirms, nevertheless, its position that multilateral negotiations and dialogue should precede any new developments regarding the ABM Treaty;

On the Middle East

37. Calls on the EU and its Member States to support the development of a parallel path to be pursued with all the relevant actors in the region in order to implement the recommendations and proposals of the Sharm el-Sheik fact-finding mission ('Mitchell Report');

38. Welcomes the report on the Middle East presented to the Council by EU High Representative for the CFSP, Javier Solana; is convinced that his recent efforts, in cooperation with EU Special Representative, Miguel Ángel Moratinos, have enhanced the visibility of the EU, and notes that these activities have given the role of the Union a higher profile;

39. Calls on the EU High Representative for the CFSP to prepare, in accordance with the guidelines included in the conclusions of the Göteborg Summit, a general plan based on political perspectives and recommendations for the Middle East region in order to contribute, once the crisis is over, to rebuilding confidence in peace and cooperation between the parties;

40. Reiterates its call for the deployment of an international observer mission in the Occupied Territories and urges Member States to launch in this respect a relevant initiative within the UN;

On FYROM

41. Regrets the lack of substantial progress in the negotiations between the parties on constitutional reforms and the draft peace plan;

42. Condemns any recourse to violence and emphasises its continuing strong support for the FYROM government for the process of inter-ethnic dialogue; calls on all democratic forces in FYROM, in neighbouring countries and in the international community to unite against extremism;

43. Calls on the High Representative for the CFSP, Javier Solana, and François Léotard, the Representative of the EU resident in Skopje, to spearhead diplomatic action to reach an agreement between the FYROM government and its ethnic Albanian minority in order to end the crisis in FYROM and avert the risk of descent into civil war;

44. Underlines the need to maintain FYROM as a State in which all citizens enjoy equal rights and to prevent a regression towards division based upon ethnicity and is convinced that a solution to the crisis can only be built on the basis of an institutional reform programme agreed by all political parties democratically elected to the FYROM parliament;

45. Supports NATO's readiness to help facilitate the disarming of extremists of Albanian origin (UÇK and others), in accordance with President Trajkovski's peace plan, and its intention not to allow itself to be drawn into a full-scale 'peace-keeping' role, as it was in Bosnia and Kosovo;

46. Supports the determination of the Council to link further financial aid to FYROM to tangible progress in the negotiations between the parties;

On the European Conference

47. Welcomes the decision of the European Council to invite Moldova and Ukraine to the European Conference under the Belgian Presidency as a positive response to the European ambitions of both countries, and takes the view that these countries' participation in the structures of pan-European cooperation will contribute to the stability and peace of the continent; emphasises once again that full and complete respect for basic human rights and respect for the rule of law should be considered as a fundamental requirement for any country participating in the process of European integration;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

48. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the European Council, the Council, the Commission and the parliaments of the Member States.

13. ECB Report

A5-0225/2001

European Parliament resolution on the 2000 Annual Report of the European Central Bank (C5-0187/2001 – 2001/2090(COS))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Annual Report 2000 of the European Central Bank (C5-0187/2001),
 - having regard to Article 113 of the EC Treaty,
 - having regard to Article 15 of the Statute of the European System of Central Banks and of the European Central Bank,
 - having regard to Rule 40 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to its resolution of 2 April 1998 on democratic accountability in the third stage of EMU ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to its resolution of 27 October 1999 on the 1998 Annual Report of the European Central Bank (C4-0211/1999) ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to its resolution of 6 July 2000 on the 1999 Annual Report of the European Central Bank (C5-0195/2000 – 2000/2118(COS)) ⁽³⁾,
 - having regard to its motion for a resolution on the adoption of an initiative as a gesture of solidarity on the occasion of the entry into circulation of the single European currency, the euro (B5-0029/2001), tabled by Sartori, Agag Longo, Banotti, Bourlanges, Cox, De Clercq, Gil-Robles Gil-Delgado, Hermange, Karas, Korhola, Kratsa-Tsagaropoulou, Martens, Poettering, Quisthoudt-Rowohl, Ribeiro e Castro, Santer, Smet, Stenzel and Van Velzen,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs (A5-0225/2001),
- A. whereas the ECB has fulfilled its mandate, given that the failure of meeting the 2 % inflation target is mainly due to exogenous and extraordinary factors such as the increase of energy prices and the financial consequences of BSE and foot-and-mouth disease,
- B. whereas, pursuant to Article 105 of the EC Treaty, the ECB's primary objective is to maintain price stability and whereas its contribution to growth and employment lies first and foremost in the achievement of that objective,
- C. whereas the mandate of the ECB is primarily focused on safeguarding internal price stability and therefore distinct from the mandate of other central banks,

⁽³⁾ OJ C 121, 24.4.2001, p. 456.

Wednesday 4 July 2001

- D. whereas the phenomenon of financial 'bubbles' recently witnessed in equity markets may have an impact on the conduct of monetary policy,
 - E. whereas a stable and predictable monetary policy is vital for international financial stability by reducing the volatility of financial asset prices,
 - F. whereas the ECB has succeeded in winning the esteem of observers by the quality of its publications and a consistent strategy over time aimed at ensuring economic stability in the euro area,
 - G. whereas the ECB should continue on the path on which it is already engaged, marrying independence with increased transparency and democratic accountability,
 - H. whereas the recent adoption by Parliament of a regulation on public access to documents of the European Union reopens the question of the transparency of the ECB; whereas the ECB should examine whether a move towards greater transparency would be appropriate, e.g. by rewriting the minutes to render them anonymous,
 - I. whereas a communication policy aimed at disclosing the content of Governing Council debates is likely to improve the quality of economic debate in Europe,
 - J. whereas ECB forecasts (called 'projections') are plagued by the extensive recourse to ranges in the results published, blurring the interpretation and depriving them of much of their explanatory content,
 - K. whereas the enlargement process should trigger a reform of the structure of the leading bodies of the ECB within the framework set out in the Nice Treaty,
- 1. Welcomes the ECB's efforts to shape its own profile by identifying a specific monetary policy response for Europe;
 - 2. Welcomes the fact that the ECB has managed to achieve monetary stability during the year 2000, despite oil and commodities price surges, high volatility on foreign exchange markets and, more generally, increased tensions on financial markets;
 - 3. Invites the ECB to reconsider its assumptions of the growth potential in Europe in the light of new technologies and recent improvements in European employment policies;
 - 4. Recalls that monetary policy must be complemented by adequate structural reforms and reiterates its request for enhanced cooperation between Member States, which must result in the strong disapproval of Member States which fail to comply with agreements entered into;
 - 5. Advocates the strengthening of economic policy coordination by the revival of the macroeconomic dialogue, by interlinking more closely the broad economic policy guidelines and the stability and growth programmes, and by using the broad economic policy guidelines in a more efficient way with a view to promoting growth and employment, stability and social inclusion; notes however that economic coordination must not jeopardise fruitful competition between the Member States on the best financial and economic policy model;
 - 6. Considers that closer attention should be paid to the impact of interest rate modifications on economic growth and employment;
 - 7. Is concerned by the fact that the US Federal Reserve seems primarily to be oriented towards asset prices — an example that the ECB should not follow;
 - 8. Encourages the ECB to consolidate its two pillar approach by reducing the weight attached to M3, given the substantive uncertainties concerning predictive qualities of monetary aggregates;
 - 9. Appreciates the improved monetary dialogue conducted on a quarterly basis between the President of the ECB and the members of the Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs of the European Parliament, which leads to a better mutual understanding;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

10. Welcomes the open attitude of the ECB in its monetary dialogue with the Parliament, which has led to a number of improvements in the ECB's communication strategy, including the publication of forecasts and the area-wide model, the latter could nevertheless be made more user-friendly;
11. Suggests nevertheless that the ECB Council explicitly endorses the forecasts of its own economic department and corresponding units of NCBs, and that the ECB forecasts be remodelled in order to provide a more detailed central scenario with precise figures and not just ranges, including a detailed assessment of headline and core inflation trends; underlines that this forecast should not only be a staff paper but an official ECB Council document;
12. Calls on the ECB to publish an econometric model which is user-friendly, and to publish, a half-yearly overall report of economic developments in each of the euro-area countries, comparable to the Beige Book of the US Federal Reserve, as this would facilitate comparison of best practice, enable early warnings of potential problems within the euro-area which might require policy action by respective governments and provide for a reliable basis for wage negotiations and optimising public spending;
13. Regrets that steps have not been taken to publish the arguments which are discussed at the ECB Governing Council and calls again for the minutes to be published; proposes in this context that a summary of the stance of both the approving and dissenting parties should be published;
14. Proposes that the Governing Council should vote on monetary measures at the end of each meeting and that the results of these votes should be published in an anonymous way to avoid inappropriate pressures on the Governing Council members; reiterates Parliament's long-standing view the ECB publish summary minutes of each Governing Council meeting shortly after the subsequent Governing Council meeting;
15. Suggests that the quarterly monetary dialogue with the European Parliament should be the forum where the ECB develops its strategy, and that transparency does not just mean formal transparency but also transparency as regards the reasoning behind monetary policy decision making;
16. Recalls its preference for greater involvement of Parliament in the nomination of ECB Executive Board members, including the capability to confirm their appointment, and calls for this aspect to be considered at the next IGC;
17. Notes the enabling clause introduced in the Nice Treaty with a view to enlargement, allowing the ECB to launch an initiative regarding voting procedures in the Governing Council;
18. Stresses however the need for an efficient voting system, aimed at an accurate depiction of Europe's economic landscape; notes the International Monetary Fund's system of constituencies as a possible model for the ECB to follow;
19. Recalls that there is neither an opt-out nor an automatic link between EU membership and participation in Monetary Union for accession countries, and that the introduction of the single currency requires successful participation in the Exchange Rate Mechanism as well as strict compliance with the convergence criteria laid down in the Treaty;
20. Shares the view expressed by the ECB, that ERM II is sufficiently flexible to be adopted by accession countries in the transition period leading to full participation in Monetary Union, while unilateral adoption of the euro would not be an alternative to prepare the introduction of the single currency;
21. Underlines the euro's contribution to international economic financial stability in making the euro area less vulnerable to external shocks;
22. Regrets that the euro's external value does not reflect the price stability achieved in the euro zone, while recalling that exchange rate policy is not a primary objective for the ECB and should not therefore be overestimated;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

23. Supports the commitment of the ESCB to help improve the institutional framework for the stability of the financial system and underlines the need for close involvement of the ESCB in macro-prudential supervision according to its mandate; stresses the importance of maintaining a clear distinction between the responsibilities of financial supervisors and those of the monetary authorities in order to ensure that the ECB has no conflict of interest with its primary objective of price stability;
24. Stresses that the current reform of financial supervision in Member States must take into account the role of the ECB and NCBs with respect to safeguarding financial stability and the development of mechanisms for crisis prevention and resolution;
25. Appreciates that the ECB has always given full support to Parliament's demands for improvements to cross-border retail payments in Europe, as progress in this area is vital for public acceptance of the euro;
26. Urges the ECB to take more determined action on behalf of the ECB and the Commission, as banking charges for cross-border payments continue to be significantly higher than for domestic transactions; calls on all interested parties, notably the Commission, Council and the ECB, to agree a clear road map of actions and deadlines to deliver a single payments area within the euro-area in which all payments will be made on the same terms whether within national borders or across them;
27. Welcomes the fact that technical preparations for the final phase of the introduction of the euro are well underway, in close cooperation with NCBs and governments;
28. Gives its active support to the euro 2002 information campaign aimed at preparing the changeover to euro banknotes and coins, which will make the euro a 'real life' currency for citizens;
29. Regrets that its repeated request to bring forward and extend frontloading of small denomination banknotes to individual citizens has not been met, as it would have allowed them to become familiar with the new money at an early stage, and invites the competent authorities to reconsider their position;
30. Invites the ECB, the Commission and Member States to coordinate and intensify their efforts in ensuring the cash changeover period is not misused for price increases; considers that governments must set a good example in this respect;
31. Underlines that while the ECB is currently adequately staffed, it should be allocated adequate means in the event of new roles being granted to the ECB;
32. Recalls the right of the ECB staff and its legitimate unions to be informed thoroughly and in a timely manner of all matters relevant to the working conditions in the ECB;
33. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission and the European Central Bank.

14. Changeover to the euro

A5-0222/2001

European Parliament resolution on means to assist economic actors in switching to the euro (2000/2278(INI))

The European Parliament,

 - having regard to the Commission communication (COM(2001) 190): Report on the preparations for the introduction of euro notes and coins,

- A. whereas the European single currency is the decisive identity-building factor in the process of European integration, and is of outstanding historical importance,
- B. whereas the changeover to euro notes and coins will constitute unprecedented tangible evidence of European integration for the people of Europe, and a smooth transition is therefore of inestimable importance in cultivating awareness and appreciation of this integration.
- C. whereas the already favourable effects of the euro on the European single market, the general economic stability, employment and growth should be increased after a smooth changeover to euro notes and coins,
- D. whereas the euro changeover is a formidable logistical challenge for national governments, the Euro-system, the banking system and all European citizens,
- E. whereas a general atmosphere of 'benign neglect' has reigned, in particular among small and medium-sized enterprises, towards the introduction of euro notes and coins, and it is a source of concern that over a third of small and medium-sized enterprises have made no preparation for the euro changeover,
- F. whereas former information campaigns have not had the desired effect on the use of the euro among consumers and companies,
- G. whereas the governments of the Member States and the European Central Bank have ignored the cost aspect of the changeover and no incentives have been given to certain target groups, such as retail trade, with the result that the private sector has tended to adopt an excessively passive wait-and-see attitude,

- H. whereas the European System of Central Banks and the Governments of the Member States have a duty to do everything possible to ensure that every consumer can switch to the euro in the very first days of 2002 without excessive inconvenience, and to ensure that retailers, especially small retailers, are well prepared for the euro,
 - I. whereas the date on which the first euro coins are scheduled for distribution to the public, and likewise the amounts concerned, vary considerably amongst the 12 countries concerned,
 - J. whereas advance supplies of euros to retailers are scheduled between 1 September and 1 December 2001 in the euro zone countries,
 - K. whereas a key element to make the changeover smooth in the European Parliament's view, the front-loading of small denomination notes to the general public, has been consistently rejected by the ECB,
 - L. whereas the rationale behind the ECB position on this matter is weak and bringing forward the date on which advance supplies of euros will be made to the public will not increase the risk of counterfeiting,
 - M. whereas there is also a need for urgent practical considerations for a smooth changeover to be brought forward and examined without delay (e.g. neutralising national banknotes, collecting in national currencies, and bank opening times),
- 1. Urges the ECB to reconsider its position against the frontloading of small denomination euro notes to the general public;
 - 2. Proposes that from 27 December 2001, there be automatic dispensers in all the euro zone countries which will simultaneously provide those citizens who voluntarily wish to stock up in advance with advance supplies of small-denomination notes;
 - 3. Supports the Commission strategy to identify 'good practices' and urges the Member States to make final, major efforts to provide even more information about the euro and the changeover, and to adjust their national changeover programs to take account of these good practices;
 - 4. Recommends that customers be allowed to buy more than one euro-coin starter kit if they want to, in order to help the preliminary dissemination of euro coins into the economy;
 - 5. Recommends that 'piggy bank' operations, already announced in several countries, be extended to every euro area country to preventively reduce the volume of coins in circulation;
 - 6. Recommends, should the Dutch initiative to enable banks to open on 1 January 2002 not be extended to the whole euro area, that an additional opportunity be given for banks to supply retailers and consumers with an adequate amount of currency;
 - 7. Recommends that only small denomination notes be stored in ATMs and distributed at bank counters during the first two weeks of January 2002;
 - 8. Recommends that, in places where ATMs are able to supply euro cash, the few ATMs still delivering NCUs should be disconnected after E-day in order to prevent NCUs from being reinjected into the cash circulation;
 - 9. Recommends that clearance sales or end-of-season sales be either brought forward to late December 2001 or postponed until mid-January 2002, to avoid the changeover clashing with such high turnover days;
 - 10. Demands that a project day on the changeover to euro coins and banknotes be implemented in all schools of the euro zone;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

11. Welcomes the 2 April 2001 joint statement between consumer and retailer associations to keep prices in check, and urges the Commission and consumer and retailers' organisations to monitor closely the situation to enforce this agreement, so as to defuse concerns of inflation among the public;
12. Calls on companies and public administrations in the Member States, not to use, under any circumstances, the introduction of euro coins and notes for 'hidden' price increases;
13. Urges the Member States and regional and local authorities to round their administrative sums (for fees, fines, social benefits, etc.) to the benefit of consumers in order to set a good example;
14. Calls on businesses, particularly small and medium-sized undertakings, to draw up and implement plans and activities for the euro changeover, including an immediate changeover to the euro in their book-keeping and in-service training for staff;
15. Recommends that the general public be more actively informed as regards the practicalities of the euro introduction, in particular how citizens can facilitate a smooth transition through their own actions;
16. Believes that the information campaigns should urge the citizens targeted to make systematic use of the euro as a means of payment from 1 January 2002, and dissuade them from waiting until the 'double circulation' period has expired before they start doing so;
17. Stresses the need for a firmer information campaign aimed at small and medium-sized enterprises and at local authorities, warning them of the costs of delaying any further the switchover to the euro;
18. Recommends that information campaigns aimed at 'sensitive' sections of the public be launched as a matter of urgency;
19. Stresses the crucial importance of an adequate communication campaign aimed at the holders of hoarded currency, urging them either to wait until mid-January to exchange their hoarded currency or to deposit it in an account some time before 1 January 2002;
20. Recalls the importance of an effective information campaign aimed at those Member States which are not changing over to the euro and third countries where the euro is widely used, highlighting the continuity between NCUs and the euro in terms of advantages to users;
21. Urges all responsible banks and credit institutions to facilitate the exchange of national currency for euros for all members of the public and consumers without restrictions and, for a limited period, free of charge;
22. Recommends that retailers, who bear the bulk of the costs, be granted lower fees by credit-card companies when accepting an electronic payments during a one-month transitional period, beginning on 1 January 2002, and also be granted delayed debit conditions by their banks;
23. Calls on the Commission to conclude swiftly the processing of all outstanding cases and/or complaints concerning abuses of dominant positions by producers of electronic means of payment;
24. Draws attention to the fact that people will not see the point of switching to the euro if the joint efforts of Parliament, the Commission and the ECB fail to end the excessively high charges for cross-border payments of small amounts; calls therefore for small cross-border transfers within the EU internal market involving amounts less than € 50 000 to be made cheaper, quicker and safer and treated in the same way as national transfers, in terms of the level of charges and time taken; deplores the fact, in this connection, that the European Parliament's calls for a European transfer system for small amounts to be established by 1 January 1999 are only now being acted upon, with effect from 1 January 2002;

Wednesday 4 July 2001

25. Draws to the attention of Member States the fact that, at this stage, they can encourage the retail trade to prepare quickly and optimally for the changeover by providing it with fiscal or other incentives and that they can finance such incentives from the anticipated revenue arising from failure to exchange old coins and banknotes;

26. Highlights the fact that many Member State residents who travel regularly hold quantities of coins which they cannot exchange in their home countries; believes therefore that recommendations should be made to banks to ensure that coins from the 12 euro zone Member States can be exchanged on the same terms as banknotes;

27. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the European Central Bank and the parliaments of Member States.

MINUTESPROCEEDINGS OF THE SITTING

IN THE CHAIR: Mrs FONTAINE

*President1. Opening of sitting

The sitting opened at 10.00.

Mr Rübig asked for the emergency call number of the security service to be announced within Parliament so that this service could be informed immediately of any incident (the President replied that this would be done; she also took the opportunity to commend the security service on the rapid and efficient way they had dealt with certain groups of demonstrators the previous day).

The following spoke on Parliament's use of languages in the light of future enlargement, an issue that Mrs Thyssen had already raised in the Chamber at the opening of the previous day's sitting (Minutes of the previous day's sitting, Item 1) and which was also the subject of a Bureau report:

- Zorba asked the Bureau to inform Members of its line of action so that Members could also be involved in this debate (the President reminded the House that the Bureau would only be taking decisions on this matter in September and suggested that political groups use the interim period to reflect on the issue).
- Wuermeling reminded the House that language use was governed by the relevant provisions of the Rules of Procedure and therefore the Assembly would have the final word on this issue.

2. Approval of Minutes of previous sitting

The Minutes of the previous sitting were approved.

43. Membership of committees

At the request of the PPE-DE Group, Parliament ratified the appointment of Mr Brienza as member of the DEVE Committee.

44. Referral to committees – Authorisation to draw up reports – Hughes procedure

LIBE had been asked for an opinion on:

By letter of 29 June 2001 the President of Parliament had consulted the AFCO Committee on specific provisions concerning public access to European Parliament's documents following the entry into force on 3 June 2001 of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 of the European Parliament and the Council of 30 May 2001 (Decision of Conference of Presidents of 28 June 2001) (REG 012135) (opinion: LIBE)

The Committee on Employment had been appointed Committee responsible for a European Parliament and Council Regulation amending, for the benefit of European parliamentary assistants, Council Regulation (EEC) No 1408/71 on the application of social security schemes to employed persons, self-employed persons and to members of their families moving within the Community, and Council Regulation (EEC) No 574/72 laying down the procedure for implementing Regulation (EEC) No 1408/71 (COM(2001) 344 – C5-0279/2001 – 2001/0137(COD))

The Committee on Legal Affairs, originally committee responsible, was now asked for an opinion.

Pursuant to the decision of the Conference of Presidents of 28 June 2001, the Committee on Economic Affairs was authorised exceptionally, derogating from the procedure under Article 3(4) of the Bureau decision of 15 June 2000, to draw up a report (COS) on the document XXXth Report on competition policy 2000: (SEC(2001))694 – C5-0312/2001 – 2001/2130(COS))

Hughes procedure

The Hughes procedure would be applied to the following reports:

ECON:

- e-Commerce and financial services (COM(2001) 66 – C5-0257/2001 – 2001/2119 (COS)) (Opinions: JURI, ITRE, ENVI)
Hughes procedure between ECON and JURI, pursuant to the decision of the Conference of Presidents of 5 July 2001

ENVI:

- White Paper: strategy for a future chemicals policy (COM(2001) 88 – C5-0258/2001 – 2001/2118(COS)) (Opinions: JURI, ITRE)
Hughes procedure between ENVI, ITRE and JURI, pursuant to the decision of the Conference of Presidents of 5 July 2001

ITRE:

- Openness and democracy in international trade (INI 012093)
(Opinions: AFCO, DEVE, EMPL, ENVI)

Thursday 5 July 2001

Authorisation to draw up a recommendation to the Council pursuant to Rule 107:

The Conference of Presidents at its meeting of 18 June 2001 had authorised the LIBE Committee to draw up a recommendation to the Council pursuant to Article 39(3) of the EU Treaty and Rule 107 concerning combating computer-related crime. (The procedure COM(2000) 890 — C5-0143/2001 — 2001/2070 (COS) which had begun following the authorisation of 2 May 2001, would therefore lapse).

Authorisation to draw up legislative initiative reports:

At its meeting of 5 July the Conference of Presidents had decided to authorise:

- the EMPL Committee to draw up a legislative initiative report pursuant to Rule 59 on illiteracy and social exclusion (INI 012340)
- the CULT committee to draw up a legislative initiative report pursuant to Rule 59 on cultural co-operation in the European Union (INI 002323) (See also authorisation to modify title below)

Modification of titles of reports already authorised by the Conference of Presidents:

CULT:

- cultural cooperation in the European Union
(Authorisation of Conference of Presidents of 5 July 2001)
(INI 002323 — Minutes of 18/01/2001)
(Former title: Culture in Europe)

DEVE:

- basic education in developing countries in the context of the UNGA Special Session on Children in September 2001
(Authorisation of the Conference of Presidents of 5 July 2001)
(INI 012030 — Minutes of 3 July 2001)
(Former title: Access to education for children in developing countries)

AFET:

- regular report for the year 2000 by the Commission on progress by [name of candidate country] towards accession (COS/1997/2171 to 2181 and COS 1999/2029)

The titles of the reports would be modified as follows:

'Report on [name of candidate country]'s membership application to the European Union and the state of negotiations'

(Authorisation of the Conference of Presidents of 5 July 2001)

45. Written declarations (Rule 51)

Pursuant to Rule 51(3), the President announced the number of signatures to these declarations:

No of document	Author	Signatures

Thursday 5 July 2001

46. Follow-up to Parliament's opinions and resolutions

The Commission communication on follow-up to opinions and resolutions adopted by Parliament during the April 2001 sitting (documents SP(2001) 1535) had been distributed.

47. Forwarding of texts adopted during the sitting

The President informed Parliament, pursuant to Rule 148(2), that the Minutes of that day's sitting would be submitted to Parliament for its approval at the beginning of its next sitting.

With Parliament's agreement, he stated that he would forward the texts that had just been adopted forthwith to the bodies named therein.

48. Dates for next sittings

The President announced that the next sittings would be held from 3 to 6 September 2001.

49. Adjournment of session

The sitting closed at 18.45.

A5-0239/2001

European Parliament resolution on Draft Supplementary and Amending Budget No 3/2001 of the European Union for the financial year 2001 – Section III – Commission, Section VI – Economic and Social Committee, Section VII – Committee of the Regions (9802/2001 – C5-0271/2001 – 2001/2049(BUD)) and on Draft Supplementary and Amending Budget No 4/2001 of the European Union for the financial year 2001 – Section III – Commission (9803/2001 – C5-0272/2001 – 2001/2094(BUD))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to Article 272 of the EC Treaty, Article 78 of the ECSC Treaty, and Article 177 of the Euratom Treaty,
- having regard to the Financial Regulation of 21 December 1977 applicable to the general budget of the European Communities, as last amended by Regulation (EC, ECSC, Euratom) No 762/2001 ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to the Interinstitutional Agreement of 6 May 1999 between the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission on budgetary discipline and improvement of the budgetary procedure ⁽²⁾,

⁽²⁾ OJ C 172, 18.6.1999, p. 1.

Thursday 5 July 2001

- having regard to Council Decision 94/728/EC, Euratom of 31 October 1994 on the system of the European Communities' own resources ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to Council Decision 2000/597/EC, Euratom of 29 September 2000 on the system of the European Communities' own resources ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to the general budget of the European Communities for the financial year 2001, finally adopted on 14 December 2000 ⁽³⁾,
 - having regard to Preliminary Draft Supplementary and Amending Budgets No 3/2001 and No 4/2001 of the European Union for the financial year 2001 (SEC(2001) 663 and SEC(2001) 793),
 - having regard to Draft Supplementary and Amending Budgets No 3/2001, and No 4/2001 (9802/2001 — C5-0271/2001 and 9803/2001 — C5-0272/2001),
 - having regard to Rule 92 of and Annex IV to its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Budgets and the opinion of the Committee on Budgetary Control (A5-0239/2001),
- A. whereas Draft Supplementary and Amending Budget No 3/2001 amends the establishment plans of the Commission, as regards research and development activities and the European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF), as well as the establishment plans of the Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions,
- B. whereas Draft Supplementary and Amending Budget No 4/2001 concerns the balance for the financial year 2000 and an increase in payment appropriations for assistance to the reconstruction of the Western Balkans in 2001,
- C. whereas the Council has adopted at the same time the Draft Supplementary and Amending Budgets No 3/2001 and No 4/2001, therefore it is necessary to merge the two procedures in order to avoid needless administrative burden,
- D. whereas there has been a substantial increase in the number of posts for OLAF agreed by the budgetary authority over the past two years: 224 in the 2000 budget and 300 in the 2001 budget, and whereas the setting up of OLAF's management and operational structures has been subject to considerable Commission delay,
- E. whereas Parliament, the Council and the Commission have established legislative provisions, which confer on the Director-General of OLAF appointing authority powers in relation to OLAF staff in particular establishment of the office's preliminary draft budget which may not be altered by the Commission before it is sent to the budgetary authority,
- F. whereas in the 2001 budget, Parliament significantly amended OLAF's establishment plan, in particular by increasing the number of temporary posts from 13 to 42% and the number of B posts in relation to A posts, and placed the remaining 76 new posts in the reserve until all staff working for OLAF have been reassessed in accordance with the resolution of 16 May 2000 on protecting the Communities' financial interests and the fight against fraud ⁽⁴⁾,
- G. whereas Draft Supplementary and Amending Budget No 3/2001 contains significant changes to the OLAF establishment plan adopted by Parliament in December 2000 in particular regarding the balance between permanent and temporary posts as well as the creation of new specialised units while the 2001 Budget has not been properly implemented yet,
- H. whereas the mid-term strategy to staff OLAF should be presented by the Director of OLAF and approved by OLAF Supervisory Committee by the end of October 2001,

- I. whereas Draft Supplementary and Amending Budget No 3/2001 also covers for the Committee of Regions and the Economic and Social Committee the recruitment of two temporary A grade staff, as well as contract extension for another temporary A grade staff member and one temporary B grade staff member for monitoring the refurbishment of the Belliard building,
 - J. whereas the two committees will become owners of the building at the end of the lease contract, and have therefore to monitor all the financial, technical and legal aspects of the refurbishment, involving both the appropriations made available by the Community budget as well as the monies invested by the owner of the building,
 - K. whereas the Commission entered the final calculation of the correction of budgetary imbalances in favour of the United Kingdom for 1997 in the PDSAB No 4/2001, as well as updated correction figures for 1999 and 2000 in order to reduce inaccuracies and reduce the need for significant adjustments to the final calculations,
 - L. whereas the balance is the difference between revenue and expenditure pursuant to Article 15 of Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 1150/2000⁽¹⁾, and whereas the balance from the 2000 budget presents a surplus of € 11,6 billion, which is to be entered as revenue in the 2001 budget through SAB 4/2001,
 - M. whereas revenue for 2000 was higher than expected and the level of expenditure under the 2000 budget was one of the lowest in recent years, with a particularly low implementation rate of only 88 % of the appropriations made available by the budgetary authority,
 - N. whereas the Commission has failed to implement the appropriations decided by the budgetary authority on the basis of the priorities of the Union, thus denying citizens the possibility of benefiting from its budget,
 - O. whereas responsibility for this must be shared between the Commission and Council which by adopting the appropriate legal bases late, jeopardises implementation of the available funding,
 - P. whereas the budget adopted must be more closely followed up and monitored by the budgetary authority in order to anticipate and prevent under-utilisation of appropriations as far as possible,
- 1. Decides to deal with the two Draft Supplementary and Amending Budgets in a single procedure in order to avoid needless administrative costs and to speed up implementation of the proposed changes, adopts, in accordance with the result on the budget amendments, a single budgetary act, which includes Draft Supplementary and Amending Budgets No 3/2001 and No 4/2001, adopted by the Council;
 - 2. Welcomes that the Commission has revised through PDSAB No 3/2001 its forecasts on administrative RTD expenditure made in PDB 2001, which will lead to a transfer of € 5,6 million from administrative to operational expenditure;
 - 3. Agrees to set up 27 new posts for shared-cost RTD projects but decides that the 15 posts dedicated for administrative purposes should be placed in the lower levels of the corresponding categories (A7, A8, B5 and C5);
 - 4. Agrees that payment appropriations must match commitment appropriations as stated in the Financial Regulation, particularly in the case of the Balkans where take-up of appropriations is high and rapid, and therefore stresses the need for supplementary payments to cover the gap between commitments (€ 839 million) and payments (€ 515 million) for Chapter B7-54;
 - 5. Takes note that the Commission indicates needs in payment appropriations at € 420 million for the Balkans and that an additional € 30 million are necessary to finance a grant to the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia; considers it necessary, for the time being, to avoid further reductions or redeployment, and welcomes the budgetary authorities' decision to provide € 100 million additionally to cover these estimated needs;

Thursday 5 July 2001

6. Agrees to the additional remarks for Article B7-702A allowing administrative expenditure for Articles B7-704 and B7-709 to be covered without requiring additional appropriations;
7. Considers that the adjustments in the OLAF establishment plan in DSAB No 3/2001 do not reflect the objectives that OLAF should achieve according to Parliament's approach;
8. Agrees to the part of DSAB No 3/2001 that deals with the Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions;
9. Agrees to the part of the DSAB No 4/2001 that deals with the revenue side of the budget;
10. Is deeply concerned about the budgetary rigour of the Commission and the Council, when the expenditure of the year 2000 was over-estimated by € 8,5 billion, or 10,6 %;
11. Amends Draft Supplementary and Amending Budgets No 3/2001 and No 4/2001 concerning the following elements:
 - Research establishment plan: place 15 posts in the lower levels of the corresponding categories;
 - OLAF establishment plan: welcomes the approval of the budgetary amendment to the OLAF establishment plan modifying the breakdown between permanent and temporary posts and restoring the 3 posts deleted by the Council and enters € 3,8 billion in reserve until a redeployment of 10 A officials from OLAF to the Commission services is achieved and until a favourable opinion is given by OLAF Supervisory Committee;
 - B7-54: increase payment appropriations required for the EU assistance in the Balkans;
12. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the other institutions.

4. EU own resources in 2001

A5-0238/2001

European Parliament resolution on the situation concerning the European Union's own resources in 2001 (2001/2019(INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 272 thereof, and the Treaty establishing the European Atomic Energy Community, and in particular Article 173 thereof,
- having regard to Council Decision 94/728/EC, Euratom of 31 October 1994 on the European Communities' system of own resources ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to Council Decision 2000/597/EC, Euratom of 29 September 2000 on the system of the European Communities' own resources ⁽²⁾,
- having regard to the general budget of the European Union for the 2001 financial year, finally adopted on 14 December 2000 ⁽³⁾,
- having regard to its resolutions of 21 April 1994 on a new system of own resources for the European Union ⁽⁴⁾ and 22 November 1990 on the future financing of the European Community ⁽⁵⁾,

Thursday 5 July 2001

- having regard to its resolution of 11 March 1999 on the need to modify and reform the European Union's own resources system⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to its position of 17 November 1999⁽²⁾ on the proposal for a Council decision on the system of the European Union's own resources (COM(1999) 333 — C5-0092/1999 — 1999/0139(CNS))⁽³⁾,
 - having regard to the document entitled 'Financing the European Union — Commission Report on the Operation of the Own Resources System' (COM(1998) 560 — C4-0579/1998),
 - having regard to Rule 163 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Budgets (A5-0238/2001),
- A. whereas the new Decision 2000/597/EC, Euratom will replace Decision 94/728/EC, Euratom after ratification in the Member States, coming into force on 1 January 2002,
- B. whereas appropriations for payments of € 92,569 billion were entered in the 2001 budget, of which € 90,972 billion has to be raised from own resources,
- C. whereas own resources are made up of traditional own resources (TOR), the resource accruing from value-added tax (VAT resource) and the GNP, or fourth resource (the application of a rate to the sum of the Member States' GNP), as laid down in Decision 94/728/EC,
- D. whereas, in the 2001 budget, the GNP resource accounts for the largest share of total Community own resources (47,54 %), with the VAT resource accounting for 36,79 % and TOR for 15,67 %,
- E. whereas customs duties account for by far the largest share of TOR (86,62 %), the remainder being derived from agricultural duties and levies, and sugar and isoglucose levies,
- F. whereas the own resources share accounted for by TOR has decreased from 29,1 % in the 1988 budget to 15,7 % in the 2001 budget, the share accounted for by the VAT resource has fallen from 60 % to 36,8 %, and the GNP resource has become the most important own resource, increasing from 10,9 % to 47,5 %,
- G. whereas an estimated € 1,597 billion, or 1,73 % of the initial 2001 budget, is covered by revenue paid not by the Member States, but directly into the EU budget, representing 0,019 % of the Member States' GNP; whereas more than half of this non-own-resources revenue stems from the surplus available from the 2000 budget (€ 900 million), the other sources being miscellaneous Community taxes, levies and dues (€ 562,3 million), revenue accruing from the administrative operation of the institutions (€ 62,0 million), contributions to Community programmes, repayment of expenditure etc. (€ 45,6 million), borrowing and lending operations (€ 22,3 million) and miscellaneous revenue (€ 5,1 million),
- H. whereas the Commission has presented the third report on the operation of the inspection arrangements for traditional own resources (1997-1999) (COM(2001) 32), which describes the inspections carried out by the Commission,
- I. whereas the Commission has discovered a considerable number of anomalies, irregularities and instances of fraud; whereas Community claims were submitted for the recovery of unduly unpaid amounts and for late-payment interest, as a result of which, in 1997 to 1999, additional entitlements of € 3,04 million and € 6,97 million in late-payment interest were paid into Community accounts,

Thursday 5 July 2001

- J. whereas for 1998 customs duties and the EU share of VAT lost to the EU budget through cigarette smuggling are put at € 118 million, and the total loss to the EU budget and all Member States' budgets (tax losses) is put at between € 1 and 5 billion per year,
- K. whereas the Commission filed a civil action against Philip Morris and RJ Reynolds (Nabisco) before the US District Court of Eastern New York on 3 November 2000 seeking compensation for financial losses the EU has suffered from cigarette smuggling into the Community market and injunctive relief in order to prevent further smuggling,
1. Takes note of the Commission's estimates of expected 2001 revenues, on which the revenue side of the 2001 budget is based, and urges the Commission to update its estimates for 2001 budget revenues after the 2001 SAB on balances is adopted;
2. Notes that own resources constitute 98,3 % of revenue for the 2001 EU budget, which means that the resources to be collected by the Member States on behalf of the EU and transferred to it are equivalent to 1,06 % of their GNP;
3. Notes that payments under the 2001 EU budget have increased to € 93,305 billion (including Supplementary and Amending Budgets 1/2001 and 2/2001), compared to € 89,441 billion under the 2000 budget; stresses that this represents 1,09 % of the Member States' GNP in 2001 (January 2001), compared to 1,11 % in 2000, confirming the trend for a virtually constant reduction in the share of Community GNP accounted for by the EU budget, which has fallen from 1,20 % since 1996;
4. Recalls that Decision 2000/597/EC, Euratom, which will come into force on 1 January 2002, fails to take into account the position Parliament adopted on 17 November 1999;
5. Recalls its view that the 'EU must move steadily away from dependence on transfers from Member States' and that 'in the long term, the own resources system must be modified with a view to achieving financial autonomy'; believes that the purpose of the reform should be to provide the Union with an autonomous source of revenue which is sufficient for its needs and directly linked to the taxpayers;
6. Takes the view that own resources should be developed in order to be more transparent and visible to citizens;
7. Notes that the GNP resource share has increased steadily and significantly between 1988 and 2001 while TOR and VAT resource shares have decreased over that period;
8. Notes that the effect of the new Decision 2000/597/EC, Euratom will be to heighten this trend further, because of an increase from 10 % to 25 % in the proportion of TOR to be kept by the Member States, by way of collection costs, and because of the reduction in the maximum call-in rate for the VAT resource, which is currently 1 % and has been set at 0,75 % for 2002 and 2003 and 0,50 % from 2004 onwards;
9. Deplores the fact that the Council has not exploited the opportunity afforded by the adoption of the new Decision to move towards financial autonomy for the European Union and full involvement of Parliament in the budgetary procedure, notably concerning the revenue side;
10. Welcomes the announcement by the Belgian Government that it will propose launching a debate on defining a new budgetary framework over the medium term, during the Belgian Presidency, which could lead to discussions on the desirability of a European tax;
11. Recalls that the new Decision replaces the old European System of Accounts from 1979 (ESA 79) by the new system from 1995 (ESA 95) without changing the amount available under the own resources ceiling; stresses that this will lead to an adjustment to the own resources ceiling percentage, probably reducing it from 1,27 % to 1,25 %, for which Annexes I and II to the Interinstitutional Agreement of 6 May 1999 (financial perspective and financial framework) will have to be adapted; stresses that this unilateral decision by Council was criticised in Parliament's position of 17 November 1999;

Thursday 5 July 2001

12. Welcomes the efforts by the Commission and the Court of Auditors to discover anomalies, irregularities and instances of fraud; notes that the Commission carried out 70 inspections during the period 1997-1999, discovering 246 anomalies in the process; insists that the Commission step up efforts to recover a higher volume of costs stemming from anomalies, irregularities and fraud, and finally reduce the scale on which these infringements of rules take place in order to avoid additional costs for the European taxpayer;

13. Welcomes the Commission's announcement to examine the operational consequences of holding the Member States liable for some of the errors committed by their administrations; invites, however, the Commission to explore all possibilities of including losses to the EU budget because of non-collection of TOR in the Member States payments to the EU budget;

14. Supports the legal action by the Commission against US tobacco companies for cigarette smuggling, and deplores the fact that not all Member States have become joined to the Commission's suit, which might result in a major loss of taxpayers' money in those Member States;

15. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Court of Justice and the Court of Auditors.

5. 2002 budget: conciliation procedure

A5-0241/2001

European Parliament draft resolution on the 2002 budget in view of the conciliation procedure before the Council's first reading (2001/2063(BUD))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to Article 272 of the EC Treaty, Article 177 of the Euratom Treaty and Article 78 of the ECSC Treaty,
 - having regard to the Interinstitutional Agreement of 6 May 1999 between the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission on budgetary discipline and improvement of the budgetary procedure ⁽¹⁾, and in particular Annex III thereof,
 - having regard to the preliminary draft budget of the Commission for 2002 (C5-0300/2001)
 - having regard to its resolution of 3 April 2001 on the guidelines for the 2002 budget procedure — Section III — Commission ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Budgets and the opinions of the Committee on Agriculture and Rural Development, Committee on Fisheries, the Committee on Foreign Affairs, Human Rights, Common Security and Defence Policy and the Committee on Employment and Social Affairs (A5-0241/2001),
- A. whereas the Commission has presented a preliminary draft budget for 2002 which foresees an increase of 3,49 % in commitment appropriations compared to the 2001 budget,
- B. whereas the increase in total payment appropriations is 4,8 % compared to the 2001 budget, representing nonetheless only 1,06 % of the combined GNP of the Member States which represents an historical low; whereas the ceiling under the financial perspective for 2002 is 1,14 % of EU GNP,
- C. whereas the conciliation before Council's first reading aims, in particular, to evaluate the needs and to secure an agreement on the appropriate level of expenditure for agriculture, international fisheries agreements and the common foreign and security policy, now including defence policy; whereas the first reading conciliation is also an occasion to secure agreement on other expenditure,

⁽²⁾ 'Texts Adopted', Item 9.

Thursday 5 July 2001

- D. whereas Parliament in its guidelines set out the following priorities for the 2002 budget: food safety, consumer confidence and sustainable agriculture; improved performance and priority setting in external policies; improved implementation of the budget, and Commission reform; whereas other initiatives announced in the guidelines include the encouragement of 'e-learning' and other measures to improve employment and social inclusion, as well as the development of policy on asylum and migration,

Financial framework

1. Considers that an appreciable margin exists under the overall ceiling for payment appropriations in 2002; underlines that this margin should be used better to implement Community policies, especially under Heading 3 and 4 and to liquidate the continuing large volume in outstanding commitments in various sectors; considers that the payments to be made available for the reserve for agriculture should not prejudice the assessment of needs for payments in Heading 3 and 4; states that this margin represents a one-off opportunity, given the likely evolution of the ceiling in payment appropriations in future years;

Agriculture

2. Considers that the proposal by the Commission to create a reserve for agriculture earmarked for measures regarding BSE and FMD partly meets the concerns expressed by Parliament on this subject on successive occasions in the past; wonders at the Commission's reasons for proposing such a large reserve at this stage when it still has the opportunity of adjusting the PDB by means of a Letter of Amendment later in the procedure; warns against the creation of excessive reserves whenever it is extremely uncertain if the appropriations will be needed or what kind of measures will have to be covered; expects the Commission to substantiate the need for this reserve in detail in the Letter of Amendment on the most recent estimates for agriculture expenditure, in time for Parliament's first reading;
3. Notes the Commission's readiness to present a study analysing the different measures taken as part of the 1999 reforms already underway and of the impact of the current crisis measures on Agenda 2000; expects that on the occasion of the presentation of the Letter of Amendment, this study should give the budget authority a clearer and more detailed view of the future course of reform before it takes its final decisions on the 2002 agricultural budget;
4. Is disappointed that the Commission failed fully to implement appropriations for food safety, consumer confidence and sustainable agriculture which have been entered in the budget by the budgetary authority in recent years; calls on the Commission to seize the opportunities provided by the budgetary authority in this respect, in view of the future orientation of the CAP;
5. Once more reaffirms its determination that agricultural expenditure should remain within the ceilings laid down in the financial perspective, in accordance with Regulation (EC) No 2040/2000 on budgetary discipline; notes that, according to the Commission's budget estimates, a margin of € 365 million below the ceiling remains within Titles B1-1 to B1-3; calls for it to be made possible, in future, to transfer funding not needed from the compulsory expenditure area to non-compulsory CAP expenditure, in order to give appropriate acknowledgement to the growing importance of Title B1-4 (Rural development) in terms of policy formulation and budgeting;
6. Asks the Commission to submit a report on the implementation and possible violation of rules relating to animal transport in the Community; suggests that this report should be made available by 15 September 2001 so that it can be taken into account before Parliament's first reading;

Fisheries

7. Recalls the conclusions of the Fisheries Council of 25 April 2001 that it has not been possible to conclude a fisheries agreement with Morocco; asks the Commission therefore to propose a specific action programme for restructuring the Community fleet which fished in the framework of the former fisheries agreement with Morocco, following the conclusions of the Nice European Council;

Thursday 5 July 2001

8. Notes that the PDB still includes a provision of € 125 million in the reserve for line B7-8000 without further specifying the purpose of the appropriations; considers that an agreement should be reached on the amount which is actually needed in the reserve for international fisheries agreements under discussion; expects any amounts made available under Heading 4 to be used to finance Parliament's priority policies;

Common foreign and security policy

9. Notes that the Commission in the PDB maintains the allocation for CFSP at the same level as in recent years; expresses doubts that this allocation is really justified given the number of activities previously financed under CFSP which now have their own separate legal base and given the actual implementation record of the last three years; considers also that the inclusion of administrative expenditure related to Special Representatives in the Council budget should lead to savings in the Commission budget;

10. Notes the Commission's proposed changes in the nomenclature; before taking its final decisions on this nomenclature and on the overall financial allocation for 2002, insists that the use to be made of this appropriations is better specified in the budget remarks, notably by reference to the legal base for the actions;

11. Supports the Commission's efforts to secure a better planning and evaluation of CFSP actions; urges the Council and Commission to move towards a multiannual programme of actions;

12. Calls for the further development of actions for the reduction and destruction of weapons of mass destruction, as part of the development of the CFSP;

Administrative expenditure

13. Considers that its position on further resources for the Commission and other Institutions will be conditioned by the overall situation in Heading 5 and by the progress of the reforms; points out that the current estimates submitted by the other institutions taken together with the Commission's proposals for its own administrative budget already exceed the ceiling in Heading 5, with the increase requested by the Council for its budget being among the largest of all, at 9,10 % compared to 2001;

14. Insists that the cost of the new European security and defence policy is presented in a transparent way in a separate title of Section II of the budget, in line with the Council's undertakings on the occasion of SAB No 2/2001; considers it a sine qua non that the Council presents as well the separate establishment plan relating to its ESDP activities; points out that similar questions are raised in connection with Eurojust, the EC data protection officer and the data protection bodies under Schengen and Europol;

15. Considers that it is now urgent for the Council to engage with Parliament, as the two arms of the budgetary authority, and Commission in a study both for budget 2002 and of the longer-term needs of the ESDP, enlargement, other expanding budget areas and their implications for Heading 5, suggests that the time has come for the Council to name an overall envelope within Heading 5, which it undertakes to respect;

Improved implementation and Commission reform

16. Welcomes the Council's budget guidelines of 12 March 2001, which share Parliament's concern for improving implementation and evaluation; looks forward to developing further with the Council the approach taken in their joint declaration of December 2000 on the basis of the progress report presented by the Commission;

17. Repeats its broad support for the reform process; will examine closely the effectiveness of the reforms, the progress report, the proposed allocation of the requested posts and the impact of the early retirement scheme as a necessary basis for further decision-making;

Thursday 5 July 2001

18. Intends to continue linking the evaluation of needs for different programmes with their implementation record; intends in particular to elaborate performance targets for budget implementation and criteria for evaluating outstanding commitments in light of expected implementation; looks forward to developing further the other issues in the joint declaration, especially concerning the role of commitment in implementation and the match between the legislative programme and the budgetary procedure;

Implementation of EP initiatives

19. Considers that the implementation of the budget as decided by the budgetary authority, is not only a matter of loyal cooperation between the institutions and respect of their obligations under the Treaty, but also a matter of Parliament's confidence in the Commission; would regret if any failure to implement budget decisions were to lead to a re-consideration of the relevant provisions of the IIA or to questions being raised in the discharge procedure;

20. Expresses its willingness to discuss with the Commission and the Council the pilot projects and preparatory actions that it intends to include in the budget;

E-learning, employment and social inclusion

21. Stresses the importance of this subject for enhancing employment and increasing the competitiveness of the European economy; notes the statements by the European Council on this subject and the two communications from the Commission; expects that this initiative will lead to a specific proposal of the Commission for appropriate actions at EU level; recalls its intention, as announced in the guidelines, to provide appropriate budgetary support for this initiative;

22. Urges the Commission and Council to strengthen the measures introduced last year on employment, new technologies and SMEs and to improve their implementation;

External actions

23. Expresses its concern about the Commission's reductions in commitments in Heading 4, as regards Parliament's traditional priorities;

Policy on migration and asylum

24. Confirms its intention, as stated in the guidelines, to launch appropriate initiatives related to policy on asylum and migration; notes the needs identified by the Commission, including re-admission policy, the fight against trafficking, cooperation on external border controls, joint measures to do with clandestine immigration, and measures for the social inclusion of migrants; takes note of the Commission proposal on family reunification;

25. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission.

6. Management of Community programmes *

A5-0216/2001

Proposal for a Council regulation laying down the statute for executive agencies to be entrusted with certain tasks in the management of Community programmes (COM(2000) 788 – C5-0036/2001 – 2000/0337(CNS))

The proposal was amended as follows:

TEXT PROPOSED

AMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 2

Recital 2

(2) Implementation of these Community programmes is financed, at least in part, from appropriations entered in the general budget of the European Union. Under Article 274 of the Treaty, the Commission is responsible for executing that budget.

(2) Implementation of these Community programmes is financed, at least in part, from appropriations entered in the general budget of the European Union.

(2a) Under Article 274 of the Treaty, the Commission is responsible for implementing that budget.

Amendment 3

Recital 3a (new)

(3a) Externalisation of some of the tasks to public implementing bodies must meet a specific objective. With regard to the Commission's public service activities, only tasks which, because of their temporary nature or technical complexity, justify large-scale recourse to persons who are not established Commission officials may be delegated to such agencies.

Amendment 4

(5) Externalisation should only be used after assessment of a number of factors (such as a cost-benefit analysis that includes the costs for coordination and controls, efficiency and flexibility in the implementation of externalised tasks, simplification of the procedures used, proximity of externalised activities to final beneficiaries, visibility of the Community as promoter of the programme concerned, the need to maintain an adequate level of know-how inside the Commission).

(5) Externalisation should be used only after assessment of a number of factors (such as identification of the tasks in respect of which externalisation is justified, a cost-benefit analysis that includes the costs for coordination, controls and the impact on human resources, efficiency and flexibility in the implementation of externalised tasks, simplification of the procedures used, proximity of externalised activities to final beneficiaries, visibility of the Community as promoter of the programme concerned, the need to maintain an adequate level of know-how inside the Commission).

Amendment 5

Recital 11

(11) The activities performed by an executive agency must also fully comply with the programming that the Commission defines for the Community programmes which the agency is involved in managing. The agency's annual work programme must therefore be subject to the Commission's approval.

(11) The activities performed by an executive agency must also fully comply with the programming that the Commission defines for the Community programmes which the agency is involved in managing. The agency's annual work programme must therefore be subject to the Commission's approval and in accordance with budgetary decisions.

Amendment 6

(15) It should also be possible to entrust an executive agency with tasks relating to the management of programmes that are financed from sources other than the general budget of the European Union. In such cases, this Regulation should apply, subject to specific provisions in the legal bases of the programmes concerned.

(15) It might also be possible to entrust an executive agency with tasks relating to the management of programmes that are financed from sources other than the general budget of the European Union, provided that this does not entail, even indirectly, extra administrative costs which would need to be covered by additional appropriations. In such cases, this Regulation should apply, subject to specific provisions in the legal bases of the programmes concerned.

Amendment 7

Recital 18

Amendment 1

Recital 1

(1) On 10 November 1999 the Commission presented a communication to the European Parliament, the Council, the Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions proposing the next steps in radio spectrum policy on the basis of the results of the public consultation on the Green Paper on radio spectrum policy in the context of European Community policies such as telecommunications, broadcasting, transport and R & D. This Communication received the support of the European Parliament in a Resolution of 18 May 2000. It underlined the need for action at Community level to achieve a harmonised and balanced approach on the use of radio spectrum in the Community in order to fulfil internal market principles and to protect Community interests at international level.

(1) On 10 November 1999 the Commission presented a communication to the European Parliament, the Council, the Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions proposing the next steps in radio spectrum policy on the basis of the results of the public consultation on the Green Paper on radio spectrum policy in the context of European Community policies such as telecommunications, broadcasting, transport and R & D. This Communication, which was welcomed by the European Parliament in a Resolution of 18 May 2000, emphasised that a certain degree of further harmonisation of Community policy on the radio spectrum was desirable, in particular for pan-European services and applications, and that it was necessary to ensure that Member States transposed in a binding way the decisions of the European Conference of Postal and Telecommunications Administrations (CEPT).

Amendment 2

Community coordination and harmonisation may also help in achieving harmonisation and coordination of the use of the spectrum at global level in certain cases. At the same time, appropriate technical support can be provided at national level.

Amendment 3

Recital 2a (new)

(2a) Radio spectrum policy in the Community should guarantee freedom of expression, including freedom of opinion and freedom to receive and disseminate information and ideas without interference by public authorities and irrespective of borders, as well as freedom and plurality of the media.

Amendment 4

Recital 3a (new)

(3a) Member States should ensure the effective management of radio spectrum for electronic communication services in their territory. They should ensure that the allocation and assignment of radio spectrum by national regulatory authorities is based on objective, transparent, non-discriminatory and proportionate criteria, taking into account the democratic, social and cultural interests linked to the use of their frequencies.

Amendment 5

Recital 4

(4) In order to define general policy objectives regarding the use of spectrum, an appropriate consultative body should be created which will gather together, under the chairmanship of the Member State holding the Presidency of the Council, senior Member States representatives responsible for the various sectors using or affected by the use of radio spectrum, such as communications, broadcasting, audio-visual, transport, research and development as well as of security policy, military defence and police sectors, which may be indirectly affected. This group should provide guidance to the Commission, both on its own initiative and at the request of the Commission, on the need for harmonisation of the use of radio spectrum in the general context of Community policy and on regulatory and other issues related to the use of radio spectrum which impact on Community policies, including, for example, methods for granting rights to use spectrum, information availability, availability of spectrum, refarming, relocation, valuation and efficient use of radio spectrum as well as protection of human health. For that purpose, each national delegation should have a coordinated view of all policy aspects affecting spectrum use in its Member State in relation with the issues to be discussed in the group.

Amendment 8

Recital 7

(7) Radio spectrum technical management includes the harmonisation and allocation of radio spectrum. Such harmonisation should reflect the requirements of general policy principles identified at Community level. Coordinated introduction in the Community of systems using radio spectrum is dependent on the various national approaches to assignment and licensing including with regard to spectrum pricing and license fees. These issues should therefore be discussed and, where appropriate, be harmonised at Community level.

Amendment 9

(7a) Proposals should be made to establish clear priorities between, on the one hand, military use of radio spectrum and, on the other hand, civilian use. Member States should observe these priorities in a transparent manner. In order to achieve efficient and effective use of radio spectrum in the Community, Member States, in collaboration with the Commission, the European Parliament and the High Representative for the Common Foreign and Security Policy, should explore ways of initiating a discussion on harmonising the military use of radio spectrum and on how to incorporate such use into general radio spectrum use.

(8) The Community approach should also benefit from cooperation with radio spectrum experts from national authorities responsible for radio spectrum management. The experience of mandating procedures gained in specific sectors, for example as a result of the application of Decision No 710/97/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 March 1997 on a coordinated authorisation approach in the field of satellite personal-communication services in the Community (the S-PCS Decision) as amended by Decision No 1215/2000/EC and Decision No 128/1999/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 14 December 1998 on the coordinated introduction of a third generation mobile and wireless communications system (UMTS) in the Community (the UMTS Decision), a permanent, stable and uniform framework needs to be created at Community level to ensure harmonised availability of radio spectrum use and to provide adequate legal certainty. Harmonisation measures should be adopted as a result of mandates to national experts acting in appropriate spectrum management bodies including the European Conference of Postal and Telecommunications administration (CEPT). Where necessary, the Commission should be able to make the results of such mandates compulsory for Member States and, where the results of such mandates are not acceptable, to propose appropriate alternative action. This will in particular provide for the harmonisation of frequency spectrum necessary for the implementation of Directive .../.../EC of the European Parliament and Council [on the authorisation of electronic communications networks and services].

(8) The Community approach should also benefit from cooperation with radio spectrum experts from national authorities responsible for radio spectrum management. The experience of mandating procedures gained in specific sectors, for example as a result of the application of Decision No 710/97/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 March 1997 on a coordinated authorisation approach in the field of satellite personal-communication services in the Community (the S-PCS Decision) as amended by Decision No 1215/2000/EC and Decision No 128/1999/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 14 December 1998 on the coordinated introduction of a third generation mobile and wireless communications system (UMTS) in the Community (the UMTS Decision), has shown that it may be appropriate to create a permanent, stable and uniform framework at Community level to ensure harmonised availability of radio spectrum for Community activities dependent on radio spectrum and to provide adequate legal certainty. Decisions on harmonisation measures should be adopted under the Community legislative procedure. If technical implementing measures are needed to implement harmonisation measures, the Commission should be authorised to grant mandates to spectrum management bodies, in particular the CEPT, in which experts from the Member States are involved. Such mandates should relate to solving technical problems arising from the implementation of radio spectrum policy in the Community. Where necessary, the Commission should be able to make the results of such mandates compulsory for Member States and, where the results of such mandates are not acceptable, to propose appropriate alternative action. This will in particular provide for the harmonisation of frequency spectrum necessary for the implementation of Directive .../.../EC of the European Parliament and Council [on the authorisation of electronic communications networks and services]. In order to ensure that political control is maintained in such cases, the Commission should report to, or should submit a regular report to, the European Parliament on specific issues. The European Parliament then should then have three months in which to consider the measures and, if necessary, adopt a resolution stating that the draft measures exceed the implementing powers provided for in this Directive. Where the European Parliament adopts such a resolution, the Commission should re-examine its proposal. Should disagreement on the nature of the proposal persist, the European Parliament should have the right to bring an action before the Court of Justice of the European Communities.

The aim of this Decision is to:

- (a) create a policy framework to address the strategic planning and harmonisation of the use of radio spectrum in the Community, taking into consideration in particular economic, health, public policy, cultural, scientific, social and technical aspects of Community policies, as well as the various interests of radio spectrum users' communities, with the aim of optimising the use of spectrum and of avoiding harmful interference;
- (b) establish a procedural framework to ensure the effective implementation of radio spectrum policy in the Community, and in particular establish a general methodology for harmonisation of the use of radio spectrum;
- (c) ensure the coordinated and timely provision of information on radio spectrum use and availability in the Community;
- (d) safeguard Community interests in international negotiations where radio spectrum use affects Community policies.

This Decision is without prejudice to the specific rules adopted by Member States or the Community governing the content of audio-visual programmes intended for the general public, to the provisions of Directive 1999/5/EC and to the right of Member States to organise their radio spectrum for public order and public security purposes.

The aim of this Decision is to:

- (a) create a policy framework to address the strategic planning, coordination and, where necessary, harmonisation of the use of radio spectrum for Community activities dependent on radio spectrum, taking into consideration in particular safety, economic, health, public policy, cultural, scientific, social and technical aspects of Community policies, as well as the various interests of radio spectrum users' communities, with the aim of optimising the use of spectrum and of avoiding harmful interference;
- (b) establish a procedural framework to ensure the effective implementation of radio spectrum policy in the Community, and in particular establish a general methodology for harmonisation of the use of radio spectrum. All technical implementing measures pursuant to this Decision shall be adopted in accordance with the procedures set out in Articles 5 and 6. All legislative proposals shall be subject to the codecision procedure, thus ensuring proper political accountability;
- (c) ensure the coordinated and timely provision of information on radio spectrum use and availability in the Community;
- (d) safeguard Community interests in international negotiations where radio spectrum use affects Community policies.

This Decision is without prejudice to the specific rules adopted by Member States or the Community governing the content of audio-visual programmes intended for the general public, to the provisions of Directive 1999/5/EC and to the right of Member States to determine radio spectrum policy themselves, where Community activities dependent on radio spectrum are not affected, and to organise their radio spectrum for public order and public security purposes.

Article 6, paragraphs 1 and 2

1. Where appropriate, and taking into account where possible the advice of the Senior Official Radio Spectrum Policy Committee, the Commission shall propose measures to harmonise the use of the radio spectrum, assignment methods, conditions for such use, as well as the availability of information related to the use of radio spectrum.

1. With a view to further harmonisation of radio spectrum policy at Community level for Community activities dependent on radio spectrum, and taking into account the advice of the Radio Spectrum Committee, the Commission shall propose to the European Parliament and the Council, where appropriate, measures to harmonise the use of the radio spectrum, assignment methods, conditions for such use, as well as the availability of information related to the use of radio spectrum.

1a. In order to meet the aim of this Decision defined in Article 1(b), the Commission shall propose appropriate technical implementing measures with a view to ensuring harmonised conditions for the availability and efficient use of radio spectrum, as well as the availability of information related to the use of radio spectrum in accordance with paragraphs 2 to 4.

2. For these purposes, the Commission shall give mandates to the CEPT, setting out the tasks to be performed and the timetable therefor. The Commission shall act in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 5(2).

2. For the development of the technical implementing measures referred to in paragraph 1a, the Commission shall give mandates to the CEPT, setting out the tasks to be performed as well as the timetable therefor and including the obligation to consult the appropriate spectrum management bodies. The Commission shall act in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 5(3).

Amendment 25

Article 7

Member States shall publish without delay the information as defined in the Annex and shall keep this information up to date.

Moreover, Member States shall take measures to develop an appropriate database in order to make such information available to the public in a harmonised way.

Member States shall ensure that their national table of frequency allocations and information on rights, conditions, procedures, charges, availability of frequencies, decisions, where relevant, and usage fees, are published, where appropriate to meet the aim of this Decision as defined in Article 1. They shall keep this information up to date and shall take measures to develop appropriate databases in order to make such information available to the public, where applicable in accordance with the relevant harmonisation measures laid down in Article 6.

Thursday 5 July 2001

European Parliament legislative resolution on the proposal for a European Parliament and Council decision on a regulatory framework for radio spectrum policy in the European Community (COM(2000) 407 – C5-0449/2000 – 2000/0187(COD))

(Codecision procedure: first reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission proposal to the European Parliament and the Council (COM(2000) 407) ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to Article 251(2) and Article 95 of the EC Treaty, pursuant to which the Commission submitted the proposal to Parliament (C5-0449/2000),
- having regard to Rule 67 of its Rules of Procedure,
- having regard to the report of the Committee on Industry, External Trade, Research and Energy and the opinions of the Committee on Regional Policy, Transport and Tourism and the Committee on Culture, Youth, Education, the Media and Sport (A5-0232/2001),

1. Approves the Commission proposal as amended;
2. Asks to be consulted again should the Commission intend to amend the proposal substantially or replace it with another text;
3. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council and Commission.

8. Coastal zone management in Europe *I

A5-0219/2001

Proposal for a European Parliament and Council recommendation concerning the implementation of Integrated Coastal Zone Management in Europe (COM(2000) 545 – C5-0474/2000 – 2000/0227(COD))

The proposal was amended as follows:

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSION

AMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 1

Recital 1

(1) The coastal zone is of great economic, environmental, social and cultural importance to Europe.

(1) The coastal zone is of great environmental, economic, social, cultural and recreational importance to Europe.

Thursday 5 July 2001

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 2

(1a) Coastal zones possess a unique biodiversity in terms of flora and fauna, recognised and protected in Directives 92/43/EEC ⁽¹⁾ and 79/409/EEC ⁽²⁾.

⁽²⁾ Council Directive 79/409/EEC of 2 April 1979 on the conservation of wild birds (OJ L 103, 25.4.1979, p. 1) as last amended by Directive 97/49/EC (OJ L 223, 13.8.1997, p. 9).

Amendment 3

Recital 2

(2) The last report of the European Environment Agency indicates a continuing degradation of conditions in the coastal zones of Europe.

(2) The last report of the European Environment Agency indicates a continuing deterioration of conditions in the coastal zones of Europe as regards both the coasts themselves (e.g. erosion, high population density, waste, deforestation and the retreat of dunes) and the quality of coastal water (oil discharge, rising temperatures and the resulting proliferation of algae).

Amendment 4

Recital 2a (new)

(2a) EU coastal zones are further threatened by the effects of global warming, in particular rising sea levels, changes in storm frequency and strength, and increased coastal erosion and flooding.

Amendment 5

Recital 2b (new)

(2b) The decline of fishing activity and related employment, which is a fundamental element of the socio-economic fabric of many fisheries-dependent areas, makes these regions particularly vulnerable.

Amendment 6

Recital 2c (new)

(2c) Population growth and the development of economic activity, including polluting industries, maritime waste, ship-generated waste and general litter, are increasingly threatening the environmental equilibrium of coastal zones.

Thursday 5 July 2001

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 7

Recital 2d (new)

(2d) Coastal zones are increasingly subject to the effects of climate change.

Amendment 8

Recital 2e (new)

(2e) The European Union promotes integrated spatial planning on a larger scale by means of horizontal instruments. Integrated spatial planning activities therefore represent an important contribution to integrated coastal zone management.

Amendment 10

Recital 3

(3) It is essential to implement an environmentally sustainable, economically equitable, socially responsible, and culturally sensitive management of coastal zone, which maintains the integrity of this important resource.

(3) It is essential to implement an environmentally sustainable, economically equitable, socially responsible, and culturally sensitive management of coastal zones, which respects traditional local activities and customs and maintains the integrity of this important resource.

Amendment 11

Recital 4

(4) The Commission communications COM(97) 744 and COM(2000) [...] note that integrated management of the coastal zone requires action at the local and regional level, guided and supported by an appropriate framework at the national level.

(4) The Commission communications COM(97) 744 and COM(2000) [...] note that integrated management of the coastal zone first requires strategic, coordinated and concerted action at the local and regional level, guided and supported by an appropriate framework at the national level.

Amendment 12

Recital 4a (new)

(4a) Further consideration should be given to establishing a Community legal framework for integrated coastal zone management. Member States should see this Recommendation as the first stage in a Community legal development to enable and ensure action on coastal zone management at all levels.

Amendment 13

Recital 4b (new)

(4b) Existing regional disparities in the European Union affect the management and conservation of each coastal zone in a different way.

Thursday 5 July 2001

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 14

Recital 5

(5) There is a need to ensure coherent action at the European level, including cooperative action, particularly at the scale of the regional seas, to address cross-border coastal zone problems.

(5) There is a need to ensure coherent action at the European level, including cooperative action and consultation with the International Maritime Organisation, particularly at the scale of the regional seas, to address cross-border coastal zone problems.

Amendment 15

Recital 6a (new)

(6a) Since the Council resolution of 6 May 1994 the European Union has experienced an increase in pressure on coastal resources, an increase in coastal population and an increase in near-shore and on-shore infrastructure.

Amendment 16

Recital 7

(7) In accordance with the subsidiarity and proportionality principles as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty, and with Protocol 7 to the Amsterdam Treaty on the implementation of subsidiarity and proportionality, and given the diversity of conditions in the coastal zones and the legal and institutional frameworks in the Member States, the objectives of this action can best be achieved by guidance at the Community level.

(7) In accordance with the subsidiarity and proportionality principles as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty, and with Protocol 7 to the Amsterdam Treaty on the implementation of subsidiarity and proportionality, and given the diversity of conditions in the coastal zones and the legal and institutional frameworks in the Member States, the objectives of this action can best be achieved by guidance at the Community level as a first step, followed by the establishment of a Community legal framework, including the priorities under the existing financial instruments such as Interreg III.

Amendment 17

Chapter I

A Common Vision

The Member States should commit to a common vision for the future of their coastal zones, based on:

- durable economic opportunities and employment options,
- a functioning social and cultural system in local communities,
- adequate open land for future enjoyment and aesthetics,

A Common Strategy

The Member States should commit themselves to a binding common strategy for the future of their coastal zones, based on the following principles:

- the protection of the ecosystem as a first priority, and sustainable management of the living and non-living resources of both the marine and terrestrial components of the coastal zone,
- recognition of the threat to coastal zones posed by continued global warming,
- durable economic opportunities and employment options,
- a functioning social and cultural system in local communities,
- adequate open land for future enjoyment and aesthetics,

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

- the integrity of the ecosystem, and sustainable management of the living and non-living resources of both the marine and terrestrial components of the coastal zone, and
- in the case of remote coastal areas, their full incorporation into the European mainstream.

- in the case of remote coastal areas, their full incorporation into the European mainstream.

Amendment 18

Chapter II, introductory part

Member States should furthermore adopt the principles of good coastal zone management as identified in the Commission's Demonstration Programme on Integrated Coastal Zone Management, namely that coastal zone management should be based on:

Before establishing a Community legal framework, and no later than three years after the adoption of this Recommendation, Member States should adopt binding measures to ensure good coastal zone management as identified in the Commission's Demonstration Programme on Integrated Coastal Zone Management, namely that coastal zone management should be based on:

Amendment 19

Chapter II, point 1

1. A Broad 'Holistic' Perspective (Thematic and Geographic)

1. A broad 'holistic' perspective (thematic and geographic) taking into account the interdependence and disparity of the systems with an impact on coastal zones.

Amendment 20

Chapter II, point 1a (new)

- 1a. A binding commitment to apply the precautionary principle

Amendment 21

Chapter II, point 2

2. A Long Term Perspective

2. A long-term perspective which will guarantee the precautionary principle and take into account the needs of present and future generations.

Amendment 22

Chapter II, point 3

3. Adaptive Management (responding to new information and conditions) During a Gradual Process

3. Adaptive management (responding to new information and conditions) during a gradual process which will facilitate adjustment as problems and knowledge develop.

Amendment 23

Chapter II, point 4

4. Local Specificity

4. Local specificity and the great diversity of European coastal zones, which will make it possible to respond to their practical needs with specific solutions and flexible measures.

AMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 24
Chapter II, point 5a (new)

5a. Protecting coastal settlements and their cultural heritage from the dangers of rising sea levels, the increasing frequency and violence of coastal storms, and changes in wind direction.

Amendment 25
Chapter II, point 6

6. Participatory Planning

6. Participatory planning which will involve all the parties concerned (maritime interests, local residents and businesses, users of recreational facilities, holidaymakers, fishing communities and environmental NGOs) in the spatial planning process, by means of agreement and shared responsibility.

Amendment 26
Chapter II, point 7

7. Support and involvement of all Relevant Administrative Bodies

7. Support and involvement of all relevant administrative bodies, establishing links between the various levels and sectors of government and the necessary coordination of existing policies.

Amendment 27
Chapter II, point 8

8. Use of a Combination of Instruments

8. Use of a combination of instruments to ensure coherence between legal instruments and administrative objectives and between planning and management.

Amendment 28
Chapter II, point 8a (new)

8a. Coherence between all sectoral plans already in preparation.

Amendment 29
Chapter III, paragraph 1

1. Member States should conduct a national stocktaking to analyse which actors, laws and institutions influence the planning and management of their coastal zone.

1. Before a Community legal framework on integrated coastal zone management is established, and before 31 December 2002, Member States, in partnership with the regional authorities, shall conduct a national stocktaking to analyse which actors, laws and institutions influence the planning and management of their coastal zone, and to ensure the convergence of public policies and local initiatives.

Thursday 5 July 2001

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 46

Chapter III, paragraph 2

2. This stocktaking should cover all administrative levels, as well as describe the role of citizens, NGOs, and the private sector.

2. This stocktaking should cover all administrative levels, as well as describe the role of citizens, elected members of local authorities, interregional organisations, NGOs, and the private sector.

Amendment 31

Chapter III, paragraph 3

3. Sectors to be considered in this stockholding include (but are not limited to) fisheries, transport, energy, resource management, species and habitat protection, employment, regional development, tourism and recreation, industry and mining, waste management, agriculture and education.

3. Sectors to be considered in this stocktaking include (but are not limited to) fisheries, aquaculture, transport, including ports and sea transport, energy, resource management, species and habitat protection, maritime safety, employment, regional development and town planning, tourism and recreation, industry and mining, waste management, agriculture, and education.

Amendment 32

Chapter IV, paragraphs 1 and 2

1. Based on the results of the stocktaking, Member States should develop a National Strategy to implement the principles for integrated management of the coastal zone.

2. This strategy might be specific to the coastal zone, or might be in the context of a broader national strategy for promoting integrated planning and management.

Based on the results of the stocktaking, Member States, in partnership with the regional authorities and interregional organisations, shall develop, before 31 December 2004, a National Strategy to implement the principles for integrated management of the coastal zone. This strategy might be specific to the coastal zone, or might be in the context of a broader national strategy for promoting integrated planning and management. The results are to be incorporated in the Community legal framework.

Amendment 33

Chapter IV, paragraph 3, point (a)

3. This national strategy should:

(a) define the relative roles of the different administrative actors within the country whose competence includes activities or resources of the coastal zone, and identify mechanisms for their coordination. This definition of roles should ensure both adequate local control, and also sufficient regional vision and consistency (especially in ensuring that local administrations are not overly influenced by the short-term economic concerns of their constituents and neighbours).

3. This national strategy should lead to binding legal instruments to:

(a) define the roles of the different administrative actors within the country whose competence includes activities or resources of the coastal zone,

(aa) identify and, if necessary, set up mechanisms for their coordination. This definition of roles should ensure both adequate local control, and also sufficient regional vision and consistency (especially in ensuring that local administrations are not overly influenced by the short-term economic concerns of their constituents and neighbours).

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 34

Chapter IV, paragraph 3, point (b)

(b) define the appropriate mix of instruments for implementation of the principles, within the national legal and administrative context. In developing this strategy, the Member States might consider the appropriateness of: developing a national strategic plan for the coast, using spatial or land use planning instruments to promote integrated planning and management (including instruments that give priority to coastal dependent uses in the foreshore area), land purchase mechanisms and declarations of public domain, developing contractual or voluntary agreements with coastal zone users, harnessing economic and fiscal incentives (compatible with Community legislation), and working through regional development planning mechanisms.	(b) define the appropriate mix of instruments for implementation of the principles, within the national legal and administrative context. In developing this strategy, the Member States shall consider the appropriateness of: developing one or more national strategic plans for the coast, using spatial or land use planning instruments to promote integrated planning and management (including instruments that give priority to coastal dependent uses in the foreshore area), land purchase mechanisms and declarations of public domain, developing contractual or voluntary agreements with coastal zone users, harnessing economic and fiscal incentives (compatible with Community legislation), and working through regional development planning mechanisms.

Amendment 35

Chapter IV, paragraph 3, point (f)

(f) define mechanisms to ensure full and coordinated implementation and application of existing EU legislation related to coastal zone.	(f) define mechanisms to ensure full and coordinated implementation and application of existing and future EU legislation related to coastal zones, in particular the reformed Common Fisheries Policy from 2002 which includes the 12-mile fishing limit.

Amendment 36

Chapter IV, paragraph 3, point (g)

(g) establish adequate, continuous systems for monitoring and diffusing information about their coastal zone. These systems should collect and provide information in appropriate and compatible formats to decision makers at national, regional and local levels to facilitate integrated management. This data should be publicly available at reasonable cost.	(g) establish adequate, continuous systems for monitoring and diffusing information about their coastal zone, in partnership with the European Environment Agency and regional authorities. These systems should collect and provide information in appropriate and compatible formats to decision makers at national, regional and local levels to facilitate integrated management. This data should be publicly available without charge.

Amendment 37

Chapter IV, paragraph 3, point (h a) (new)

- (ha) establish appropriate procedures to enable ample public participation in the development of coastal zone strategies.

Amendment 38

Chapter IV, paragraph 3a (new)

3a. Member States shall ensure closely concerted action between the national, regional and local authorities, the different levels of government, the economic and social partners, organisations representing citizens/inhabitants, NGOs and the private sector.

Amendment 39

Chapter V, paragraph 1

1. Member States should enter into dialogue with neighbouring countries, including non-Member States in the same regional sea, to establish mechanisms for better coordination of responses to cross-border issues.

1. Member States should enter into dialogue and enforce existing conventions with neighbouring countries, including non-member countries in the same regional sea, to establish mechanisms for better coordination of responses to cross-border issues.

Chapter VI, title

Reporting

Reporting and Review

Amendment 42

Chapter VI, paragraph 2, point (da) (new)

(da) an evaluation of compliance with Community law in coastal zones, particularly with regard to protected zones and species.

Amendment 43

Chapter VI, paragraph 2a (new)

2a. The European Commission should review this Recommendation within three years following the date of its adoption and submit to the European Parliament and Council an evaluation report accompanied by a proposal for a Community legal framework on integrated coastal zone management.

European Parliament legislative resolution on the proposal for a European Parliament and Council recommendation concerning the implementation of Integrated Coastal Zone Management in Europe (COM(2000) 545 – C5-0474/2000 – 2000/0227(COD))

(Codecision procedure: first reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission proposal to the European Parliament and the Council (COM(2000) 545),
- having regard to Articles 251(2) and 175(1) of the EC Treaty, pursuant to which the Commission submitted the proposal to Parliament (C5-0474/2000),

RECITAL 8

(8) The harmonisation of national laws is the only way to abolish such barriers to trade and unfair competition found in the internal market. The objective of limiting noise and exhaust emissions cannot be satisfactorily met by the Member States individually. The measures provided for in this Directive lay down only the essential requirements for the free movement of all the types of engines to which it applies.

(8) The harmonisation of national laws may help to abolish such barriers to trade and unfair competition found in the internal market. The objective of limiting noise and exhaust emissions cannot be satisfactorily met by the Member States individually. The measures provided for in this Directive lay down only minimum requirements for facilitating the free movement of all the types of engines to which it applies. Member States may, subject to compliance with Treaty provisions applicable to certain waters, in particular inland waters that are used, or are to be used, for the abstraction of drinking water, impose more stringent requirements for limiting emissions and protecting the environment.

also be included as regards gaseous emissions. Craft with an inboard or stern drive engine, or one of such types of craft whose engine is undergoing major alterations should also comply with the provisions regarding noise emissions.

Amendment 2

RECITAL 11

(11) Conformity with the essential requirements for emissions from the engines concerned is essential to protect human health and the environment. Maximum authorised levels should be laid down for exhaust emissions of carbon monoxide (CO), hydrocarbons (HC), nitrogen oxide (NO_x) and particulate pollutants. As far as noise emissions are concerned, the maximum levels should be broken down as a function of the power of such engines and the number of engines on board. These measures are consistent with all other measures to reduce engine emissions in order to protect human beings and the environment.

Amendment 3

RECITAL 11a (new)

(11a) Member States should consider introducing national support policies to encourage the use of synthetic biodegradable lubrication oils to reduce water pollution by the recreational sector. The introduction of EU-wide measures must be considered during the review of this Directive.

Amendment 4

RECITAL 19

(19) The efficient functioning of legislation requires a mechanism for amending the technical provisions concerning the evolution of exhaust and noise emission limits and of exhaust duty cycles and test fuels in the light of advances in technology; a Regulatory Committee established following the Council Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission⁽¹⁾ would be required to advise the Commission on the measures to be taken.

Amendment 18

ARTICLE 1, POINT 5

Article 8, paragraph 4, point (a), point (ia) (new) (Directive 94/25/EC)

(ia) where the Froude number and power displacement ratio method is used for assessment: either the internal production control (module A) referred to in Annex V, or the internal production control plus tests (module Aa) referred to in Annex VI, or unit verification (module G) referred to in Annex XI, or full quality assurance (module H) referred to in Annex XII.

Amendment 44

ARTICLE 1, POINT 6

Article 10, paragraph 2, subparagraph 1 (Directive 94/25/EC)

2. The CE marking of conformity, as shown in Annex IV, must appear in a visible, legible and indelible form on the craft and the personal watercraft as in point 2.2 of Annex I.A, on components, as referred to in Annex II and/or on their packaging, and on outboard engines and personal watercraft engines as in point 1.1 of Annex I.B.

2. The CE marking of conformity, as shown in Annex IV, must appear in a visible, legible and indelible form on the craft and the personal watercraft as in point 2.2 of Annex I.A, on components, as referred to in Annex II and/or on their packaging, and on outboard engines as in point 1.1 of Annex I.B.

Amendment 45

ARTICLE 1, POINT 6

Article 10, paragraph 3 (Directive 94/25/EC)

3. The affixing of markings or inscriptions on the craft, the personal watercraft, and on propulsion engines which are likely to mislead third parties with regard to the meaning or the form of the CE marking shall be prohibited. Any other markings may be affixed to the recreational craft and components as referred to in Annex II and/or on their packaging provided that the visibility and legibility of the CE marking is not thereby reduced.

3. The affixing of markings or inscriptions on the craft, the personal watercraft, the outboard engine or any component referred to in Annex II which are likely to mislead third parties with regard to the meaning or the form of the CE marking shall be prohibited. Any other markings may be affixed to the recreational craft and components as referred to in Annex II and/or on their packaging provided that the visibility and legibility of the CE marking is not thereby reduced. Inboard and stern drive engines must be accompanied by a declaration of incorporation, indicating compliance with the exhaust requirements, by the engine manufacturer or his authorised representative in the Community. This declaration of incorporation must be affixed to the inboard/stern drive engine in a clear and legible form.

ARTICLE 2

Two years after the implementation of this Directive by the Member States, the Commission shall submit a report to the European Parliament and the Council on how to implement a system of in-use compliance testing.

Two years after the implementation of this Directive by the Member States, the Commission shall submit a proposal to the European Parliament and the Council on how and when to implement a system of in-use compliance testing.

Thursday 5 July 2001

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

In the context of in-use compliance testing, Member States' competent authorities may, in the case of justified suspicion, inspect a representative proportion of craft placed on the market to verify whether emission limit values are being complied with. Such in-use compliance testing shall be free of charge to operators.

The Commission proposal shall take account of further provisions that ensure compliance with emission limit values throughout a craft's entire life cycle.

Amendment 21

ARTICLE 2a (new)

Article 2a

No later than three years following the entry into force of this Directive, the Commission shall present a proposal for a further stage of requirements and emission limit values from recreational craft engines.

Amendment 22

ANNEX A, POINT 1A (new)

Annex I, Section 1A (Directive 94/25/EC)

1a. Section 1A is replaced by the following text:

A. OCEAN: Designed for extended voyages where conditions may exceed wind force 8 (Beaufort scale) and significant wave heights of 4 m and above, and vessels which are largely self-sufficient under these conditions, but excluding abnormal conditions such as hurricanes.

Amendment 46

ANNEX A, POINT 1B (new)

Annex I, Section 1D (Directive 94/25/EC)

1b. Section 1D is replaced by the following text:

D. SHELTERED WATERS: Designed for voyages in close coastal waters, small bays, lakes, rivers and canals where conditions up to, and including, wind force 4 and significant maximum wave heights up to, and including, 0,3 m may be experienced.

Crafts in each Category must be designed and constructed to withstand these parameters in respect of stability, buoyancy and other relevant essential requirements listed in Annex I, and to have good handling characteristics.

Annex I, Section 5.2.2 (Directive 94/25/EC)5a. Section 5.2.2. 'Fuel tanks' is replaced by the following text:*5.2.2 Fuel tanks*Fuel tanks, lines and hoses shall be secured and separated or protected from any source of significant heat. The material the tanks are made of and their method of construction shall be according to their capacity and the type of fuel. All tank spaces shall be ventilated.*Petrol fuel shall be kept in tanks which do not form part of the hull and are:

- (a) insulated from the engine compartment and from all other source of ignition;
- (b) separated from living quarters.

Diesel fuel may be kept in tanks that are integral with the hull.

BY PARLIAMENT

For engines above 130 kW either E3 (IMO) or E5 (recreational marine) duty cycles may be used.

Reference fuels specified in Directive 98/69/EC shall be used for the emissions tests (Annex XI, Table 2 and Table 3).

For engines above 130 kW either E3 (IMO) or E5 (recreational marine) duty cycles may be used.

The reference fuels to be used for the emissions test for petrol engines shall be as specified in Directive 98/69/EC (Annex XI, Table 3), and for diesel engines as specified in Directive 97/68/EC (Annex IV).

Amendment 33

ANNEX A, POINT 6

Annex I, Part C, introductory part (Directive 94/25/EC)

Recreational craft with inboard or stern drive engines, personal watercraft and outboard engines shall comply with the following essential requirements for noise emissions.

Recreational craft with inboard or stern drive engines, personal watercraft and outboard engines and stern drive engines with integral exhausts shall comply with the following essential requirements for noise emissions.

Amendment 34

ANNEX A, POINT 6

Annex I, Part C, point 1.1, introductory part (Directive 94/25/EC)

1.1. Recreational craft with inboard or stern drive engines, personal watercraft and outboard engines shall be designed, constructed and assembled so that noise emissions measured in accordance with tests defined in the harmonised standard shall not exceed the limit values in the following table:

1.1. Recreational craft with inboard or stern drive engines, personal watercraft and outboard engines and stern drive engines with integral exhausts shall be designed, constructed and assembled so that noise emissions measured in accordance with tests defined in the harmonised standard shall not exceed the limit values in the following table:

Amendment 36

ANNEX A, POINT 6

Annex I, Part C, point 1.1b (new) (Directive 94/25/EC)

1.1b. 'Froude number' shall be calculated by dividing the maximum boat speed (V, m/s.) by the square root of the waterline length (lwl, m.) multiplied by a given gravitational constant,

$$(g = 9,8 \text{ m/s}^2) F_n = V / \sqrt{g \cdot lwl}$$

'Power displacement ratio' shall be calculated by dividing the engine power (P) by the boat's displacement(D) (P / D).

Amendment 37

ANNEX A, POINT 6

Annex I, Part C, point 2, subparagraph 2 (Directive 94/25/EC)

For outboard engines, the Owner's Manual required under Annex I.B.4 shall provide instructions necessary to maintain the outboard engine in a condition, that in so far as is practicable, will ensure compliance with the specified noise limit values when in normal use.

For outboard engines and stern drive engines with integral exhausts, the Owner's Manual required under Annex I.B.4 shall provide instructions necessary to maintain the outboard or stern drive engine in a condition, that in so far as is practicable, will ensure compliance with the specified noise limit values when in normal use.

BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 4

Recital 5a (new)

(5a) It is particularly necessary to integrate aid for uprooted peoples with the development strategy of the countries and population groups for whom the aid is destined; Community action should therefore facilitate the move from the emergency stage to that of development, encouraging the socio-economic integration or reintegration of the people affected and, given the need to eliminate the causes of armed conflict, encourage the establishment or strengthening of democratic structures and the role of the population in the development process.

Amendment 5

(6) Support programmes for uprooted people and demobilised former soldiers are an integral part of an overall rehabilitation strategy for Latin American and Asian developing countries. For the programmes to be effective, aid must be coordinated at Community level and with other donors, non-governmental organisations (NGOs) and United Nations bodies.

(6) Support programmes for uprooted people and demobilised former soldiers are an integral part of an overall rehabilitation strategy for Latin American and Asian developing countries. For the programmes to be effective, aid must be coordinated at Community level and with other donors, non-governmental organisations (NGOs) and United Nations bodies, particularly the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR). The Commission should take responsibility both for monitoring and ensuring the visibility of funds channelled through NGOs and the United Nations. The Commission is moreover politically responsible for the ways in which its funds are spent by NGOs and the United Nations.

Amendment 6

Recital 7

(7) For the countries in question, this type of aid is a necessary pre-condition for development and therefore contributes significantly to the objectives of the Community's cooperation policy.

Deleted

Amendment 7

Recital 7a (new)

(7a) The effectiveness and consistency of Community, national and international prevention and intervention mechanisms should be ensured, both in order to prevent conflicts and to encourage all peaceful solutions to political conflicts and wars which result in population displacement.

Amendment 9

Recital 9a (new)

(9a) Effective, flexible and expeditious procedures need to be guaranteed for aid operations in this sphere; the Community should also ensure maximum transparency in the granting of aid, and strict controls on the use of appropriations.

Amendment 10

Recital 10

(10) Until 31 December 2000, the legal basis for Community action in this field is Council Regulation (EC) No 443/97 of 3 March 1997 on operations to aid uprooted people in Asian and Latin American developing countries, as amended by Regulation (EC) No 1880/2000.

(10) Until 31 December 2000, the legal basis for Community action in this field was Council Regulation (EC) No 443/97 of 3 March 1997 on operations to aid uprooted people in Asian and Latin American developing countries, as amended by Regulation (EC) No 1880/2000. The experience acquired during its application should be reflected in this Regulation.

Amendment 11

Recital 11

(11) This Regulation should enable the Community to continue its operations in these fields for an indefinite period.

(11) This Regulation lays down, for its entire duration, a financial framework constituting the prime reference, within the meaning of point 33 of the Interinstitutional Agreement between the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission of 6 May 1999 on budgetary discipline and improvement of the budgetary procedure ⁽¹⁾, for the budget authority during the annual budgetary procedure.

Amendment 14

Article 2

For the purposes of this Regulation:

- (a) 'refugees' are those persons defined as such in the Convention on the Status of Refugees adopted on 28 July 1951 by the United Nations Conference on the Status of Refugees and Stateless Persons;
- (b) 'displaced persons' are persons who have been forced to seek refuge outside their region of origin owing to conflict situations but who do not enjoy refugee status as defined by the 1951 Convention;
- (c) 'returnees' are former refugees or displaced persons who have returned to their country or region of origin;
- (d) 'demobilised former soldiers' are former members of armed forces, be they regular or opposition forces, who have agreed to lay down their arms and reintegrate into civilian life.

For the purposes of this Regulation:

- (a) 'uprooted people' are:
 - refugees, as defined in the Convention on the Status of Refugees concluded in Geneva on 28 July 1951 and the New York Protocol of 31 January 1967; or

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 10

Recital 13

(13) The inclusion of a grant component in this assistance is without prejudice to the powers of the budgetary authority;

(13) Without prejudice to the powers of the budgetary authority, the grant component should be part of the multiannual financial framework of Community assistance and therefore subject to funds being available every year in the general budget;

Amendment 11

Recital 15a (new)

(15a) The macro-financial assistance paid from the budget of the European Union should be assessed according to the degree of sound implementation of all aspects of Community assistance during previous years as well as to the progress made in reforming the economy and stabilising the political situation. An evaluation of spending capacities should be carried out.

Amendment 12

Article 1, paragraph 4

4. The Community financial assistance shall be managed by the Commission in close consultation with the Economic and Financial Committee and in a manner consistent with any agreement reached between the IMF and the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia.

4. The Community financial assistance shall be managed by the Commission in close consultation with the Political and Security Committee and the Economic and Financial Committee and in a manner consistent with any agreement reached between the IMF and the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia.

Amendment 13

Article 1, paragraph 5

5. The implementation of this assistance is conditional upon clearance in full by the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia of the outstanding due financial obligations of all public entities towards the Community and the European Investment Bank and upon the acceptance by the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia of responsibility by way of guarantee of those obligations that are not yet due.

5. The implementation of this assistance is conditional upon clearance in full by the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia of the outstanding financial obligations of all public entities towards the Community and the European Investment Bank, upon the acceptance by the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia of responsibility by way of guarantee of those obligations that are not yet due and, as far as possible, upon the commitments made by the main donors being respected.

Amendment 14

Article 2, paragraph 1

1. The Commission is empowered to agree with the authorities of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, after consultation with the Economic and Financial Committee, the economic policy conditions attached to the Community macro-financial assistance. These conditions shall be consistent with the agreements referred to in Article 1(4).

1. The Commission is empowered to agree with the authorities of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, after consultation with the Political and Security Committee and the Economic and Financial Committee, the economic policy conditions attached to the Community macro-financial assistance. These conditions shall be consistent with the agreements referred to in Article 1(4).

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 15

Article 2, paragraph 1a (new)

1a. The economic policy conditions attached to this assistance and referred to in paragraph 1 shall also conform to the monitoring mechanism and economic needs referred to in Council Regulation (EC) No 2666/2000.

Amendment 16

Article 2, paragraph 2

2. The Commission shall verify at regular intervals, in collaboration with the Economic and Financial Committee and in coordination with the IMF, that economic policies in the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia are in accordance with the objectives of this macro-financial assistance and that its conditions are being fulfilled.

2. The Commission shall verify at regular intervals, in consultation with the Political and Security Committee and the Economic and Financial Committee and in coordination with the IMF, that economic policies in the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia are in accordance with the objectives of this macro-financial assistance and that its conditions are being fulfilled. It shall report on this to the budgetary authority.

Amendment 17

1. The loan and grant components of this assistance shall be made available to the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia in at least two instalments. Subject to the provisions of Article 2, the first instalment is to be released after the full settlement of the outstanding financial obligations of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia towards the Community and the European Investment Bank and on the basis of an agreement between the FRY and the IMF on a macro-economic programme that is supported by an upper credit tranche arrangement.

1. The loan and grant components of this assistance shall be made available to the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia in at least two instalments. Subject to the provisions of Article 2, the first instalment is to be released after the full settlement of the outstanding financial obligations of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia towards the Community and the European Investment Bank and on the basis of an agreement between the FRY and the IMF on a macro-economic programme that is supported by an upper credit tranche arrangement and, if possible, before the 31 December 2001 at the latest.

Amendment 18

Article 3, paragraph 2

2. Subject to the provisions of Article 2, the second and any further instalments shall be released on the basis of a satisfactory track record in the FRY's adjustment and reform programme and not earlier than three months after the release of the first instalment.

2. Subject to the provisions of Article 2, the second and any further instalments shall be released on the basis of a satisfactory track record in the FRY's adjustment and reform programme and not earlier than three months after the release of the first instalment and, if possible, before 30 June 2002 at the latest. Before it releases the second instalment, the Commission shall report to the European Parliament on the implementation of the first instalment of assistance.

Amendment 19

Article 5

At least once a year the Commission shall address to the European Parliament and to the Council a report which will include an evaluation on the implementation of this Decision.

At least once a year, and before September, the Commission shall address to the European Parliament and to the Council a report which will include an evaluation on the implementation of this Decision based on the principles stated in recital 15a.

Thursday 5 July 2001

European Parliament resolution on the proposal providing macro-financial assistance to the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (COM(2001) 277 – C5-0231/2001 – 2001/0112(CNS))

(Consultation procedure)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission proposal for a Council decision on providing macro-financial assistance to the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (COM(2001) 277),
- having been consulted by the Council pursuant to Article 308 of the EC Treaty (C5-0231/2001),
- having regard to Rule 67 of its Rules of Procedure,
- having regard to the report of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, Human Rights, Common Security and Defence Policy and the opinions of the Committee on Budgets, and the Committee on Industry, External Trade, Research and Energy (A5-0244/2001),

1. Approves the Commission proposal as amended;
2. Calls on the Commission to alter its proposal accordingly, pursuant to Article 250(2) of the EC Treaty;
3. Calls on the Council to notify Parliament should it intend to depart from the text approved by Parliament;
4. Asks to be consulted again if the Council intends to amend the Commission proposal substantially;
5. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council and Commission.

12. COM in fruit and vegetables

B5-0480/2001

European Parliament resolution on the report from the Commission to the Council on the COM in fruit and vegetables

The European Parliament,

- having regard to Articles 34(2) and 192 of the Treaty establishing the European Community,
- having regard to Article 56 of Council Regulation (EC) No 2200/96 of 28 October 1996 on the common organisation of the market in fruit and vegetables ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to the report from the Commission to the Council on the state of implementation of Regulation (EC) No 2200/96 on the common organisation of the market in fruit and vegetables (COM(2001) 36),
- having regard to its resolution of 16 June 2000 on support measures for nuts and locust beans ⁽²⁾,
- having regard to its position of 26 October 2000 concerning amendments to the COM in processed fruit and vegetables ⁽³⁾,
- having regard to its position of 15 February 2001 on the financing of quality and marketing improvement plans ⁽⁴⁾,

⁽³⁾ 'Texts Adopted', Item 6.

⁽⁴⁾ 'Texts Adopted', Item 7.

Thursday 5 July 2001

- A. whereas the abovementioned Commission report mentions a number of problems corresponding in general terms to those addressed in its abovementioned position of 26 October 2000,
 - B. whereas, during the debates in plenary on the most recent amendments or extensions to certain measures in the fruit and vegetable sector, the Commission has many times undertaken, as part of a possible reform that would take account of the substance of the report currently being drawn up, to take action on the major problems such as the inadequate concentration of supply within producer groups, the adverse effects of concluding trade agreements with third countries and the question of support measures for nuts and locust beans,
 - C. whereas, despite the fact that the Commission shows in its report that it is aware of the problems in the sector, it has not deemed it necessary at the present time to submit legislative proposals aimed at improving the functioning of the common organisation of the market,
 - D. whereas, following the 1996 reform, producer groups are the main instrument of the common organisation of the market, yet only 40 % of Community production is marketed through them; whereas this could infringe Article 34 of the Treaty establishing the European Community, which stipulates that the common organisation must exclude any discrimination between producers and attain the objectives set out in Article 33,
 - E. whereas, under Article 192 of the Treaty establishing the European Community, the European Parliament may, acting by a majority of its Members, request the Commission to submit legislative proposals for the purpose of implementing the Treaty,
- 1. Recalls and reaffirms the principles and conclusions set out in its abovementioned position of 26 October 2000;
 - 2. Regrets that the Commission's report is incomplete and lacks recommendations and proposals;
 - 3. Calls, pursuant to Article 192 of the Treaty, on the Commission to submit proposals for improving the functioning of the common organisation of the market which take account of the principles and amendments adopted in connection with its position of 26 October 2000 mentioned above, in particular with the aim of encouraging the concentration of supply within producer groups not only at national but also at Community level, alleviating problems connected with operational programmes and funds, encouraging organic and high-quality production in accordance with standards that exceed those laid down in European directives, limiting the adverse effects of concluding trade agreements with third countries, improving the regulation of the markets and, in particular, establishing a permanent framework of support measures for nuts and locust beans, ensuring a transition by extending current support measures; considers that specific measures are necessary for regions where, for structural reasons, producer organisations are very weak;
 - 4. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission and the governments of the Member States.

- A. whereas common values such as the principles of liberty, democracy, respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms and the rule of law form the foundation of the EU's objectives for peace, development and international cooperation in the framework of EU foreign policy and development policy,
- B. whereas Parliament's commitment to defending respect for human rights and its leading role in pressing for the development of EU human rights policies and in keeping human rights at the forefront of the EU agenda are clearly highlighted by the constant appeals from citizens concerned about violations of human rights, both inside and outside the EU,

- C. whereas, faced with ongoing conflicts, increasing poverty and continuous violations of human rights and democratic principles, in their various forms, in a large number of countries, the EU must conduct a more consistent crisis-prevention policy commensurate with its political and economic strength, and a bilateral and multilateral dialogue on issues concerned with human rights and the development of democracy in all its aspects,
- D. whereas the latest developments showing increasing threats to freedom of expression and the safety of journalists in many countries raise serious concern,
- E. whereas human rights are universal and the principle of national sovereignty should not deny the EU the right to seek to exert influence – and possibly to intervene – with a view to halting gross and systematic violations of human rights with grave humanitarian consequences,
- F. whereas human rights and democratisation in other countries are a matter of European concern, and whereas the Union must back up its policies, declarations and dialogue with cooperation projects that will lead to improvements on the ground,
- G. whereas abovementioned the ACP-EU Partnership Agreement introduces new areas for political dialogue and consultation such as conflict prevention and crisis management, good governance, the fight against corruption, enforced migration and gender equality, and strengthens the role of the Parliamentary Assembly in promoting the process of democracy,
- H. whereas the coherence and consistency of EU policy on human rights and democracy must be ensured by improved cooperation and dialogue between the EU institutions, and the role of Parliament in EU human rights policy should, in the light of the recent development of human rights policy instruments and mechanisms by the Council and the Commission, be targeted more towards controlling the policies of these institutions,
- I. whereas the results of the Human Rights Discussion Forums, and in particular the Conference in Venice held in May 2000 on the theme 'The European Union and the central role of human rights and democratic principles in relations with third countries', underlined the need to ensure the transparency and continuity of all available instruments to deal with human rights situations,
- J. whereas the abovementioned Commission report responds to the call from Parliament, Member States and partners in civil society for more accountability in the deployment of Community funds,
- K. whereas the Commission's reform of the management of external assistance aims to substantially improve the speed of delivery and the quality and profile (visibility) of European Union external assistance, since the exponential growth in the volume of aid has not been matched by appropriate changes in human resources, structures and management tools,

EU strategy for human rights

1. Underlines the fact that respect for human rights should be an integral element of, and be prioritised in, all EU activities, including EU conflict prevention efforts, and that human rights matters must be addressed openly and efficiently in peace-building dialogues and in agreements with third countries; therefore calls on the Council and the Commission to draw up more focused, thematic common strategies for human rights (for example on children and on impunity), whereby the respective work programmes should systematically include sections on well-defined policies and actions aimed at promoting human rights and democracy;

2. Welcomes the initiatives and stances taken by the Council under the Swedish Presidency, which led to the adoption, at the session of the UN Human Rights Commission in Geneva, of resolutions, decisions and declarations on issues raised by the European Parliament in its resolution of 18 January 2001 ⁽¹⁾;

Thursday 5 July 2001

3. Regrets, nevertheless, that the Council did not submit a resolution on human rights in China, as requested by the European Parliament in its resolutions of 18 January and 5 April 2001 ⁽¹⁾;
4. Considers that a strategy can only be useful if it is conceived in such a way as to add real value to EU policy on human rights and democratisation; is therefore in agreement in demanding: that there should be specific annual priorities which, even if limited, should be clearly defined and verifiable; that the setting of priorities should always go hand in hand with the indication of measures for the actual implementation of such priorities by the various Community institutions and the Member States; that the strategy as a whole should be subject to an annual review; and lastly, that the strategy should ensure that all the relevant policies of the Union are more coherent;
5. Hopes that the guidelines adopted on 26 February 2001 by the Council will improve the effectiveness of the Union's common strategies, which are an important instrument in promoting in a more coherent manner the Union's interests, including respect for human rights and the strengthening of democracy and the rule of law;
6. Calls on the Council and future Presidencies to develop a coherent EU approach based on these guidelines;
7. Stresses the importance of the European Union's strategy and action at the 58th session of the UN Human Rights Commission, which will take place in Geneva in 2002;
8. Notes that the European Union now has added responsibility owing to the United States' failure to be re-elected as a member of the UN Human Rights Commission;
9. Stresses, furthermore, that, with a view to a long-term political strategy, the Union's key instruments — whether development cooperation, humanitarian assistance, human rights clauses in partnership and cooperation agreements, or deployment of funding under the Initiative for Democracy and Human Rights — should be informed by one common principle, namely the need to use all instruments in order to elicit the most beneficial changes and in a self-sustaining manner;
10. Calls, therefore, on the Commission to ascertain systematically whether EU action is likely to promote democratisation and respect for human rights in third countries, on the basis of a sound country assessment and a systematic ex ante analysis of the relevant action, possibly with the support of internationally experienced experts and local and international non-governmental organisations; considers that the strategy and instruments must be adapted in a flexible manner, and mechanisms for monitoring and evaluation of results must be put in place;
11. Calls, furthermore, on the Commission to include a reference to the need for campaigns for the promotion of human rights and democracy as an integral part of its country strategy papers and to forward these papers systematically to Parliament;
12. Stresses the need for an efficient Union policy in the field of crisis management, which should be primarily based on the early use of all available tools for conflict prevention, such as the newly established rapid-reaction mechanism, a sustained political dialogue addressing human rights violations, and on close cooperation with the relevant international and regional organisations (UN, OSCE, OAU, etc.);

Conditionality and international diplomacy for human rights

13. Reiterates its concern about the fact that many international agreements by which the EU is bound and which include human rights clauses do not include implementing rules governing the suspension mechanism, as provided for in the ACP-EU Partnership Agreement, and insists, therefore, that adequate regulations should be adopted where necessary;
14. Notes that, formally, the Commission has the exclusive right of initiative as regards the invocation of the human rights clause, but calls on the Commission to respect Parliament's requests concerning the initiation of consultations foreseen in the suspension process;

Thursday 5 July 2001

15. Believes that criteria for the implementation of the clause need to be applied in a flexible manner; emphasises, however, that interpreting such clauses positively and flexibly should never become a justification or a pretext for inaction, especially in cases of gross violations of human rights, in cases of torture, which should never be negotiable;

16. Reiterates that the current policies of 'blind' sanctions must be replaced by policies of 'smart' sanctions more appropriate to the specific circumstances of each country; urges the Council and Commission to develop further tools and mechanisms to target assets illegally expropriated by corrupt heads of governments or their entourages and to promote coordinated international efforts to restore such assets to the country of origin as soon as a genuine process of democratisation has started;

17. Calls on the Member States to ensure that their actions are consistent with the Union's measures in the field of external relations and, in particular, to suspend their bilateral cooperation with any country with which the Union has suspended its cooperation and to maintain their suspension for the same length of time as the Union;

18. Believes that the political dialogue should reflect a real partnership in which both sides learn from each other; calls on the Council to come to an agreement with the partner countries in order to address questions concerning human rights and democracy, the rule of law, respect for minorities, good governance and gender equality in its dialogues on a systematic and regular basis;

19. Calls on the Council to formulate concrete objectives for the human rights dialogue, to ensure that its results are regularly evaluated and that Parliament is systematically informed about the agenda and the results;

20. Calls on the Council and the Commission to ensure the coherence of their external action, irrespective of the existence or otherwise of agreements and suspensory or implementing clauses on respect for human rights;

European Parliament and interinstitutional cooperation

21. Decides to launch internal discussions on the way in which its competent bodies, starting with its committee responsible, currently monitor the issue of human rights and democracy, with a view to assessing whether and how these structures need to be improved;

22. Recommends that procedures should be drawn up to allow a coordinated and coherent follow-up of individual cases of human rights violations raised in plenary resolutions, by the European Parliament's committee responsible and the Working Party on Human Rights and by interparliamentary delegations and joint Parliamentary committees;

23. Calls on its committee responsible to appoint one or more of its Members to carry out a coordinated and consistent follow-up of individual cases of human rights violations raised in plenary resolutions or by its relevant parliamentary bodies and to guarantee a better coordination with the human rights work of other committees; considers that the representative(s) thus appointed could also act as its official representative for human rights in relation to the outside world, in particular the EU institutions and the international organisations;

24. Calls on the Presidency to organise, with representatives of Parliament, pre-sessions of the Council's Working Group on Human Rights (COHOM) and meetings, with a view to the annual sessions of the UN Commission on Human Rights;

25. Reiterates its call on the Council's Secretary-General/High Representative for the CFSP to present an annual report to the Council and Parliament on the results of the coordinating of the positions and policies of the Member States in international organisations, alongside the Union's position and policies on issues concerning human rights and democracy;

26. Calls on the Council's Secretary-General/High Representative for the CFSP and on the Commission to discuss in advance with Parliament the annual orientations and priorities of the Union in conflict prevention; calls on the Commission to present to the Parliament an overall evaluation report of the implemented actions and projects under the rapid-reaction mechanism, notably by indicating the amounts involved, their nature and the partner concerned;

Thursday 5 July 2001

27. Recalls that monitoring of human rights situations should be a primary task of the Policy Planning and Early Warning Unit and calls on the Secretary-General of the Council/High Representative for the CFSP to inform Parliament about the activities of the 'horizontal issues' task force, which deals with human rights and conflict prevention;

28. Calls on the Council to appoint a high-level liaison officer for external relations not only to attend, but also to participate as a speaker in the meetings of Parliament's Committee on Foreign Affairs; calls on the Council to respond in writing to Parliament's annual report on human rights;

29. Stresses, furthermore, that joint reports to be drawn up by the EU's Missions and the Delegations concerned could substantially improve their coherence when assessing the human rights situation in third countries and should refer to Parliament's recommendations; considers that coordinated working methods should be extended to joint reporting to Member States' capitals and Parliament;

30. Stresses that training of the EU Mission staff as well as Commission staff in RELEX, Development, ECHO and in particular in Delegations, should include a fundamental grounding in human rights and democracy issues; calls on the Commission to provide a sufficient budget for such training;

31. Stresses that the second EU Annual Report on Human Rights, while providing broader information about EU activities, does not yet contain information on human rights activities conducted by the Member States (links to national human rights reports and human rights bodies), or on the follow-up to Parliament's initiatives and statements;

32. Welcomes the effort put into the details and background information but encourages the Council to be more self-critical when reporting on policies and assessing the results, enabling democratic scrutiny, in particular by Parliament;

33. Deplores the fact that the second EU Human Rights Discussion Forum in December 2000 coincided with Parliament's plenary session and insists on improved coordination between the institutions in order to ensure broad participation by Members of Parliament; calls on the Presidency and the Commission to organise future Human Rights Discussion Forums in Brussels in order to facilitate Parliament's participation;

34. Calls on the Belgian Presidency and the Commission to focus the attention of the next Human Rights Discussion Forum on the sex trade, asylum, immigration and trafficking in human beings;

35. Welcomes, in this respect, Commissioner Mr Patten's insistence at the informal Council meeting in Nyköping on 8 May 2001 on the need to apply the same criteria to non-member States as to Member States to implement a coherent human rights policy; also welcomes the Commission proposal submitted on 8 May 2001 on promoting human rights and democratisation in non-member States as a good basis for discussion;

36. Calls on the Council to set up a website on human rights issues; welcomes, in this context, the progress made by the Commission's Relex DG; emphasises the usefulness of a human rights website run jointly by the EU institutions on the Europa server;

Dialogue with non-governmental organisations defending human rights and democracy

37. Notes the importance of NGOs as partners of the EU and the governments of the Member States' governments in the debate on human rights and democracy policy and in the implementation of programmes in third countries; calls, therefore, on the Commission to involve the NGOs as partners, who can cooperate in the political dialogue and not simply as actors implementing EU human rights and democracy support actions; at the same time, considers it necessary that the Commission ensures that all the NGOs with whom it cooperates respect the universal standards of transparency and independence;

Thursday 5 July 2001

38. Recommends establishing dialogue and consultation mechanisms between the NGOs and the EU institutions and looks forward to the Commission communication on strengthening the relationship with NGOs;

39. Recognises the important contribution of the NGOs in providing Parliament with information for the preparation of its initiatives and statements, and in particular urgency resolutions; welcomes in particular the monthly Human Rights Contact Group meetings;

Cooperation with international organisations

40. Congratulates the High Commissioner for Human Rights, Mary Robinson, on having given human rights a central role in the UN system by placing the emphasis on understanding human rights in their broadest sense — economic and social as well as civil and political rights;

41. Subscribes to the target set by the United Nations Secretary-General of placing human rights at the heart of every aspect of United Nations activity and underlines the need for adequate funding for the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights;

42. Calls on the Council and Commission to cooperate with UN Treaty bodies and special mechanisms, to take into account their findings and recommendations, and to contribute further to consistent and cohesive EU action in the framework of international organisations; believes that structures and cooperation have to be developed in a way that guarantees the complementarity and compatibility of the common efforts; encourages EU Member States to accede to the relevant UN conventions as soon as possible;

43. Reiterates its call on the Council and Member States to support the proposal made at UN level that countries acceding to UN human rights instruments should issue a standing invitation to all relevant UN Special Rapporteurs;

Implementation of human rights budget

44. Recalls that Article 274 of the Treaty confers the sole responsibility for implementing the budget on the Commission and obliges it to implement the budget as established by the Budgetary Authority;

45. Emphasises the importance of involving Parliament in laying down guidelines and monitoring the implementation of human rights and democracy programmes; calls on the Commission to discuss with the Parliament's human rights working group the annual policy priorities for human rights budget expenditure formulated within the context of an overall EU strategy;

46. Welcomes the increase in the human rights budget (Chapter B7-70) for 2001 but notes with concern that the implementation figures of the European Initiative for Democracy and Human Rights are not satisfactory; insists that the European Union must deliver in accordance with its political commitments;

47. Expects that the Commission's intention to define performance targets for the implementation of the European Initiative for Democracy and Human Rights will lead to improved results, will facilitate the evaluation process and will contribute to providing value for money for the taxpayer;

48. Remains convinced that the European Development Fund needs to be integrated into the general budget of the European Union in order to increase transparency and improve the allocation of resources;

49. Underlines that the management capacity of the programmes needs to be improved and the allocation of human resources reviewed, if necessary; insists that the implementation of the abovementioned Chapter B7-70 must reflect the importance that the European Parliament and the European citizen attach to the promotion of human rights and democracy;

50. Calls on the Commission to forward to Parliament a progress report on the reform of the management of external assistance and to publish annually and in due time for the budgetary Authority to take it into account the report on the implementation of measures funded through the European Initiative for

Democracy and Human Rights; considers that more progress must be made with regard to thoroughly assessing projects, by establishing guidelines and standards, notably concerning pertinence, efficiency, effectiveness, impact and sustainability, cost-effectiveness and the pros and cons of co-financing with other international partners;

51. Welcomes the Commission efforts to decentralise and devolve the management of external assistance to the Commission delegations (and, where appropriate, the authorities of third countries) in order to improve the speed and quality of EU aid management; believes that the authorities of third countries should not be involved in decision-making regarding the granting of funds under the European Initiative for Democracy and Human Rights;

52. Welcomes the efforts of EuropeAid with regard to transparency and customer service; recommends improving the human rights and democracy funding website by including selected projects and evaluation reports;

53. Stresses the importance of standardising the implementation procedures as well as the symbols used by the organisations involved in providing EU aid;

54. Recommends that the Commission establish a help-line and e-mail-box for information on the application procedure for grants and that it organise seminars concerning the system of Community grants to local NGOs, linked to the implementation of human rights and democracy micro-projects;

Development

55. Points out that human rights include social, economic and cultural rights and the right to peace, a healthy environment and development, and that development is in fact the realisation of these rights;

56. Stresses that human rights also include allowing the countries concerned to choose their own model of development in the context of stable political structures, for a socially and ecologically sustainable development, based on the economic and strategic potential of the country concerned;

57. Congratulates the governments of the Member States which have unilaterally cancelled or reduced the debt of the poorest countries and encourages those which have not yet done so to follow their example;

58. Deplores in particular the tragic wars, civil conflicts and inter-ethnic strife which are a major cause of human rights violations;

59. Stresses the fact that human rights constitute a cornerstone of both the EU's development policy and the Cotonou Agreement;

60. Stresses the necessity to end discriminatory provisions against women and girls in national legislation, and to ensure equal access for all, regardless of gender, to education (both primary and higher education), the labour market, health care, etc;

61. Recalls its support for the setting of fair social standards in economic activity and its commitment to take part in efforts to combat the exploitation of labour throughout the world;

Respect for Freedom of Expression and Independent Journalism

62. Urges the Council and Commission to give priority to press freedom issues and especially the security and independence of journalists;

63. Calls on the Council and Commission always to take immediate and forceful action in the case of the disappearance, torture and intimidation of journalists anywhere in the world;

64. Stresses the inalienable right of any journalist in detention to a fair trial and calls for such trials of journalists anywhere in the world to be made open to observers from the international community;

Thursday 5 July 2001

65. Calls for concrete measures, including devoting sufficient resources to preventing attacks on journalists; calls for rigorous investigations into such attacks, to ensure that those responsible are brought to justice and victims obtain compensation; recalls that States have a positive duty to protect the media from attacks and to ensure that perpetrators do not enjoy impunity;
66. Calls on the Council and Commission to take all possible measures with a view to ensuring that persons who are the victims of a violation of the freedom of the press do not for that reason suffer any additional obstacles to their movement in the EU or in third countries other than the country in question;
67. Urges the Council and Commission to assist the media in trouble spots, using the expertise of local professionals and international journalism groups; calls for proposals to establish media help-centres in Colombia and East Timor, for example, providing opportunities for empowerment of local organisations in dealing with their difficulties;
68. Recommends that the Council and Commission support the adoption and implementation of codes of practice for security in journalism;
69. Condemns all forms of censorship and recommends that priority be given to promotion of freedom of expression, information and press freedom and public access to public documents; stresses that the principle of conditionality upon respect for human rights including freedom of expression, should be applied in political and economic relations with third countries;
70. Stresses that there can be no democratic, modern state without a strong civil society and free media, in which every citizen has unrestricted access to information via independent media;
71. Calls for a thorough analysis of existing obstacles to media freedom, including a review of all laws and regulations affecting access to information and the exercise of journalism, including libel, defamation and sedition laws;
72. Calls for continued support for the monitoring of the implementation of freedom of expression legislation; in this respect recommends that the Council and Commission take relevant actions aimed at coordination with other international institutions, such as the United Nations, the OSCE Representative on Freedom of Media, NGOs, journalist associations and trade unions, as well as complementary measures;
73. Calls for governments to provide open access to information and urges them to adopt freedom of information legislation in line with international standards to ensure their implementation;
74. Deplores the violations of human rights committed by Russian troops in Chechnya; urges the EU Member States and members of the Council of Europe to bring the case before the European Court of Human Rights;
75. Calls upon governments not to interfere in the media or abuse legal measures to limit media freedom; urges governments to combat excessive media concentration, review draconian and disproportionate defamation laws and ensure a fair and transparent licensing system as well as fair control of the distribution of information;
76. Urges all countries that have taken measures to control and limit the use of modern technology to guarantee their citizens' right to freely use e-mail and the Internet without censorship;
77. Requests governments to ensure the freedom of reporting, i.e. protection of whistleblowers who disclose information in the public interest and to guarantee by law the right of journalists everywhere not to reveal confidential sources of information;
78. Expresses its concern over the gradual concentration of the media and the consequent danger of the disappearance of private and independent media in Russia; expresses the wish, in addition, that the difficult conditions which Ukrainian journalists have faced in the recent past may be resolved soon in order to ensure a free and independent press;

Thursday 5 July 2001

79. Calls for governments to promote a positive economic and regulatory environment for the media, including actions which guarantee the labour and social rights of journalists, lower the financial burdens on the media (tax, licensing) and encourage the extension of telecommunication lines to rural and other under-served areas; recommends that government information should be made available through the Internet;

80. Calls for appropriate measures to be taken to convert state-controlled broadcasting bodies into free public-service broadcasting bodies so as to reflect a pluralistic society; is therefore particularly concerned at the development in Russia of a tendency to curb reportage that criticises the government;

81. Recommends that governments ensure open access to information and communication technologies and create the necessary legal, professional, technical and educational infrastructure for their use;

82. Recommends that governments ensure transparency and fairness in the allocation of technical and financial resources in all public sector areas;

83. Urges governments to take measures to combat undue commercialisation of media and to adopt anti-trust rules that recognise the special social, cultural and democratic value of information;

84. Recommends that governments ensure effective access to the media for ethnic, religious, cultural and linguistic minorities and other vulnerable groups, and bear in mind that, under international law, States have a positive duty to promote the plurality and diversity of media sources;

85. Urges the Commission to implement strategies to reinforce media quality through media training assistance programmes; welcomes and supports the efforts made by independent organisations of media professionals who are developing self-regulation of media for better accountability;

86. Calls on the Commission to work towards the establishment of an ethical journalists' code at national level, so as to prevent the media being used as a channel of propaganda to promote violence, discrimination, intolerance and hatred;

87. Stresses that the right to privacy and personal data protection should be meticulously protected, while combating cybercrime and other abuse of new technologies;

Human and minority rights in the context of EU Enlargement

88. Urges the candidate countries to speed up the improvement of prison systems and the reform of the judiciary, criminal procedure and the penal code, where necessary, to shorten the length of pre-trial detention and to provide for state-guaranteed legal aid; calls upon the Commission to enhance institution-building measures, including training, to strengthen the democratic functioning of law enforcement bodies;

89. Regrets that the Roma minorities in several candidate states are still subject to serious discrimination on the labour market, in education, contacts with authorities and civil society, and that Roma are subject to police assault and racist violence; considers the change in people's attitudes towards Roma to be of fundamental significance for the emancipation of Roma;

90. Welcomes the development of action plans for social and political integration of the Roma by the governments of Bulgaria, the Czech Republic, Hungary and Slovakia, but notes that no significant progress has been made; urges the government of Romania to follow this direction; urges the governments of these countries, the Council and the Commission to allocate adequate financial resources for the implementation of these strategies, and to closely associate the Roma communities and local authorities in the implementation, monitoring and adjustment of programmes and projects;

Thursday 5 July 2001

91. Welcomes the attempts by the Romanian Government to abolish repressive legislation regarding sexual minorities, and stresses to Romanian legislators that basic human rights will at no point be open to negotiation;

92. Welcomes the adoption of a National Programme for Social Integration in Latvia, and of similar programmes for the integration of the Russian-speaking population in the other Baltic States; urges the respective authorities to speed up the implementation of the programmes in terms of legal provisions, institutions and financial allocations;

93. Calls on the Slovak government to improve its policy and cultural subsidies in favour of cultural diversity and the maintenance of national minorities' cultural heritage; calls on the Commission to monitor closely the implementation of the Law on the Use of Minority Languages in Official Communication;

94. Calls on the Romanian government to implement fully the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child as a prerequisite for accession;

95. Urges the Commission to explicitly raise human rights violations against the Kurdish population in the context of the Accession Partnership with Turkey; urges the Turkish government to ensure the safe return to south-east Turkey of more than 500 000 expelled Kurdish villagers; welcomes the government's reform intentions and urges their translation into concrete measures; calls on Turkey, as a further positive step, to sign and ratify the European Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities; urges Turkey to end torture and ill-treatment, as well as impunity for these human rights abuses; calls on Turkey to protect human rights defenders against harassment; calls upon Turkey to abolish the death penalty and to adopt, as a matter of urgency, measures to bring about a real improvement in the situation in prisons; calls on the Turkish Government to comply also with the judgement of European Court of Human Rights of 10 May 2001 that condemned Turkey for gross human rights violations in Cyprus;

96. Calls on the Commission, in the context of political dialogue with Turkey, to insist on the need to take firm action to stop any further deterioration in human rights in the occupied part of Cyprus and particularly press freedom;

97. Calls on the Turkish Government to repeal all judicial and other bureaucratic obstacles to Christian minorities, whose members are deprived of their legitimate rights to their properties in Turkey; considers it indispensable for minorities once again to have their own religious seminaries to educate their own clergy;

98. Calls on the Council and the Commission to continue their efforts to improve the effectiveness of programmes concerning respect for democracy and human and minority rights in the candidate countries; asks for steps to be taken to facilitate the participation of social partners, NGOs, local authorities and representatives of national minorities in the programming, implementation and monitoring of these programmes;

Recommendations on other issues requiring urgent international action

99. Calls on the Commission and the Member States to develop a more active policy in the field of corporate social responsibility with regard to human rights, and reiterates its call to promote the comprehensive application of ILO conventions to prevent social exploitation, notably ILO Convention No 182 on the Worst Forms of Child Labour; underlines the need for an ongoing human rights impact assessment of this aspect of EU trade policy; stresses the importance of codes of conduct on human rights for business, such as the OECD guidelines for Multinational Enterprises and ILO Conventions on Labour rights;

100. Calls on the EU, its Member States and other countries involved, to take adequate multidisciplinary measures against organised trafficking in human beings, in particular with respect to women and children, including the protection of victims, provision of information for potential immigrants on the risk of trafficking and exploitation, and utilisation of programmes such as TACIS;

Thursday 5 July 2001

101. Urges all States to ratify without reservation and implement the abovementioned Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW), including its additional Protocol, and to refrain from expressing reservations concerning the convention; urges States such as Saudi Arabia to halt discrimination after ratification; condemns in particular the practice of 'honour killings' in Jordan and Pakistan; urges all governments to formulate legislation against all forms of domestic violence and to refrain from invoking religious or cultural considerations to avoid obligations in this respect;

102. Denounces the existence of obscurantist regimes which, particularly in Afghanistan, defend archaic forms of mental and physical violence and disregard the most basic human rights, particularly those of women;

103. Denounces in particular the introduction of a yellow badge to be worn by non-Muslim citizens of Afghanistan and asks for the immediate withdrawal of this order;

104. Calls upon the Presidency to play an active role in the upcoming UN-mediated peace talks with the Taliban and the other parties to the conflict in Afghanistan; underlines the need to build up international pressure against the regime and the countries supporting it, in particular Saudi Arabia, Pakistan and the United Arab Emirates, by blocking all weapon deliveries and establishing trade embargoes; calls upon the Commission to take all necessary steps to help improve the situation of the Afghan refugees in Pakistan;

105. Calls for the genital mutilation of women to be fully recognised as a human rights violation; urges the governments concerned to prohibit female genital mutilation and provide for the rehabilitation and treatment of victims; calls for suitable protection to be given to such women where they seek asylum owing to the threat of physical mutilation;

106. Calls on the EU to put pressure on the UN to undertake a major international study on violence against children, with due regard to institutional and domestic violence, including remedies and rehabilitation; notes that the United States, together with Somalia, is the only country that has not yet ratified the Convention on the Rights of the Child;

107. Welcomes the conclusion and adoption of the Optional Protocol to the abovementioned Convention on the Rights of the Child on the Involvement of Children in Armed Conflicts; calls on all EU Member States to ratify this Protocol without reservations and to adopt without reservation legislation preventing the recruitment and abduction of persons under 18 for military purposes, for instance in Sudan and Uganda; calls for the establishment of an effective Special Court in Sierra Leone to try those responsible for the gravest human rights abuses since 1991;

108. Welcomes the guidelines to EU policy towards third countries on the death penalty; reiterates that the application of the death penalty to persons under 18 years and the mentally retarded contravenes the abovementioned International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights as well as customary international law; calls on all States to introduce a moratorium on executions with a view to completely abolishing the death penalty and reiterates firmly its request to the United States, China, Saudi Arabia, Congo, Iran and other States to immediately end all executions;

109. Calls on the EU to work urgently for a strong Convention on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearances, expresses its deepest concern at the alarming rate of disappearances in Chechnya and Algeria and calls on Colombia to dismantle its paramilitary groups, and end impunity;

110. Welcomes the adoption of the guidelines to EU policy towards third countries on torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, as a decisive step to make the eradication of torture a key objective of the EU human rights policy; encourages Member States and institutions to apply the guidelines strictly; calls on the EU to take measures to guarantee access for the UN rapporteur on torture to countries covered by EU partnership and association agreements;

111. Urges all States that have not yet done so to ratify the UN Convention Against Torture as a matter of priority; calls on all States to promote the drafting and adoption of a strong Optional Protocol to the UN Convention Against Torture, providing for unlimited inspection of places of detention based on the principle of 'any time, any place'; invites all governments to recognise the competence of the UN Committee Against Torture to examine individual complaints and urges them rapidly to establish an effective procedure for the investigation of torture allegations according to UN standards;

112. Welcomes the fact that 139 States signed the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court (ICC) before the 31 December 2000 deadline, and that by that time 27 States had ratified; calls upon all States to ratify before the end of this year; and calls upon all States to continue to support the work of the existing International Criminal Tribunals;

113. Reiterates its call upon all States to end repression and discrimination against peaceful religious and philosophical minorities; urges, in particular, China to end the repression of the Falun Gong as well as its Islamic, Christian and Buddhist population, Russia, Georgia, Syria and many other States to lift their ban on Jehovah's Witnesses, Ukraine to stop discrimination of Greek-Catholics, Armenia to counter hostility against Muslims and Azerbaijan and Turkmenistan to end discrimination against Christians;

114. Urges the EU and its Member States to voice its concern regarding caste discrimination and to formulate strategies to counter this widespread practice, which is affecting 260 million people in India, with countries in South Asia and elsewhere, and in particular in the context of the World Conference Against Racism, to urge that caste discrimination and the dehumanising practice of 'untouchability' be incorporated into the Declaration and Programme of Action of the World Conference Against Racism;

115. Calls upon the EU to investigate to what extent its policies contribute to the abolition of caste-discrimination and the practice of untouchability in India;

116. Stresses that homosexuals are still victims of discrimination, prejudice and denial of their basic human rights in countries all over the world, including some Member States and candidate countries such as Romania; calls upon the eighty countries in the world which still prohibit homosexuality in their domestic law to change this legislation without delay; urges those States which impose the death penalty on homosexuals to stop doing so immediately;

117. Recognises that disabled people, in particular persons with intellectual impairment and persons with severe and multiple disabilities are particularly vulnerable to human rights abuses and that this matter requires serious attention by the EU institutions and by governments throughout the world;

118. Asks the Member States to increase their support for the UN International Decade of the World's Indigenous Peoples, and the EU to support the UN/Ecosoc Indigenous Peoples' Permanent Forum so that it can become operational as soon as possible, as well as the rights of indigenous peoples for appropriate intellectual property laws and for an equitable benefit from the commercial use of their ancestral knowledge; urges all Member States to sign and ratify ILO Convention 169 on Indigenous and Tribal Peoples;

119. Calls on the Member States — in this year of the World Conference against Racism, Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia and Related Intolerance — to take active measures to combat xenophobia and racism against refugees, asylum seekers, and migrants; urges all States to ratify without reservation the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide and the Conventions on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination;

120. Urges Member States to reaffirm their commitments under the 1951 Refugee Convention to protecting refugees and asylum-seekers, and to reverse the current negative policy-trends, signified by increased liability for carriers and stricter visa requirements; urges all states to adopt this Convention and the 1967 Protocol Relating to the Status of Refugees without delay; calls on the EU to accede to the 1990 International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families; calls on the EU and the Member States to gear up their asylum policy to the CFSP to ensure that no asylum-seekers will be sent back to their country of origin without sufficient guarantees for their personal security;

Thursday 5 July 2001

121. Calls for Member States to support the right of genuine conscientious objection from military service and to identify those countries where such objection is not recognised;

122. Calls upon all Member States to enact legally binding restrictive criteria for arms exports, based on their existing commitments under international law, incorporating as a minimum the EU Code of Conduct on Arms Exports; calls for restrictions on licensed production arrangements and the activities of arms brokers and shippers, and effective monitoring and verification of end-use undertakings; urges all States to provide for effective parliamentary scrutiny of arms exports and to improve public transparency through the publication of detailed annual reports on arms exports; calls on Member States to encourage others to adopt similar legally binding practices, unilaterally and through regional and international fora;

123. Urges Member States to consider the fight against the spread of small arms a priority and to advocate the adoption of a comprehensive and effective action programme at the 2001 UN Conference on the Illicit Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects,

124. Calls on Member States to ban the manufacture, promotion, trade and use of police and security equipment for cruel, inhuman or degrading purposes or with medical effects that are not fully known;

125. Condemns the actions of terrorists who, through murder and intimidation, deprive people in many countries of their right to life and to freedom of expression;

126. Urges all states to take practical steps to protect humanitarian aid workers and human rights defenders against all forms of aggression and, when such acts occur, take steps effectively to investigate them and prosecute the perpetrators; recalls the UN Declaration on Human Rights Defenders as adopted on 9 December 1999 and stresses that EU embassies and offices in third countries should monitor the activities of local human rights organisations and defenders and intervene to support and protect these whenever necessary; encourages the EU to support legally, politically and financially those NGOs which, through non-violent means, stand up for the protection of human rights defenders in other countries;

127. With reference to the recent session of the UNCHR in Geneva which was also attended by Members of Parliament, recalls its resolution on the preparation of the meeting, and cannot help but regret the absence of Member State action with regard to co-sponsoring a resolution on China; welcomes the active participation of Member States and the European Commission; congratulates those Member States elected to the UNCHR; notes with regret that the US for the first time failed to be re-elected into the UNCHR; urges the Council and the Commission to ensure that those Member States represented in the UNCHR strictly apply the criteria defined by the EU irrespective of the country concerned;

128. Calls on the European Union to take on a very much more active leading role on human rights questions — not only in relation to the United Nations, but also in all bilateral talks;

14. Fundamental rights in the EU (2000)

A5-0223/2001

European Parliament resolution on the situation as regards fundamental rights in the European Union (2000) (2000/2231(INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union,
- having regard to the second annual report of the European Union on human rights (11317/2000 — C5-0536/2000),
- having regard to the motion for a resolution by the following Members: Staes, Jillian Evans, Knörr Borràs, Maes, Bautista Ojeda, Hudghton, Nogueira Román, MacCormick, Ortuondo Larrea and Eurig Wyn on the protection and direct political representation of linguistic minorities in Friuli-Venezia Giulia, a region with a special statute (B5-0034/2001),
- having regard to all relevant international conventions on the subject,
- having regard to Articles 6 and 7 of the Treaty on European Union,
- having regard to the reports drawn up by the specialised bodies of the Council of Europe and the European NGOs concerned,
- having regard to the public hearing held on 21 March 2001 with the involvement of the national parliaments on the situation as regards fundamental rights in the EU and the establishment of a European area of freedom, security and justice,
- having regard to Rule 163 of its Rules of Procedure,
- having regard to the report of the Committee on Citizens' Freedoms and Rights, Justice and Home Affairs and the opinion of the Committee on Petitions (A5-0223/2001),

Purpose of the annual report and action to be taken

Purpose

1. Notes that the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights, which was proclaimed on 7 December 2000, constitutes a synthesis of the fundamental values upon which the European Union is based and a document to which Articles 6(2), 7 and 29 of the EU Treaty (concerning the establishment of a European area of freedom, security and justice) must in future implicitly and necessarily refer;
2. Notes that, following the proclamation of the Charter, it is therefore the responsibility of the EU institutions to take whatever initiatives will enable them to exercise their role in monitoring respect for fundamental rights in the Member States, bearing in mind the commitments they made in signing the Treaty of Nice on 27 February 2001, with particular reference to new Article 7(1) thereof;
3. Notes that it is the particular responsibility of the European Parliament (by virtue of the role conferred on it under the new Article 7(1) of the Treaty of Nice) and of its appropriate committee to ensure (in cooperation with the national parliaments and the parliaments of the candidate countries) that both the EU institutions and the Member States uphold the rights set out in the various Chapters of the Charter;
4. Notes that, accordingly, this resolution and the report to which it refers constitute an initial attempt (which is of necessity limited and incomplete for lack of adequate resources) to analyse, with reference to the new Article 7(1) of the Treaty of Nice, the situation as regards fundamental rights in the EU in the year 2000 from the perspective of the rights laid down in the Charter;

Action to be taken in the future

EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT

5. Recommends that a permanent dialogue be established between the European Parliament and the Member States' parliaments, which are its natural partners, particularly as regards significant developments in national constitutions, law, policies and practices having an impact on the concept of, and respect for, fundamental rights in the EU;
6. Recommends that a similar dialogue also be established between the European Parliament and the parliaments of the candidate countries;
7. Recommends that the appropriate committees of the European Parliament should continuously consider the situation as regards the fundamental rights as listed particularly in the Charter and any infringements of those rights, so that such matters can be taken into account both in legislative activity and in interinstitutional dialogue;
8. Recommends that the report on respect for fundamental rights in the EU be incorporated into the warning mechanism provided for in Articles 6 and 7 of the Treaty on European Union in accordance with the following principles:
 - assignment of the permanent task of monitoring observance of the Charter to the committee responsible, a task in which the other committees concerned (which will forward observations to that committee in the course of the year) will be involved,
 - the drawing up, on behalf of its competent committee, of an annual report:
 - (a) by a working group including the rapporteurs of the previous, current and following years as well as, for opinion, the rapporteurs of the committee responsible for foreign affairs as regards candidate countries and other committees concerned as regards matters within their competences, and
 - (b) on the basis of the observations gathered by specialist bodies, NGOs and the networks concerned, emphasising in particular the achievements and the failures recorded in the course of the reference year,
 - consideration of this report at an annual meeting between representatives of the European Parliament and those of the relevant committees of the national parliaments,
 - the adoption of the annual report each year (at the latest during the July part-session), while allowing only the committee responsible and the committees asked for opinions to amend both the motion for a resolution and the detailed report upon which it is based; Parliament will consider the report and the draft recommendations in plenary, in accordance with a procedure on the assent procedure,
 - the widest possible dissemination of the report, including on the Internet, and a high profile for the report on Parliament's website and those of the other EU institutions,
 - the subsequent adaptation of the internal rules of the other EU institutions concerned;
9. Recommends that a network be set up consisting of legal experts who are authorities on human rights and jurists from each of the Member States, to ensure a high level of expertise and enable Parliament to receive an assessment of the implementation of each of the rights laid down notably in the Charter, taking account of developments in national laws, the case law of the Court of Justice of the European Communities and the European Court of Human Rights and any notable case law of the Member States' national and constitutional courts;
10. Recommends that pilot projects necessary for this purpose be implemented and financial provision made for them as from 2002 and, in view of the major tasks which Parliament will be required to perform in monitoring compliance with the Charter, that Parliament's Secretary-General, taking account of the Parliament's draft budget for 2002, submit a proposal for providing the European Parliament's competent committee with the requisite administrative support for monitoring fundamental rights in the EU and in the applicant countries with a view to the annual report on the situation as regards those rights, and that the Directorate-General for Research develop the tools needed as quickly as possible;

Thursday 5 July 2001

11. Recommends that information tools be developed (databases, helplines, legal aid), in agreement with relevant institutions in the Member States and NGOs operating in the field of fundamental rights, enabling all persons to gain access to the information they require, and that appropriate pilot schemes be implemented and funded with effect from 2002;

12. Recommends that one or more contact networks and a civil society discussion forum be set up, as provided for in the Council Declaration marking the fiftieth anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights;

COUNCIL

13. Recommends that the Council be involved in the above initiatives for the purpose of preparing its annual report on the human rights situation in the European Union;

14. Recommends that sound practices in the area of fundamental rights be identified in order for a high degree of harmonisation in the protection of these fundamental rights in the EU to be achieved and any threatened infringement of those rights to be prevented;

COMMISSION

15. Recommends that a European day to be held to commemorate the Union Charter of Fundamental Rights and the text of the Charter distributed to all children;

16. Recommends that a Commissioner be appointed within the Commission with responsibility for fundamental rights and the implementation of policies linked to the establishment of an area of freedom, security and justice;

17. Recommends that the Commission reorganise the departments responsible for monitoring the Charter and for ensuring that its principles are observed when defining and implementing Union and Community law;

I. Respect for human dignity (Articles 1 to 5)

Right to life

18. Recommends that Member States step up the fight against terrorism, using all the instruments available to a country governed by the rule of law, in order to safeguard democracy and protect the freedom and the physical and moral integrity of all citizens;

19. Recommends that Member States implement the agreements concluded at the Tampere European Council (15/16 October 1999), in particular the agreements concerning the mutual recognition of judicial decisions in criminal matters, the simplification of the current extradition procedure and the detention and immediate handing over of persons in respect of whom a warrant for arrest has been issued;

Prohibition of torture and inhuman treatment

POLICE

20. Recommends that Ireland ratify the UN Convention against Torture and that Belgium, Ireland and the United Kingdom make the necessary declarations under Article 22 of the Convention recognising the United Nations Committee Against Torture as being competent to receive and examine individual complaints;

21. Recommends that Member States pursue policies for the training and diversification of police staff and the exchange of best practice at European level;

22. Recommends that Member States ensure that persons arrested and detained at police stations have immediate access to legal and medical assistance and, if necessary, to an interpreter;

Thursday 5 July 2001

23. Recommends that Member States set up independent authorities to investigate police activities in those Member States where such authorities do not yet exist;

PRISONS

24. Recommends that Member States improve living conditions as a matter of urgency, particularly as regards access to medical care and activities (including study and vocational training) in prisons, reaffirm the priority to be given to rehabilitation and improve training of prison staff;

25. Recommends that Member States identify and introduce alternatives to short prison sentences wherever possible;

26. Recommends that Member States reduce periods of custody to a minimum and restrict the use of solitary confinement;

27. Recommends that Member States introduce administrative and/or financial penalties for minor offences, by advocating alternative penalties such as community service and by doing all they can to develop open or semi-open prisons and by granting conditional release;

28. Recommends that Member States pay special attention to special vulnerable categories of prisoner:

- minors, for whom prison must be a last resort, with special accommodation provided;
- pregnant women and mothers of very young children, who should enjoy conditions more suited to their needs and to the needs of their young children;
- mentally ill prisoners, who should be given special medical supervision;
- disabled persons, who should have access to services appropriate to their disability;
- persons with drug-addiction problems, who should be able to follow non-compulsory detoxification and treatment programmes;

29. Recommends that Member States adopt prison laws which ensure that prisoners have a right of appeal in disciplinary matters and can exercise their civil and political rights, and set up external inspection and assessment bodies for prisons with links to the European Committee for the Prevention of Torture and Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment;

30. Recommends that Member States set up a European unit for cooperation and exchange of best practice on prisons in the European Union;

31. Recommends that Member States limit detention of asylum seekers to exceptional cases and only for the reasons set out in the UNHCR Guidelines on Applicable Criteria and Standards relating to the Detention of Asylum Seekers;

PROTECTION OF REFUGEE MINORS

32. Recommends that Member States provide better protection for unaccompanied minors, including the assistance, from the earliest possible moment, of a guardian or a legal advisor and the presence of staff who are qualified to deal with the specific requirements of minors;

PSYCHIATRIC INTERNMENT

33. Recommends that Member States adjust their legislation and practices, where necessary, so as to ensure strict respect for criteria governing involuntary internment, appeals procedures, use of special treatments and internment conditions in general;

Thursday 5 July 2001

Prohibition of slavery and forced labour

TRAFFICKING IN HUMAN BEINGS

34. Recommends that Member States ratify, if they have not yet done so:
- the Additional Protocol to the United Nations Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women of 6 October 1999;
 - the new UN Convention against Transnational Organised Crime signed on 15 December 2000;
 - The Hague Convention of 5 October 1961 concerning the powers of authorities and the law applicable in respect of the protection of minors;
 - the Additional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child, on the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography adopted on 25 May 2000;
 - the ILO Convention on the worst forms of child labour adopted on 17 June 1999;
 - the European Convention on the Exercise of Children's Rights of 25 January 1996;
35. Recommends that Member States make trafficking in human beings a specific offence under their criminal law, in connection with the implementation of the forthcoming Council Framework Decision on combating trafficking in human beings⁽¹⁾;
36. Recommends that Member States adopt, in cooperation with the EU and the countries of origin of victims of trafficking:
- information and prevention programmes for potential victims of trafficking in human beings and domestic slavery,
 - national action plans to combat trafficking in human beings and domestic slavery,
 - measures to introduce a special helpline and to devise rehabilitation programmes to assist victims of trafficking in human beings and domestic slavery;
37. Recommends that Member States strengthen their controls and judicial cooperation policy through harmonisation of laws;
38. Recommends that Member States adopt a legally binding instrument designed to ensure suitable protection for the victims of trafficking in human beings, which should be recognised as a ground for 'persecution';
39. Recommends that Member States grant temporary residence permits on humanitarian grounds to victims of trafficking in human beings and domestic slavery for the duration of the inquiry and the judicial procedure to encourage them to cooperate with the authorities and assist in the prosecution of offenders;
40. Recommends that Member States introduce tighter controls on recruitment in sectors involving children and provide expert medical and psychological support for minors who are victims of sexual abuse;
41. Recommends that Member States extradite traffickers in human beings and confiscate the proceeds of their criminal activities to finance a European compensation fund for victims;

DOMESTIC SLAVERY

42. Recommends that Member States make domestic slavery a specific offence under their criminal law;
43. Recommends that Member States grant visas to service staff working in embassies, subject to production of an employment contract, and allow them freely to change employers;

⁽¹⁾ 2001/0024(CNS), Position of the European Parliament of 12 June 2001, 'Texts Adopted', Item 5.

Thursday 5 July 2001

44. Recommends that Member States amend the Vienna Convention of 18 April 1961 on Diplomatic Relations to provide for diplomatic immunity to be waived in the event of human rights abuses resulting from acts carried out by diplomats in their private lives;

45. Recommends that Member States combat domestic slavery in connection with the implementation of the forthcoming Council framework decision on combating trafficking in human beings referred to above;

II. Freedoms (Articles 6 to 19)

Protection of privacy and personal data

46. Recommends that the Council, Commission and Member States take the necessary action to protect the general public against the intrusions of extra-legal communications interception systems such as the Echelon system;

47. Recommends that the Council and the Member States bear in mind that, with regard to the revision of Directive 97/66/EC, the interception and storage of data concerning traffic and location in electronic communications are entirely exceptional measures which must be based on a specific law which is accessible to the general public, be authorised by the judicial or competent authorities, be of limited duration, and be proportionate and necessary within a democratic society; points out that, under the European Convention on Human Rights and pursuant to rulings issued by the Court of Human Rights, any form of wide-scale general or exploratory electronic surveillance is prohibited;

48. Recommends that the Member States apply:

- the United Nations guidelines for the regulation of computerised personal data files of 14 December 1990, and in particular the principles of lawfulness, fairness, accuracy, access by the persons concerned, non-discrimination, security and sanction;
- the Council of Europe Recommendation R(1999)5 on guidelines for the protection of individuals with regard to the collection and processing of personal data on information highways;

49. Recommends that Member States transpose European Parliament and Council Directive 95/46/EC of 24 October 1995 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data⁽¹⁾, so that the EU will have a common legal platform in this area;

50. Recommends that the Union equip itself with a binding legal instrument which offers, in areas within the second and third pillars, guarantees equivalent to those established under Directive 95/46/EC;

Freedom of thought, conscience and religion

51. Recommends that the Member States apply, if they have not yet done so:

- Council of Europe Recommendation 1202 (1993) on religious tolerance in a democratic society;
- Council of Europe Recommendation 1396 (1999) on religion and democracy;

52. Recommends that the Member States focus in particular on the illegal or criminal activities sometimes carried out by cults, which jeopardise the physical and mental integrity of individuals, in particular by means of:

- information and awareness campaigns by specialised independent human rights bodies to ensure that anyone may decide freely whether to join or leave a religious or spiritual movement;
- changes to legal, fiscal and criminal law provisions designed to counteract the illegal activities of some cults;

Thursday 5 July 2001

53. Recommends that Greece should observe strictly the right to conscientious objection, without reference to any religious criteria, and in particular that the Member States concerned should offer an alternative to military service of equal duration, which should not be turned into a punitive form of civilian service;

Freedom of expression and information

54. Recommends that the Member States ratify the European Convention on Transfrontier Television of 5 May 1989, if they have not yet done so;

55. Recommends that the Member States apply the Council of Europe recommendations:

- of 30 November 1997 on the media and the promotion of a culture of tolerance (R(97)21);
- of 22 November 1994 on measures to promote media transparency (R(94)13);

56. Recommends that the Member States observe scrupulously the right of journalists not to disclose their sources of information, in accordance with the Council of Europe recommendation of 8 March 2000 on the rights of journalists not to disclose their sources of information (R(2000)7);

57. Recommends that the Member States display particular vigilance as regards quasi-monopolies or extreme concentrations of ownership in the audiovisual and written press, which are barriers to the expression of pluralism, and establish independent regulatory authorities in those Member States where such authorities do not yet exist;

Right to asylum and rights of citizens from third countries

58. Recommends that the Member States ratify the following international and European conventions, if they have not yet done so:

- Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons of 28 September 1954;
- Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness of 30 August 1961;
- Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment of 10 December 1984;
- Protocol No 4 to the European Convention on Human Rights of 16 September 1963;
- Protocol No 7 to the European Convention on Human Rights of 22 November 1984;
- additional Protocol to the European Convention on Extradition of 15 October 1975;

59. Recommends that the Member States adopt promptly a common policy on asylum procedures, reception of asylum seekers and refugee status that strictly respects the rights of asylum seekers and that is based on a non-restrictive interpretation of the Geneva Convention including persecution by non-state agents and gender-related persecution and on UNHCR recommendations and conclusions, while affording those granted the right of asylum a swift, efficient and just administrative procedure and full integration;

60. Recommends that the Member States consider the possibility of granting subsidiary protection to persons who are not protected by the Geneva Convention but who must not, for humanitarian reasons or because they would be in grave danger, be sent back to their country of origin (victims of trafficking in human beings and domestic slavery);

61. Recommends that the Member States ensure that their asylum policies as well as their border and entry policies respect the principle of non-refoulement and be aware that at present the combination of the Dublin Convention rules and the 'safe third country' and 'safe country of origin' concepts, as well as rules on carrier sanctions and the lack of suspensive effect of certain appeal procedures, constitute a threat to this principle;

62. Recommends an increase in EU financial aid to the UNHCR;

Thursday 5 July 2001

63. Recommends that the Member States make the naturalisation procedure more flexible, so that residents of foreign origin who so desire may acquire full citizenship;

64. Recommends that the Council adopt and the Member States implement without delay the draft directive submitted by the Commission and amended by Parliament on family reunification, in the interests of upholding the right to family life;

III. Equality between citizens (Articles 20 to 26)

Discrimination

65. Recommends that the Member States transpose and implement swiftly the European directives adopted on the basis of Article 13 of the EC Treaty with the aim of combating all discrimination on grounds of sex, race or ethnic origin, religion or belief, disability, age or sexual orientation;

Measures to combat racism

66. Recommends that the Member States ratify the following conventions, if they have not yet done so:

- ILO Convention concerning discrimination in respect of employment and occupation of 25 June 1958;
- Unesco Convention against discrimination in education of 14 December 1960;
- Protocol No 12 to the European Convention on Human Rights of 4 November 2000;

67. Recommends that the Member States swiftly adapt their criminal and civil anti-discrimination laws, in accordance with Council Directive 2000/43/EC of 29 June 2000 implementing the principle of equal treatment between persons irrespective of racial or ethnic origin⁽¹⁾ and make racism an aggravating circumstance in connection with sentencing for violent crimes;

68. Recommends that the Member States set up independent bodies to support and assist victims of racism, where necessary, and introduce strategies to prevent and combat it;

69. Recommends that the Member States implement jointly the legal and ethical measures necessary to punish use of the Internet for racist purposes and, in particular, sign the EuroISPA memorandum of understanding of 6 August 1997 concluded between European associations of Internet access and service providers;

Rights of national minorities

70. Recommends:

- (a) that Belgium, Ireland and Greece, sign and ratify and that Austria, France, Italy, Luxembourg and Portugal, ratify the European Charter for Regional or Minority Languages of 5 November 1992,
- (b) that Belgium and France sign and ratify and that Greece, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and Portugal, ratify the Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities of 1 February 1995;

71. Recommends that the Member States honour their special duty to the various national minorities among the EU population and give due weight to their economic, social, political and cultural rights, in accordance with the above conventions;

Thursday 5 July 2001

72. Recommends that the Member States significantly improve the situation of the Roma/Sinti, in particular by:

- combating all forms of discrimination against this minority, especially in the field of employment and housing;
- introducing educational facilities geared to the needs of Roma/Sinti children;
- increasing the number of parking sites available and introducing a European identity card for itinerants;

Equality between men and women

73. Recommends that the United Kingdom sign and ratify and that Belgium, Germany, Greece, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Portugal, Spain and Sweden, ratify the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women of 6 October 1999;

74. Recommends that the Commission proceed swiftly with the enhancement and expansion of legislation, particularly by:

- updating existing European legislation on equal treatment of men and women on the labour market,
- extending this legislation to other areas of the life of society and not only those of employment, occupation and pay, by way of the adoption of a directive on equal treatment in order to guarantee equality between men and women,
- introducing appropriate penalties for non-compliance, including Treaty infringement procedures pursuant to Article 226 of the EC Treaty,
- mainstreaming the principle of equal treatment in legislation and policy pursuant to Article 3(2) of the EC Treaty,
- developing policies (e.g. on parental leave and part-time work) to enable and encourage men to do their share of care tasks;

75. Recommends that the Member States ratify, if they have not yet done so, the Maternity Protection Convention of 15 June 2000;

76. Recommends that the Member States introduce special laws on individualised social protection rights for women;

77. Recommends that the Member States adopt national plans to promote more balanced participation of women and men in political decision-making, inter alia by encouraging political parties to introduce quota systems in their electoral lists;

78. Recommends that the Member States promote the systematic collection and publication of comparable statistics at national and European level in order to gain a clearer picture of the involvement of men and women in all sectors of economic, social, political and cultural life;

Discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation

79. Recommends that the Member States include sexual orientation in Additional Protocol No 12 to the European Convention on Human Rights as one of the prohibited grounds for discrimination and extend the terms of reference of the European Commission against Racism and Intolerance to include homophobia based on sexual orientation;

80. Recommends that the Member States repeal all remaining discriminatory legislation concerning homosexuality and release from prison all persons jailed under such provisions, and calls in particular on Austria — in accordance with the ruling of the European Commission of Human Rights and the numerous appeals issued by the European Parliament — to revise the provisions concerning the age of consent;

Thursday 5 July 2001

81. Recommends that the Member States prohibit discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and include it as an offence under the criminal or civil law of all Member States, and adopt appropriate employment-law measures to implement Council Directive 2000/78/EC of 27 November 2000 establishing a general framework for equal treatment in employment and occupation ⁽¹⁾;

82. Recommends that the Member States introduce legislation in line with Directive 2000/78/EC, which forbids discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation in access to goods and services, health, housing, education and social protection; notes that to date only eight Member States have equivalent anti-discriminatory legislation;

83. Repeal discriminatory laws against gays and lesbians in criminal codes of current Member States, as well as assuring that they will not ratify any accession of countries which have discriminatory laws against homosexuality, such as Romania's Article 200;

Non-marital relationships

84. Recommends that Member States:

- amend their legislation in order to recognise non-marital relationships between persons of the same or the opposite sex and assign them equal rights,
- put the issue of mutual recognition of legally recognised non-marital relationships on the EU agenda;

85. Recommends that the Member States introduce legislation which prohibits discrimination for long term co-habitants and provides the same judicial protection as for legally married couples;

Rights of children

86. Recommends that the Member States ratify, if they have not yet done so:

- Protocol No 7 to the ECHR of 22 November 1984;
- the European Convention on the Adoption of Children of 24 April 1967;
- the European Convention on the Legal Status of Children born out of Wedlock of 15 October 1975;
- the European Convention on the Exercise of Children's Rights of 25 January 1996;

87. Recommends that the Member States make paedophile acts and child pornography on the Internet specific offences under the criminal law of all Member States, in connection with the implementation of the forthcoming Council Framework Decision on combating the sexual exploitation of children and child pornography ⁽²⁾;

88. Recommends that the Member States create and appoint an Ombudsman for children at European and national level to promote and safeguard the best interests of all children;

89. Recommends that the Member States support the setting-up and continuing operation (including by means of public funding) of bodies which children may contact directly if they are suffering abuse;

90. Recommends that the Member States ensure that all children present on their territory have access to education;

91. Recommends that the Member States launch national information campaigns concerning the conditions governing international adoption aimed at professionals in the sector and applicants for adoption;

Rights of the elderly

92. Recommends that the Member States ratify the revised European Social Charter of 3 May 1996, if they have not yet done so;

⁽²⁾ 2001/0025(CNS), Position of the European Parliament of 12 June 2001, 'Texts Adopted', Item 4.

Thursday 5 July 2001

93. Recommends that the Member States apply the United Nations Principles for Older Persons and include them in their respective national programmes;

94. Recommends that the Member States adopt measures for the increasing numbers of elderly people in society, entitling older persons to equal participation at all levels and in all fields, whether social, cultural or political; considers that particular attention should be paid to employment, health and social protection;

95. Recommends that the Member States recognise the right of every worker, at the time of retirement, to be able to enjoy resources affording him or her a decent standard of living, in accordance with the Community Charter of the Fundamental Social Rights of Workers of 1989;

96. Recommends that the Member States take account of ageing in government policies and practices in the field of employment, health and social protection;

Protection of the disabled

97. Recommends that the Member States ratify, if they have not yet done so, the ILO Convention of 20 November 1983 concerning vocational rehabilitation and employment (disabled persons) and the revised European Social Charter, which guarantees the right to autonomy and social integration;

98. Recommends that the Member States insert in Additional Protocol No 12 to the ECHR 'disability' as one of the grounds for discrimination which must be avoided;

99. Recommends that the Member States apply the United Nations standard rules on the equalisation of opportunities for persons with disabilities;

100. Recommends that the Member States sign the revised European Code of Social Security, which guarantees the vocational retraining of invalids;

101. Recommends that the Member States prepare the European Year of Disabled People in 2003, in line with the Commission proposal, and apply the multiannual action programme to combat discrimination (2001-2006), in order to raise public awareness in the Member States and give a higher profile to questions relating to disabilities;

102. Recommends that the Member States give due weight to the importance of sign language and Braille for the integration of those who use them;

IV. Solidarity (Articles 27 to 38)

Fair working conditions

103. Recommends that the Member States ratify the following conventions, if they have not yet done so:

- United Nations Convention on the Protection of the Rights of all Migrant Workers and Members of their Families of 18 December 1990;
- the revised European Social Charter of 3 May 1996;

104. Recommends that the Member States comply strictly with the minimum work age of 15 years, particularly as regards family firms, home working and agriculture, and penalise infringements;

105. Recommends that the Member States apply the criteria laid down by the Council of Europe for the fair remuneration of adult workers or minors;

106. Recommends that the Member States improve the working conditions and remuneration of temporary or fixed-term contract employees, particularly in the services sector, and take general measures to combat bullying;

107. Recommends that the Member States comply with the provisions requiring adequate notice of dismissal to be given in accordance with the provisions of the revised European Social Charter;

108. Recommends that the Member States step up action to combat undeclared work;

Thursday 5 July 2001

Social protection

109. Recommends that Germany and the Netherlands sign and ratify and that Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Spain, Finland, Greece, Luxembourg, Portugal and the United Kingdom ratify the revised European Social Charter of 3 May 1996;

110. Recommends that the Member States ensure access to affordable quality health care for all, and in particular people on low incomes;

111. Recommends that the Member States ensure that everybody who is living on their territory has access to health care;

112. Recommends that the Member States comply strictly with, and penalise infringements of, the provisions of the revised European Social Charter and the European directive concerning the right to maternity leave as regards duration and payment, while also prohibiting dismissals during this period, including in the domestic work sector;

Combating exclusion

113. Recommends that the Member States guarantee to meet the basic material needs of persons living in extreme poverty, penalise practices which lead to the marginalisation of such persons and vigorously pursue a strategy to reduce large-scale poverty in the EU;

114. Recommends that the Member States adopt the policies necessary to provide decent housing for all those who do not have adequate resources, since lack of housing is one of the main causes of exclusion, and renovate run-down areas by encouraging high-quality architecture;

Consumer protection

115. Recommends that the Council adopt a resolution defining the concept of the precautionary principle so as to arrive at a legal definition of this principle and the conditions under which it should be applied that is as precise and predictable as possible;

116. Recommends that the European Union and its Member States adopt the measures necessary to step up scientific research in sectors which generate serious public concern, ensure the transparency and traceability of products, and provide consumer information;

V. European citizenship (Articles 39 to 46)Right to vote and to stand as a candidate at elections to the European Parliament and municipal elections

117. Recommends that the Member States ratify the following European conventions, if they have not yet done so:

- European Convention on the Participation of Foreigners in Public Life at Local Level of 5 February 1992;
- European Convention on Nationality of 6 November 1997;

118. Recommends that the Member States introduce more transparent and more effective 'governance' of European affairs, together with a genuine public information policy, in order to combat the growing public indifference reflected in the inadequate turnout at European elections;

119. Recommends that the Member States provide better information about elections to citizens of the European Union, so that they can vote in European and local elections in their place of residence;

120. Recommends that the Member States take all possible measures to improve participation in political life by third-country nationals legally resident in EU territory;

121. Recommends that the Member States extend voting rights to citizens of third countries who are long-term residents of the European Union;

Thursday 5 July 2001

122. Recommends that the Member States extend the right to vote and to stand in municipal and European elections, which Article 19 of the EC Treaty grants to citizens of the European Union, to all non-Union citizens who have been legally resident on their territory for at least three years;

Freedom of movement and of residence

123. Recommends that the Commission, the Council and the Member States take all action necessary pursuant to Article 14 of the EC Treaty to ensure that free movement of persons is fully achieved;

124. The new Italian Parliament honour the promise of the previous Italian Government swiftly to repeal the transitional Article XIII of the Italian Constitution;

125. Recommends that the Member States abolish any restrictions (including ones of a constitutional nature) which prevent the free movement of citizens within their own country; individual laws which impose such restrictions (such as those relating to the members of former reigning families) must be regarded as illegal and as contrary to EU legislation and case law;

126. Recommends that the Commission rapidly revise existing rules, inter alia so as to:

- make it easier for students, researchers and retired persons to enjoy the right of residence;
- overcome the difficulties regarding freedom of residence and movement faced by migrant workers, with particular regard to social security benefits and the acquisition of pension rights;
- ensure protection of family life for members of the families of Union citizens;
- extend the right of freedom of movement and residence to third-country nationals who have been legally resident on the territory of a Member State for at least three years;

127. Recommends that the Member States coordinate more closely their policies on expulsion on grounds of public order or public health, with due regard for the case law of the Court of Justice of the European Communities;

128. Recommends that the Member States draw up a European Constitution, to be devised by a Convention and adopted by citizens, with the Charter as a preamble and serving as a genuine social contract that will guarantee the vital requirements of efficiency, transparency and democracy and will make the European Union more accessible;

129. Recommends that in addition to making the Charter into a binding instrument and in order to guarantee a coherent system for protecting fundamental rights throughout Europe, the Member States take the measures necessary to enable the EU to obtain legal personality and to become party to the European Convention on Human Rights;

Right to good administration

130. Recommends that codes similar to the Code of Good Administrative Conduct proposed by the European Ombudsman be adopted in the near future by all EU Institutions and decentralised bodies;

131. Recommends that the principle of public service neutrality be included in the codes of good conduct adopted by the Member States and European Institutions, together with the principles of fairness and impartiality which should guide any administration;

Thursday 5 July 2001

Right of access to documents

132. Recommends that the Member States strictly implement European Parliament and Council Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 of 30 May 2001 regarding public access to European Parliament, Council and Commission documents⁽¹⁾;

VI. Justice (Articles 47 to 50)Right to a fair trial

133. Recommends that the Member States implement Council of Europe Recommendation on the freedom to exercise the profession of lawyer of 25 October 2000 (R(2000)21);

134. Recommends that the Member States speed up legal proceedings, which are too lengthy in some Member States, as stressed by the European Court of Human Rights, and increase the general efficiency of the public administration of justice, in particular by using new information technologies;

135. Recommends that the Member States monitor and, if necessary, penalise delays or intransigence on the part of national administrations in complying with judgments handed down;

136. Recommends that the Member States ensure that judgments of the European Court of Human Rights are implemented without delay by the national courts and that national laws are brought into line with both the ECHR and the case law of the European Court of Human Rights;

137. Recommends that the Member States reform the procedures for gaining access to legal aid in all sectors and for all persons without adequate resources, without restrictions of nationality or place of residence, and significantly improve conditions for access to competent interpreting services free of charge;

Presumption of innocence and right of defence

138. Recommends that the Member States guarantee the principle of the presumption of innocence, including in matters relating to the prevention of terrorism and, in general, adopt all measures to restrict detention in custody to a minimum;

139. Recommends that the Member States agree common minimum standards for certain aspects of procedural law, in particular rules covering pre-trial orders and the rights of the defence, in order to guarantee a common level of fundamental rights protection throughout the EU;

140. Expresses the intention that the substance of this resolution should not in any way limit the future interpretation and development of the rights, freedoms and principles for citizens within the European Union and the obligations and responsibilities of the Member States as laid down in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union;

141. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Court of Justice of the European Communities, the European Court of Human Rights, the European Ombudsman, the Council of Europe and the governments and parliaments of the Member States and of the candidate countries.

15. Death penalty in the world

B5-0484, 0486, 0497, 0504 and 0512/2001

European Parliament resolution on the death penalty in the world and the introduction of a European Day against the Death Penalty

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its previous resolutions on the death penalty,
 - having regard to its resolution of 14 May 1998⁽¹⁾ on the trade of human organs transplanted from executed people in the People's Republic of China,
 - having regard to the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, signed on 10 December 1948, and the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, signed on 4 November 1950,
 - having regard to Article 6 of the Treaty on European Union,
 - having regard to the European Union Charter of Fundamental Rights which was proclaimed at the Nice European Council on 7 December 2000 and, in particular, Articles 2 and 19 thereof,
 - having regard to the call by the presidents of national and international parliaments for the abolition of the death penalty signed at the World Congress against the Death Penalty on 22 June 2001 in Strasbourg,
 - having regard to its resolution of 5 July 2001 on Human Rights in the World⁽²⁾ in 2000 and the European Union's policy on human rights,
 - having regard to the previous resolutions of the UN Commission on Human Rights,
- A. reiterating that the abolition of the death penalty, which is iniquitous, degrading and contrary to the universal principles of justice, is essential to the affirmation of human dignity and for the progressive development of human rights, the first of which is the right to life,
- B. whereas the death penalty is carried out in thirty-eight of the US States, often unfairly against the innocent, the poor, minorities, the mentally ill, the mentally retarded and juveniles,
- C. congratulating the Swedish Presidency on its excellent and exemplary efforts to implement the EU guidelines on the death penalty, and underlining that this question should continue to be one of the highest human rights priorities under the Belgian Presidency,
- D. regretting, nevertheless, that according to Amnesty International during the year 2000 at least 1 475 prisoners were executed and 3 058 individuals were sentenced to death; stressing that 88 % of these executions took place in only four countries: China, Iran, Saudi Arabia and the United States of America; regretting also that amongst those executed there were many who had not reached the age of majority at the time of their crime or were mentally handicapped,
- E. stressing in this light the importance of the first World Congress Against the Death Penalty, which took place in Strasbourg on 21, 22 and 23 June 2001,
- F. concerned at the high number of miscarriages of justice leading to the application of the death penalty, as exemplified by the case of Joaquín José Martínez, who was recently acquitted after spending several years awaiting execution,
1. Supports the 'Strasbourg Appeal' of 22 June 2001 for the abolition of the death penalty and for a worldwide moratorium on executions to be implemented without delay;
2. Once more strongly condemns the use of the death penalty — which currently continues to be applied in 87 countries — particularly in the case of executions of minors or mentally handicapped people;

⁽²⁾ 'Texts Adopted', Item 13.

Thursday 5 July 2001

3. Proposes that a European Day against the Death Penalty be introduced, as the ultimate means of exerting pressure for the death penalty to be abolished in those countries where it continues to exist;
 4. Commits the Belgian Presidency of the Council to reintroducing and this time bringing to a vote in the United Nations General Assembly of September 2001 a resolution on the abolition of the death penalty and to taking all steps necessary to obtain its adoption;
 5. Regrets the resumption of executions under federal law in the United States after a de facto moratorium of 38 years; calls on the USA to suspend any further executions and to respect the prohibition of the death penalty, as enumerated in several international instruments, against juvenile defendants, as well as the mentally handicapped; calls on the USA to withdraw forthwith its reservation concerning Article 6 of the International Covenant of Civil and Political Rights;
 6. Calls on the Commission and the Council to make full use of the items in the 2001 budget set aside for the promotion of democracy and human rights, treating as a matter of priority and urgency any Community initiative aimed at achieving a moratorium on, and repeal of, the death penalty and giving practical support to all non-governmental organisations acting to this end;
 7. Calls on the Commission to present to Parliament regular reports on the implementation of all the resolutions so far adopted;
 8. Calls on the Russian Federation, Turkey and Armenia to fulfil their obligations as members of the Council of Europe and to abolish the death penalty without further delay;
 9. Is deeply concerned by the recent massive recourse to execution for common crimes and ideological and religious dissent, as a supposed instrument of social control, in the People's Republic of China, and the inhumanity and secrecy which characterise the executions by hanging in Japan,
 10. Calls on the Commission to consider the abolition of the death penalty and a universal moratorium on executions as an essential element in relations between the European Union and third countries, and to take this issue into account in concluding agreements with third countries;
 11. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and Commission, the Parliaments of the Member State, the governments of the countries referred to in this resolution which apply the death penalty, the UN Secretary-General and the Chairman of the UN Commission on Human Rights.

16. Beijing's application to host the 2008 Olympic Games

B5-0487, 0498, 0505 and 0524/2001

European Parliament resolution on Beijing's bid to host the 2008 Olympic Games

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its previous resolutions on the situation in the People's Republic of China (PRC),
- having regard to the conclusions of the General Affairs Council of 19 March 2001, in which the Council expressed its concern at the serious human rights violations in the PRC,
- recalling the city of Beijing's bid to host the 2008 Olympic Games,
- recalling that the Charter of the Olympic Games states that Olympism has as a goal 'to place sport at the service of the harmonious development of humankind, with the objective of creating a peaceful society with the preservation of human dignity',

Thursday 5 July 2001

- A. whereas freedom of opinion and freedom to hold demonstrations in favour of democracy have been repressed for decades and are still being repressed, despite international protests,
 - B. having regard to the repression of religious, ethnic and other minorities, in particular Tibetans, Uighurs and Mongolians and the Falun Gong movement,
 - C. having regard to the frequent imposition of capital punishment, leading to over a thousand reported executions in China every year, as well as the widespread use of torture by the Chinese police and military forces,
 - D. recalling that the PRC has still not ratified the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights,
 - E. whereas the Chinese authorities have taken no significant initiatives on respect for human rights, despite the ongoing political dialogue between the EU and the PRC,
 - F. concerned with regard to environmental and animal welfare issues in the PRC,
 - G. stressing that the plans relating to Beijing's bid to host the 2008 Olympic Games would involve the destruction of a large part of the old city and the obligatory transfer of the inhabitants to the surrounding areas,
 - H. recalling that the International Olympic Committee is due to designate, on 13 July 2001 in Moscow, the city that will host the 2008 Olympic Games,
1. Invites the International Olympic Committee to establish guidelines to include respect for human rights and democratic principles to be applied as a general rule to host countries of Olympic Games,
 2. Regrets that the PRC clearly fails to uphold universal human, civil and political rights, including freedom of religion; believes therefore that this negative record and the repression in Tibet, in Uighuristan and South Mongolia, make it inappropriate to award the 2008 Olympic Games to Beijing;
 3. Urges the International Olympic Committee in any case to make a thorough environmental impact assessment with regard in particular to the recurrent water shortages, the impact of mass tourism and the social repercussions in the region surrounding Beijing;
 4. Invites the International Olympic Committee to reconsider Beijing's candidacy when the authorities of the PRC have made a fundamental change in their policy on human rights, and the promotion of democracy and the rule of law;
 5. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Presidents of the parliaments of the Member States, and to the International Olympic Committee.

17. Human rights: UNGA special session on the rights of the child

B5-0483, 0490, 0495, 0496, 0506 and 0513/2001

European Parliament resolution on the EU positions in the Special Session on Children of the UN General Assembly

The European Parliament,

- recalling its previous resolutions on children's rights, in particular the resolution of 17 December 1998 on child soldiers⁽¹⁾, the resolution of 28 January 1999 on the protection of families and children⁽²⁾ and the resolution of 17 May 2001 on forced labour by African children⁽³⁾,

⁽³⁾ 'Texts Adopted', Item 16.

Thursday 5 July 2001

- having regard to the 1989 United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, which was ratified by 191 countries,
 - having regard to the EU-sponsored resolution on the rights of the child, which was adopted by the UN Commission on the Rights of the Child on 25 April 2001 (UNCHR resolution 2001/75),
 - having regard to the UN General Assembly's Special Session on the rights of the child to be held in New York in September 2001,
 - having regard to the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights, which was proclaimed at the European Council at Nice on 7 December 2000, in particular Article 24 thereof, the Charter being a breakthrough for children's rights in the EU,
- A. whereas at the World Summit for Children in 1990 world leaders adopted a plan of action on behalf of the children of the world which contained far-reaching goals aimed at improving the health and development of children, including reducing mortality rates and malnutrition, and improving access to safe drinking water and sanitation,
- B. whereas new international standards and instruments enhancing child protection have been adopted, such as the Mine Ban Treaty of Ottawa, the Rome Statute for the International Criminal Court, the Optional Protocols to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on
- (1) the involvement of children in armed conflict and
 - (2) the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography, and ILO Convention 182 on the Prohibition and Immediate Action for the Elimination of the Worst Forms of Child Labour,
- C. whereas, although the Convention on the Rights of the Child is almost universally ratified, its implementation leaves a great deal to be desired,
- D. whereas demographic, sociological, technological and scientific changes are creating problems which affect social and human development, such as poverty, social exclusion and the breakdown of family life, of which children are always the main victims,
- E. whereas, in spite of the International Convention, the situation of children continues to deteriorate in many countries, including certain countries in the EU,
- F. whereas 10 million children under five years of age die every year of preventable diseases and malnutrition, and whereas sexually transmitted infections, including HIV, affect millions of children, especially adolescent girls,
- G. whereas over 110 million children of primary school age, the majority of them girls, are not enrolled in school, millions are taught by untrained and underpaid teachers in overcrowded, unhealthy and poorly equipped schools, and one third of all children fail to complete five years of schooling,
- H. whereas millions of girls are victims of female genital mutilation,
- I. whereas Unicef estimates that two hundred thousand children are sold yearly in Western and Central Africa, to be employed as unpaid labourers in households, on cocoa and cotton estates or in the sex industry,
- J. deeply concerned at the growth of sexual exploitation of children, prostitution and child pornography,
- K. whereas on 25 May 2000 the UN General Assembly adopted an Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on the involvement of children in armed conflict,
- L. whereas the new Protocol establishes 18 as the minimum age for participation in armed conflict, for compulsory recruitment and for any recruitment or use in armed conflict by armed groups,

Thursday 5 July 2001

- M. whereas, while to date 79 countries have signed the Optional Protocol, including all 15 Member States, it has only been ratified by 4 countries — Andorra, Bangladesh, Canada and Sri Lanka — and whereas the Protocol cannot come into force until it has been ratified by 10 countries,
- N. recalling the number of cases of missing children in the world and the anguish of their parents who do not know what has happened to them, including the case of Simón Riquelo, who was captured together with his mother Sara Mendez in June 1976 in Uruguay,
- O. whereas millions of children have been killed in wars over the last ten years and tens of thousands of children continue to be involved in armed conflict,
- P. whereas the Special Session of the UN General Assembly on Children, which will take place in New York in September 2001, provides a good opportunity to find ways and mechanisms for the implementation of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child,
- Q. whereas a wide range of children's rights — including civil rights and freedoms and the right to protection from abuse, economic and sexual exploitation and violence — have become widely recognised and should be reflected in the Action Plan of the Special Session,
1. Calls on the EU and its Member States to work actively together to ensure that the outcome of the Special Session:
- reinforces the Convention on the Rights of the Child and hastens the full implementation of the Convention, by placing children and families at the centre of the decision-making process, particularly as regards policies on education, health, social questions and matters of justice;
 - supports universal ratification and implementation of the key new treaties developed during the past decade which strengthen the protection of children's rights;
 - reflects in its goals the importance of the critical rights of children to protection from violence, exploitation and abuse, as well as to health, education and nutrition;
 - supports the view that the 'family is the fundamental unit of society and holds the primary responsibility for the protection, upbringing and development of children', as stated in Unicef's draft outcome document under preparation for the Special Session;
 - ensures that strong mechanisms are put in place to monitor government obligations and commitments, including meaningful participation by non-governmental organisations and civil society;
2. Suggests, therefore, that a 'world fit for children' — the title of the Special Session — has to be at the same time a world fit for the family, in line with subsidiarity; considers, therefore, that government policies have to be devised accordingly in order to achieve the best human and social environment for children and to provide those that are deprived of natural family protection and support with the best possible family-like social responses;
3. Expresses its support for the proposal to adopt a Common Strategy on the Rights of the Child and calls on the Council to work on this common strategy as a priority;
4. Calls on the EU and its Member States to insist that the outcome document proposes measures to protect developing countries from the negative impact of globalisation, including the development of global trade rules that work for the benefit of all children and encouragement of greater corporate social responsibility for children by multinational companies;
5. Calls on the Member States to make the implementation of the Convention on the Rights of the Child, the ratification and implementation of key new treaties developed during the past decade which strengthen the protection of children's rights and the implementation of the commitments agreed during the 2001 Special Session a national and European priority, in the light of Article 24 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights;

Thursday 5 July 2001

6. Urges the Council and Member States to ensure that strong and meaningful mechanisms are put in place to monitor government obligations and commitments made at the Special Session;
7. Calls on the Council to nominate an EU Special Envoy charged with coordinating EU activities in the area of children's rights and ensuring full respect for and implementation of a future EU common strategy on children's rights;
8. Calls on the Member States to establish an independent body to monitor the implementation of the outcome document of the Special Session and to adopt a comprehensive national action plan, with specific, time-bound and measurable objectives;
9. Calls on the Council to make the ratification of the new treaties by third countries a priority in its political dialogue with these countries, and to make the ratification and implementation of these treaties an important element in talks with candidate countries;
10. Calls on the Commission to ensure that EU policies and programmes contain a children's rights and protection perspective and are subjected to child-impact analyses in order to assess their potential implications for children;
11. Calls on the Member States at the next Intergovernmental Conference to include a legal base in the Treaties for the promotion of a child perspective and compliance with the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child;
12. Asks the Council and Commission to ensure that the rights of the child are part of the negotiating process on human rights in accordance with the Copenhagen criteria for accession and calls on the Commission to make an assessment of all the candidate countries from the point of view of children's rights in the annual progress reports;
13. Calls on the Presidency to report to Parliament on EU efforts and priorities for the 2001 Special Session as expressed during the Ungass Prepcom;
14. Calls on the bodies and governments concerned to do everything in their power to solve the cases of missing children;
15. Calls on the Member States and other countries to do everything possible to speed up the universal ratification of the Optional Protocol on the involvement of children in armed conflict, so that substantial progress regarding the early entry into force of the Optional Protocol, which lays the basis for a global ban on the use of child soldiers, can be announced at the UN Special Session on Children;
16. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Co-Presidents of the ACP-EU Joint Parliamentary Assembly, the national parliaments of the EU Member States, the UNGASS secretariat, UNICEF and the national delegations at the UN General Assembly's Special Session on Children.

18. Human rights: Religious freedom in Vietnam

B5-0482, 0488, 0499, 0507, 0514 and 0521/2001

European Parliament resolution on religious freedom in Vietnam

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its previous resolutions on the situation in Vietnam of 19 January 1995, 15 May 1997, 16 March 1998 and 16 November 2000,
- A. whereas Vietnam as a state party to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR) must uphold freedom of religious belief and worship as enshrined in its Article 18,

Thursday 5 July 2001

- B. whereas Article 70 of Vietnam's constitution guarantees freedom of faith and religion,
 - C. concerned at the further increase in tension between the government and the religious communities in Vietnam as well as the many instances of persecution of religious leaders, following the ninth Congress of the Vietnamese Communist Party from 19 to 22 April 2001,
 - D. concerned at the criticism expressed in March 1999 on religious persecution in Vietnam by the United Nations Special Rapporteur on Religious Intolerance, Mr Abdelfattah Amor,
 - E. having regard to the persecution of leaders of the Unified Buddhist Church of Vietnam, including its Patriarch, the Very Venerable Thich Huyen Quang, detained without charge or trial for 20 years, set free in 1997, but still not allowed to leave his place of detention, and the Venerable Thich Quang Do, amnestied in 1998 after 20 years of detention, but sentenced to two years of administrative detention after he tried to arrange for medical attention for the ailing Patriarch,
 - F. having regard to the persecution suffered by Catholics, in particular the imprisonment of Father Nguyen Van Ly on 17 May 2001 for having practised his religion following a ban issued by the Vietnamese authorities,
 - G. having regard to the persecution of all followers of so-called non-recognised churches, notably the Cao Dai Church, the Hoa Hao Church and Protestant Churches,
 - H. having regard to the violent State repression in February 2001 of a massive protest by ethnic minorities of the high plains of central Vietnam, who were protesting against the confiscation of their ancestral lands, religious persecution and the ban on their conversion to Protestantism,
 - I. whereas respect for human rights and democratic principles is an essential element in the 1995 cooperation agreement between the European Union and Vietnam,
- 1. Calls on the Government of Vietnam to implement the recommendations of the UN Special Rapporteur on Religious Intolerance, and in particular to guarantee the right of all people in Vietnam to practise the religion of their choice, including the right to freedom of worship and the right of assembly;
 - 2. Calls for the release of all prisoners of conscience, especially the Very Venerable Thich Huyen Quang, the Venerable Thich Quang Do and Father Nguyen Van Ly, and for them to be granted freedom of movement;
 - 3. Calls on the Vietnamese authorities to respect the religious freedoms of Buddhists, Catholics, Protestants as well as all other so-called non-recognised churches and to stop all anti-religious campaigns throughout the country;
 - 4. Calls on the Vietnamese Government to ensure the 'safe, dignified and voluntary' return of those who fled from the high plains of central Vietnam to Cambodia, as agreed with the UNHCR, while guaranteeing freedom of faith and worship;
 - 5. Calls on the ambassadors to Vietnam of the Member States and the European Union to follow developments in this connection with the closest attention and to report to Parliament in the framework of relations between the Council, Commission and Parliament;
 - 6. Asks its Delegation for relations with the Member States of Asean, South-East Asia and the Republic of Korea to plan a visit to Vietnam to meet religious leaders of all confessions, especially those who have been imprisoned;
 - 7. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam and the representatives of the Vietnamese Unified Buddhist Church, the Cao Dai Church, the Hoa Hao Church, the Catholic Church and the Protestant Churches.

19. Human rights: South Africa

B5-0489, 0500, 0509, 0511 and 0522/2001

European Parliament resolution on the situation in South Africa

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its previous resolutions on South Africa,
 - having regard to its resolution of 15 March 2001 on access to pharmaceutical products for AIDS victims in the Third World⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to its delegation's report on the 6th EP/South Africa Interparliamentary Meeting,
- A. whereas the new, democratic South Africa, which is free of institutionalised racial segregation, is a crucial element in the political stability and economic development of the African continent and of southern Africa in particular, standing as it does as proof that there is an alternative to underdevelopment, war, despotism, corruption and bad government,
- B. whereas South Africa is currently experiencing a number of very grave problems, to which the EU and the international community cannot remain indifferent, ranging from the AIDS epidemic (4,5 million people with HIV/AIDS), which affects mostly young people and therefore a significant part of the active population, alarming unemployment levels and economic stagnation to extremely worrying levels of violent crime,
- C. whereas the second democratic elections organised on an all-race, multi-party basis were successful and largely peaceful,
- D. whereas, despite the successful completion of the political changeover, the task of consolidation must address the problems of poverty, unemployment and inequality,
- E. whereas the poorest 20 % of the population receives 3,3 % of GDP and the richest 10 % receive 47,3 % of GDP, and the level of unemployment is almost 30 %,
- F. whereas the tragic impact of the alarming crime levels is felt not only by the South African people themselves but also by the European immigrant communities in the country, who find themselves even more exposed to the impact of crime due to their involvement in economic activities linked to trade,
- G. whereas these communities make a decisive contribution to economic development and job creation in South Africa,
- H. whereas, although figures for certain types of crime have fallen slightly in the last year, crime in general is tending to become a standard feature of city life,
- I. whereas the prevailing climate of insecurity is having a very negative effect on the process of economic recovery, which is essential to the stability of the new, democratic South Africa of the post-apartheid era, particularly the inflow of foreign capital and the development of tourism,
- J. whereas, as a result of apartheid, the Republic of South Africa had developed a largely self-sufficient economy and must now face the challenges of the globalisation of trade,
- K. whereas South Africa must under no circumstances be allowed to become caught in a vicious circle in which growing insecurity means less economic development, thus engendering more poverty and more insecurity,
- L. alarmed that violence against women in South African society is widely recognised as having reached one of the highest levels in the world,

Thursday 5 July 2001

- M. appalled in particular by the problems of sexual violence in schools,
- N. whereas South Africa would have serious difficulties in overcoming these problems without the support and solidarity of the international community, in which the role of the European Union is crucial in so far as the Union and its Member States account for 70 % of international aid to the country (EU cooperation with South Africa is scheduled at € 885 million to 2006, plus EIB funding of € 135 million per annum),
- O. whereas the South African President, Thabo Mbeki, has called on corporations to do more to foster economic growth and black empowerment within the country's economy,
1. Calls on the South African Government to make the necessary efforts to enhance sustainable development and raise the living standard of the majority of the black population;
 2. Fully supports the South African Government in its efforts, together with the Zimbabwean authorities, to find a solution to those conflicts which could influence the economic attractiveness of the whole region;
 3. Calls on the South African Government for an even greater, straightforward policy commitment to fighting poverty and social inequalities and to creating jobs, since poverty, inequality, poor education and unemployment are all factors working against the consolidation of democracy;
 4. Calls on the South African Government to speed up the land reform in favour of the landless and the poor by due process of law;
 5. Urges the South African Government to face up to its responsibility and do everything in its power to combat the HIV/AIDS problem; calls therefore for a clearly defined project to be set up to deal with prevention, care and treatment of HIV/AIDS;
 6. Calls on the relevant authorities to step up their efforts in fighting crime and insecurity, while ensuring that the fight against crime does not jeopardise respect for human rights;
 7. Calls on the South African Government to adopt a national plan of action, to issue guidelines to schools on procedures to deal with sexual violence and to adopt methods to prevent such behaviour, as well as protecting girls;
 8. Recalls that, apart from reducing poverty, one of the other main priorities of the European Programme for Reconstruction and Development (EPRD) in South Africa is 'to consolidate the foundations laid for a democratic society and a state governed by the rule of law, in which human rights and fundamental freedoms are fully respected';
 9. Calls on the Member States, the Commission, the European Investment Bank and the international community to offer their assistance to the South African Government within their respective established programmes with South Africa, to devise new measures to prevent and combat crime, and step up existing measures with a view to promoting the climate of greater security required for economic development and a peaceful society;
 10. Believes that in the context of the budgetary debate particular attention should be paid to forms of cooperation which are directly linked to combating HIV/AIDS and eradicating poverty and unemployment, and to measures for reforming the judiciary and the police system and for training policemen;
 11. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the governments and parliaments of the Member States, the Government of the Republic of South Africa, the OAU and the Co-Presidents of the ACP-EU Joint-Parliamentary Assembly.

20. Human rights: Belarus

B5-0481, 0491, 0501, 0508, 0516 and 0523/2001

European Parliament resolution on Belarus

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its previous resolutions on the political situation in Belarus,
 - having regard to the Council's declaration of 11 June 2001 on the upcoming presidential elections in Belarus, which are scheduled for 9 September 2001,
 - having regard to the meeting between the Chairman-in-Office of the Organisation for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE), the Romanian Foreign Minister Mircea Geoana, and Ambassador Hans-Georg Wieck, Head of the OSCE Advisory and Monitoring Group (AMG) in Belarus on 22 May 2001, when the successful work of the AMG was emphasised and there was a call for sustained and continued efforts towards improving dialogue with the Belarus authorities, other political forces and civil society in Belarus,
 - having regard to the activities and reports of the Parliamentary Troika on Belarus of the European Parliament, the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe and the OSCE Parliamentary Assembly,
 - having regard to the Partnership and Cooperation Agreement with Belarus, which was signed in March 1995, but could not enter into force, because of the lack of basic democratic structures in Belarus,
- A. recalling that the European Parliament and the other parliamentary institutions had to conclude that the October 2000 parliamentary elections could not be considered as free and fair because insufficient progress had been made by the Belarus authorities on the criteria regarding transparency of the electoral process, the registration of candidates, access to the media, meaningful powers for the newly elected Parliament and the observance of a 'peace period' in relations with the opposition,
- B. recalling that the Parliamentary Troika for Belarus has formulated similar criteria with regard to the presidential elections,
- C. noting that serious discussions are still taking place between representatives of the three institutions of the Parliamentary Troika, regarding the preparations for the presidential elections and the possibility of carrying out an observer mission on that occasion,
- D. noting the important role being carried out by the OSCE's AMG in Belarus, in particular with regard to creating the necessary conditions for the process of democratisation in Belarus and the establishment of a system for democratic monitoring of the presidential elections by local observers, and supporting this work and the availability of financial aid provided by the EU for the training of local election observers,
- E. noting that opposition politicians continue to be denied access to the State-controlled press and electronic media,
- F. deeply concerned about the ongoing cases of media harassment in Belarus, leading to the cancellation of the visit by Freimut Duve, the OSCE Representative for Freedom of the Media, scheduled for 25 April 2001,
- G. stressing the need to continue the talks held by the European institutions and the OSCE AMG with Belarus authorities on improving the framework conditions for the forthcoming presidential elections,
- H. emphasising once again that the European Union, via the Partnership and Cooperation Agreement with Belarus, has sought to strengthen its relations with Belarus and to give its full support to the necessary process of economic and democratic reform in that country,

Thursday 5 July 2001

- I. considering the case of the contested trial of Professor Bandazhevsky as symptomatic of the problems and deficiencies in the normalisation of the political and judicial spheres, as well as social and health issues in Belarus,
 - J. considering that numerous violations of the Penal Code were noted during the investigation into this case, as well as during the trial,
1. Calls on the President and the Government of Belarus to create the necessary conditions for free and democratic elections for the presidency of the country;
 2. Stresses that the following criteria must be fulfilled if the presidential elections are to be recognised as free and democratic:
 - full transparency of the electoral process in all its aspects, in particular as regards the process of registering candidates, the composition of the electoral commissions and the counting of the votes,
 - equal conditions for all candidates in particular as regards access to the mass media, especially electronic media, and other possibilities for organising their election campaign,
 - all State and Government bodies to refrain completely from any act that may be considered as harassment of candidates, their relatives or their supporters,
 - the guarantee that all those engaged in (especially non-candidate related) presidential election observation and the recruitment and training for these activities will be completely free to carry out their work, also in cooperation with international institutions, which constitutes an essential element in the transparency and verifiability of the electoral process;
 3. Calls upon the Belarus authorities to stop hindering the activities of the OSCE AMG aimed at strengthening of the democratic process in the country;
 4. Calls on the Belarus authorities to restore international standards in the fields of human rights and freedom of the press and of speech, as laid down by the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, as well as the Paris Charter for a new Europe, to which Belarus is a signatory, and which is also the basis for the Partnership Agreement between Belarus and the EU;
 5. Calls on the Parliamentary Troika for Belarus to put forward a coordinated and united proposal regarding the observation of the presidential elections in Belarus;
 6. Expresses its growing concern about the persistent obstruction of the investigations into the disappearance of political opponents and the continuing imprisonment of citizens without any charges being brought;
 7. Calls on the Russian Government and President Putin to support, within the political union between Russia and Belarus, a democratic multi-party system and pluralistic development in Belarus;
 8. Calls on President Loukachenko to ensure that the cases of disappeared persons are cleared up as soon as possible, to investigate the allegations made by the public prosecutors concerning the case of Mr Zavadsky that official representatives of the State are implicated in these cases, and to create an atmosphere within the country in which persons who express criticism no longer have to fear for their lives and those of their families;
 9. Welcomes the commitment of the Polish authorities to preventing the emergence of a 'Brussels-curtain' along its eastern borders, upon accession to the EU, by planning for easily available, multi-entry and low-cost visas, through the establishment of a dense network of consulates in Belarus, Ukraine and Russia;
 10. Calls for the preparation of an action programme for Belarus, based on those already benefiting the former Republics of Eastern Europe, taking into account the unique environmental situation of this republic;
 11. Calls on President Loukachenko to grant a presidential pardon to Professor Bandazhevsky and to reconsider the Belarus government's policy of returning evacuated people to the polluted territories; demands that aid be granted by the EU for Professor Bandazhevsky to continue his work;
 12. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Government of Belarus, the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe and the OSCE Parliamentary Assembly.

21. Human rights: situation of refugees from Burundi in Tanzania

B5-0494/2001

European Parliament resolution on the situation of Burundian refugees in Tanzania

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its previous resolutions on the situation in the Great Lakes area in general, and Burundi in particular,
 - having regard to the Arusha agreements,
 - having regard to the Geneva Convention of 1951, in particular Article 33 thereof,
 - having regard to the Convention against Torture, in particular Article 3 thereof,
- A. whereas more than half a million Burundians have been surviving in refugee camps on Tanzanian territory for more than eight years,
- B. whereas in Burundi no solution has been found to the causes of this exodus, the current situation does not ensure respect for even the most basic human rights, and there are thousands of displaced persons inside Burundi, for whose situation no solution has yet been found,
- C. having regard to the statement made by the President of Tanzania, Mr Mkapa, on 24 May 2001, in which he said that the international community should relocate all the Burundian refugees residing in Tanzania to safe places in Burundi,
- D. having regard to the last meeting of the Burundian and Tanzanian Defence Ministers held on 24 June 2001, in which, to judge by the joint declaration issued following the meeting, they agreed to start a process of relocating or repatriating the Burundian refugees currently in Tanzania,
- E. having regard to past experience in 1996 when, after statements to this effect were made by the Tanzanian Government, thousands of Rwandan refugees were repatriated from Tanzania, which demonstrated that untimely repatriation carried out in the wrong conditions merely causes more distress,
- F. having regard to the latest visit by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, Ruud Lubbers, to the Mtabila refugee camp, when the various NGOs conveyed to him the refugees' reservations concerning their possible repatriation, and bearing in mind the problems involved in implementing the Arusha Agreements,
- G. whereas many of the refugees who spontaneously returned to Burundi after the peace agreements were signed are now returning to Tanzania because of the violence and famine,
- H. whereas in Burundi alone there are more than 580 000 displaced persons living in refugee camps, because of the insecure situation in which the civilian population of Burundi is living,
- I. whereas international observers have drawn attention to the considerable increase in the number of military forces in the last few weeks and have noticed that contingents of Burundian guerrillas have returned to Burundi across the border with the Democratic Republic of the Congo,
- J. having regard to the serious concern expressed by the various NGOs working in the Burundian camps in Tanzania regarding the international community's silence in response to the possibility of the Burundians being forcibly repatriated in the near future,

1. Reminds the Tanzanian Government that to repatriate the refugees at this point would constitute an infringement of Article 33 of the Geneva Convention of 1951, to which it is a signatory, and Article 3 of the Convention against Torture;

Thursday 5 July 2001

2. Supports and welcomes the steps taken by the Tanzanian Government so far with regard to the Burundian refugees on its territory and recognises that the solution to the problem of refugees and displaced persons depends on the parties involved in the conflict in Burundi and their ability to engage in dialogue, in the interests of bringing the war to an end;
 3. Agrees with a number of NGOs who consider the Burundian Government to be exaggerating when it accuses Tanzania of allowing militias to prepare military actions in the refugee camps with a view to carrying them out in Burundi;
 4. Expresses solidarity with all those who are working to bring peace to Burundi and stability to the Great Lakes region;
 5. Encourages the mediator in the peace process in Burundi, Mr Nelson Mandela, to continue his efforts to gather all those involved in the conflict around one table and welcomes the convening of a summit meeting in Tanzania next month, to which the nineteen signatories to the Arusha Agreements have been invited;
 6. Calls on the Commission, the Member States and the governments of the Great Lakes region to take the measures they deem appropriate to assist the Tanzanian Government in its task of helping the Burundian refugees;
 7. Points out that the UNHCR has issued a statement to the effect that at present the Burundian refugees in Tanzania cannot be repatriated owing to the situation still prevailing in Burundi;
 8. Calls on the Commission and the Council to take all diplomatic steps possible vis-à-vis the Tanzanian Government to ensure that the Burundian refugees in Tanzania are not repatriated until the political situation in Burundi changes;
 9. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the heads of governments of Tanzania and Burundi, the Secretary-General of the United Nations and the signatories to the Arusha Agreements.

22. Illegal exploitation of natural resources in Democratic Republic of Congo

B5-0485, 0492, 0502, 0510 and 0517/2001

European Parliament resolution on the illegal exploitation of natural resources in the Democratic Republic of Congo

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its previous resolutions on the Congo and the Great Lakes region,
- having regard to the report of the panel of experts of 12 April 2001 on the illegal exploitation of natural resources and other forms of wealth in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC),
- whereas the UN report did not include the exploitation and looting of natural resources and other forms of wealth by foreign armies in government-controlled territories,
- whereas this report concludes that the main reasons for the conflict in the DRC are now access to five vital mineral resources — colombo tantalite (coltan), cobalt, diamonds, copper and gold and the control of and trade in these minerals,
- whereas aeronautical, computer, telecommunications and armaments industries support the mining of coltan because of its high resistance to high and low temperature,
- whereas the UN report considers that these activities go beyond what can be qualified as 'illegal exploitation' and amount to 'systematic looting',

Thursday 5 July 2001

- A. whereas the overwhelming majority of the Congolese people are living in abject poverty although the country has vast natural resources,
 - B. whereas since independence the vast majority of the population has not benefited from the exploitation of these natural resources,
 - C. whereas rebel groups and foreign armies are involved, according to this report, in large-scale looting of the DRC's natural resources,
 - D. whereas plundering, looting, racketeering and criminal cartels are commonplace,
 - E. whereas the revenue from this looting is used to fund the war effort and is resulting in the personal enrichment of senior echelons of the military and politicians in several African countries,
 - F. whereas some western companies have benefited from the looting by importing these natural resources and using them in their activities without verifying the original sources,
 - G. whereas, according to the UN report, two Member States of the European Union are among the three most important final destinations of this looting,
 - H. whereas there is a clear link between this exploitation and the continued conflict, as this looting helps finance armies and fuels the war,
 - I. whereas the cessation of this illegal exploitation will help bring about an end to hostilities,
 - J. whereas the illegal exploitation has had devastating effects on the Congolese people and on the country's flora, fauna and natural parks,
 - K. whereas it is essential for the development and rebuilding of the DRC that the country can exploit its mineral resources itself in a sustainable, transparent and properly administered manner,
 - L. whereas all nations and organisations involved in the so-called 'Kimberley Process' to curb the illegal trade in diamonds must redouble efforts to stop such trading,
 - M. whereas the only viable solution to the three-year old civil war in the DRC remains the full implementation of the 1999 Lusaka Agreement,
 - N. whereas the Lusaka Agreement is also the basis for inter-Congolese dialogue with a view to establishing peace, democracy and the rule of law,
- 1. Reaffirms its commitment to the sovereignty of the DRC, including sovereignty over its natural resources, and the integrity of its territory;
 - 2. Strongly condemns the systematic and large-scale looting of the natural resources and wealth of the DRC;
 - 3. Urges all states, companies and persons involved to stop this looting forthwith;
 - 4. Calls on the World Bank and the IMF to stop shoring up the budgets of the parties to the conflict until the end of hostilities;
 - 5. Calls on the governments named in the report to give full consideration to the panel's findings; calls on the governments named in the report and other nations that have troops in the DRC to conduct their own inquiries and take immediate steps to end illegal exploitation of the natural resources by their nationals or others under their control;
 - 6. Calls on the Council to take into consideration the recommendations made by the panel of experts, in particular the sanctions to be applied to the parties to the conflict and firms involved in the illegal exploitation of the natural resources of the DRC;

Thursday 5 July 2001

7. Welcomes the decision of the UN Security Council to extend the panel's mandate and stresses the importance of an addendum to the UN report that should provide an update of relevant data, an analysis of further information, a response to the reactions on the report, and an assessment of whether progress has been made;
 8. Strongly condemns the murder of the six staff of the ICRC and urges all parties to the conflict to ensure full and secure access to vulnerable populations;
 9. Supports the UN's deployment of MONUC observers and liaison officers;
 10. Urges all countries involved in the war in the DRC to withdraw their troops from the territory of the DRC, in accordance with the Lusaka Agreement;
 11. Welcomes the announcement of the start of the inter-Congolese dialogue provided for in the Lusaka Agreement;
 12. Considers that the participation of civil society and non-armed political forces in the inter-Congolese dialogue is an important factor in establishing a lasting peace, participatory democracy and sustainable development in the process of construction of the country;
 13. Urges the Kabila government to embark upon the reconciliation and democratisation process without delay, in order to enable the European Union to fully resume structural aid to the Congo;
 14. Calls on the Council and the Commission to take all appropriate measures to tackle the humanitarian crisis;
 15. Supports the Belgian Presidency initiative to give the DRC a priority status on its agenda and urges the European Council to encourage the inter-Congolese dialogue in order to create effective governance and the re-establishment of the rule of law;
 16. Calls on the European Union to respond favourably to any request from the Congolese authorities seeking to ensure nuclear safety (extraction, exploitation, reprocessing) in the territory of the DRC;
 17. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the United Nations Organisation, the OAU, the Government of the DRC and the governments of Congo, Angola, Chad, Kenya, Namibia, Zimbabwe, Rwanda, Uganda, Tanzania, Gabon and the Central African Republic, the World Bank, the IMF and the Co-Presidents of the ACP-EU Joint Parliamentary Assembly.

23. Earthquake in Peru

B5-0493, 0503, 0518, 0519 and 0520/2001

European Parliament resolution on the earthquake of 23 June 2001 in Peru

The European Parliament,

- A. shocked at the dramatic emergency in Peru, caused by the earthquake of 23 June 2001, the devastating effects of which have left more than one hundred people dead and more than one thousand injured, destroyed more than 10 000 homes and left more than 40 000 people homeless in the provinces of Arequipa, Moquegua and Tacna,
- B. whereas the earthquake destroyed part of the economic infrastructure and structures of the provinces affected and also caused serious damage in the north of Chile and Bolivia,
- C. whereas tremors are still occurring throughout the region, affecting Peru, Chile and Bolivia, and the total cost of the damage has not yet been assessed,

Thursday 5 July 2001

- D. aware of the scale of the disaster and the enormous rebuilding and rehabilitation efforts which will have to be made in the areas affected by the earthquake,
 - E. having regard to the enormously adverse effects on institutions and the profound economic crisis left by the dictatorship of Alberto Fujimori and aggravated by the current recession,
1. Expresses its deep concern and sympathy with the families of the victims and the people of Peru;
 2. Expresses its moral support for the governments of the countries affected and congratulates the Commission and the Member States on their swift response to the disaster;
 3. Calls on the Commission to consider the possibility of adapting Community aid to actual needs as the full extent of the damage is revealed, and stresses that the rebuilding and rehabilitation work to be carried out must improve living conditions, especially for the most disadvantaged sections of the population;
 4. Calls on the governments of the Member States to lay down appropriate criteria for coordination, to enable them to carry out their humanitarian work more effectively;
 5. Fully supports the strategic plans for national development drawn up by the Concertation Board for Combating Poverty, involving social investment in the context of the 2002 budget, on the basis of the decentralisation and transparency of public expenditure;
 6. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission and the governments of Peru, Chile and Bolivia.

24. Cod stock in the Irish sea *

A5-0213/2001

Proposal for a Council regulation amending Regulation (EC) No 2549/2000 establishing additional technical measures for the recovery of the stock of cod in the Irish Sea (ICES Division VIIa) (COM(2001) 165 – C5-0140/2001 – 2001/0083(CNS))

The proposal was approved.

European Parliament legislative resolution on the proposal for a Council regulation amending Regulation (EC) No 2549/2000 establishing additional technical measures for the recovery of the stock of cod in the Irish Sea (ICES Division VIIa) (COM(2001) 165 – C5-0140/2001 – 2001/0083(CNS))

(Consultation procedure)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission proposal to the Council (COM(2001) 165),
 - having been consulted by the Council pursuant to Article 37 of the EC Treaty (C5-0140/2001),
 - having regard to Rule 67 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Fisheries (A5-0213/2001),
1. Approves the Commission proposal;
 2. Calls on the Council to notify Parliament should it intend to depart from the text approved by Parliament;

Thursday 5 July 2001

3. Asks to be consulted again if the Council intends to amend the Commission proposal substantially;
 4. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council and Commission.

25. Bonn Conference on Climate Change

B5-0473/2001

European Parliament resolution on the European Union's strategy for the Bonn Conference on Climate Change (COP-6, part 2)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Kyoto Protocol to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) of December 1997 ⁽¹⁾, the Sixth Conference of the Parties (COP-6) in The Hague on 13-24 November 2000, and the forthcoming resumed Sixth Conference of the Parties (COP-6, part 2) to be held in Bonn on 16-27 July 2001,
 - having regard to its resolutions relating to climate change, notably that of 26 October 2000 on the Commission's strategy for The Hague Conference on climate change (COP-6) ⁽²⁾ and that of 5 April 2001 on the Kyoto Conference objectives ⁽³⁾,
 - having regard to oral questions B5-0327/2001 and B5-0328/2001 by the Committee on the Environment, Public Health and Consumer Policy pursuant to Rule 42 of the Rules of Procedure and having regard to the statements by the Commission and the Council,
- A. whereas, according to a recent report by the International Climate Change Panel (ICCP) so provided by broadcasts, the Earth's temperature is due to increase in the course of this century by between 1,4 and 5,8 °C, largely on account of human activities; whereas the report emphasises the disastrous consequences of such a phenomenon,
- B. whereas, before it can enter into force, the Kyoto Protocol must be ratified by over 55 of its 84 signatories whose emissions account for at least 55 % of total greenhouse gas emissions,
- C. whereas full ratification and implementation, as well as further reinforcement of the Kyoto Protocol, are of fundamental importance in tackling the key problem of climate change and for the future of the world's environment,
- D. whereas the breakdown of The Hague Conference was a significant setback in this respect, and whereas the situation has since deteriorated sharply as a result of President Bush's repudiation of the Kyoto Protocol,
- E. whereas it is essential that there be a successful outcome of the Bonn Conference if the current adverse trends in climate change are to be reversed,
- F. whereas the European Union and its Member States have a responsibility to proceed with the work required under the Kyoto Protocol and to encourage other parties to follow suit; whereas Japan and Russia should continue as constructive partners to fulfil this objective and the aim must be to bring the USA back into the process,
- G. whereas the EU delegation will have to play a major role in this process, and the European Parliament members of this delegation should be involved in the work of the delegation to a greater extent than in the past,

⁽³⁾ 'Texts Adopted', Item 17.

Thursday 5 July 2001

1. Calls on the Bonn Conference to maintain the central place of the Kyoto Protocol as the driving force in the fight to concentrate attention on, and find ways of combating, climate change;
2. Believes that the central task of the Bonn Conference will be to settle the key unresolved issues left over from The Hague, notably as regards the scope for sinks, complementarity and the flexible mechanisms, and compliance mechanisms, as well as assistance for developing countries affected by climate change, in order to prepare the way for full ratification and implementation of the Kyoto Protocol;
3. Believes the Kyoto Protocol to be the basis of, although only a first step in, a world strategy to combat global warming and considers that the negotiations to be held in Bonn should be conducted in complete accordance with the integrity of the Protocol; accordingly, states once again that:
 - the industrialised countries should take the lead in initiatives intended to mitigate climate change;
 - a positive list of CDM (Clean Development Mechanism) projects and technologies must be drawn up which excludes nuclear energy, the large-scale use of fossil fuels and the use of carbon sinks;
 - internal-action policies and measures are a priority in the strategy to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, for which reason the use of flexible mechanisms must be restricted to no more than 50 % of the total effort;
 - the use of carbon sinks must be restricted and controlled until the necessary scientific information is available and a supervisory scheme has been set up;
 - a stringent monitoring structure linked to a system of fines for non-compliance must be set up, together with a monitoring fund which will enable the effects of non-compliance with the Kyoto Protocol to be minimised;
4. Reiterates its criticism of the unilateral US decision to reject the Kyoto Protocol as a way forward and stresses that, after nine years of international negotiations, the Kyoto Protocol remains the only effective instrument for combating global warming; notes the fact that the US government has not challenged the science of climate change; hopes that the current US policy review will lead to a reassessment by the US administration of its position and calls for further strenuous efforts by all parties to bring it back into the Kyoto Protocol;
5. Underlines the contradiction which exists between the fact that in 1998 the US Presidency signed the Kyoto Protocol and the latest official US statements which withdraw all commitments relating to the fight against global warming and are clearly opposed to this Protocol;
6. Urges the European Union to take the lead in careful discussions with the other members of the umbrella group, the developing countries and other parties, in order to devise an appropriate strategy for further progress in the absence of a renewed US commitment to the Kyoto Protocol and in order to ensure sufficient participation to meet the thresholds for entry into force of the Kyoto Protocol before the Rio+10 Conference; urges the European Union and the other Annex I parties to plan a quick ratification and entry into force of the Protocol, even without the USA, in the run-up to COP-6, part 2, before the Rio+10 Conference in 2002;
7. Welcomes the unanimous statement by the Environment Council in June 2001 that the European Union continues to regret the position of the USA rejecting the Kyoto Protocol and strongly urges the new Italian government to stick to its earlier position on climate change;
8. Notwithstanding the importance of all initiatives which endeavour to reverse the US decision to abandon the Kyoto Protocol, considers that the European Union should give priority to negotiating the final shape of the Kyoto Protocol with those countries which agree to ratify it;
9. Considers that, within supranational structures (in particular the World Trade Organisation), the European Union should launch initiatives which are designed to prevent countries which do not ratify the Kyoto Protocol from obtaining unfair competitive advantages, particularly where energy products are concerned;

Thursday 5 July 2001

10. Calls again on the EU to lead by example, by publicly restating its commitment to early implementation of policies and measures to achieve domestic emission reductions in order to make it possible to reverse the sharp increase in greenhouse gas emissions which is currently in evidence in most of the Member States, as well as its commitment to the rapid implementation of the European Climate Change Programme, including the EU emissions trading regime (and policy measures on, for instance, transport emissions and non-CO₂ greenhouse gases); also recommends prompt adoption of national greenhouse gas emission-reduction plans;

11. Notes that the EU delegation will have a key role to play at the Bonn Conference, and believes that the European Parliament members of the delegation will have a valuable complementary role to play, notably in working with fellow parliamentarians from other countries, especially in view of the broad support right across the political spectrum for the EU's negotiating position;

12. Underlines the particular importance of research in any strategy against climate change; considers that it is essential that research leads to the development of new technologies in the field of renewable energy, energy efficiency and energy savings; takes the view that environmental R & D should therefore be promoted and adequately funded within the scope of the Sixth Framework Programme, thereby boosting efforts to catch up with the European research backlog;

13. Believes that, in order for the European Parliament participants to best support and advance the EU's negotiating position, they need to develop, in advance and in cooperation with the other participants in the EU delegation, a strategy for their approaches to fellow parliamentarians; considers that, for the European Parliament participants to be most effective in this task, they need to be fully involved in the EU delegation, in particular by attending the EU coordination meetings;

14. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission, the Council, the governments and parliaments of the Member States and the Secretariat of the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change, and to the government of the United States of America.

26. Safe operation of mining activities

A5-0214/2001

European Parliament resolution on the Commission communication on safe operation of mining activities: a follow-up to recent mining accidents (COM(2000) 664 – C5-0013/2001 – 2001/2005(COS))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission communication (COM(2000) 664),
- having regard to the 1991 Espoo Convention on Environmental Impact Assessment in a Transboundary Context,
- having regard to the 1992 Helsinki Convention on the Transboundary Effects of Industrial Accidents,
- having regard to the 1992 Helsinki Convention on the Protection and Use of Transboundary Watercourses and International Lakes,
- having regard to the 1998 Aarhus Convention on access to information, public participation in decision-making and access to justice in environmental matters,
- having regard to Article 174 of the EC Treaty,
- having regard to Directive 75/442/EEC of 15 July 1975 on waste ⁽¹⁾,

Thursday 5 July 2001

- having regard to Council Directive 85/337/EEC of 27 June 1985 on the assessment of certain public and private projects on the environment (EIA Directive) ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to Council Directive 96/61/EC of 24 September 1996 concerning integrated pollution prevention and control (IPPC Directive) ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to Council Directive 96/82/EC of 9 December 1996 on the control of major-accident hazards involving dangerous substances (Seveso II Directive) ⁽³⁾,
 - having regard to Council Directive 1999/31/EC of 26 April 1999 on the landfill of waste ⁽⁴⁾,
 - having regard to Directive 2000/60/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 23 October 2000 establishing a framework for Community action in the field of water policy ⁽⁵⁾,
 - having regard to the European Parliament and Council Directive on the assessment of the effects of certain plans and programmes on the environment (SEA Directive),
 - having regard to the Report of the International Task Force for assessing the Baia Mare accident (December 2000),
 - having regard to the White Paper on environmental liability (COM(2000) 66),
 - having regard to Rule 47(1) of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on the Environment, Public Health and Consumer Policy and the opinion of the Committee on Industry, External Trade, Research and Energy (A5-0214/2001),
- A. whereas the recent mining accidents in Doñana (Spain), Baia Mare and Baia Borsa (Romania) have highlighted the inadequacy of rules and monitoring requirements governing the mining industry in present and future Members States of the Community and the need for a review of Community environmental policy in order to take due account of the mining sector,
- B. whereas climatic and operational conditions leading to the Doñana, Baia Mare and Baia Borsa accidents were exceptional but not unpredictable,
- C. whereas, especially, the Baia Mare and Baia Borsa catastrophes underline the transboundary effects of mining accidents,
- D. whereas poor management of mining operations and disposal of mining waste is a global problem; whereas most mining companies operate on a global scale,
- E. whereas mining accidents are usually caused by a combination of mining companies not taking sufficient environmental concern, inadequate legislation and poor monitoring and control by the permitting authorities,
- F. whereas mining waste is one of the largest waste streams in the Community and is responsible for 18 % of overall waste generation (OSCE data 1998),
- G. whereas there are large quantities of mining waste unaccounted for — frequently hazardous and leaking — in the territory of the Community and the candidate countries,
- H. whereas the Community lacks a coherent and comprehensive legislative framework governing the mining industry and mining waste,

General conclusions

1. Welcomes the communication and supports the Commission's general approach to modify EU environmental legislation and instruments in order to create a transparent and coherent framework for the safe operation of mining activities; believes that voluntary agreements may complement but may never substitute legislation within the mining sector;
2. Welcomes the recent amendment to the EU hazardous waste list to include certain types of mining waste, thereby laying down stricter requirements concerning their management and disposal;
3. Underlines that the future directive on environmental liability must incorporate provisions relevant to the special configuration of mining activities and mining waste;
4. Stresses the importance of reinforced R & D into mining processing techniques in order to limit the use of dangerous substances, decreasing waste streams and improving waste disposal; believes that EU research programmes could serve as one vehicle for developing and disseminating more sustainable operation and disposal techniques in mining;
5. States that mining companies should operate according to the same basic guidelines and rules independently of where they operate; encourages the mining industry, in cooperation with relevant NGOs and stakeholders, to develop a code of conduct including public participation and independent third party verification as two of its essential components, based on the improved EU practice resulting from forthcoming modifications of EU environmental legislation and instruments;
6. States that EU development aid and EIB financing should only be granted to mining projects that operate in accordance with EU regulations and practice;
7. Welcomes the clarification that the Framework Directive on waste also currently covers mining waste;
8. Believes that it is not sufficient to regulate mining activities through the IPPC Directive due to the expected diverging interpretation of that Directive's principles for determining BAT and the fact that neither core extraction activities nor abandoned mining operations and waste disposals are covered by that Directive; welcomes the establishment of BAT reference documents in order to clarify the principles of the Directive; believes furthermore that the landfill of waste Directive does not constitute an appropriate framework for regulating mining waste and therefore urges the Commission to put forward a proposal for a specific directive on mining waste;
9. Encourages the Commission to strengthen the dialogue with the European mining industry in order to profit from its experience and identify the best available technologies;
10. Recalls the need for training programmes for all types of staff dealing with mining activities in order to ensure that the existing legal instruments are implemented properly;

Changes to the Seveso II Directive

11. Welcomes the Commission's recent proposal to extend the Seveso II Directive to also cover risks arising from storage and processing activities in mining;
12. Notes that this modification will require that a whole set of measures are put in place to prevent major mining tailings spills, including emergency plans and reinforced public information and consultation requirements;
13. Urges the Commission to propose, and the Member States to introduce, changes ensuring that any emergency plans under this Directive include an outline of possible short and long-term impacts and measures for the restoration of the affected environment;

Thursday 5 July 2001

Inventory

14. Supports the establishment of an inventory, based on a common risk assessment method, of all active and abandoned mines and mining waste disposals with a view to securing the necessary funding to render these sites environmentally safe; states that such an inventory should also include the accession countries;

15. Welcomes the identification of 21 risks sites (hot spots) by the Baia Mare Task Force; supports further identification of 'hot spots', both sites in operation and abandoned sites; proposes that action programs be immediately put in place for remediation and environmental rehabilitation of such sites, in particular to prevent future accidents similar to Doñana and Baia Mare;

A future directive on mining waste

16. Strongly supports the need for a directive on mining waste covering both operational and abandoned sites and disposals; believes that such a directive should contain provisions for mining waste actions programs as well as provisions to facilitate more sustainable extraction, site cleaning and waste reduction, including dry tailings disposal in the case of metal mining waste;

17. Urges the Commission to propose, and the Member States to introduce, legislation that requires the responsible mining company to establish decommissioning plans for new and existing mines and tailings ponds and to set aside sufficient funds for closure, restoration and after-care measures as well as safe and sustainable disposal of mining waste in order to avoid the problem of abandoned mining sites in the future;

18. States that the company responsible shall bear the full responsibility for restoration and other connected costs in the case of an accident;

19. Underlines that Member States and the Community have a responsibility for restoring abandoned mines and tailings ponds; believes therefore that it should be possible to use the Structural Funds and other EU funding to help in cleaning up contaminated land;

20. Supports legislation prescribing in-plant removal of cyanide and other hazardous substances before the tailings are deposited in the tailings pond;

21. Supports the establishment of common minimum rules concerning the siting, design, construction, operation, maintenance and decommissioning of tailings ponds, taking into account the likely effects of climate change on meteorological conditions;

27. Results of the multiannual guidance programmes for fishing fleets

A5-0188/2001

European Parliament resolution on the annual report from the Commission to the Council and the European Parliament on the results of the multiannual guidance programmes for the fishing fleets at the end of 1999 (COM(2000) 738 – C5-0107/2001 – 2001/2056(COS))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission report (COM(2000) 738 – C5-0107/2001),
 - having regard to its resolution of 20 January 2000 on the annual report to the Council and to the European Parliament on the results of the multiannual guidance programmes for the fishing fleets at the end of 1997 (COM(1999) 175 – C5-0109/1999 – 1999/2112(COS))⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to Rule 47(1) of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Fisheries (A5-0188/2001),
- A. whereas an appropriate policy for the conservation of fisheries resources is a prerequisite for a Community fishing industry which is sustainable, profitable and competitive,
- B. whereas the main objective of the multiannual guidance programmes (MAGP) is to create a balance between the available fisheries resources and the fishing effort of the Community fishing fleet,
- C. stressing that a reduction in the catch capacity of the Member States' fishing fleets within the various categories is a prerequisite for ensuring sustainable development within the industry,
- D. whereas a reduction of the capacity of the fishing fleet should be implemented in all Member States in order to ensure the understanding and acceptance of the other actors in the fisheries sector,
- E. whereas the effectiveness of the MAGP is dependent on compliance by all Member States with the objectives of the programme,
- F. whereas the failure of some Member States' fishing fleets to comply with the objectives of the MAGP within particular categories leads to a distortion of competition which harms professional fishermen in these sectors in countries which have carried out a reduction in fishing effort in accordance with the MAGP,
- G. whereas, in this regard, the European Parliament has always advocated that a genuinely effective system of penalties be sought and introduced both for Member States which do not comply with the objectives of the MAGP and for those which do not supply data on their fleet or do so in an unsatisfactory manner,
- H. regretting that there has as yet been no harmonisation of the measurement of vessels' capacity in all Member States,
- I. recognising that the alteration of the criteria for the various categories of fleets in the transition from MAGP III to MAGP IV has made it more difficult to compare existing data,
- J. stressing, in the light of this increased complexity, how vital it is that the Commission should improve its annual report by adding comments on the reliability of the Member States' reported data, should state clearly which Member States fail to fulfil their obligations, in which areas and to what extent, and should provide all data and tables with an explanation of terms to make the annual report readable by non-experts,

Thursday 5 July 2001

- K. welcoming the direct access which the Member States now have to data through the internet programme FRONT ('Fleet Register On the Net'),
- L. noting that the existing penalties seeking to guarantee compliance with the objectives of the MAGP, e.g. the initiation of proceedings for failure to comply with Treaty obligations, or the refusal of aid to renew or modernise fleets, have evidently been ineffective because they have not succeeded in inciting the Member States to comply with the objectives of the MAGP,
- M. welcoming the Commission's reinforced powers to withhold aid for the renewal or modernisation of fleets (see Articles 6 and 10 of Council Regulation (EC) No 2792/1999)⁽¹⁾ if a Member State does not comply with the MAGP objectives assigned to it, does not supply information about its fleet in accordance with Community regulations or if details of entry and exit regimes are not supplied or are inadequate,
1. Calls on the Commission and the Member States to adopt precise and clear criteria for the measurement of vessels and the categories of fishing fleets, so that the development of the respective fleets and the content of the Community register of fishing vessels for each MAGP can be monitored;
 2. Urges the Commission once again to make a determined effort to ensure that the Member States' criteria for the measurement of tonnage and vessels' engine power are comparable, so that a uniform reduction in the capacity of the various Community fishing fleets can be achieved;
 3. Urges the Member States without delay to carry out measurements of their fishing fleets' capacities in accordance with the criteria set out in Council Regulation (EC) No 3259/94⁽²⁾ and Commission Decision 95/84/EC⁽³⁾, which should have been fully implemented as far back as 1995;
 4. Calls on the Commission to apply those instruments which can compel the Member States to comply with the provisions requiring them to reduce their fishing fleets under the MAGPs, and once again urges the Council and Commission to strengthen those instruments by studying measures such as those already outlined by the European Parliament in its abovementioned resolution of 20 January 2000, which are also reflected in the Commission's Green Paper on the reform of the CFP (COM(2001) 135);
 5. Calls on the Commission to inform the Committee on Fisheries as soon as it has taken a decision to apply the instruments referred to in paragraph 4, so that the Committee on Fisheries can follow up the Member States' failure to implement Community rules, as quickly as possible;
 6. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and Commission and the governments and parliaments of the Member States.
