Miscellaneous

On behalf of the PPE-DE Group, the rapporteur moved an oral amendment to paragraph 18, which now read as follows:

18. Welcomes the agreement on the elimination, by developed countries, of export subsidies for cotton by 2006 but highlights that this is already required by a recent WTO dispute ruling and notes that these constitute only a small proportion of subsidies that the US gives its cotton farmers; stresses the importance, therefore, of achieving positive results in reducing and eliminating its domestic subsidies; welcomes the provision of duty-free and quota-free market access for cotton exports from LDCs; however, notes the limited impact that this will have; stresses the importance, therefore, of achieving positive results in reducing and eliminating its domestic subsidies; considers that these measures should be complemented by structural supportive reform programmes for farmers and industry in the EU regions affected and with development support measures for the developing countries to be taken by the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, the UN Development Programme and other international organisations;

TEXTS ADOPTEDP6_TA(2006)0117*Request to defend the parliamentary immunity of Witold Tomczak*European Parliament decision on the request for defence of the immunity and privileges of Witold Tomczak (2005/2129(IMM))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the request by Witold Tomczak for defence of his immunity in connection with the criminal proceedings brought against him before the District Court in Ostrów Wielkopolski, Poland, made on 29 April 2005, announced in plenary sitting on 12 May 2005,
 - having heard Witold Tomczak (on 13 July 2005 and 31 January 2006) in accordance with Rule 7(3) of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the letter of Witold Tomczak, signed on 20 March 2006, in which he expressed the desire to withdraw the request for defence of his immunity,
 - having regard to Articles 8, 9 and 10 of the Protocol of 8 April 1965 on the Privileges and Immunities of the European Communities and Article 6(2) of the Act of 20 September 1976 concerning the election of the members of the European Parliament by direct universal suffrage,
 - having regard to the judgments of 12 May 1964 and 10 July 1986⁽¹⁾ of the Court of Justice of the European Communities,
 - having regard to Rules 6(3) and 7 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Legal Affairs (A6-0084/2006),
- A. whereas Witold Tomczak was elected to the Polish Parliament (Sejm) on 21 September 1997 and on 23 September 2001; whereas after the signature of the Accession Treaty on 16 April 2003 he became an Observer; whereas he was a Member of the European Parliament from 1 May 2004 until 19 July 2004; whereas he was elected to the European Parliament on 13 June 2004 and his term of office in the Polish Parliament expired on 16 June 2004,
- B. whereas Witold Tomczak is charged with insulting two police officers in the performance of their duties, in Ostrów Wielkopolski on 26 June 1999, in breach of Article 226(1) of the Polish penal code; whereas the General Prosecutor applied to the Sejm for waiver of Witold Tomczak's parliamentary immunity on 13 June 2000; whereas Witold Tomczak agreed on 4 October 2000 to be held liable in the matter, in accordance with Article 105(4) of the Polish Constitution; whereas after a number of failures by Witold Tomczak to appear at the hearings, the District Court in Ostrów Wielkopolski decided on 10 January 2005, in accordance with Article 377(3) of the Polish code of criminal procedure, to proceed with the trial in absentia;
- C. whereas Witold Tomczak informed the Court on 30 April 2005 that he had requested the European Parliament to defend his immunity; whereas the Court suspended the criminal proceedings on 30 May 2005 and asked the District Prosecutor in Warszawa Praga-Północ to state whether an application for waiver of Witold Tomczak's immunity would be made; whereas in the opinion of the General Prosecutor's Office such an application is not necessary; whereas the Polish Constitutional Court ruled on 28 November 2001 that a request for waiver of immunity is not necessary in relation to acts committed before becoming a Member of the Polish Parliament,

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- D. whereas Witold Tomczak claims that the Public Prosecutor should have applied to the Polish Parliament for waiver of his immunity before presenting any charges, and that since he was elected Member of the European Parliament, he asked that body, and not the Sejm, to assert his immunity,
- E. whereas Witold Tomczak complains that the criminal proceedings against him are biased, that political pressure is being exerted on the judicial authorities, that false evidence is being submitted and that unreliable witnesses are participating in the trial,
- F. whereas, on basis of the information obtained, Witold Tomczak is not protected by parliamentary immunity in respect of any of the claims which have been drawn to the attention of the President of the European Parliament,
- G. whereas parliamentary immunity constitutes part of the prerogatives of Parliament, and cannot therefore be exercised or withdrawn by an individual Member of Parliament but only by the institution as a whole,
- H. whereas, notwithstanding the letter of Witold Tomczak expressing his desire to withdraw the request for defence of his parliamentary immunity, it is stressed that the case must nevertheless be considered exhaustively in order to ensure that Parliament's prerogatives have been duly respected,
1. Decides not to defend the immunity and privileges of Witold Tomczak.

P6_TC2-COD(2003)0297Position of the European Parliament adopted at second reading on 4 April 2006 with a view to the adoption of European Parliament and Council Decision No .../2006/EC laying down guidelines for trans-European energy networks and repealing Decision 96/391/EC and Decision No 1229/2003/EC

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 156 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee⁽¹⁾,

After consulting the Committee of the Regions,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty⁽²⁾,

Whereas:

- (1) Subsequent to the adoption of Decision No 1229/2003/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2003 laying down a series of guidelines for trans-European energy networks⁽³⁾, the need has arisen to integrate fully the new Member States, and the accession and candidate countries into those guidelines and to adapt further, as appropriate, those guidelines to the new proximity policy of the European Union.
- (2) The priorities for trans-European energy networks stem from the creation of a more open and competitive internal energy market as a result of the implementation of Directive 2003/54/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2003 concerning common rules for the internal market in electricity⁽⁴⁾ and Directive 2003/55/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2003 concerning common rules for the internal market in natural gas⁽⁵⁾. Those priorities reflect the conclusions of the Stockholm European Council of 23 and 24 March 2001 concerning the development of the infrastructure needed for the operation of the energy market. A special effort should be undertaken to achieve the objective of making greater use of renewable energy sources as a contribution to further a sustainable development policy. However, this objective should be achieved without creating disproportionate disturbances to the normal market equilibrium. Full account should also be taken of the objectives of the Community's transport policy and, specifically, the opportunity to reduce road traffic by using pipelines.
- (3) This Decision serves to move closer towards the target for the level of electricity interconnection between Member States which was agreed at the Barcelona European Council of 15 and 16 March 2002, and thus improve network reliability and integrity, and ensure that there is security of supply and that the internal market functions properly.
- (4) As a rule, the construction and maintenance of energy infrastructure should be subject to market principles. This is also in line with the common rules for the completion of the internal market in energy and the common rules on competition law which aim at the creation of a more open and competitive internal energy market. Community financial aid for construction and maintenance should therefore remain highly exceptional, and such exceptions should be duly justified.
- (5) Energy infrastructure should be constructed and maintained so as to enable the internal energy market to operate efficiently, with due regard to existing procedures for consulting the people affected, without detracting from strategic and, where appropriate, universal service criteria and public service obligations.

- (6) In the light of potential synergies between natural gas networks and olefin networks, due importance should be placed on the development and integration of olefin networks in order to meet the olefin gas consumption needs of industries in the Community.
- (7) The priorities for trans-European energy networks also stem from the growing importance of the trans-European energy networks for securing and diversifying the Community's energy supplies, incorporating the energy networks of the new Member States, accession and candidate countries, and ensuring the coordinated operation of the energy networks in the Community and in neighbouring countries after consulting the Member States concerned. Indeed, the Community's neighbouring countries play a vital role in its energy policy. They supply a major part of the Community's natural gas requirements, are key partners for the transit of primary energy to the Community and will progressively become more important players in its internal gas and electricity markets.
- (8) Among the projects relating to trans-European energy networks, it is necessary to highlight the priority projects, which are very important for the operation of the internal energy market or the security of energy supply. In addition, a declaration of European Interest needs to be established for those projects receiving the highest priority, as well as enhanced coordination, where appropriate.
- (9) For the purpose of the gathering of information required under this Decision, the Commission and the Member States should, as far as possible, use information on projects of European interest which is already available, in order to avoid duplication of efforts. For example, such information may already be available in the context of Council Regulation (EC) No 2236/95 of 18 September 1995 laying down general rules for the granting of Community financial aid in the field of trans-European Networks⁽¹⁾, in the context of other Community legislation which can provide cofinancing to trans-European network projects and the decisions approving individual projects under such legislation, or in the context of Directives 2003/54/EC and 2003/55/EC concerning common rules for the internal market for electricity and natural gas.
- (10) The procedure for identifying projects of common interest in the context of trans-European energy networks should ensure the smooth application of Regulation (EC) No 2236/95. That procedure should distinguish two levels: a first level establishing a restricted number of criteria for the identification of such projects, and a second level describing the projects in detail, referred to as 'specifications'.
- (11) Appropriate priority for funding under Regulation (EC) No 2236/95 should be given to projects declared to be of European interest. Member States should, when submitting projects under other Community financial instruments, give particular attention to projects declared to be of European interest.
- (12) For most projects declared to be of European interest, a significant current or prospective delay could be a delay expected to last between one and two years.
- (13) Since the project specifications are liable to change, they can only be given by way of indication. The Commission should therefore be empowered to update them. Since the projects may have considerable political, environmental and economic implications, it is important to find the appropriate balance between legislative oversight and flexibility in indentifying projects that deserve potential Community support.
- (14) When projects of European interest, sections of projects of European interest, or groups of projects of European interest encounter implementation difficulties, a European coordinator can act as a facilitator by encouraging cooperation between all parties concerned, and by ensuring that adequate monitoring is carried out in order to keep the Community informed of progress. The services of a European coordinator should also be made available to other projects, at the request of the Member States concerned.
- (15) Member States should be invited to coordinate implementation of certain projects, in particular cross-border projects or sections of cross-border projects.

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- (16) A more favourable context for the development and construction of trans-European energy networks should be created, mainly by providing stimulus for technical cooperation between the entities responsible for networks, by facilitating the implementation of authorisation procedures applicable for network projects in the Member States in order to reduce delays and by mobilising as appropriate the funds, instruments and financial programmes of the Community available to network projects. The Community should support Member States' measures taken in pursuit of that objective.
- (17) Since the budget allocated to the trans-European energy networks is mainly intended to finance feasibility studies, it is the Community Structural Funds, financial programmes and instruments that could, if necessary, enable funding to be provided for such interconnection networks, in particular inter-regional networks.
- (18) The identification of projects of common interest, their specifications and priority projects, in particular those of European interest, should be without prejudice to the results of the environmental impact assessment of the projects, plans or programmes.
- (19) The measures necessary for the implementation of this Decision should be adopted in accordance with Council Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission ⁽¹⁾.
- (20) The Commission should periodically draw up a report on the implementation of this Decision.
- (21) Information which must be exchanged or provided to the Commission under the provisions of this Decision is likely to be held, to a large extent, by companies. Therefore, Member States may have to cooperate with such companies in order to obtain that information.
- (22) Since this Decision covers the same subject matter and scope as Council Decision 96/391/EC of 28 March 1996 laying down a series of measures aimed at creating a more favourable context for the development of trans-European networks in the energy sector ⁽²⁾ and Decision No 1229/2003/EC, those two Decisions should be repealed,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DECISION:

Article 1

Subject matter

This Decision defines the nature and scope of Community action to establish guidelines for trans-European energy networks. It establishes a series of guidelines covering the objectives, priorities and broad lines of action by the Community in respect of trans-European energy networks. These guidelines identify projects of common interest and priority projects, including those of European interest, among trans-European electricity and gas networks.

Article 2

Scope

This Decision shall apply:

- 1) in electricity networks, to:
 - (a) all high-voltage lines, excluding those of distribution networks, and to submarine links, provided that this infrastructure is used for interregional or international transmission or connection;
 - (b) any equipment or installations essential for the system in question to operate properly, including protection, monitoring and control systems;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- 2) in gas networks (transporting natural gas or olefin gases), to:
 - (a) high-pressure gas pipelines, excluding those of distribution networks, making it possible to supply regions of the Community from internal or external sources;
 - (b) underground storage facilities connected to the abovementioned high-pressure gas pipelines;
 - (c) reception, storage and regasification facilities for liquefied natural gas (LNG) and also LNG carriers according to the capacities to be supplied;
 - (d) any equipment or installations essential for the system in question to operate properly, including protection, monitoring and control systems.

Article 3

Objectives

The Community shall promote the interconnection, interoperability and development of trans-European energy networks and access to such networks in accordance with Community law in force, with the aim of:

- (a) encouraging the effective operation and development of the internal market in general and of the internal energy market in particular, while encouraging the rational production, transportation, distribution and use of energy resources and the development and connection of renewable energy resources, so as to reduce the cost of energy to the consumer and contribute to the diversification of energy sources;
- (b) facilitating the development and reducing the isolation of the less-favoured and island regions of the Community, thereby helping to strengthen economic and social cohesion;
- (c) reinforcing the security of energy supplies, for example by strengthening relations with third countries in the energy sector in the mutual interest of all parties concerned, in particular in the framework of the Energy Charter Treaty and cooperation agreements concluded by the Community;
- (d) contributing to sustainable development and protection of the environment, inter alia by involving renewable energies and reducing the environmental risks associated with the transportation and transmission of energy.

Article 4

Priorities for action

The priorities for action by the Community on trans-European energy networks shall be compatible with sustainable development and shall be as follows:

- 1) for both electricity and gas networks:
 - (a) adapting and developing the energy networks in support of the operation of the internal energy market and, in particular, solving the problems of bottlenecks, especially transfrontier bottlenecks, congestion and missing links, and taking account of the needs arising from the functioning of the internal market for electricity and natural gas and the enlargement of the European Union;
 - (b) establishing energy networks in island, isolated, peripheral and ultraperipheral regions while promoting the diversification of energy sources and the use of renewable energy sources, together with the connection of those networks, where necessary;
- 2) for electricity networks:
 - (a) adapting and developing networks to facilitate the integration and connection of renewable energy production;
 - (b) ensuring interoperability of electricity networks within the Community, and with those in the accession and candidate countries, and other countries in Europe and in the Mediterranean and Black Sea basins;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- 3) for gas networks:
- (a) developing natural gas networks in order to meet the Community's natural gas consumption needs and to control its natural gas supply systems;
 - (b) ensuring interoperability of natural gas networks within the Community and with those in accession and candidate countries and other countries in Europe, in the Mediterranean Sea, Black Sea and Caspian Sea basins, as well as in the Middle East and the Gulf regions, and diversification of natural gas sources and supply routes.

Article 5

Lines of action

The broad lines of action by the Community on trans-European energy networks shall be:

- (a) the identification of projects of common interest and priority projects, including those of European interest;
- (b) the creation of a more favourable context for development of those networks.

Article 6

Projects of common interest

1. The generic criteria to be applied when a decision is taken on identification of, modifications to, or specifications or applications for updating projects of common interest shall be the following:

- (a) the project falls within the scope of Article 2;
- (b) the project meets the objectives and priorities for action set out in Articles 3 and 4 respectively;
- (c) the project displays potential economic viability.

The evaluation of economic viability shall be based upon a cost-benefit analysis which takes account of all costs and benefits, including those in the medium and/or long term, in connection with environmental aspects, security of supply and the contribution to economic and social cohesion. Projects of common interest which relate to the territory of a Member State shall require the approval of the Member State concerned.

2. Additional criteria for identifying projects of common interest are set out in Annex II. Any changes to the additional criteria for identifying projects of common interest set out in Annex II shall be decided upon in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty.

3. Only those projects listed in Annex III which fulfil the criteria laid down in paragraph 1 and those set out in Annex II shall be eligible for the Community financial aid provided for under Regulation (EC) No 2236/95.

4. The indicative project specifications, comprising the detailed description of the projects and, where appropriate, their geographical description, are set out in Annex III. These specifications shall be updated in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 14(2). Updates shall be of a technical nature and shall be limited to technical changes of projects, or to modification of a part of the specified routing, or to limited adaptation of the location of the project.

5. Member States shall take any measures they consider necessary to facilitate and speed up the completion of projects of common interest and to minimise delays, while complying with Community law and international conventions on the environment, especially as regards projects declared to be of European interest. In particular, the necessary authorisation procedures shall be completed rapidly.

Tuesday 4 April 2006

6. Where parts of projects of common interest are situated within the territory of third countries, the Commission may, in agreement with the Member States concerned, put forward proposals, where appropriate within the framework of the management of the agreements between the Community and those third countries and in accordance with the Energy Charter Treaty and other multilateral agreements with third countries which are parties to that Treaty, for the projects also to be recognised as being of mutual interest by the third countries concerned, in order to facilitate their implementation.

Article 7

Priority projects

1. The projects of common interest referred to in Article 6(3) and covered by the axes for priority projects set out in Annex I shall have priority for the grant of the Community financial aid provided for under Regulation (EC) No 2236/95. Amendments to Annex I shall be decided upon in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty.

2. As regards cross-border investment projects, Member States shall take the steps required to ensure that, under national authorisation procedures, the fact that such projects increase the capacity for interconnection of two or more Member States and consequently strengthen Europe-wide security of supply is treated as a criterion for the assessment by the competent national authorities.

3. The Member States concerned and the Commission shall endeavour, each within its own sphere of competence, together with the responsible companies, to further the carrying out of the priority projects, especially cross-border projects.

4. Priority projects shall be compatible with sustainable development and meet the following criteria:

- (a) they shall have a significant impact on the competitive operation of the internal market; and/or
- (b) they shall strengthen security of supply in the Community; and/or
- (c) they shall result in an increase in the use of renewable energies.

Article 8

Projects of European Interest

1. A number of projects on the priority axes referred to in Article 7 which are of cross-border nature or which have significant impact on cross-border transmission capacity are declared to be of European Interest. Those projects are set out in Annex I.

2. When projects are selected under the budget for the trans-European networks in accordance with Article 10 of Regulation (EC) No 2236/95, appropriate priority shall be given to projects declared to be of European interest.

3. When projects are selected under other Community cofinancing funds, particular attention shall be given to projects declared to be of European interest.

4. If there is a significant current or prospective delay in the progress of a project declared to be of European interest, the Commission may ask the Member States concerned to ensure that reasons for the delay are provided within three months.

As regards projects declared to be of European interest for which a European coordinator has been appointed, the European coordinator shall include in his report the reasons for the delay.

Tuesday 4 April 2006

5. Five years after the completion of a project declared to be of European interest or one of the sections thereof, the Commission, assisted by the Committee referred to in Article 14(1), shall carry out an assessment of that project which includes its socio-economic impact, impact on the environment, impact on trade between Member States and impact on territorial cohesion and sustainable development. The Commission shall inform the Committee referred to in Article 14(1) of the result of that assessment.

6. For each project declared to be of European interest, and in particular for cross-border sections thereof, the Member States concerned shall take appropriate steps to ensure that:

- a regular exchange of relevant information takes place; and
- joint coordination meetings are organised as appropriate.

The joint coordination meetings shall be organised as required in the light of the particular requirements of the project, such as the project development phase, and the difficulties anticipated or encountered. The joint coordination meetings shall address, in particular, the evaluation and the public consultation procedures. The Member States concerned shall ensure that the Commission is informed of the joint coordination meetings and of the exchange of information.

Article 9

Implementation of projects of European interest

1. Projects of European interest should be implemented rapidly.

No later than ...⁽¹⁾, Member States shall, using as a basis a draft timetable provided to that effect by the Commission, submit to the Commission an updated and indicative timetable for the completion of those projects including, as far as available, details of:

- (a) the envisaged passage of the project through the planning approval process;
- (b) the timetable for the feasibility and design phase;
- (c) the construction of the project; and
- (d) the entry into service of the project.

2. The Commission, in close collaboration with the committee referred to in Article 14(1), shall present a report every two years on the progress of projects referred to in paragraph 1. For projects declared to be of European interest for which a European coordinator has been appointed, the annual reports presented by the European coordinator shall replace those biennial reports.

Article 10

European coordinator

1. When a project declared to be of European interest encounters significant delays or implementation difficulties, including in situations where third countries are involved, the Commission may designate, in agreement with the Member States concerned, and after having consulted the European Parliament, a European coordinator. When necessary, Member States may also request that the Commission designate a European coordinator for other projects concerning trans-European energy networks.

2. The European coordinator shall be chosen, in particular, on the basis of his experience of European institutions and knowledge of issues relating to energy policy and the financing and socio-economic and environmental evaluation of major projects.

3. The decision designating the European coordinator shall specify how the coordinator is to perform his tasks.

Tuesday 4 April 2006

4. The European coordinator shall:
 - (a) promote the European dimension of the project and the cross-border dialogue between the project promoters and the people concerned;
 - (b) contribute to the coordination of the national procedures for consulting the people concerned; and
 - (c) submit a report to the Commission every year on the progress of the project(s) for which he has been designated European coordinator and on any difficulties and obstacles which are likely to result in a significant delay. The Commission will transmit that report to the Member States concerned.
5. The Member States concerned shall cooperate with the European coordinator in his execution of the tasks referred to in paragraph 4.
6. The Commission may request the opinion of the European coordinator when examining applications for Community funding for projects or groups of projects for which he has been designated.
7. In order to avoid unnecessary administrative burden, the level of coordination must be proportionate to the costs of the project.

Article 11

More favourable context

1. In order to contribute to creating a more favourable context for the development of trans-European energy networks and their interoperability, the Community shall take account of Member States' efforts made in line with that objective, and shall attach the greatest importance to and promote as necessary the following measures:
 - (a) technical cooperation between the entities responsible for the trans-European energy networks, in particular for the proper functioning of the connections mentioned in Annex II, points 1, 2 and 7;
 - (b) facilitating implementation of the authorization procedures for projects on trans-European energy networks in order to reduce delays, especially as regards projects of European interest;
 - (c) the provision of assistance to the projects of common interest from Community Funds, instruments and financial programmes applicable to those networks.
2. The Commission shall, in close collaboration with the Member States concerned, take all initiatives for promoting the coordination of the activities referred to in paragraph 1.
3. The measures necessary for the implementation of the activities referred to in points (a) and (b) of paragraph 1 shall be decided upon by the Commission in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 14(2).

Article 12

Effects on competition

When projects are considered, their effects on competition and on security of supply shall be taken into account. Private financing or financing by the economic operators concerned shall be the main source of financing and shall be encouraged. Any competitive distortion between market operators shall be avoided, in accordance with the provisions of the Treaty.

Tuesday 4 April 2006

Article 13

Restrictions

1. This Decision shall be without prejudice to financial commitments entered into by a Member State or by the Community.
2. This Decision shall be without prejudice to the results of the environmental impact assessment of projects, plans or programmes which define the future authorisation framework for such projects. The results of the environmental impact assessments, where such an assessment is requested in accordance with relevant Community legislation, shall be taken into consideration before a decision on the carrying out of the projects is actually taken in accordance with the relevant Community legislation.

Article 14

Committee procedure

1. The Commission shall be assisted by a Committee.
2. Where reference is made to this paragraph, Articles 5 and 7 of Decision 1999/468/EC shall apply, having regard to the provisions of Article 8 thereof.

TEXT PROPOSED
BY THE COMMISSIONAMENDMENTS
BY PARLIAMENT

Amendment 1

Recital 1a (new)

(1a) Following the new challenges set by enlargement of the EU in May 2004, the employment guidelines laid down for the period 2005-2008 have taken on particular importance and new implications for the employment of young and older people, workers' health, combating work-related accidents at European level, the integration of vulnerable social groups, combating social exclusion, outlawing illegal working, improving the quality and the stability of jobs and the establishment of equal rights and opportunities for men and women, which should be evaluated with indicators per guideline to measure progress in gender equality.

Amendment 2

Recital 1b (new)

(1b) The Employment Guidelines cannot be implemented without the effective implementation of Community legislation by individual Member States, in particular that relating to anti-discrimination policy under Article 13 of the Treaty, and health and safety legislation. The Commission must improve its monitoring and enforcement procedure.

Amendment 3

Recital 1c (new)

(1c) Successful labour market integration requires an even greater variety of support measures which create channels for inclusion and combat discrimination.

Amendment 4

Recital 1d (new)

(1d) According to the conclusions of the Spring European Council held on 22 and 23 March 2005, the objectives of full employment, job quality, labour productivity and social cohesion must be reflected in clear and measurable priorities: attracting and retaining more people in the labour market on the basis of the principles of equal opportunities and equal treatment of men and women and the modernisation of social protection systems; reducing administrative costs, particularly for small and medium-sized enterprises; improving the adaptability of workers and businesses and increasing the flexibility of working hours and labour markets; increasing investment in human capital by improving training and skills.

Amendment 5

Recital 1e (new)

(1e) Further progress must be made in removing barriers and restrictions to people's freedom to move from one Member State to another (Guideline 21), particularly in the context of workers' mobility, including researchers and other professionals (Guideline 23) with a view to achieving a Europe without borders within the internal market and in order to put an end to the inconsistencies in this area generated by Council Directive 2003/109/EC of 25 November 2003 concerning the status of third-country nationals who are long-term residents (*), which grants this right without restriction to third-country nationals who have been resident in the European Union for more than five years.

Amendment 6

Recital 1f (new)

(1f) As the employment guidelines cannot be followed without adequate funding the Member States should take these objectives into account when adopting the Financial Perspective 2007–2013.

Amendment 7

Recital 2

(2) The Employment Guidelines and the Broad Economic Policy Guidelines should be fully reviewed only every three years, while in the intermediate years until 2008 their updating should remain strictly limited.

(2) In order to ensure that they enjoy the stability which they require if they are to be successfully implemented, the Employment Guidelines and the Broad Economic Policy Guidelines should be fully reviewed only every three years, while in the intermediate years until 2008 their updating should remain strictly limited. For this reason the European Parliament should play a more active role in the intermediate years, with particular regard to the monitoring of the Member States' implementation of the guidelines.

Recital 3

(3) The examination of the Member States' National Reform Programmes contained in the Commission's Annual Progress Report and in the Joint Employment Report shows that Member States should proceed with employment policy reforms across the board in accordance with the priorities set out in the 2005-2008 Guidelines.

(3) The examination of the Member States' National Reform Programmes contained in the Commission's Annual Progress Report and in the Joint Employment Report shows that Member States should proceed with employment policy reforms across the board in accordance with the priorities set out in the 2005-2008 Guidelines. Member States and the Commission are reminded that gender mainstreaming and the promotion of gender equality should be ensured in all action taken, as equal opportunities and the combating of discrimination are essential for progress.

European Parliament resolution on the Commission report on competition policy 2004 (2005/2209 (INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission report on Competition Policy 2004 (SEC(2005)0805) (the 2004 Competition Report),
- having regard to the Presidency conclusions of the Lisbon European Council of 23 and 24 March 2000, the Göteborg European Council of 15 and 16 June 2001, the Laeken European Council of 14 and 15 December 2001, the Barcelona European Council of 15 and 16 March 2002, and the Brussels European Councils of 20 and 21 March 2003, 25 and 26 March 2004, and 22 and 23 March 2005,
- having regard to the report of November 2004 entitled 'Facing the challenge — The Lisbon strategy for growth and employment', by the High Level Group chaired by Mr Wim Kok,
- having regard to Council Regulation (EC) No 1/2003 of 16 December 2002 on the implementation of the rules on competition laid down in Articles 81 and 82 of the Treaty ⁽¹⁾ and Commission Regulation (EC) No 773/2004 of 7 April 2004 relating to the conduct of proceedings by the Commission pursuant to Articles 81 and 82 of the EC Treaty ⁽²⁾,
- having regard to Council Regulation (EC) No 139/2004 of 20 January 2004 on the control of concentrations between undertakings ⁽³⁾,
- having regard to Commission Regulation (EC) No 794/2004 of 21 April 2004 implementing Council Regulation (EC) No 659/1999 laying down detailed rules for the application of Article 93 of the EC Treaty ⁽⁴⁾, Commission Regulation (EC) No 363/2004 of 25 February 2004 amending Regulation (EC) No 68/2001 on the application of Articles 87 and 88 of the EC Treaty to training aid ⁽⁵⁾ and Commission Regulation (EC) No 364/2004 of 25 February 2004 amending Regulation (EC) No 70/2001 as regards the extension of its scope to include aid for research and development ⁽⁶⁾,

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- having regard to the Commission communication entitled 'Community guidelines on State aid for rescuing and restructuring firms in difficulty' ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to the case law of the Court of Justice of the European Communities on services of general interest and, in particular, the Altmark judgment ⁽²⁾,
- having regard to Rules 45 and 112(2) of its Rules of Procedure,
- having regard to the report of the Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs (A6-0065/2006),

1. Welcomes the fact that, since 1 May 2004, the Community's competition policy has been extended to the ten new Member States whose national competition authorities (NCAs) have joined the European Competition Network (ECN), with the aim of integrating them into the EU;

2. Points out that competition policy is a fundamental instrument for contributing to the Lisbon Strategy, to make Europe the world's most dynamic knowledge-based economy, and to achieve its objectives by safeguarding the level and transparent operation of the single market, keeping markets open and stimulating growth, efficiency and innovation so as to create more sustainable value and provide increasingly improved services, particularly to consumers;

3. Continues to argue that a more active and growing role for the Parliament in the development of competition policy is likely to import greater transparency and legitimacy, and repeats Parliament's aspirations with regard to the extension of the co-decision procedure;

4. Supports the competition policy pursued by the EU in general, and expresses its appreciation of the modernising reform which the Commission has carried out in this field;

5. Regrets the fact that the 2004 Commission Report still lacks an assessment of the Commission's main decisions on the relevant markets, particularly in the case of mergers and State aid;

6. Calls, as a matter of urgency, for the speedy completion of the final part of the competition policy modernisation, namely as regards the application of the prohibition of abuses of dominant positions under Article 82 of the Treaty; stresses that account must be taken in this connection of the dynamics of increasingly globalised markets;

7. Welcomes the fact that the judgments of the Court of Justice now less frequently cast doubt on Commission competition decisions, but regrets that there are still great differences as regards the Commission's interpretation of the Altmark test in practice; calls on the Commission to issue a clear and precise interpretative communication on the fourth criterion set out in the Altmark judgement;

8. Regrets that the 2004 Competition Report does not dedicate a separate chapter to a discussion of services of general interest, as was the case in the competition reports of 2001 to 2003, and urges the Commission to reinstate this approach in its future reports;

9. Welcomes the Commission's modernisation package, its new scheme for block exempting technology transfer agreements, and the progress made towards distinguishing between accessible and inaccessible documents and laying down standards for dealing with confidential information in the context of competition proceedings;

10. Points out that the Commission investigated some areas of great importance during 2004, such as broadband Internet services, roaming for international mobile calls, and telecommunications generally, and urges the Commission to keep a close watch on the development of these sectors in order to encourage competition in areas that are of importance to the development of the Information Society;

⁽²⁾ Case C-280/00, Altmark Trans GmbH and Regierungspräsidium Magdeburg v Nahverkehrsgesellschaft Altmark GmbH [2003] ECR I-7747.

Tuesday 4 April 2006

11. Calls on the Commission to study and analyse in detail the problems associated with collective bargaining in sensitive economic sectors such as agriculture, particularly in connection with relations between small and medium-sized producers or producer associations on the one hand, and major processing or marketing firms on the other;
12. Congratulates the Commission on its firm and professional approach to the fight against abuses of dominant positions and welcomes the Commission's consultation on a more effective implementation of Article 82 of the Treaty;
13. Urges the Commission to take measures to optimise the exchange of information among NCAs within the ECN, and to enhance the quality of such information, with a view to guaranteeing the uniform application of EC competition policy;
14. Urges the Commission to make an effort to promote the correct application of the competition rules in all Member States, and to intervene in good time where the competition rules are being applied unsatisfactorily or in a discriminatory manner;
15. Notes that an effective competition policy must constantly take account of the interests of the consumer and must not be an instrument for the disruption of the market;
16. Encourages the Commission to clarify the occasionally obscure relationships among NCAs and 'national champions', so as to remove any suspicion of complicity and safeguard consumers' interests (for instance, at the beginning of 2005 the media revealed secret agreements between the three main French mobile telephony operators); recognises that there has been insufficient time so far to assess the effectiveness of the reforms devolving the implementation of EC competition law to NCAs; points out that the ECN, which is comprised of the Commission and the NCAs, is a cooperation forum and is essential, as a body, for the strengthening of the consistency and effectiveness of the application of the EC competition rules, and urges its members to play an active part in that body and to provide impetus for its enormous potential in accordance with the strategic role given to competition policy in the EU;
17. Congratulates the Commission on its vigilance with regard to the regulation of mergers and acquisitions that could lead to the strengthening of dominant positions;
18. Expresses its concern at the continued failure to achieve full liberalisation on the EU gas and electricity markets and welcomes the sector inquiry launched by the Commission into the functioning of the internal market in gas and electricity;
19. Welcomes the sector inquiries launched by the Commission in relation to bank payment systems and business insurance, but urges that the inquiry process be undertaken in a way that allows adequate time for full and thorough responses to the Commission;
20. Suggests that in the case of major networked public services, competition must be guided by strong public service obligations so as to ensure necessary investment and prevent the emergence of new monopolies;
21. Recognises the important contribution which an effective competition policy makes to the achievement of the Lisbon Strategy;
22. Welcomes the environmentally friendly criteria of the Commission applied in the approval of several environmental aid schemes, including those concerning rail transport, and urges the Commission to develop further the conditions for transparency for such schemes, so that they may serve as precedents for other regions and Member States;
23. Calls on the Commission to defend its doctrine of combating monopolies and illegal cartels and of providing reasons to justify State aid in future negotiations on the organisation of international trade; also urges the Commission to promote international cooperation in competition matters by means of instruments of a multilateral or bilateral nature and to encourage emerging and developing countries to participate increasingly in that cooperation;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

24. Highlights the importance of encouraging consumer information, draws attention to the fundamental role of consumer information in ensuring that there is a genuine competition culture, and points out the need to consider, at Community level, private compensation in cases of anti-competitive conduct;
25. Reaffirms its support for a more proactive role of Parliament in the development of competition policy by enhancing the co-decision powers of the Parliament;
26. Urges the Commission to continue to review the operation of the judicial system in relation to competition cases in order to consider improvements to the speed of access to justice and in order to maximise the experience and skills of the judiciary dealing with competition cases;
27. Urges the Commission to build on the appointment of a Consumer Liaison Officer in order to develop a closer dialogue and closer cooperation between the Commission and consumers;
28. Believes that the effective application of competition policy is an essential tool to achieving an efficient market structure, which operates in the interests of consumers and which has a positive and significant impact upon consumers' daily lives; wishes to emphasise that closer integration of the internal market sometimes makes it more natural to analyse the state of competition on the internal market as a whole rather than on different submarkets; and calls on the Commission to produce clearer guidelines on its market definition in such cases;
29. Welcomes the Commission's positive response to Parliament's recommendations concerning the further development of European Competition Days (ECDs), including the integration in the planning process of ECDs of consumer organisations and the national media;
30. Encourages the Commission, in accordance with the new guidelines, to focus on relevant questions, predominantly on the Union's objectives and the impact on citizens' living conditions, committing itself not just to responding to change but also to anticipating change and to encouraging it when it is needed;
31. Welcomes the Commission's continued commitment to the International Competition Network, particularly as regards its work undertaken in assisting China in the development of its draft antitrust law;
32. Welcomes the continued progress which the ten new Member States are making in rapidly adapting to the competition rules, EC merger control and, in particular, State aid regulation and urges the Commission to pursue the process of technical assistance and cooperation;
33. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission.

Openness of meetings of the Council when acting in its legislative capacity

European Parliament resolution on the Special Report from the European Ombudsman following the draft recommendation to the Council of the European Union in complaint 2395/2003/GG concerning the openness of the meetings of the Council when acting in its legislative capacity (2005/2243(INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Special Report from the European Ombudsman to the European Parliament following the draft recommendation to the Council of the European Union in complaint 2395/2003/GG,
- having regard to Article 1 of the EU Treaty,
- having regard to Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 30 May 2001 regarding public access to European Parliament, Council and Commission documents⁽¹⁾,

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- having regard to Article 255 of the EC Treaty concerning access to documents of the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission,
 - having regard to Articles 195 and 207 of the EC Treaty,
 - having regard to the Laeken Declaration on the future of the European Union ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to the Presidency Conclusions of the Seville European Council of 21 and 22 June 2002,
 - having regard to Article 3(7) of the Statute of the European Ombudsman ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to Rules 45 and 195(3) of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Petitions (A6-0056/2006),
- A. whereas Article 195 of the EC Treaty empowers the European Ombudsman to receive complaints from any citizen of the Union concerning instances of maladministration in the activities of the Community institutions or bodies,
- B. whereas the complainants in complaint 2395/2003/GG to the European Ombudsman alleged that meetings of the Council when acting in its legislative capacity are not consistent with Article 1(2) of the EU Treaty and are only open to the extent provided for in Articles 8 and 9 of the Council's Rules of Procedure of 22 July 2002, subsequently amended on 22 March 2004 ⁽³⁾,
- C. whereas the complainants considered that meetings of the Council acting in its legislative capacity should be public and requested a change in the Council's Rules of Procedure to that effect,
- D. whereas, under Article 12(2) of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 and Article 7 of the Council's Rules of Procedure, as amended, the Council acts in its legislative capacity within the meaning of the second subparagraph of Article 207(3) of the EC Treaty when it adopts rules which are legally binding in or for the Member States, by means of regulations, directives, framework decisions or decisions, on the basis of the relevant provisions of the Treaties, with the exception of discussions leading to the adoption of internal measures, administrative or budgetary acts, acts concerning inter-institutional or international relations or non-binding acts (such as conclusions, recommendations or resolutions),
- E. whereas, according to the above definition of its legislative activity, the Council's non-legislative activity accounts for a far smaller proportion than its legislative activity, and whereas transparency should accordingly be the rule in respect of its deliberations, confidentiality applying only to its non-legislative activity, where appropriate,
- F. whereas, pursuant to Article 1(2) of the EU Treaty, decisions in the EU should be taken 'as openly as possible and as closely as possible to the citizens',
- G. whereas, on 19 November 2003, Mr Solana, the Council's Secretary General, in his reply to the complainants' open letter stated that opening up the Council's legislative deliberations to the public was an issue that found the very widest support,
- H. whereas the Council, in its reply to the Ombudsman, acknowledged that the principle of openness laid down inter alia in Article 1(2) of the EU Treaty is of great importance,
- I. whereas the Council, in its Rules of Procedure, as amended in 2004, introduced rules that provide for greater openness as regards the meetings in which it acts in its legislative capacity,

⁽¹⁾ Annex I to the Presidency Conclusions of the European Council of Laeken of 14 and 15 December 2001.

⁽²⁾ OJ L 113, 4.5.1994, p. 15.

⁽³⁾ OJ L 106, 15.4.2004, p. 22.

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- J. whereas, in October 2004, the Member States signed the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe, which contains an express provision to the effect that the Council is to meet in public when considering and voting on draft legislative acts,
- K. whereas, in its reply to specific questions from the Ombudsman, the Council did not mention any obstacles to the implementation of the amendment of its Rules of Procedure, as requested by the complainants, nor any principles or aims of a higher order that would entitle it to refuse to open to the public the meetings in which it acts in its legislative capacity, but contended that the adoption of its Rules of Procedure was a political and institutional matter to be decided upon by the Council itself,
- L. whereas, in his Annual Report for 1997 ⁽¹⁾, the European Ombudsman considered that maladministration occurs when a public body fails to act in accordance with a rule or principle which is binding upon it,
- M. whereas the Ombudsman concluded that the fact that the Council refused to decide to meet publicly whenever it acts in its legislative capacity without giving good reasons for that refusal was an instance of maladministration,
- N. whereas, in his draft recommendation to the Council pursuant to Article 3(6) of the Statute of the European Ombudsman, the Ombudsman stated that: 'The Council of the European Union should review its refusal to decide to meet publicly whenever it is acting in its legislative capacity'; whereas, in his Special Report, the Ombudsman reiterated his recommendation to the Council and suggested that the European Parliament consider adopting his recommendation as a resolution,
- O. whereas, in particular when the Council adopts acts as 'A-points', the actual debate and legislative work is done by Permanent Representatives Committee (Coreper) and the acts in question are merely approved by the Council,
- P. whereas the Council also acts in its legislative capacity in the meetings of the conciliation committees,
- Q. whereas the accountability and public responsibility of ministers require that Member States' positions and votes in the Council be known to the public,
- R. whereas the two legislative branches of the EU still work on the basis of partially different sets of information; whereas the documents held by Parliament are in general public, while the Council often works also on the basis of classified documents and information, including when it considers certain questions which require adoption under the codecision procedure,
- S. whereas the UK Presidency made two alternative proposals to the Council with the aim of responding to the Ombudsman's recommendations, one of which would have involved amending the Council's Rules of Procedure, while the other merely sought to improve transparency within the scope of the existing rules,
- T. whereas the Council subsequently chose not to amend its Rules of Procedure,
1. Endorses the European Ombudsman's recommendation to the Council;
 2. Recalls that
 - under democratic legal systems such as those of the European Union (Article 6(1) of the EU Treaty) and its Member States, the essential characteristic of the law is not only that it is binding but also that it is adopted in such a manner as to allow the people of Europe to be informed and to participate through their representatives at both national (national parliaments and governments) and European (European Parliament) level; and that the second paragraph of Article 1 of the EU Treaty obliges the EU institutions to take an approach of openness and closeness to the citizen during their decision-making processes and that any deviation from this principle would have to be based on very specific and strong reasons,
 - this possibility of public participation would be gravely undermined if one of the legislative authorities were required to make its preparatory deliberations and discussions accessible only when the final decision is taken or later,

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- continued disparities between Parliament and the Council as regards standards of transparency have no logical justification, particularly in codecision procedures,
 - given that preparatory deliberations in parliamentary committees and debates in plenary sitting are public, debates at ministerial level on the same matters should also be public,
 - the need for transparency is all the more manifest when Parliament and the Council are seeking an agreement in codecision at first reading in Parliament (which happens in one out of every three cases); in such situations, the position of Parliament itself can only be understood if at the same time any majority view emerging in the Council, its composition and the arguments underlying the positions of the national delegations are known,
 - insistence on the confidentiality of Council deliberations in respect of negotiations of this nature is tantamount to undermining the principle of transparency and efficiency which governs Parliament's own procedures,
 - this aspect was not taken properly into account in the Conclusions adopted by the Council on 22 December 2005, which provide for the transparency of its preparatory deliberations only at the outset of proceedings and after the final vote (unless Coreper decides to the contrary);
3. Recalls that, given the definition of legislative activity contained in Article 12 of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 and in the Council's Rules of Procedure, the principle of transparency should as a matter of urgency be made to apply not only to Council deliberations with Parliament under the codecision procedure but also to every other case where Parliament is involved, including straightforward consultation, and wherever it adopts acts which may affect individual rights and freedoms, as is the case with acts falling under the third pillar;
 4. Regrets the absence of progress in these areas and the Council's own silence on the matter in its Conclusions of 22 December 2005;
 5. Considers it unacceptable that the EU's most important law-making body still meets behind closed doors when acting as legislator;
 6. Points out that the principles of multi-level governance in the EU are the principles of good governance: participation, transparency, accountability, efficiency and cohesion;
 7. Is of the opinion that, at a time when the EU sees itself as a promoter of democratisation and accountability, the Council should respond to the calls for greater transparency coming from parliaments, civil society and the general public;
 8. Believes that it is not only a matter of principle that legislative bodies should meet in public, but that it is also of direct relevance to the efforts of the European Parliament and national parliaments, as the directly elected representatives of European citizens, to fulfil their scrutiny role;
 9. Considers that it is of the utmost importance for national parliaments to be able to hold their governments and ministers to account; is of the opinion that this cannot be done effectively if it is unclear how ministers have acted and voted in the Council and on what information their decisions were based;
 10. Believes that the recent developments in connection with the debate surrounding the ratification process of the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe have illustrated clearly that European citizens want the European decision-making process to be more open;
 11. Believes that meeting in public would make the Council's work both more transparent and more relevant to European citizens and would increase the public's confidence in the way the European Union and its representatives work;
 12. Is convinced that greater openness will lead to the ministers of Member State governments shouldering greater collective responsibility, and that it will enhance the legitimacy of the Council's decisions in the eyes of the public and also promote and intensify public discussion on European matters;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

13. Calls on the Council further to amend its Rules of Procedure and change its working methods so that the meetings in which it acts in its legislative capacity are open and accessible to the public;
14. Considers that meetings of Coreper are an essential part of the legislative deliberations of the Council and that, therefore, they should be covered by the rules on openness; considers that the Council should take its decisions by a formal vote and not only by approval;
15. Recalls that the Council is also acting in its legislative capacity when participating in conciliation procedures;
16. Notes that, at present, preparatory documents for items on Council meeting agendas are not accessible to the public; stresses that, in any adapted Rules of Procedure, the Council should clearly specify the classification and hierarchy of such documents and make them accessible to the public;
17. Welcomes the Council Conclusions of 22 December 2005 as a step in the right direction, but regrets that the Council did not follow the Ombudsman's recommendation to amend its Rules of Procedure;
18. Recalls that an amendment of the Council's Rules of Procedure requires the support of thirteen of the twenty-five Member States;
19. Considers that, since all Member State governments have signed the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe, agreement on an amendment of the Council's Rules of Procedure should not meet with opposition, as the principle has already been politically accepted by all Member State governments;
20. Stresses that the European Parliament has fully endorsed the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe and the efforts to bring it into force; stresses that an amendment of the Council's Rules of Procedure should not be seen as a substitute for all or parts of the aforementioned Treaty but as a long overdue adaptation to European reality and institutional equality in law-making in the European Union;
21. Takes the view that the methods of publicising Council meetings as described in its Conclusions of 22 December 2005 are insufficient to guarantee the necessary openness and that it is indispensable that representatives of the public and the media are in fact given access to the meetings;
22. Calls on the Council to take all measures needed to make the meetings in which it is acting in its legislative capacity open and accessible to the public; requests the Council also to broadcast, including on the Internet, its public meetings and to provide the dates and agendas of those meetings in good time and issue official transcripts thereof in all official languages of the European Union;
23. Urges the Council to adopt a common approach regarding the implementation of the European Union Code of Good Administrative Behaviour as adopted by the European Parliament on 6 September 2001 ⁽¹⁾;
24. Suggests to the Council the launch of a pilot project on 'more transparent decision-making', wherein one or more topical legislative issues would be discussed in a fully open and accessible Council meeting, with special emphasis being laid on explaining the procedures followed and decisions made, so that they would be easier for citizens to understand;
25. Calls on the Presidency, the members of the Council and the Commission to propose issues or subjects for such an open debate under Article 8(3) of the Council's Rules of Procedure;
26. Calls on the Presidency-in-Office of the Council as a matter of priority to put the issue of opening Council meetings to the public on the agenda of the European Council and to make a solemn commitment on 9 May 2006 to immediately amend the Council's Rules of Procedure and to review Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001, in agreement with the European Parliament, by the end of 2006;

27. Calls on all interested parties to bring maximum pressure to bear on the Council in order to persuade it to follow the Ombudsman's recommendation and adapt its Rules of Procedure;
28. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the European Ombudsman and the governments and parliaments of the Member States.

P6_TA(2006)0122Access to the institutions' texts*European Parliament resolution with recommendations to the Commission on access to the institutions' texts (2004/2125(INI))The European Parliament,*

- having regard to Article 192, second paragraph, of the EC Treaty,
 - having regard to Rules 39 and 45 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the institutions' reports on the implementation of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 of 30 May 2001 regarding public access to European Parliament, Council and Commission documents⁽¹⁾ and, particularly, to the Commission's first triennial report on implementation, as provided for in Article 17(2) of that Regulation,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs (A6-0052/2006),
- A. whereas, since ratification of the Amsterdam Treaty and the entry into force of Article 255 of the Treaty establishing the European Community, transparency has become a fundamental principle of the European Union the aims of which are to strengthen the democratic nature of the European institutions, enable citizens to participate more closely in the decision-making process, ensure that public administrative authorities enjoy greater legitimacy as a result of being more effective and more accountable to citizens and, finally, enable problems or errors to be detected in a more timely manner,
- B. whereas Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 only partially implements Article 255 EC, in as much as:
- its implicit definition of legislative activity (found in Article 12) is too general and could create confusion with activities of an administrative nature; it does not provide that legislation should be debated and adopted in public by the Parliament and the Council or that, in addition to legislative initiatives, amendments advocated by the Member States should also be immediately accessible — by the same token, all preparatory legislative documents should also be accessible (regardless of whether they are drawn up by the legal services of the Community institutions) so that decisions can be taken on an equal footing and in loyal cooperation between the Parliament, the Council and the Commission in full knowledge of the domain to be regulated; furthermore, there is still no common understanding of the requirements regarding publication of legislative texts in the Official Journal or the way in which the Official Journal should be organised (for instance, as far as the electronic version is concerned),
 - there are no clear rules on access to documents of an administrative nature, the so-called time for reflection, better drafting, informing citizens of the procedure to be followed by each institution, common rules for archiving documents or privileged access for persons with specific access rights,

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- there remains a clear need to define the circumstances in which specific documents may be classified, wholly or in part, as confidential and to lay down rules requiring such classification to be reviewed regularly; furthermore, it is contrary to the democratic principle on which the Union is founded that the European Parliament does not have a clear legal basis for accessing classified EU information, notably where such access is also forbidden to or limited for national parliaments; moreover, provision must also be made to prevent third countries and international organisations from forbidding the Council and the Commission from allowing Parliament access to classified information,
 - the administrative machinery (the institutions' registers, databases and other IT applications) is still in an experimental phase and there is no common approach on the part of the three institutions; furthermore, even as regards inter-institutional procedures, there is still no common understanding among the institutions as to how to manage, share, and store the various types of documents; moreover, although some improvements have been made, there is still a clear lack of coordination between the institutions, notably in respect of documents connected with inter-institutional procedures, as a result of which not only ordinary citizens lose their way, but also professionals, researchers and national parliaments,
- C. whereas, even though provision was made in Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 for its revision after three years, and despite the fact that Parliament has asked the Commission on several occasions to improve and strengthen Community legislation on transparency, no proposal within the meaning of Rule 39(2) of Parliament's Rules of Procedure has been brought forward,
- D. whereas the problems in applying the Regulation have in some respects arisen through inadequate implementation; whereas the case-law of the Court of Justice has also revealed the need to develop and clarify some of the provisions of the Regulation, particularly those concerning documents produced by the Member States and third parties, and the exceptions for investigations, legal advice and the 'time for reflection',
- E. whereas transparent and open negotiations and loyal cooperation between the institutions are better ways of ensuring the effectiveness of the decision-making process referred to in Article 207 EC than secret negotiations within the Council; whereas it therefore regrets that, in its Presidency Conclusions of 22 December 2005, the Council chose not to amend its Rules of Procedure so as to have transparent debates at ministerial level throughout the legislative procedure,
1. Requests the Commission to submit to Parliament in 2006, on the basis of Article 255 EC, a legislative proposal on 'the right of access to European Parliament, Council and Commission documents, and general principles and limits on grounds of public or private interest governing this right of access', a proposal to be prepared in inter-institutional discussions and which should follow the detailed recommendations set out below;
 2. Confirms that these recommendations respect the principle of subsidiarity, the fundamental rights of citizens, the case-law of the European Court of Human Rights, particularly that on Article 8 of the European Convention on Human Rights, and Articles 7 and 8 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights;
 3. Considers that the financial implications of the requested proposal must be covered by the institutions' operating budgets as the rules on transparency are indissociable from those relating to the establishment, adoption and publication of the texts of which they are the authors or which are addressed to them;
 4. Stresses that any new rules on access to documents should apply as from the date of the entry into force of the prospectively amended Regulation and should, therefore, have no retroactive effect;
 5. Instructs its President to forward this resolution and the accompanying detailed recommendations to the Commission and the Council, and to the governments and parliaments of the Member States and accession and candidate countries.

ANNEX

DETAILED RECOMMENDATIONS ON THE CONTENT OF THE PROPOSAL REQUESTED

Recommendation 1 (on Article 255 EC and Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 from a constitutional perspective)

The Commission should improve the clarity of the citations and recitals in Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 in order to make it quite clear that Article 255 EC⁽¹⁾, which is the legal basis for the Regulation itself:

- (a) is the main legal basis in the Treaties for implementing the founding principles of the Union, outlined in Article 1 of the Treaty on the European Union, according to which ‘... decisions are taken as openly as possible and as closely as possible to the citizen’, and in Article 6 EU, according to which ‘the Union is founded on the principles of ... democracy ... and the rule of law’;
- (b) is the pivotal legal basis, as far as transparency and confidentiality are concerned, for all the activities of the Parliament, the Council and the Commission (the ‘legislative triangle’) when acting under the EC Treaty and the EU Treaty;
- (c) must be sincerely and fully implemented in the Rules of Procedure of the European Parliament⁽²⁾, the Commission⁽³⁾ and of the Council⁽⁴⁾;
- (d) must be applied consistently when the institutions act in a legislative capacity (as outlined in Article 207 EC) or implement EU or EC legislation (Article 202 EC⁽⁵⁾), irrespective of which institution implements the legislation or exercises implementing powers.

Recommendation 2 (on the concepts of legislative and non-legislative documents)

The Commission, following discussion in the inter-institutional committee provided for in Article 15 of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 and in compliance with the principles outlined in Recommendation 1, should amend the Regulation:

- (a) by re-defining the concept of ‘legislative documents’, currently defined in Article 12(2), as documents ‘... drawn up or received in the course of procedures for the adoption of acts that are legally binding in or on the Member States’, by adding a reference to the fact that the concept of (legislative) act should be reserved for secondary law only (with a direct legal basis in the Treaties);

As far as legislative documents are concerned, access should be granted:

- to all preparatory documents connected with an identified decisional procedure; access should be granted as soon as those documents are formally submitted by each institution taking part in the decision,

(1) Any citizen of the Union, and any natural or legal person residing or having its registered office in a Member State, shall have a right of access to European Parliament, Council and Commission documents, subject to the principles and the conditions to be defined in accordance with paragraphs 2 and 3.

(2) General principles and limits on grounds of public or private interest governing this right of access to documents shall be determined by the Council, acting in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 251 within two years of the entry into force of the Treaty of Amsterdam.

(3) Each institution referred to above shall elaborate in its own Rules of Procedure specific provisions regarding access to its documents.

⁽²⁾ Article 199 EC: The European Parliament shall adopt its Rules of Procedure, acting by a majority of its Members. The proceedings of the European Parliament shall be published in the manner laid down in its Rules of Procedure.

⁽³⁾ Article 218(2) EC: The Commission shall adopt its Rules of Procedure so as to ensure that both it and its departments operate in accordance with the provisions of this Treaty. It shall ensure that these Rules are published.

⁽⁴⁾ Article 207(3) EC: The Council shall adopt its Rules of Procedure. For the purpose of applying Article 255(3), the Council shall elaborate in these Rules the conditions under which the public shall have access to Council documents. For the purpose of this paragraph, the Council shall define the cases in which it is to be regarded as acting in its legislative capacity, with a view to allowing greater access to documents in those cases, while at the same time preserving the effectiveness of its decision-making process. In any event, when the Council acts in its legislative capacity, the results of votes and explanations of vote as well as statements in the minutes shall be made public.

⁽⁵⁾ Article 202 EC: To ensure that the objectives set out in this Treaty are attained the Council shall, in accordance with the provisions of this Treaty:

- ensure coordination of the general economic policies of the Member States,
- have power to take decisions,

- confer on the Commission, in the acts which the Council adopts, powers for the implementation of the rules which the Council lays down. The Council may impose certain requirements in respect of the exercise of these powers. The Council may also reserve the right, in specific cases, to exercise directly implementing powers itself. The procedures referred to above must be consonant with principles and rules to be laid down in advance by the Council, acting unanimously on a proposal from the Commission and after obtaining the opinion of the European Parliament.

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- to the record of Parliament or Council debates, where those institutions are acting in a legislative capacity, and to the documents discussed (if not classified, see Recommendation 3 below),
- to the identity of the author of each initiative or formal amendment,
- to relevant complementary information or documents relating to the meetings of the institutions' working groups, and to the contributions submitted by the secretariats of the institutions (including the legal services), where such documents are not simply administrative in nature.

The amended Regulation should also be the legal basis for establishing rules, good practice and inter-institutional agreements designed to improve the drafting of legislative texts and to ensure that final legislative texts are accessible, such as the rules to be followed for:

- drafting legislative acts,
 - publishing them in electronic form in the Official Journal,
 - consolidating basic texts with their amending acts, and
 - determining the format of the Official Journal, implementing multilingualism and defining the tasks of OPOCE;
- (b) by defining the concept of 'non-legislative documents' as documents connected with procedures for implementing legislative acts (whichever institutions are involved) and documents connected with procedures for adopting non-binding acts; it should be possible to apply less stringent transparency rules to such documents, given their administrative nature;

Therefore the institutions:

- should make public the procedure to be followed for non-legislative documents and lay down clearly when and how interested parties may take part in the procedure concerned and when and how the public may have access to the documents,
 - should also clearly indicate the organisational units involved in administrative procedures, the way in which documents are stored, both temporarily and permanently, and how they can be accessed.
- (c) by defining the concept of 'regulatory documents' ⁽¹⁾ as documents connected with procedures for adopting acts which complete or amend non-essential elements of legislative acts (as defined in point (a)) regardless of whether such regulatory documents are adopted by the Council or delegated to the Commission; such documents should be accessible 'mutatis mutandis' under the same conditions as those applicable to legislative documents (e.g., in comitology procedures, access should be granted as soon as a draft measure is formally submitted to a committee); similarly, access should also be granted to the relevant complementary documents (e.g. the agendas, minutes and result of votes of the committee).

Recommendation 3 (on documents to be treated as confidential)

Taking into account best practice in the Member States, Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 should also be amended in such a way as to clearly define the '... limits on grounds of public or private interest', as referred to in Article 255 EC, which could delay or prevent access to the institutions' documents (or relevant parts of them); the Regulation should therefore contain rules for:

- (a) ensuring that, regardless of the field of EU action, the grounds on which basic policy decisions are taken and on which legislation is adopted are in the public domain; there is also a need for clarification of the distinction between, on the one hand, the need for confidentiality as regards, for instance, planned or on-going operations by security services and, on the other hand, the requirements of accountability and a posteriori control,

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- (b) ensuring that documents are not classified as confidential as a matter of routine, simply because they refer to a issue which is or might be of concern from a security point of view, and
- (c) ensuring adequate control by the European Parliament (democratic parliamentary scrutiny).

The Regulation should also clearly provide that bilateral agreements with third countries or international organisations may not prohibit the Council or the Commission from sharing confidential information with the European Parliament (in particular, where the relevant documents are not accessible to national parliaments, since they are EU documents).

Recommendation 4 (on the relationship between the EU and Member States as regards sharing information/documents)

Taking into account the principle outlined in Article 296 EC according to which 'no Member State shall be obliged to supply information the disclosure of which it considers contrary to the essential interests of its security', the Regulation should be amended in such a way as to:

- (a) limit the right of Member States to limit access to their contributions/amendments in legislative/regulatory procedures;
- (b) give full access to information submitted to the Commission when dealing with the implementation of EC or EU legislation until such time as any proceedings before a court have begun.

Recommendation 5 (on the practicalities of ensuring citizens' access to documents)

Taking into account the experience of the first four-year period of the Regulation's being in force, the Commission should amend the Regulation by making a coherent proposal for:

- (a) ensuring a single point of access in a clear and structured way to all preparatory documents dealing with a legislative or regulatory procedure (see Recommendation 2);
- (b) reorganising the institutions' registers by adding a common interface so that the citizen/user is able to find the same functionalities in the three registers;
- (c) defining common rules for archiving documents, avoiding duplication and ensuring the authenticity of the various versions;
- (d) presenting in a clear and comprehensible way the work-flow of the Institutions and, where relevant, the point of access to the documents.

WTO Ministerial Conference in Hong Kong

European Parliament resolution on the assessment of the Doha Round following the WTO Ministerial Conference in Hong Kong (2005/2247(INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Ministerial Declaration of the Sixth Session of the Ministerial Conference of the World Trade Organization (WTO), adopted on 18 December 2005 ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to the Final Declarations by the Parliamentary Conference on the WTO at the conclusion of its sessions in Hong Kong from 12 to 15 December 2005 and in Brussels from 25 to 26 November 2004,

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- having regard to its resolution of 1 December 2005 on the preparations for the Sixth WTO Ministerial Conference in Hong Kong ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to the Council conclusions on the WTO Doha Development Agenda (DDA), following the extraordinary General Affairs and External Relations Council meeting in Luxembourg on 18 October 2005 (13378/05),
 - having regard to its resolution of 12 May 2005 on the assessment of the Doha Round following the WTO General Council Decision of 1 August 2004 ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to the WTO General Council Decision of 1 August 2004 ⁽³⁾,
 - having regard to the Doha Ministerial Declaration of the WTO of 14 November 2001 ⁽⁴⁾,
 - having regard to its previous resolutions of 15 December 1999 on the Third WTO Ministerial Conference in Seattle ⁽⁵⁾, of 13 December 2001 on the WTO meeting in Qatar ⁽⁶⁾ and of 25 September 2003 on the Fifth WTO Ministerial Conference in Cancún ⁽⁷⁾,
 - having regard to the Sutherland Report on 'The Future of the WTO: Addressing Institutional Challenges in the New Millennium' ⁽⁸⁾,
 - having regard to its resolution of 9 March 2005 on the proposal for a Council regulation applying a scheme of generalised tariff preferences ⁽⁹⁾,
 - having regard to Rule 45 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on International Trade and the opinions of the Committee on Regional Development, the Committee on Agriculture and Rural Development, the Committee on Industry, Research and Energy and the Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs (A6-0051/2006),
- A. whereas the multilateral trading system embodied in the WTO contributes to enhanced fairness, security, transparency and stability in international trade and to a better management of globalisation through multilateral rules and disciplines and the judicial settlement of disputes, with priority being given to sustainable development concerns and human rights;
- B. whereas the Ministerial Conference held in Doha from 9 to 14 November 2001 committed all WTO Members to a development round (the Doha Round), whose central purpose would be to promote a fairer and more pro-development trade system based on multilateral rules,
- C. whereas a successful conclusion of the Doha Round, providing for genuine further market opening and stronger multilateral rules, could be an important parameter in stimulating worldwide economic growth, development and employment and effectively contribute to the integration of developing countries into the world economy,
- D. whereas the EU has played a leading role in the negotiations since the launch of the Doha Round and submitted credible and substantial offers in all negotiating areas, including agriculture, whilst other developed and advanced developing countries have not shown the same flexibility or level of commitment,
- E. whereas a successful conclusion of the Doha Round leading to further mutual liberalisation of world trade in goods and services will be an important element in achieving higher growth, employment and competitiveness in the European Union and attaining the objectives of the Lisbon Strategy,

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- F. whereas a new deadline of April 2006 has been established in Hong Kong for reaching an agreement on full modalities and another one of July 2006 for the submission of draft implementation schedules,
- G. whereas efforts to meet the 2006 deadline for the conclusion of the Doha Round should not compromise the objective of reaching an ambitious and balanced outcome, reflecting the development objectives enshrined in the Doha Ministerial Declaration,
- H. whereas a failure to conclude negotiations in 2006 carries a risk of a collapse of the Doha Round which, in turn, could challenge the credibility of the multilateral trading system and result in a shift towards bilateral and regional trade agreements which often accentuate imbalances between the developed and the developing world,
- I. whereas the Doha Round must deliver pro-development outcomes in all areas under negotiation, especially in the interests of poorer and vulnerable developing countries,
- J. whereas there exists a great variety of situations among developing countries, which should both make commitments and receive special and differential treatment commensurate with their level of development as well as their general and sectoral competitiveness, while the least developed and vulnerable countries should not have to make any commitments,
- K. whereas the EU should respond to the requests for liberalisation of trade in agriculture in a way that secures the sustainability, competitiveness and multi-functional character of the EU agricultural sector,
- L. whereas an end-date of 2013 for the elimination of agricultural export subsidies has been agreed; whereas comparable progress has not been achieved in the areas of domestic support and market access,
- M. whereas the EU is by far the world's largest importer of agricultural products from developing countries,
- N. whereas the protection of geographical indications remains of crucial importance to the EU, which enjoys competitive advantage for a number of high-quality regional products,
- O. whereas non-agricultural market access (NAMA) has significant potential trade gains for the EU, but equally for developing countries since a considerable amount of their trade is in industrial goods and they face high tariff barriers in their trade with other developing countries,
- P. whereas market access is also hampered by significant non-tariff barriers,
- Q. whereas in the area of services, negotiations have not yet yielded any satisfactory results; whereas the objective sought by the EU is further liberalisation which, while preserving WTO members' national policy objectives and their right to regulate public services, should nevertheless take into account the specific needs of developing countries,
- R. whereas an improvement of WTO rules on Trade Facilitation, anti-dumping, and other rules issues would be advantageous for all WTO members by improving legal certainty, lowering the costs of trade transactions and preventing abusive or protectionist use,
- S. whereas the process of globalisation and the role played by the WTO are often misrepresented and misunderstood, and there is a need for enhanced accountability and transparency in the WTO,
1. Reiterates its commitment to the multilateral approach to trade policy, and its support for the WTO as the guarantor of rules-based international trade; points out that a failure of the multilateral negotiations and a shift to bilateral/regional agreements would lead to an unequal process of liberalisation and uneven development and would thus adversely affect particularly the least developed countries (LDCs);

Tuesday 4 April 2006

2. Deplores the slow progress in the negotiations so far and the predetermined low level of ambition for the outcome of the Ministerial Conference in Hong Kong; notes that this low level of ambition threatens the ability to deliver meaningful results for the Doha Round; calls on the Commission to prepare an alternative action plan in case the Doha negotiations fail; hopes, however, that the Ministerial Declaration will pave the way for a successful conclusion of the Round in all key areas;
3. Believes that a greater commitment on the part of all major players, including the EU, the US and the emerging economies, would be necessary to promote collective progress; calls on all WTO members, especially developed and advanced developing countries, to engage constructively in real negotiations with a view to reaching a successful conclusion; especially appeals to the European Union to put its weight during the undoubtedly complex and difficult negotiations in the coming months behind the achievement of freer and fairer trade relations worldwide;
4. Stresses that, in a situation where many deadlines have been neglected throughout the course of the current Round, the target of 2006 for the conclusion of the Round simply must not be missed;
5. Reaffirms its strong support for placing development at the heart of the DDA and calls on the developed countries, as well as the more advanced developing countries, to deliver on the ambitious goals set out in the Doha Declaration in order to ensure that the new trade round is a development round;
6. Insists that the Round must not be focused only on the agricultural issues and therefore the key negotiating areas should be treated in parallel, in line with the notion of the Single Undertaking and with a similar high level of ambition and determination to contribute to development;
7. Welcomes the increased level of organisation and self-confidence achieved by the developing countries (G-90 and G-20 in particular);
8. Stresses that the undertakings entered into by the Commission during the agricultural negotiations within the WTO cannot go beyond the bounds of the current CAP arrangements or the negotiating mandate;
9. Believes that it is essential for the Commission's current offer to remain conditional in connection with the DDA and for it to remain possible to withdraw it during the course of the negotiations should no satisfactory offers be forthcoming from other WTO partners;
10. Reiterates the need to respect the multifunctional character of EU agriculture;
11. Supports the right of farmers to have access to traditional seeds;
12. Recalls that, due to the 2003 CAP reform, the EU has significantly reduced its trade-distorting domestic support and asks for concrete commitments in that direction by other trading partners; welcomes, in the Ministerial Declaration, the constraint imposed on 'box shifting' through the obligation to proceed to an overall reduction in trade-distorting domestic support;
13. Recalls the scope of the Luxembourg Agreement on the CAP reform and insists on the need to define 'green box' measures, including decoupled support;
14. Stresses the important offer made by the EU to abolish its export refund system by 2013 and insists that a parallel move by other WTO members is required in the areas of export credits, State trading enterprises and food aid; emphasises that 2013 is an end-date for this process and calls for a frontloading of a substantial part of the cuts in the first half of the implementation period; supports the Commission's view that export subsidy elimination should be expressed in value terms;
15. Welcomes the solid progress towards the agreement on a framework to determine new disciplines to prevent the dumping of non-emergency food aid, which constitutes a disguised form of export subsidy, and the creation of a 'safe box' for the exemption of bona fide emergency aid;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

16. Suggests that there should be an independent audit of all forms of aid to international trade (export credits, guarantee systems, State enterprises, food aid etc.); suggests that the aim of this audit should be to distinguish between humanitarian aspects, which should be subject to public monitoring, and aspects that distort the rules of competition in international trade, which should be eliminated;
17. Considers that market access is an important issue for the negotiations and the implementation of CAP reform; believes that, in view of this, the general reduction of customs tariffs should be assessed in the light of the efforts made by all WTO members regarding the various aspects of the agricultural negotiations and of the European Union's efforts with regard to domestic support and export competition, in which connection it must remain possible to impose the same requirements on imported products as on home-produced products;
18. States, with regard to market access, that a limited degree of flexibility is needed through both the formula for tariff cuts and the designation of sensitive products; welcomes the formulations on Special Products and Special Safeguard Mechanism corresponding to the requests of the developing countries and offering them some room for manoeuvre to safeguard their food security and rural livelihoods; refers, in that respect, to the prescription of a common set of specific indicators;
19. Welcomes the agreement on the elimination, by developed countries, of export subsidies for cotton by 2006 but highlights that this is already required under a recent WTO dispute ruling and notes that such subsidies constitute only a small proportion of subsidies that the US gives its cotton farmers; stresses the importance, therefore, of achieving positive results in reducing and eliminating its domestic subsidies; welcomes the provision of duty-free and quota-free market access for cotton exports from LDCs; however, notes the limited impact that this will have; stresses the importance, therefore, of achieving positive results in reducing and eliminating domestic subsidies; considers that these measures should be complemented by structural supportive reform programmes for farmers and industry in the EU regions affected and with development support measures for the developing countries to be taken by the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, the UN Development Programme and other international organisations;
20. Asks the Commission to consider the possibility of introducing a 'development box' for the LDCs into the agricultural negotiations, so that they can tackle food safety and rural employment, which are major issues when it comes to eradicating poverty;
21. Notes the need for the European Union to strengthen its relations with the countries with which it shares a common vision in terms of agriculture, in particular the G10 and African, Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) countries; considers in this regard that the opening of the Community market following recent commitments should apply first and foremost to the LDCs and to the ACP states; stresses that full account should be taken of the problems linked to the erosion of the preferential margins from which these countries benefit;
22. Considers that all concessions granted to developing and LDCs should be made conditional upon strict compliance with origin rules and the mechanism for the prevention of triangular trade;
23. Deplores the absence of progress on the establishment of a register for wines and spirits as well as on the extension of the protection of geographical indications to other products; recalls that these elements are essential for a balanced outcome of the negotiations;
24. Calls for ambitious and balanced results in the negotiations on NAMA, guaranteeing new real market access opportunities, including in south-south trade, through substantial cuts in applied rates, taking due account of the special and differential treatment required by vulnerable developing countries; insists that the link established in the Ministerial Declaration between the levels of ambition in AMA and NAMA should mean cuts in applied rates; calls on advanced developing countries to take their share of responsibility, commensurate with their degree of development, while stressing that the outcome should reflect the agreed principle of less-than-full reciprocity;
25. Welcomes the agreement to use a Swiss formula for tariff reductions; stresses, however, that the harmonising effect of such a formula should not be lessened through the definition of multiple coefficients; favours the pursuit of sectoral initiatives in sectors of export interest for the EU;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

26. Acknowledges that a great deal still remains to be done to establish the arrangements and conclude the negotiations; stresses also that difficult decisions will have to be made by 30 April 2006 on the tariff reduction arrangements, with regard both to the number and the level of the coefficients;
27. Notes that it is of strategic importance that all trading partners also remove their unjustified non-tariff barriers, since they hamper market access and might counteract the possible benefits from tariff cuts, while preserving the necessary policy space to protect non-trade concerns; calls for increased efforts in promoting international standardisation and mutual recognition; regrets the lack of progress on this point in Hong Kong;
28. Is concerned about the back-loading of negotiations in the services area and calls for their intensification at both bilateral and plurilateral level, with due regard for the interests of weak and vulnerable economies and without weakening their position by pressing them to liberalise additional services sectors; notes that the WTO is altering the structure of the method of the General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS) negotiations method; insists on the necessity of a timely impact assessment; welcomes the fact that the end of February 2006 deadline for the submission of plurilateral requests was met and considers this to be a positive sign for the further progress of the negotiations; regrets the fact that the final Declaration does not set any quantitative targets for the submission of revised offers; reiterates that essential public services, such as health, education and audiovisual services should be excluded from liberalisation;
29. Expresses concern about the fact that the intermediate deadlines for reaching a successful conclusion of the services negotiations are 'out of synch' with those laid out for the completion of modalities and the submission of draft schedules in agriculture and NAMA, and that such a different timeline may make it more difficult to achieve a balanced outcome across all key areas;
30. Insists that the EU continue emphasising in the WTO the liberalisation of services and the opening of markets, such as those in the financial, tourist and distribution sector, which are important sectors for European economy;
31. Emphasises the progress made when examining the relationship between trade, debt and finance and calls on the Commission to incorporate in its multilateral and bilateral requests to its WTO trading partners new and improved GATS commitments in financial services, in order to ensure that trade liberalisation, particularly as regards financial services, is mutually beneficial to the parties involved;
32. Notes that all WTO members have agreed to find the least trade distorting solutions when drafting new legislation and stresses the importance for the European Union to show leadership in this aspect;
33. Reiterates that a successful conclusion of the negotiations must deliver on the commitment towards concrete development benefits in all negotiating areas, notably in the interests of the LDCs, and must contribute to achieving the 2015 Millennium Development Goals, the eradication of poverty, fairer distribution of the benefits of globalisation, better market access for developing countries and the economic diversification of developing countries, without weakening the most fragile economic sectors in those countries;
34. Welcomes the development package adopted in Hong Kong, although less ambitious than expected; regrets, however, that the duty and quota free access for LDC products to markets, excluding 3 % of tariff lines that cover some crucial products for the poor countries, substantially reduces the benefits for the LDCs; calls on all developed and advanced developing countries to follow the model of the EU 'everything but arms' initiative in guaranteeing 100 % duty and quota-free market access for LDCs; calls on the EU and the LDCs to strive jointly to achieve 100 % duty and quota-free market access for LDCs in developed and advanced developing countries;
35. Regrets the slow progress of work on the important issue of preference erosion; considers that the problems of the erosion of trade preferences and falling commodity prices should also be addressed in this Round; calls on the Commission after dismantling the existing EU/ACP system of regulation, to contribute positively to the identification and proposing of possible new solutions, both at bilateral and multilateral levels, for the stabilisation of commodity prices;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

36. Considers that special and differential treatment must form an integral part of the WTO agreements; considers also that further progressive South-South market opening, especially regional trade and a commitment to stronger multilateral rules can prove beneficial for the economic development and the integration of developing countries into the global economy;
37. Stresses the importance of adequate technical assistance to help developing countries formulate their trade interests, engage effectively in negotiations, meet new obligations, adjust to reforms and effectively implement WTO rules; stresses also the need to encourage weak and vulnerable economies in the integration of trade into their national development policies and poverty reduction strategies without jeopardising other development objectives; supports the expansion of 'Aid for Trade' to developing countries which require assistance to build the capacity needed to realise benefits from improvements in market access and trade rules, aimed at strengthening their commercial and exporting capacity, diversifying their production bases if so required, and replacing customs resources by other fiscal resources;
38. Calls on the European Union to ensure that the additional aid for trade announced in Hong Kong is financed out of new resources through an addition to the Financial Perspectives and does not involve shifting resources already earmarked for other development initiatives, such as the Millennium Development Goals; calls at the same time for more coherence among various aid donors;
39. Welcomes the decision of the General Council of the WTO of 6 December 2005 on an amendment of the TRIPS Agreement aimed at improving access to medicines for developing countries;
40. Welcomes the progress achieved so far in the negotiations on Trade Facilitation; calls for the establishment of multilateral commitments for increased legal certainty, especially in the field of trade defence measures and rules on counterfeiting, simplification and modernisation of trade procedures; underlines the particular importance of targeted technical assistance in this area;
41. Calls for the strengthening of the WTO enforcement mechanisms of the TRIPS Agreement, which are necessary for combating the sale of counterfeit products and the violation of EU patent rights; states that protecting Europe's intellectual property, including geographical indications, remains one of the most important issues to be dealt with in the WTO; welcomes, in that context, the fact that the Commission will be stationing a patent officer in Beijing as of 1 April 2006; stresses that the internalisation of counterfeit products adversely affects tax receipts in developed countries, helps fund organised crime at the international level and reduces the incentives to invent and innovate in all countries, therefore posing a risk to EU industries' heavy investment in high technology products and services;
42. Calls on the Commission to make it clear in its talks with other trading partners that the EU disapproves of the regular violations of WTO rules, particularly with regard to intellectual property, product piracy and non-tariff trade barriers;
43. Calls for strengthened discipline with regard to anti-dumping and other rules issues in order to prevent abusive recourse to trade defence instruments while preserving the legitimate use and effectiveness of these instruments;
44. Insists that all forms of dumping be prohibited and be defined as exports made at prices below the average full production cost, taking into account all types of upstream and downstream subsidies and cross-subsidisation;
45. Notes the need for improved coherence and enhanced supportiveness of trade and environmental legal and policy systems; asks for progress in the area of trade in environmental goods and clearer rules regarding the relationship between WTO rules and Multilateral Environmental Agreements;
46. Emphasises the importance of taking into account non-trade concerns such as social, environmental and cultural issues in the Doha Round;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

47. Calls on the Commission to give due consideration to non-trade concerns (animal welfare and the environment) in the field of agriculture in the forthcoming negotiations;
48. Stresses the heavy distortion of competition suffered by European farmers as long as imported products are not subject to the same standards as home products;
49. Bearing in mind the growing importance of a social dimension in trade relations, regrets that the strengthening of links between the WTO and the ILO has once again failed to find its expression in the Ministerial Declaration; strongly believes in the importance of standards for the modern trading system; reiterates its long-standing pledge to grant the ILO observer status at WTO meetings and strongly supports the creation of a joint ILO-WTO Standing Forum on this issue;
50. Reiterates its call for a thorough reform of the WTO and for its better integration in the general framework of global governance; calls for greater coordination and coherence among all international institutions active in the field of trade and development, including UN-based organisations in charge of human development, health and the environment, and calls on all WTO Members to provide it with a clear mandate for enhanced cooperation;
51. Supports negotiations on the improvement of the dispute settlement mechanism towards enhanced effectiveness and transparency aiming inter alia at improving rules and procedures for panel composition, addressing the 'sequencing' issue, encouraging compensation arrangements, enhancing third party rights, granting remand authority to the Appellate Body, the facilitation of access by developing countries, and taking into consideration environmental, social and human rights legislation in its decisions;
52. States that investment, competition and transparency in public procurement remain important areas to be negotiated within the WTO;
53. Proposes to the EU negotiators in the context of the WTO, to start formulating an EU position on energy that introduces greater security of supply and stronger market forces in the field of energy, which covers industrial applications in the field of energy, facilitating investment in developing countries and eliminating dual pricing and other forms of export restrictions or taxes that threaten the survival of many EU industries;
54. Recalls the fact that small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) are the backbone of the economies of the EU and developing countries but their survival in a global trading system requires that private property rights be clearly defined, that there be clear limits to monopoly rents, and that such rights be effectively enforced in order to act as incentives for SMEs to invest in research and innovation; proposes that EU trade policy aim to reduce the risks of international trade and investment for SMEs by vastly increasing market access in emerging countries with the effective removal of tariffs and non-tariff barriers in those countries, by removing restrictions on European commercial activities (investment, establishment, right to trade) and by creating strengthened WTO mediation mechanisms to deal with non-tariff barriers in a rapid and efficient manner;
55. Suggests that emphasis be placed on economic and social forecasting with a view to measuring, both quantitatively and qualitatively, the economic and social impact of the developments resulting from international trade agreements; takes the view that this aid to decision-making is essential both to help negotiation and to anticipate economic consequences of the agreements that may affect the Member States and economic sectors concerned;
56. Stresses the importance of encouraging public and political support for the WTO multilateral trading system; notes that companies have a legitimate interest in shaping policies that affect how they do business and that the participation of different groups, including NGOs, is crucial to the WTO's functioning; stresses, however, that corporate and NGO priorities disproportionately influence the WTO's policy agenda and could play a bigger role than democratically elected parliamentarians with regard to the final document; urges the Commission to carefully examine the role of companies and NGOs in the negotiation process; calls for increased transparency and the reduction of corporate and NGO privileges; stresses that better information of the public and wider consultation of civil society are needed; reiterates, in this respect, the important contribution the parliamentary dimension can make as a means of strengthening the WTO's democratic accountability and openness to the citizens;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

57. Underlines the need for institutional reforms to improve the functioning of the WTO, on the basis inter alia of the recommendations contained in the above-mentioned Sutherland Report;

58. Stresses the importance of the work of the Parliamentary Conference on the WTO in strengthening the democratic dimension of the WTO; notes, however, the lack of consideration given to its Final Declarations by WTO negotiators; notes the effort made by EU negotiators to address the Parliamentary Conference on the WTO but deplores the lack of engagement of other WTO negotiators;

59. States its willingness to contribute positively to the negotiating process through the various contacts its Members have with their counterparts from countries with which the EU shares common interests;

60. Welcomes the strong spirit of unity among the three major EU institutions present in Hong Kong and underlines the benefit of maintaining a close collaboration between them in these crucial months of the negotiations; calls on the Council and the Commission to continue to keep Parliament properly involved and fully informed on the EU post-Hong Kong strategy and the progress of the negotiations, also during the next General Council meeting in Geneva;

61. Stresses the importance of Parliament being represented at all WTO meetings at which major steps in the negotiations are taken and where ministers are involved and not only on the occasion of official Ministerial Conferences; requests, therefore, that a small delegation of members of the Parliament be meaningfully involved in the meetings to be convened in Geneva with a view to meeting the 30 April and 31 July 2006 deadlines set in the Hong Kong Declaration; invites the Council to extend an invitation to such a delegation of members of the Parliament to participate, as observers, in at least one of the meetings of the 133 Committee to be organised in Geneva at the end of April 2006; calls on the Commission to support this initiative and to ensure that members of the Parliament receive appropriate information on the progress of negotiations during their stay in Geneva;

62. Reiterates the importance of a parliamentary dimension of the WTO in order to enhance democratic legitimacy and transparency in the WTO negotiations, since members of parliament can constitute an important link with citizens, in particular as a source of information and response to their concerns; welcomes the results of the Hong Kong session of the Parliamentary Conference on the WTO; calls on the Commission and the Council to support actively a reference in the final document of the Doha Round which highlights the role of legislators in trade policy-making;

63. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission and to the parliaments of the Member States, the acceding countries and the applicant countries, the Director-General of the WTO and the President of the Inter-Parliamentary Union.

- A. Whereas a considerable number of recommendations formulated in the Parliament's last three resolutions on the broad economic policy guidelines (BEPGs) have not been taken on board; whereas new and significant factors have arisen since the adoption of the Parliament's latest resolution; whereas many of the previously identified long-term challenges have acquired a new urgency; whereas the EU's economy continues to experience slower growth and seems less well prepared for globalisation than those of its main competitors,
- B. Whereas globalisation is a revolutionary phenomenon that questions our conventional use of available resources, allows emerging economies to import capital, skills and technology and to compete in an increasingly interconnected world, increases migratory flows, changes the traditional patterns of international trade, and gives the financial economy an unprecedented importance over the real economy; whereas the importance of the financial economy makes 'confidence' a key factor and creates a new need for efficient supervision and closer cooperation in order to guarantee economic stability;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

- C. Whereas the following new significant factors have arisen since the Parliament's last resolution on the BEPGs was adopted in May 2005: difficulties concerning the ratification of Constitutional Treaty; the adoption by the European Council of the EU's 2007-2013 Financial Perspective without the agreement of the Parliament; the first two interest rate rises by the ECB in over 5 years; the reform of the Stability and Growth Pact with 12 Member States having budget deficits of over 3%; the adoption of the Member States' NRPs; a raised awareness of the world-wide energy shock and related geopolitical tensions; the negotiations concerning Estonia, Lithuania and Slovenia's applications to join the euro zone in 2007; and the need to boost the priorities of the Doha WTO round following the slowdown of negotiations in Hong Kong;
- D. Whereas the relative decline of the European economy can be linked to: an inappropriate regulatory framework combined with a lack of structural reform, which renders our economy less flexible than those of our main competitors, stagnant domestic demand, a lack of business dynamism and weak labour markets as a result of slow demographic growth, low employment rates, and poor productivity growth; whereas poor growth is caused by lack of investment, insufficient innovation and a misalignment of labour supply and demand on account of the incapacity of our poorly financed educational and training systems to adapt our workers to an ever-shifting world;
- E. Whereas, moreover, since the adoption of the Parliament's last resolution, the following challenges have gained greater recognition: the ever-increasing ageing of the population; migratory tensions at the EU's borders and internal problems because of insufficient assistance for the integration of second-generation immigrant populations; the exponential growth of third-country imports in some sectors as well as business delocalisation and outsourcing; an increasing demand for resources such as crude oil, natural gas, coal and iron by China and other emerging economies; increasing EU dependence on energy imports coming from unstable regions; and risks caused by global macroeconomic imbalances;
1. Calls on the Commission, the Council and the Member States to adopt those recommendations included in the Parliament's last three resolutions on the BEPGs but not yet taken on board, namely, the transposition of the internal market directives; the adoption of deficit-reducing measures by Member States with excessive deficits; a common communication policy on citizens' insecurity as regards globalisation; a structural reform action plan, comprising the obstacles to tackle, the actions to take, and a time line; the full implementation of the SME Charter, in particular as regards a more favourable tax regime and more investment in research and innovation for SMEs;
 2. Welcomes the Key Issues paper for the Ecofin Council and supports the Commission's choice in focusing on four fundamental areas (knowledge and innovation; business potential; globalisation and demographic change; and an efficient energy market), which should be implemented through the Integrated Guidelines; moreover, shares the view that higher and sustainable growth in our economies will only come about through the mutual reinforcement of stability and growth-oriented macro-economic policies and structural reforms, including more effective economic coordination; welcomes the Commission's intention to propose a roadmap outlining the steps required and key dates for the completion of these four actions by the end of 2007;

Institutional reforms

3. Believes that the ongoing period of reflection on the Constitutional Treaty should tackle: the current framework of macroeconomic governance, such as it was already discussed by the Convention's Economic Governance Group; the economic and social objectives of the EU; the extension of co-decision procedures to economic policy issues; the responsibility of the ECB, while respecting its independence; the co-ordination of economic policies and the role of the Eurogroup in this context; the procedure to handle excessive deficits; the competence of the EU in tax matters; the implementation of a call-back right for the Parliament in the context of the comitology procedure by 1 April 2008 at the latest; and the representation of the euro zone within international institutions;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

4. Welcomes the merger in the Integrated Guidelines of the BEPGs and the employment guidelines but considers that the Commission's APR on the Lisbon process and other documents linked to the Open Method of Coordination should also be combined and debated together; believes that the BEPGs must be given the same legislative status as the employment guidelines and that the roles of the Parliament and the Commission in this respect need to be redefined;

5. Asks the Commission to investigate the feasibility of adopting EC legislation in order to achieve a uniform definition of tax residence — applicable to EU citizens resident within and outside the EU — linked to the concept of citizenship of the EU; an EU Convention on double taxation (mirroring Article 293 of the EC Treaty); and the inclusion in EC law of the principle of non-discrimination with regard to taxation as defined in the judgments of the Court of Justice of the European Communities;

6. Welcomes the obligation that Member States now have to present annual NRPs structured around the 24 Integrated Guidelines; considers that economic performance in this regard could be further improved if the Commission identified and promoted best practices derived from NRPs and by establishing an annual league table showing the best and worst performing countries, as proposed in the Kok Report; calls for a deeper analysis of the structural reform policies of the last decade in order to clarify the reasons for ongoing slow growth and insufficient productivity; calls for a 'smart-growth strategy', bringing together the EU's fragmented economic policy approaches into a coherent strategy, in order to strengthen the EU's potential with respect to a new generation of products and production methods, integrating information and communication technologies and resource-efficient technologies for sustainable development;

7. Regrets that the December 2005 European Council agreement on the Financial Perspective is less ambitious than was Parliament's proposal, particularly as it focuses on traditional policies and pays insufficient regard to policies that provide added value to citizens; deplores the reduction in commitments for research and science as well as competitiveness and growth, SMEs, citizenship, freedom, justice and external actions; asks the Council to renegotiate with Parliament an agreement that reinforces the EU's prosperity, competitiveness, employment and cohesion;

8. Welcomes the well-balanced conclusions of the Spring European Council in March 2006, respecting the supportive multi-sectoral approach of the re-focused Lisbon Strategy; calls on the Member States to implement the NRPs speedily and accurately, involving national parliaments and other interested stakeholders, such as the social partners, and to provide timely information to the Parliament, the Council, and the Commission; invites the Council and the Commission to establish, together with the Parliament, a Code of Conduct to allow a scrupulous joint follow-up of these programmes; regrets however, that neither a clear timetable nor a code of conduct was agreed upon, which would ensure appropriate cooperation and the full involvement of the three main EU institutions concerned in the follow-up to the Integrated Guidelines, as key instruments of the Lisbon Strategy; furthermore, recalls, in this context, the importance of the equal involvement of all the main Council formations concerned and the enhanced role of the General Affairs Council in coordinating this input;

Macro-economic, monetary and fiscal policy

9. Calls on the Commission to adhere to a strict interpretation of the renewed Stability and Growth Pact, not allowing the use of temporary measures or creative accounting; urges Member States to foster competitiveness and to pursue an annual improvement in their cyclically adjusted budget deficits and to ensure higher adjustment efforts in economically prosperous times; believes that wage increases should be consistent with the trend in productivity over the medium term; calls for a moderate and responsible pricing policy, in particular in cases of monopolistic or oligopolistic markets, which dampens inflationary pressures and keeps interest rates down at levels that do not endanger the current economic recovery;

10. Urges Member States to make additional efforts to reduce public debt burdens and improve the quality of their public finances, which will lead to fewer resources being used on interest payments and amortisation and more on education, vocational training, infrastructure, and research and innovation; underlines that, consistently with ensuring financial stability, there is an overriding need for a general review of taxation in Member States in order to strengthen competitiveness, which implies constrained and/or more efficient public spending and sustainability, which implies effective and refocused spending schemes;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

11. Notes that low economic growth, excessive debt and high unemployment dramatically increase the problems resulting from demographic change; therefore underlines that the full implementation of the Lisbon Strategy to create an inclusive, high-employment, high-productivity society is essential in order to face this challenge successfully; calls on the Commission to launch a major debate in order to identify best practices and the most profitable methods to manage the forthcoming developments;

12. Points out that imbalances in certain euro zone countries are particularly alarming given the size of the trade deficits and the observed inflation differential of some of them and calls on the Member States to adopt the economic policies necessary to remedy matters, stressing the need for a budget policy capable of off-setting the ill effects of these imbalances;

13. Calls on the Member States to refrain from harmful, exaggerated cross-border tax competition that reduces budgetary capabilities for public investment in tangible and intangible assets;

Business environment

14. Calls for the promotion of the entrepreneurial spirit — in other words, the opportunity to put a business idea into practice — in Member States' secondary education systems by reinforcing the entrepreneur's role in society and stressing the importance of concepts like corporate governance and corporate social responsibility;

15. Calls on the Commission to apply the principle of affirmative action in favour of SMEs, and to take steps to help to: create companies electronically; appropriately simplify the regulatory environment; promote SME access to finance during the first years of existence via Risk Capital or 'Business Angel' formulae; enhance the roles of the EIB and EIF; increase SME access to ITC, acknowledging that the gap in competitiveness between the EU and the USA is found not only in high-technology sectors but also in distribution channels and in the retail sector; promote cooperation structures and foster their internationalisation by adopting its proposal for a 14th company law directive on the cross-border transfer of the registered office of limited companies and by discussing the added value of a future statute of a European private company for SMEs;

16. Recalls its backing for the Code of Conduct on Direct Business Taxation, under which Member States agreed to terminate harmful tax competition; supports the Commission's Common Consolidated Corporate Tax Base proposal; urges the Council to conclude an agreement on the Commission proposals to simplify VAT obligations; supports efforts to simplify and reduce taxation as stated in the SME Charter; in this regard, supports the Commission's recent Home State Taxation scheme for SMEs and invites the Commission to study the possibility of changing the principle of place of destination by the principle of place of origin with regard to VAT due by these companies, including fair revenue-sharing rules;

17. Strongly recommends that the NRPs deal with planned and existing measures in order to reduce red tape and regulatory obstacles for SMEs, and to highlight decisions at local, regional, and national level, which could serve as benchmarks for other Member States' authorities;

18. Calls on the Member States and their local and regional authorities to develop a common scheme for evaluating the distributive and regional effects of their individual taxation and subsidy schemes, given the fact that tax policies at local, regional, national and EU level are often not coordinated, and recalls the increasingly important role of local communities for the economic, social and political wellbeing of the EU;

19. Believes that the elimination of export quotas has profoundly changed international trade, obliging policymakers to react against unfair competition from third countries, namely by fighting counterfeiting and protecting intellectual and industrial property rights; therefore calls on the Commission and the Member States to establish an efficient EU patent system through a Community patent and other appropriate instruments;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

Employment and human capital

20. Believes that to improve the ratio of the working-age population over the total population, it is necessary: to adopt ambitious birth rate policies; to improve child-care facilities; to promote schemes seeking to improve the work-life balance; to integrate immigrants into the labour market as well as to combat illegal immigration by strategies promoting sustainable development in third countries as well as by the implementation of a common EU-wide immigration policy; and to set up incentives to encourage workers to delay voluntary retirement;

21. Emphasises the potential of 'flexicurity' (flexibility and security) for increasing labour market participation, in particular that of women, older workers, young people, the long-term unemployed, and immigrants;

22. Considers that in order to increase the ratio of the employed people over the working-age population, it is necessary to adopt measures specifically aimed at groups having difficulties in accessing the labour market, namely, young people, women, the over-55s, and the disabled, to develop a life-cycle approach to work and working time, which is highly respectful of individual needs and, in particular, to set up incentives to encourage older workers to offer their work experience; therefore invites Member States, together with the social partners, to promote measures aimed at adapting labour relations and working time to the specific needs of these social groups;

23. Considers that to discourage the black economy it is necessary to reduce non-wage labour costs, especially for low-skilled jobs; in this context, welcomes the Council's decision to extend the reduced VAT scheme to labour-intensive services and suggests that the Commission be given a mandate to launch a new study on how reduced VAT rates influence the prices of taxed services, the reduction of the shadow economy, and overall tax revenues, including contributions to social insurance systems;

24. Stresses that Europe's sluggish growth rates reflect the dearth of effective measures to reduce unemployment, to increase the active population, and to boost low productivity;

25. Calls on the Commission to bear in mind that EC legislation should be compatible with that of our competitors in order to avoid a negative effect on the competitive position of the EU and the innovative potential of EU businesses on the global market;

26. Believes that to improve the quality of education, and given that in years to come many children of immigrants with relatively low levels of education will enter the school system, it is necessary to: increase the supply of places in primary schools; improve the knowledge of foreign languages, mathematics and sciences in primary and secondary education in the light of our underperformance compared with our competitors, as highlighted in the PISA report; achieve an integrated model of professional training through ongoing updating of knowledge;

27. Calls on the Member States to adopt measures to improve the mobility of researchers and to provide a better infrastructure in order to attract more students to scientific careers; furthermore, calls for measures to equip Europe's universities to match the highest standards of research, to strengthen cooperation between universities and the industrial and commercial sectors, to adapt educational supply to labour market demand, emphasising qualifications in engineering and high-technology, and to ensure a better communication, diffusion and application of the outcome of research;

28. Believes that EU and Member State budgets should better reflect the priorities of the Lisbon Strategy by reinforcing the EU's capacity for innovation and research and by expanding lifelong learning efforts, including the use of additional financial resources;

Infrastructures, transport and energy

29. Believes that underinvestment is one of the causes that explains our difference in competitiveness compared to that of the USA and thus calls on Member States to encourage private investment and to refocus investment expenditure on those investments that enhance economic efficiency and productivity, such as infrastructure, R&D, education, lifelong learning, as well as to reform their taxation systems to foster growth and private investment in new sustainable technologies;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

30. Urges Member States to adhere strictly to execution deadlines of transport infrastructure projects (Trans-European Networks), by simplifying appropriate administrative procedures, and devoting, if necessary, more investment, given that, at the current speed, such projects will take 20 years to complete, according to the Commission's White Paper on Transport;

31. Urges the Member States to decide on a new coherent EU energy policy during the 2006 Spring European Council, with three main objectives: a secure energy supply, sustainable development, and economic competitiveness; therefore suggests, first, launching common action to reinforce political and economic links with supplier countries as well as to create an EU internal energy market in a competitive and non-discriminatory environment for energy suppliers and distributors, second, setting a balance between internal and external sources of supply, third, focusing on avoiding double price/exchange rate volatility by invoicing commodities and energy supplies in euros, fourth, improving energy efficiency, and fifth, phasing out oil dependency by stepping up the EU's research aiming at the achievement of a new sustainable energy regime based on wind, hydro, biomass, solar and geothermal energy;

Innovation and R&D

32. Believes that competition from imports from emerging countries and the temptation by businesses to outsource activities can only be fought with the support of an enormous research and innovation effort; calls on the Commission to table proposals regarding the financing of research within the EU; calls on Member States to allocate more resources to research and innovation while guaranteeing the efficient protection of intellectual property rights, and to establish tax incentives for businesses and universities investing in R&D, knowing that, compared with direct subsidies, such incentives better guarantee that public resources will be used to support successful ventures;

33. Believes that a coordinated EU innovation policy is one of the main cornerstones of wealth creation, growth and jobs, strengthens the EU's competitiveness, and contributes to achieving the overall policy aim of sustainable development;

More competition and reform of services markets

34. Believes in a robust competition policy; asks for a revision of the allocation criteria for competition cases between national competition authorities and the Commission, as well as a revision of national legislation in order to guarantee: legal security; the political independence of regulators; transparency and accountability; and coherence with EC law;

35. Observes that it is essential to achieve a single European services market in accordance with the EC Treaty, so as to underpin a sector that is vital to the European economy as a whole, and, in particular, to the economic development of the new Member States with a balance between market opening, public services and social and consumer rights;

36. Welcomes the Commission's State Aid Action Plan and believes that more transparent and effective State aid can benefit the EU, particularly with regard to innovation and R&D; at the same time, believes that tax incentives need also to be revised insofar as they constitute an alternative to grants or direct subsidies;

37. Calls for a forward-looking financial services agenda focusing on: achieving a Single Euro Payments Area by 2010; a review of insurance solvency (Solvency II); a proposal to revise the provisions in the financial services directives concerning the discretionary powers of regulators in the case of cross-border mergers, to facilitate consolidation and to avoid conflicts between home and host supervisors; a proposal on mortgage credit; and the adoption of the consumer credit directive;

Tuesday 4 April 2006

38. Considers that, in an integrated financial market, and given how quickly companies change headquarters, the exponential growth of international capital flows and the speed at which investments are made, efficient supervision and close cooperation among the regulatory and supervisory bodies of different Member States are indispensable, notwithstanding the need to reflect further on the most appropriate EU supervisory, regulatory and control model for banking, insurance and securities;

European food aid programme for the most deprived

Declaration of the European Parliament on supplying approved charities working to implement the European food aid programme for the most deprived

The European Parliament,

— having regard to Rule 116 of its Rules of Procedure,

- A. whereas at least 40 million Europeans in the 25 Member States of the European Union do not have enough to eat,
- B. whereas meeting the food needs of all Europeans is one of the priorities of the common agricultural policy and one of the founding principles of the EC Treaty,
- C. whereas the European food aid programme for the most deprived has proved its worth and is now vital for millions of Europeans,
- D. concerned about the future of this operation because Community public intervention stocks are steadily disappearing physically and the programme is thus losing its legal basis,
 1. Calls on the Commission and the Council to
 - (a) recognise the fact that there are undernourished people in the European Union and acknowledge the need to meet their food requirements,
 - (b) place the European food aid programme on a permanent footing and provide a global multiannual budget allocation,
 - (c) open the measure up to new sectors such as pork, poultry and eggs,
 - (d) include in the programme innovative measures to ensure the distribution of balanced food rations,
 - (e) regard food aid as part of the aim of reducing poverty,
 - (f) modify the rules so as to allow:
 - for the stocks reserved for the programme to be built up, i.e. set aside for and allocated to the most deprived,
 - for the bartering procedure to be extended,
 - for products that are not available as part of intervention stocks to be bought on the Community market;
 2. Instructs its President to forward this declaration, together with the names of the signatories, to the Council, the Commission and the governments of the Member States.

(Codecision procedure: first reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission proposal to the European Parliament and the Council (COM(2005) 0116) ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to Article 251(2) and Articles 151 and 308 of the EC Treaty, pursuant to which the Commission submitted the proposal to Parliament (C6-0101/2005),
- having regard to Rule 51 of its Rules of Procedure,
- having regard to the report of the Committee on Culture and Education and the opinions of the Committee on Budgets, the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs and the Committee on Constitutional Affairs (A6-0076/2006),

2. Stresses that the appropriations set out in the legislative proposal for the post-2006 period are dependent on the decision on the next multiannual financial framework;
3. Calls on the Commission to submit, where appropriate, a proposal to adjust the financial reference amount for this programme once the next multiannual financial framework has been adopted;
4. Calls on the Commission to refer the matter to Parliament again if it intends to amend the proposal substantially or replace it with another text;

P6_TC1-COD(2005)0041

Position of the European Parliament adopted at first reading on 5 April 2006 with a view to the adoption of Decision No .../2006/EC of the European Parliament and Council establishing for the period 2007-2013 the programme 'Europe for Citizens' to promote active European values as laid down in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, and active European citizenship

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Articles 151 and 308 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee ⁽¹⁾,

Having regard to the opinion of the Committee of the Regions ⁽²⁾,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty ⁽³⁾,

Whereas:

- (1) The Treaty establishes citizenship of the Union, which complements the nationality of citizens of the respective Member States. It is an important element in strengthening and safeguarding the process of European integration.
- (2) The Community should make citizens fully aware of their European citizenship, its benefits as well as its rights and obligations, which are to be promoted with due regard for subsidiarity and in the interests of cohesion.
- (3) It is especially urgent to make European citizens fully aware of their European citizenship in view of the outcome of some of the referendums on the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe. The 'Europe for Citizens' programme should therefore complement, but not overlap with, the Commission's Plan D for Democracy, Dialogue and Debate.
- (4) For citizens to give their full support to, and participate fully in, European integration, greater emphasis should be placed on their common values, history and culture as key elements of their identity and their membership of a society founded on the principles of freedom, democracy, respect for human rights, cultural diversity, tolerance and solidarity, in full compliance with the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union proclaimed on 7 December 2000.
- (5) Encouraging active citizenship is a key element in strengthening not only the fight against racism, xenophobia and intolerance, but also integration, cohesion and the development of democracy.
- (6) In the context of the EU information and communication strategy, a broad dissemination and a high impact of the activities supported through the programme should be ensured.
- (7) In order to bring Europe closer to its citizens and to enable them to participate fully in the construction of an ever closer Europe, there is a need to address all citizens and to involve them in transnational exchanges and cooperation activities, contributing to the forging of a sense of belonging to common European ideals.
- (8) Immigrants and descendants of immigrants should not be forgotten. It is therefore important to help them make the most of their new-found citizenship.

⁽²⁾ OJ C 115, 16.5.2006, p. 81.

⁽³⁾ Position of the European Parliament of 5 April 2006.

Wednesday 5 April 2006

- (9) In order for citizens to become involved in the European project, they need to be informed of the specific rights deriving from European citizenship, such as those linked to the freedom to move and reside within the territory of the Member States, particularly following the entry into force of Directive 2004/38/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 April 2004 on the right of citizens of the Union and their family members to move and reside freely within the territory of the Member States ⁽¹⁾.
- (10) The European Parliament, in its Resolution of 15 April 1988 on the Commission proposals for action to promote European culture ⁽²⁾, considered it desirable that a major effort be undertaken to step up contacts between citizens of different Member States and stated that specific support from the European Union for the development of twinning schemes between municipalities in different Member States was both rational and desirable.
- (11) The European Council has recognised on several occasions the need to bring the European Union and its institutions closer to the citizens of the Member States. It has encouraged the Union's institutions to maintain and foster an open, transparent and regular dialogue with organised civil society, thus promoting citizens' participation in public life and in decision-making, while emphasising the essential values that are shared by the citizens of Europe ⁽³⁾.
- (12) The Council established in Decision 2004/100/EC of 26 January 2004 ⁽⁴⁾ a Community action programme to promote active European citizenship (civic participation), which has confirmed the need to promote sustained dialogue with municipalities, civil society organisations and citizens in general. The dialogue should also include organisations representing third-country nationals resident in the European Union. Furthermore, the European Parliament, in its resolution of 8 June 2005 on Policy Challenges and Budgetary Means of the enlarged Union for the 2007-2013 period ⁽⁵⁾, stated that a Civic Participation Programme remained a priority, with a view to bringing Europe closer to its citizens through a bottom-up process.
- (13) Citizens' projects with a transnational and cross-sectoral dimension are important tools to reach citizens and promote European awareness, political integration, social inclusion and mutual understanding through events and actions organised by citizens and local organisations, focusing on projects where different groups of citizens can meet, such as libraries, foundations or amateur sports clubs, thereby combating racism in accordance with the Charter of Fundamental Rights.
- (14) The sharing of a common European citizenship should strengthen still further relations between the citizens of the Member States and be taken into account by national and regional lawmakers, by local authorities and by those whose vocation it is to protect citizenship rights at a national level, be this the authorities responsible for security or judicial protection or for providing legal assistance, such as ombudsmen; it is therefore in the interests of the European Union to foster dialogue and exchanges of best practice between these authorities and their European-level contact networks.
- (15) Civil society organisations at European, national, regional and local levels are important elements of citizens' active participation in society and help to invigorate all aspects of public life. They are also intermediaries between Europe and its citizens. Their transnational cooperation should therefore be promoted and encouraged, with special attention being given to the candidate countries by helping them to create and develop similar bodies.
- (16) European public policy research organisations can provide ideas and reflections to feed the debate at European level. It is therefore also advisable to support, as a link between the European institutions and the citizens, activities that reflect their commitment to creating a European identity and citizenship, by establishing procedures with transparent criteria to promote networks for information and exchange.

Wednesday 5 April 2006

- (17) The programme should be accessible to all citizens including third country nationals with permanent legal residence in a Member State, and for this reason special attention should be paid to the balanced integration of citizens and civil society organisations from all Member States into transnational projects and activities.
- (18) The Declaration on Sport adopted by the European Council in Nice (7-9 December 2000) emphasised that the Community must, in its action under various Treaty provisions, take account of the social, educational and cultural functions inherent in sport.
- (19) The candidate countries and the EFTA countries parties to the EEA Agreement are recognised as potential participants in Community programmes, in accordance with the agreements made with those countries.
- (20) The Thessaloniki European Council of 19 and 20 June 2003 adopted the 'Thessaloniki Agenda for the Western Balkans: moving towards European integration', which invited the Western Balkan countries to participate in Community programmes and agencies; therefore, the Western Balkans countries should be recognised as potential participants in Community programmes.
- (21) The programme should be regularly monitored and independently evaluated in cooperation with the Commission and the Member States in order to allow for the readjustments which are necessary if the measures are to be properly implemented.
- (22) Council Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 1605/2002 of 25 June 2002 on the Financial Regulation applicable to the general budget of the European Communities⁽¹⁾ (hereinafter 'the Financial Regulation') and Commission Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 2342/2002 of 23 December 2002 laying down detailed rules for the implementation of Council Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 1605/2002 on the Financial Regulation applicable to the general budget of the European Communities⁽²⁾, which safeguard the Community's financial interests, have to be applied taking into account the principles of simplicity and consistency in the choice of budgetary instruments, a limitation on the number of cases where the Commission retains direct responsibility for their implementation and management, and the required proportionality between the amount of resources and the administrative burden related to their use.
- (23) Appropriate measures should also be taken to prevent irregularities and fraud and to recover funds lost or incorrectly paid or used.
- (24) This Decision lays down a financial framework for the entire duration of the programme constituting the prime reference, within the meaning of point 33 of the Interinstitutional Agreement of 6 May 1999 between the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission on budgetary discipline and improvement of the budgetary procedure, for the budgetary authority during the annual budgetary procedure⁽³⁾.
- (25) Since the objectives of the programme 'Europe for Citizens' cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States and can therefore, by reason of the transnational and multilateral nature of the programme's actions and measures, be better achieved at Community level, the Community may adopt measures in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Decision does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve those objectives.
- (26) The measures necessary for the implementation of this Decision should be adopted in accordance with Council Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission⁽⁴⁾.
- (27) Transitional measures to monitor actions started before 31 December 2006 should be adopted pursuant to Decision 2004/100/EC.

ANNEX

I. DESCRIPTION OF ACTIONS

ACTION 1: ACTIVE CITIZENS FOR EUROPE

This action forms that part of the programme directed specifically at activities involving citizens, either directly or indirectly. These activities fall under two types of measures as follows:

Town-twinning

This measure is aimed at activities that involve or promote direct exchanges between European citizens through their participation in town-twinning activities. These may be one-off or pilot activities, or take the form of structured, multi-annual, multi-partner agreements following a more programmed approach and comprising a set of activities ranging from citizens meetings, such as events organised by twinning sports clubs, to specific conferences or seminars on subjects of common interest, along with related publications, organised in the context of town-twinning activities. This measure will actively contribute to strengthening mutual knowledge and understanding between citizens and between cultures.

To help implement this measure, structural support may be provided directly to the Council of European Municipalities and Regions (CEMR), a body pursuing an aim of general European interest, active in the field of town twinning.

Citizens' projects and support measures

Under this measure, a variety of projects of transnational and cross-sectoral dimension, directly involving citizens, will be supported. Priority shall be given to projects aimed at encouraging local level participation by active organisations, such as local amateur sports clubs. The scale and scope of such projects will depend on developments within society and will explore, through innovative approaches, the possible responses to the identified needs. No town-twinning background is required for projects under this measure. The use of new technologies, in particular Information and Communication Technologies (ICT), shall be encouraged. Those projects will assemble citizens from different horizons, who will act together or debate on common European issues, thereby developing mutual understanding as well as raising awareness of the process of European integration.

In order to improve citizens' projects, it is also necessary to develop support measures to exchange best practices, to pool experiences between stakeholders at local and regional levels including public authorities, and to develop new skills, for example through training.

As an indication, approximately 40 % of the total budget allocated to the programme will be devoted to this action.

ACTION 2: ACTIVE CIVIL SOCIETY IN EUROPE

Structural support for European public policy research organisations (think-tanks)

Bodies providing new ideas and reflections on European issues are important institutional interlocutors able to provide independent strategic, cross-sectoral recommendations to the EU institutions. They can undertake activities that feed the debate, notably on citizenship of the European Union and on European values and cultures. This measure is aimed at strengthening the institutional capacity of those organisations, which are representative, provide real European added value, can bring about important multiplier effects and, finally, are able to cooperate with other beneficiaries of this programme. The strengthening of trans-European networks is an important element in this area. Grants may be awarded on the basis of a multi-annual work programme bringing together a range of themes or activities.

Structural support may be provided directly for the association 'Groupement d'études et de recherches Notre Europe' and for the 'Institut für Europäische Politik' of Berlin, as bodies pursuing an aim of general European interest.

Wednesday 5 April 2006

Structural support for civil society organisations at European level

Civil society organisations are an important part of the civic, educational, cultural and political impetus for participating in society. They need to exist and to be able to operate and cooperate at European level. They should also be able to participate in policy-making through consultation. This measure will provide them with the capacity and stability to act in a cross-sectoral and horizontal dimension as transnational catalysts for their members and for civil society at European level, thus contributing to the objectives of the programme. The strengthening of trans-European networks and European associations is an important element of this area of work. Grants may be awarded on the basis of a multi-annual work programme bringing together a range of themes or activities.

Structural support may be provided directly to three bodies pursuing an aim of general European interest: the Platform of European Social NGOs, the European Movement and the European Council on Refugees and Exiles.

Support for projects initiated by civil society organisations

Civil society organisations, such as non-governmental organisations, trade unions, federations, think tanks, institutions providing non-formal adult education, etc., can, through debate, publications, advocacy, training activities and other concrete transnational projects, involve citizens or represent their interests. Introducing or building on a European dimension in the activities of civil society organisations will enable them to enhance their capacities and reach wider audiences. Direct cooperation among civil society organisations from different Member States will contribute to mutual understanding of the different cultures and point of views and to the identification of shared concerns and values. While this may be in the form of single projects, a longer-term approach will also ensure a more sustainable impact and the development of networks and synergies.

As an indication, approximately 38% of the total budget allocated to the programme will be devoted to this action.

ACTION 3: TOGETHER FOR EUROPE

High-visibility events

This measure will support events organised by or in cooperation with the Commission, which are substantial in scale and scope, strike a significant chord with the peoples of Europe, help to increase their sense of belonging to the same community, make them aware of the history, achievements and values of the European Union, involve them in intercultural dialogue and contribute to the development of their European identity.

These events may include the commemoration of historical events, the celebration of European achievements, artistic events, awareness-raising around specific issues, Europe-wide conferences, European amateur sports events and the awarding of prizes to highlight major accomplishments. The use of new technologies, in particular ICT, shall be encouraged.

Studies

In order to gain a better understanding of active citizenship at European level, the Commission will carry out studies, surveys and opinion polls.

Information and dissemination tools

Given the focus on citizens and the variety of initiatives in the field of active citizenship, comprehensive information on the various activities of the programme, on other European actions related to citizenship and on other relevant initiatives needs to be provided through an Internet portal and other tools. In particular, the provision of information on Directive 2004/38/EC, the deadline for the transposition of which by the Member States is 30 April 2006, shall be treated as a priority.

Wednesday 5 April 2006

Structural support may be provided directly for the 'Association Jean Monnet', the 'Centre européen Robert Schuman' and the 'Maisons de l'Europe' that are federated at national and European level, as bodies pursuing an aim of general European interest.

As an indication, approximately 8 % of the total budget allocated to the programme will be devoted to this action.

ACTION 4: ACTIVE EUROPEAN REMEMBRANCE

Under this action projects of the following types may be supported:

- projects for the preservation of the main sites and memorials associated with the mass deportations, the former concentration camps and other large-scale martyrdom and extermination sites of Nazism, as well as archives documenting these events and for keeping alive the memory of the victims at these sites;
- projects for keeping alive the memory of those who, under extreme conditions, rescued people from the Holocaust;
- projects for the commemoration of the victims of mass extermination and mass deportations associated with Stalinism, as well as the preservation of the memorials and archives documenting these events.

Projects under this action should be of transnational significance or have a transnational element and should support understanding among the peoples of Europe of the principles of democracy, freedom and respect for human rights. Approximately 4 % of the total budget allocated to the programme will be devoted to this action.

II. PROGRAMME MANAGEMENT

The implementation of the programme will be guided by the principles of transparency, as well as openness to a large variety of organisations and projects. As a consequence, projects and activities will be selected, as a general rule, by means of open calls for proposals. Derogations will be possible only in very specific circumstances and in full compliance with points (c) and (d) of Article 168(1) of the implementing rules of the Financial Regulation.

The programme will develop the principle of multi-annual partnerships based on agreed objectives, building on the analysis of the results, in order to ensure mutual benefits for both civil society and the European Union. The maximum duration of funding allocated through a single grant agreement under this programme shall be limited to three years.

For some actions, especially for action 1, it might be necessary to adopt an indirect centralised management. Existing management and implementation resources and structures should be used, where appropriate, for the management of the programme.

All actions will be implemented on a transnational basis. They will encourage mobility of citizens and ideas within the European Union.

The selection criteria established, together with the applied grading scale, shall be available to all the operators concerned. Funding applications shall be assessed in the light of the following criteria:

- consistency with the programme objective;
- quality of the planned activities;
- likely multiplier effect on the public of these activities;
- geographical impact of the activities carried out;
- citizens' involvement in the organisation of the bodies concerned.

Wednesday 5 April 2006

Irrespective of whether or not they have received a grant, applicants shall have the right to receive relevant information about the reasons for the final decision.

The elements of networking and focusing on the multiplier effects, including the use of ICT, will be important and will be reflected both in the types of activities and in the range of organisations involved. The development of interactions and synergies among the various types of stakeholders involved in the programme will be encouraged.

The programme budget may also cover expenditure associated with the preparation, follow-up, monitoring, auditing and evaluation activities directly necessary for the management of the programme and the realisation of its objectives, in particular studies, meetings, information and publication activities, expenditure associated with the ICT networks for the exchange of information and any other administrative and technical support expenditure on which the Commission may decide for the management of the programme.

The Commission may undertake information, publication and dissemination activities as appropriate. Such activities may be financed by means of grants or be organised and financed directly by the Commission, through service contracts.

III. CONTROLS AND AUDITS

For projects selected in accordance with the procedure described in Article 13(1), a sampling audit system will be established.

The beneficiary of a grant must make available to the Commission all supporting documents relating to expenditure for a period of five years from the date of the final payment. The beneficiary of a grant must ensure that, where applicable, supporting documents in the possession of its partners or members are made available to the Commission.

The Commission may have an audit of the use made of the grant carried out either directly by its own staff or by any other qualified outside body of its choice. Such audits may be carried out throughout the lifetime of the contract and for a period of five years from the date of the final payment. Where appropriate, the audit findings may lead to recovery decisions by the Commission.

Commission staff and outside personnel authorised by the Commission must have appropriate access to the offices of the beneficiary and to all the information, including information in electronic format, needed in order to conduct such audits.

The Court of Auditors and the European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF) shall have the same rights, especially of access, as the Commission.

P6_TC1-COD(2005)0102

Position of the European Parliament adopted at first reading on 5 April 2006 with a view to the adoption of Decision No .../2006/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing a Community action for the European Capital of Culture event for the years 2007 to 2019

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 151 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission,

Having regard to the opinion of the Committee of the Regions⁽¹⁾,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty⁽²⁾,

Whereas

- (1) Decision No 1419/1999/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council⁽³⁾ established a Community action for the European Capital of Culture event for the years 2005 to 2019.
- (2) A study which has been carried out into the results achieved by the European City of Culture event until 2004 showed that it has a positive impact in terms of media resonance, the development of culture and tourism and the recognition by inhabitants of the importance of their city having been designated; however, the action still needs to be improved, particularly with regard to its long-term effect on the cultural development of the city and region concerned.
- (3) By enabling cities to involve their surrounding region, including islands, a wider public can be reached and the impact of the event can be amplified.
- (4) The stakeholders of the event stressed problems in the selection process laid down in Decision No 1419/1999/EC, and recommended: monitoring the proposals, particularly in order to enhance their European dimension; improving competition, and redefining the role of the panel.
- (5) The importance and impact of the European Capital of Culture calls for the creation of a mixed selection process, involving national and European levels, and the introduction of a strong monitoring and consultative element, to incorporate a national component and strengthen the European dimension.
- (6) The preparation phase of the event is of crucial importance for its success in accordance with the objectives of the action.

⁽³⁾ OJ L 166, 1.7.1999, p. 1. Decision as amended by Decision No 649/2005/EC (OJ L 117, 4.5.2005, p. 20).

Wednesday 5 April 2006

- (7) To guarantee the European added value of the action, a monitoring phase after the designation is needed, in which firstly care is taken to fulfil the criteria laid down for the cultural programme, and secondly expert advice and assistance is provided.
- (8) A panel of six national and seven European experts should be established; the whole panel comprising thirteen experts (the 'selection panel') will oversee the selection phase up to the designation of the city; only the seven European experts on the panel (becoming the 'monitoring and advisory panel') will oversee the monitoring process and give guidance to the Capitals during the monitoring phase up to the event.
- (9) For support and assistance, for both the applicant and designated cities, a website is to be set up, constantly maintained and regularly updated by the Commission, on the subject of 'European Capitals of Culture' (application, selection, implementation and links).
- (10) It is important to encourage the dissemination of good practice, especially to guarantee the European added value of the action. Therefore, networks of former official European Capitals of Culture should be encouraged to play a constructive role in sharing their experiences and best practice with future European Capitals of Culture, notably on the basis of exchanges during the preparation phase.
- (11) It is important to reward the quality of the programme in terms of the objectives and criteria of the action and particularly the European added value by awarding a prize in the form of a financial allocation.
- (12) To safeguard the long-term effect of the Capital of Culture event it is desirable to use the initiative, and the structures and capacities that it creates, as the basis for a lasting cultural development strategy for the cities concerned.
- (13) To enable third countries to take part in European cultural initiatives, the European Cultural Month⁽¹⁾, or a comparable initiative, should be explored.
- (14) The designation process laid down in this Decision needs a period of six years to be implemented; this period cannot be guaranteed for the years 2011 and 2012 given that this Decision enters into force in 2007. For these years a designation process is provided, as laid down in Decision No 1419/1999/EC.
- (15) In the interests of clarity, Decision No 1419/1999/EC should be repealed and replaced by this Decision.

 - having regard to Article 3(1)(c) and Articles 12 and 39 of the EC Treaty,
 - having regard to the Accession Treaty signed on 16 April 2003 between the EU-15 Member States of the one part, and the Czech Republic, the Republic of Estonia, the Republic of Cyprus, the Republic of Latvia, the Republic of Lithuania, the Republic of Hungary, the Republic of Malta, the Republic of Poland, the Republic of Slovenia, and the Slovak Republic of the other part (the Accession Treaty)⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to the Commission communication of 8 February 2006 entitled 'Report on the functioning of the transitional arrangements set out in the 2003 Accession Treaty (period 1 May 2004 to 30 April 2006)' (COM(2006)0048),
 - having regard to the resolution adopted by the European Trade Union Confederation (ETUC) Executive Committee at its meeting of 5 and 6 December 2005, entitled 'Towards free movement of workers in an enlarged European Union',
 - having regard to Rule 45 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Employment and Social Affairs (A6-0069/2006),
- A. whereas freedom of movement for workers is one of the four fundamental freedoms provided for in the EC Treaty, as well as an expression of solidarity between the EU-15 and the new Member States; whereas, furthermore, freedom of movement for persons is a right and should not be used to promote mass movements of persons and workers,
- B. whereas the Accession Treaty makes provision for the possibility of introducing transitional arrangements for freedom of movement for workers in three stages (2 + 3 + 2 years),
- C. whereas twelve of the EU-15 decided in May 2004 on some restriction of freedom of movement of workers from eight of the new Member States, and, in response, three of the new Member States likewise restricted freedom of movement; whereas Germany and Austria have taken the option to restrict freedom to provide services in certain sectors and have tied this to the transitional arrangements for freedom of movement for workers,
- D. whereas a 'status quo clause' stipulates that if an EU-15 Member State regulates access to its labour market under national law during the transitional period, nationals of the new Member States must not be subject, in that Member State, to greater restrictions than those in force on the date of signing of the Accession Treaty; whereas this rule applies to access granted under national provisions or bilateral agreements,
- E. whereas the status quo clause also requires the EU-15 to observe a preference rule⁽²⁾, which provides that, when a job is offered to citizens of countries other than the EU-15, nationals of the new Member States have priority over third-country nationals,

⁽²⁾ List referred to in Article 24 of the Act of Accession: for Czech Republic, see Annex V, paragraph 14; for Estonia, see Annex VI, paragraph 14; for Latvia, see Annex VII, paragraph 14; for Lithuania, see Annex IX, paragraph 14; for Hungary, see Annex X, paragraph 14; for Poland, see Annex XII, paragraph 14; for Slovenia, see Annex XIII, paragraph 14; and for Slovakia, see Annex XIV, paragraph 14.

- F. whereas the EU must face ineluctable global challenges, including the growing might of economic players such as China and South-East Asia, and population ageing in Europe, which could eventually cause the financing of social security systems to collapse; whereas it is therefore vital for the EU to improve its competitiveness and create more jobs, and, to that end, increase mobility within its enlarged territory,
- G. whereas the Lisbon growth and employment strategy (2005-2008) points precisely to the need to implement policies to encourage occupational and geographical mobility, and whereas Guideline No 20 of the employment guidelines⁽¹⁾ calls for the obstacles to worker mobility in the EU as a whole to be removed under the Treaties in order to make labour market more adaptable,
- H. whereas 2006 has been declared European Year of Workers' Mobility,
- I. whereas Council Directive 2003/109/EC of 25 November 2003 concerning the status of third-country nationals who are long-term residents⁽²⁾, lays down a legal framework for enabling a long-term legal resident in a Member State to obtain long-term residence status, which may, in certain circumstances, also permit that long-term resident to be employed in another Member State,
- J. whereas Directive 2003/109/EC also, in some cases, grants, long-term third-country residents a more favourable status as regards their rights of residence and access to the labour markets of the EU-15 than citizens of eight of the new Member States; stressing that displaying solidarity with workers from third countries should not result in discrimination against workers from the new Member States,
- K. whereas under the preference rule, the EU-15 must give priority, whenever a job is offered to a non-EU-15 national, to nationals of the new Member States; and whereas it is necessary to elaborate the rules of procedure for the implementation of the preference rule as soon as possible,
- L. whereas according to the Commission communication of 21 December 2005 on Policy Plan on Legal Migration COM(2005)0669, the Member States' labour markets are showing signs of structural strain, reflected in the fact that as well as high unemployment, there are also severe labour shortages; whereas to relieve the strain, it is essential to take steps to provide greater flexibility and security, increase mobility, and make the markets more adaptable,
- M. whereas, because of the structural strains affecting the European economies, labour demand in individual sectors can in some cases be met only with difficulty by drawing on the reserves of the national labour market alone,
- N. whereas migration from the new Member States is having beneficial effects on the economies of those Member States that have opened up their labour markets, as it is improving industrial competitiveness, reducing undeclared work, helping to raise economic growth rates and create more new jobs, and generating higher tax revenue for the host countries' budgets,
- O. whereas not only should consideration be given to the beneficial effects of opening up labour markets in the EU-15, but an analysis should also be carried out of the positive and negative effects on the new Member States of economic migration,
- P. whereas the continued denial of opportunities for legal work in the EU-15 for workers from the new Member States has led to more illegal work, the promotion of the black economy and worker exploitation,
- Q. whereas migration is a very sensitive political issue in the EU and whereas it is therefore vital to inform European citizens adequately about the underlying principles and practical consequences of freedom of movement for workers in the EU,

⁽¹⁾ Council Decision No 2005/600/EC of 12 July 2005 on guidelines for the employment policies of the Member States, (OJ L 205, 6.8.2005, p. 21).

Wednesday 5 April 2006

- R. whereas because the data on migration within the Community is inadequate and has not been sufficiently standardised, there are at present no proper statistical tools that enable the European institutions and Member States to keep up to date with the main trends and different circumstances on the labour markets of the enlarged EU,
- S. whereas the sketchy statistical data gathered by the Member States indicates that migration among the EU-15 is much higher than migration from the new Member States, whether expressed in absolute terms or as percentages of the working-age population; whereas migration from the new Member States is not putting significant pressure on the EU-15 labour markets,
- T. whereas the Member States' statistics also show that the volume of migration from third countries far exceeds migration among the Member States, whether among the EU-15 or among the Member States of the enlarged EU,
- U. whereas to gain citizens' confidence in open labour markets in the EU-15, it is essential to ensure compliance with, and strictly enforce, EC and national labour law,
- V. whereas a decision by the Member States concerned to end the restrictions imposed under the transitional regime would reflect a clear message of solidarity between citizens in Western and Eastern Europe, who have been separated for many decades on unacceptable grounds,
- W. whereas the Member States in the EU-15 will have to notify the Commission formally by 1 May 2006 whether they intend to maintain restrictions for an additional period of three years,
- X. whereas the two sides of industry, in particular the ETUC and the Union of Industrial and Employer's Confederations of Europe, have pronounced themselves clearly in favour of lifting, as soon as possible, the restrictions currently in place under the transitional regime,
1. Calls on the EU-15 to abolish the transitional measures in force, given that there are no signs of strain on the labour markets of the Member States which have opted for openness without restrictions and that the fears of massive migration have proved groundless;
 2. Suggests to those Member States that opt to extend the transitional measures, that they do so on the basis of an in-depth analysis of the threat to their labour market from each individual new Member State;
 3. Notes that the transitional periods are a major contributory factor to higher levels of illicit working and sham self-employment, and will increasingly lead to regionally acute wage pressure and unfair working conditions, as well as to discrimination against and the exploitation of migrant workers;
 4. Calls on the Member States to enforce the status quo clause and preference rule so that, when a post is vacant, nationals of the new Member States have priority over third-country nationals;
 5. Calls on the Commission to institute proceedings under Article 226 of the EC Treaty without delay should any Member State fail to fulfil its obligations under Articles 12, 39, or 42 of the EC Treaty or the status quo clause of the Accession Treaty;
 6. Regrets that several Member States are applying laws or administrative provisions that could be considered to impose greater restrictions on the freedom of movement of workers from the new Member States than those imposed when the Accession Treaty was signed; concludes that the extent of the restrictions imposed on nationals of the new Member States seeking to enter the EU-15 labour markets exceeds that authorised under the transitional arrangements;
 7. Regrets the fact that there are Member States in which provisions or administrative measures that could be regarded as discriminating between workers remain in force;

Wednesday 5 April 2006

8. Calls on the Commission and the Member States to ensure that labour law is strictly enforced so as to guarantee that all EU workers are treated equally, that there is fair competition among businesses, and that social dumping is prevented; calls on the Commission and Member States to ensure that migrant workers are aware of their fundamental rights and obligations, in particular with regard to legislation prohibiting discrimination in line with Article 13 of the EC Treaty;
9. Urges the Commission and the Member States to increase their efforts to ensure the proper enforcement of existing Community legislation, labour standards and, in particular, the provisions of Directive 96/71/EC of the European Parliament and the Council of 16 December 1996 concerning the posting of workers in the framework of the provision of services⁽¹⁾, with appropriate reinforcement of administrative cooperation where justified;
10. Calls on the Commission to intensify cross-border joint action by the Member States' labour inspectorates and to study the possibility of setting up a corresponding European cooperation network (i.e. a social Europol);
11. Calls on the Commission, the Member States, the two sides of industry and other specialised bodies in the public and private sectors to establish a fair, transparent procedure enabling nationals of the new Member States to obtain employment under decent work, health and safety conditions;
12. Calls on the Commission and the Council to produce, by January 2009 at the latest, standardised statistics on intra-EU migration, to set up a system for the systematic monitoring of migration of workers within the EU, and to provide the funds necessary to finance these actions;
13. Calls on the Commission, the Council, and the Member States to launch an information campaign aimed at the public at large with a view to informing citizens more fully about the principles underlying and the consequences of freedom of movement for workers within the EU and to help combat discrimination based on nationality, race and any other form of discrimination prohibited under Article 13 of the EC Treaty;
14. Calls on the EU-15 to consult the two sides of industry as necessary, in accordance with national custom and practice, before deciding whether to end or to extend transitional arrangements concerning freedom of movement for workers from the new Member States;
15. Calls on those Member States that wish to continue transitional arrangements to create during the next stage the conditions to ensure that the transitional arrangements are not continued beyond 2009;
16. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, and the parliaments of the Member States, and the parliaments of the accession and the candidate countries.

Simplified regime for the control of persons at external borders (Switzerland and Liechtenstein) *I

European Parliament legislative resolution on the proposal for a decision of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing a simplified regime for the control of persons at the external borders based on the unilateral recognition by the Member States of certain residence permits issued by Switzerland and Liechtenstein for the purpose of transit through their territory (COM(2005)0381 — C6-0254/2005 — 2005/0159(COD))

(Codecision procedure: first reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission proposal to the European Parliament and the Council (COM(2005)0381) ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to Article 251(2) and Article 62(2)(a) of the EC Treaty, pursuant to which the Commission submitted the proposal to Parliament (C6-0254/2005),
 - having regard to Rule 51 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs (A6-0060/2006),
1. Approves the Commission proposal as amended;
 2. Calls on the Commission to refer the matter to Parliament again if it intends to amend the proposal substantially or replace it with another text;
 3. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council and Commission.

P6_TC1-COD(2005)0159

Position of the European Parliament adopted at first reading on 6 April 2006 with a view to the adoption of Decision No .../2006/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing a simplified regime for the control of persons at the external borders based on the unilateral recognition by the member states of certain residence permits issued by Switzerland and Liechtenstein for the purpose of transit through their territory

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 62(2)(a) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty ⁽¹⁾,

Thursday 6 April 2006

Whereas:

- (1) Pursuant to Article 21 of the Convention of 19 June 1990 implementing the Schengen Agreement of 14 June 1985 between the Governments of the States of the Benelux Economic Union, the Federal Republic of Germany and the French Republic on the gradual abolition of checks at their common borders⁽¹⁾ (hereinafter referred to as the 'Schengen Convention') residence permits issued by Member States fully implementing the Schengen 'acquis' are to be mutually recognised as equivalent to the uniform visa.
- (2) The current Community rules do not, however, provide for a simplified regime for the control of persons at the external borders whereby the residence permits issued by third countries would be recognised as equivalent to the uniform visa for the purpose of transit through, or a short stay in, the common area.
- (3) Third-country nationals who hold a resident permit issued by Switzerland and who are subject to a visa obligation under Council Regulation (EC) No 539/2001 of 15 March 2001 listing third countries whose nationals must be in possession of visas when crossing the external borders and those nationals who are exempt from that requirement⁽²⁾ must apply for a visa when they transit the common area on return to their country of origin. As a result, the consular offices of the Member States in Switzerland have to deal with large numbers of visa applications submitted by such third-country nationals. Similar difficulties have occurred as regards applications for visas by holders of residence permits issued by Liechtenstein.
- (4) As a result of the two-step implementation of the Schengen 'acquis', new Member States that acceded to the European Union on 1 May 2004 are required from that date to issue national visas to third-country nationals who hold a residence permit issued by Switzerland and Liechtenstein and who are subject to a visa obligation under Regulation (EC) No 539/2001. Some of the new Member States have voiced concerns as to the additional administrative burden this will place on their consulates in Switzerland and Liechtenstein.
- (5) It does not appear necessary for Member States to require this category of persons to hold a visa, as they represent a low risk of illegal immigration for the Member States.
- (6) In order to address the situation in the consular offices in Switzerland and Liechtenstein both of Member States fully implementing the Schengen 'acquis' and of new Member States, a simplified regime should be introduced for the control of persons at the external borders based on the unilateral recognition of certain residence permits issued by the authorities of Switzerland and Liechtenstein as equivalent to uniform or national visas.
- (7) Such recognition should be limited to the purpose of transit and should not affect the possibility of Member States to issue visas for a short-term stay.
- (8) Application of the recognition regime should be compulsory for Member States fully implementing the Schengen 'acquis' and optional for new Member States that apply Decision No .../2006/EC of the European Parliament and Council of ... introducing a simplified regime for the control of persons at the external borders based on the unilateral recognition by the Czech Republic, Estonia, Cyprus, Latvia, Lithuania, Hungary, Malta, Poland, Slovenia and Slovakia of certain documents as equivalent to their national visas for the purposes of transit through their territories⁽³⁾ during the transitional period until the date to be determined by the Council, in accordance with the first subparagraph of Article 3(2) of the 2003 Act of Accession.
- (9) The entry conditions laid down in Article 5(1) of Regulation (EC) No 562/2006 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 15 March 2006 establishing a Community Code on the rules governing the movement of persons across borders (Schengen Borders Code)⁽⁴⁾ have to be fulfilled, with the exception of the condition laid down in Article 5(1)(b) thereof, insofar as this Decision sets up an equivalence regime between transit visas and residence permits issued by Switzerland and Liechtenstein.

Thursday 6 April 2006

- (10) Since the objective of this Decision directly affects the Community 'acquis' on visas and cannot be achieved sufficiently by the Member States and can therefore, by reason of the scale and effects of this Decision, be better achieved at Community level, the Community may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Decision does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve that objective.
- (11) As regards Iceland and Norway, this Decision constitutes a development of the provisions of the Schengen 'acquis' within the meaning of the Agreement concluded by the Council of the European Union and the Republic of Iceland and the Kingdom of Norway concerning those two States' association with the implementation, application and development of the Schengen 'acquis', which fall within the area referred to in Article 1 point (A) of Council Decision 1999/437/EC of 17 May 1999 ⁽¹⁾ on certain arrangements for the application of that Agreement.
- (12) In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of the Protocol on the Position of Denmark annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty establishing the European Community, Denmark is not taking part in the adoption by the Council of this Decision and is not bound by it or subject to its application. Given that this Decision builds upon the Schengen 'acquis' under the provisions of Title IV of Part Three of the Treaty establishing the European Community, Denmark has, in accordance with Article 5 of the said Protocol, to decide within a period of six months after the date of adoption of this Decision whether it will implement it in its national law.
- (13) This Decision constitutes a development of provisions of the Schengen 'acquis', in which the United Kingdom does not take part in accordance with Council Decision 2000/365/EC of 29 May 2000 concerning the request of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland to take part in some of the provisions of the Schengen 'acquis' ⁽²⁾. The United Kingdom is therefore not taking part in its adoption and is not bound by it or subject to its application.
- (14) This Decision constitutes a development of provisions of the Schengen 'acquis', in which Ireland does not take part in accordance with Council Decision 2002/192/EC of 28 February 2002 concerning Ireland's request to take part in some of the provisions of the Schengen 'acquis' ⁽³⁾. Ireland is therefore not taking part in its adoption and is not bound by it or subject to its application,

Simplified regime for the control of persons at external borders following enlargement *I

European Parliament legislative resolution on the proposal for a decision of the European Parliament and of the Council introducing a simplified regime for the control of persons at the external borders based on the unilateral recognition by the Czech Republic, Estonia, Cyprus, Latvia, Lithuania, Hungary, Malta, Poland, Slovenia, Slovakia of certain documents as equivalent to their national visas for the purposes of transit through their territories (COM(2005)0381 — C6-0253/2005 — 2005/0158(COD))

(Codecision procedure: first reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission proposal to the European Parliament and the Council (COM(2005) 0381) ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to Article 251(2) and Article 62(2) of the EC Treaty, pursuant to which the Commission submitted the proposal to Parliament (C6-0253/2005),
- having regard to Rule 51 of its Rules of Procedure,
- having regard to the report of the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs (A6-0062/2006),

1. Approves the Commission proposal as amended;
2. Calls on the Commission to refer the matter to Parliament again if it intends to amend the proposal substantially or replace it with another text;
3. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council and Commission.

P6_TC1-COD(2005)0158Position of the European Parliament adopted at first reading on 6 April 2006 with a view to the adoption of Decision No .../2006/EC of the European Parliament and Council introducing a simplified regime for the control of persons at the external borders based on the unilateral recognition by the Czech Republic, Estonia, Cyprus, Latvia, Lithuania, Hungary, Malta, Poland, Slovenia and Slovakia of certain documents as equivalent to their national visas for the purposes of transit through their territories

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 62(2) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty⁽¹⁾,

Whereas:

- (1) Pursuant to Article 3(1) of the 2003 Act of Accession, the Member States which acceded to the Union on 1 May 2004 are required from that date to subject to a visa obligation nationals of the third countries listed in Annex I to Council Regulation (EC) No 539/2001 of 15 March 2001 listing third countries whose nationals must be in possession of visas when crossing the external borders and those nationals who are exempt from that requirement⁽²⁾.
- (2) Pursuant to Article 3(2) of the 2003 Act of Accession, the provisions of the Schengen 'acquis' on the conditions and criteria for issuing short-term uniform visas, as well as the provisions on mutual recognition of visas and on the equivalence between residence permits and visas, only apply in the new Member States after adoption of a Council decision to that effect. However, they are binding on those Member States from the date of accession.
- (3) New Member States are therefore required to issue national visas for entry or transit through their territory to third-country nationals holding a uniform visa or long-stay visa or residence permit issued by a Member State fully implementing the Schengen 'acquis' or a similar document issued by other new Member States.
- (4) The holders of documents issued by Member States fully implementing the Schengen 'acquis' and new Member States do not represent any risk for the new Member States as they have been subject to all necessary controls by other Member States. In order to avoid imposing unjustified additional administrative burdens on the new Member States, common rules should be adopted authorising the new Member States unilaterally to recognise those documents as equivalent to their national visas and to establish a simplified regime for the controls of persons at the external borders based on that unilateral equivalence.
- (5) The common rules should apply for a transitional period, until the date to be determined in a Council decision as referred to in the first subparagraph of Article 3(2) of the 2003 Act of Accession.
- (6) The recognition of a document should be limited to the purpose of transit through the territory of one or more new Member States and should not affect the possibility of new Member States to issue national visas for a short-term stay. Participation in the common system should be optional and should not entail the imposition of additional obligations on the new Member States as defined by the 2003 Act of Accession.
- (7) The common rules should apply to short-term uniform visas, long-stay visas and residence permits issued by Member States fully implementing the Schengen 'acquis' and to short-term visas, long-term visas and residence permits issued by other new Member States.

Thursday 6 April 2006

- (8) The entry conditions laid down in Article 5(1) of Regulation (EC) No 562/2006 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 15 March 2006 establishing a Community Code on the rules governing the movement of persons across borders (Schengen Borders Code) ⁽¹⁾ have to be fulfilled, with the exception of the condition laid down in Article 5(1)(b) thereof, insofar as this Decision sets up a regime of unilateral recognition by new Member States of certain documents issued by Member States fully implementing the Schengen 'acquis' and similar documents issued by other new Member States for the purpose of transit.
- (9) Since the objective of this Decision, namely the introduction of a regime of unilateral recognition by new Member States of certain documents issued by other Member States for the purpose of transit, cannot be achieved sufficiently by Member States and can therefore, by reason of the scale and effects of this Decision, be better achieved at Community level, the Community may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Decision does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve this objective.
- (10) This Decision does not constitute a development of the provisions of the Schengen 'acquis' within the meaning of the Agreement concluded by the Council of the European Union and the Republic of Iceland and the Kingdom of Norway concerning those two States' association with the implementation, application and development of the Schengen 'acquis', as it is addressed only to Member States that do not yet fully implement the Schengen 'acquis'. However, for the coherence and proper functioning of the Schengen system, this Decision also covers visas and residence permits issued by third countries associated with the implementation, application and development of the Schengen 'acquis' and fully implementing the Schengen 'acquis', such as Iceland and Norway.
- (11) In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of the Protocol on the Position of the United Kingdom and Ireland annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty establishing the European Community, those Member States are not taking part in the adoption of this Decision.
- (12) In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of the Protocol on the Position of Denmark, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty establishing the European Community, Denmark is not taking part in the adoption of this Decision.

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DECISION:

Article 1

This Decision introduces a simplified regime for the control of persons at the external borders whereby the Czech Republic, Estonia, Cyprus, Latvia, Lithuania, Hungary, Malta, Poland, Slovenia and Slovakia (hereinafter referred to as the new Member States) may recognise unilaterally as equivalent to their national visas for the purpose of transit the documents referred to in Article 2(1) and those referred to in Article 3 issued by other new Member States to third-country nationals subject to a visa obligation pursuant to Regulation (EC) No 539/2001.

The implementation of this Decision shall not affect the checks to be carried out on persons at the external borders in compliance with Articles 5 to 13 and 18 to 19 of Regulation (EC) No 562/2006.

Article 2

- (iii) a 'residence permit' as included in Annex IV to the Common Consular Instructions.

2. If a new Member State decides to apply this Decision, it shall recognise all the documents referred to in paragraph 1, regardless of which State issued the document.

The documents issued by new Member States which may be recognised pursuant to this Decision are listed in the Annex.

Article 4

New Member States may only recognise documents as equivalent to their national visas for the purpose of transit if the duration of the transit by the third-country national through the territory of the new Member State(s) does not exceed five days.

The period of validity of the documents referred to in Articles 2 and 3 shall cover the duration of the transit.

Article 5

Any new Member State that decides to apply this Decision shall notify the Commission thereof by ... ⁽¹⁾.

The Commission shall publish the information communicated by the new Member States in the Official Journal of the European Union.

Article 6

This Decision shall enter into force on the twentieth day following that of its publication in the Official Journal of the European Union.

It shall apply until the date to be determined by the Council decision adopted pursuant to the first subparagraph of Article 3(2) of the 2003 Act of Accession.

Special report by the European Ombudsman following a complaint against the European Schools

European Parliament resolution on the Special Report by the European Ombudsman following a complaint against the European Schools (No 1391/2002/JMA) (2005/2216(INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Special Report by the European Ombudsman to the European Parliament,
 - having regard to Articles 13, 21 and 195 of the EC Treaty,
 - having regard to Articles 1 and 6 of the Treaty on European Union,
 - having regard to its Decision 94/262/ECSC, EC, Euratom of 9 March 1994 on the regulations and general conditions governing the performance of the Ombudsman's duties ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to Article 3(7) of the Statute of the European Ombudsman,
 - having regard to its previous resolutions of 16 July 1998 ⁽²⁾, 17 November 2000 ⁽³⁾, 6 September 2001 ⁽⁴⁾ and 11 December 2001 ⁽⁵⁾ on the Special Reports by the European Ombudsman,
 - having regard to the Convention of 17 June 1994 defining the statute of the European Schools,
 - having regard to the Resolution of the Council and the Ministers for Education meeting within the Council of 31 May 1990 concerning integration of children and young people with disabilities into ordinary systems of education ⁽⁶⁾, and in particular Article 4 thereof,
 - having regard to the communication from the Commission to the Council, the European Parliament, the Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions — Towards a Barrier-Free Europe for People with Disabilities (COM(2000)0284),
 - having regard to the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union ⁽⁷⁾, and in particular Article 21(1) thereof,
 - having regard to Rule 45 and Rule 195(2), first sentence, of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Petitions (A6-0118/2006),
- A. whereas it is the duty of the European Ombudsman, pursuant to the Treaty establishing the European Community, to conduct on his own initiative, or on the basis of complaints submitted to him, and at his own discretion, inquiries in connection with maladministration in the activities of the bodies or institutions of the Community, with the exception of the Court of Justice and the Court of First Instance acting in their judicial role,

- B. whereas, pursuant to Article 3(7) of his Statute, the European Ombudsman may subsequently submit to the European Parliament and the body or institution concerned a report with appropriate recommendations,
- C. whereas, in his Special Report on complaint No 1391/2002/JMA concerning the failure of the European Schools to provide for the special educational needs of the complainant's daughter, the Ombudsman sought to recommend ways of ensuring that the Commission should take the necessary steps to ensure that parents of children with special educational needs who are excluded from the European Schools because of their degree of disability should not be required to contribute to the educational costs of their children,
- D. whereas the Ombudsman conducted inquiries into a significant number of additional complaints against the European Schools involving similar facts and raising identical allegations,
- E. whereas the Special Report of the Ombudsman is an excellent opportunity for an in-depth consideration of the recommendations made to the Commission,
1. Welcomes the Ombudsman's Special Report and considers that it is based on in-depth inquiries into the complaint in question and a thorough analysis of the evidence at hand;
 2. Notes that the Ombudsman's inquiry is an appropriate example of the exercise of his mandate pursuant to Article 195 of the Treaty;
 3. Underlines that, as enshrined in Articles 14 and 21 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union and in the EC Treaty, the right to education, the principle of non-discrimination and equal treatment and the prohibition of any type of discrimination based inter alia on grounds of disability constitute the principles and foundations of the EU legal order;
 4. Notes that, whilst the Commission has repeatedly referred to the existence of financial and budgetary limitations which prevent it from covering the full educational costs of children with special educational needs who are excluded from the European Schools, the institution has made no effort to produce an estimate of the financial resources required to meet the obligations imposed by the EC Treaty;
 5. Notes in the case of the complainant's family that while free education (which is compulsory) was provided for three of her children at the European School her eldest daughter, who has special educational needs, was excluded from that school and obliged to enrol at the privately run 'International School of Brussels' resulting in considerable costs being incurred by the family;
 6. 6 Notes measures outlined by the Commission to the Petitions Committee meeting of 22 February 2006 claiming significant increases in 2006 'complementary aid for disabled' resulting in a substantial reduction of the beneficiaries' personal contributions;
 7. Notes that the Commission provides a doubled dependent child allowance to assist officials with the non-educational costs arising from caring for a child with disabilities and condemns the Commission's unilateral withholding of that allowance for the purpose of reducing the Commission's costs in meeting its obligations to the complainant's child;
 8. Calls on the Commission to clarify the extent to which it takes responsibility for ensuring that children of officials have access to appropriate free compulsory education;
 9. Endorses the Ombudsman's conclusions and calls on the Commission to take the necessary steps to reimburse to parents of children with special educational needs who are excluded from the European Schools because of their degree of disability the full cost of special educational provision for their children;
 10. Considers that the Ombudsman's recommendation should also apply to the other complaints which he received in the course of his inquiry involving similar facts and identical allegations;
 11. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the European Ombudsman, the Secretary-General and the Board of Governors of the European Schools and the parliaments and governments of the Member States.

Situation with refugee camps in Malta

European Parliament resolution on the situation with refugee camps in Malta

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, in particular Article 14 thereof,
 - having regard to the Geneva Convention of 1951 on the status of refugees, in particular Article 31 thereof,
 - having regard to the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, in particular Article 5 thereof,
 - having regard to the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union⁽¹⁾, in particular Articles 1 and 18 thereof,
 - having regard to Council Directive 2003/9/EC of 27 January 2003 laying down minimum standards for the reception of asylum seekers⁽²⁾ and Council Directive 2004/83/EC of 29 April 2004 on minimum standards for the qualification and status of third country nationals or stateless persons as refugees or as persons who otherwise need international protection and the content of the protection granted⁽³⁾,
 - having regard to Council Regulation (EC) No 343/2003 of 18 February 2003 establishing the criteria and mechanisms for determining the Member State responsible for examining an asylum application lodged in one of the Member States by a third-country national⁽⁴⁾, which is known as Dublin II,
 - having regard to Article 6 of the EU Treaty and Article 63 of the EC Treaty,
 - having regard to Rule 103(4) of its Rules of Procedure,
- A. whereas visits by delegations from its Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs to detention centres in the EU, most recently in Malta, have shown that asylum seekers are detained in conditions that fall far below internationally recognised standards, and where particular concerns include physical conditions, as well as inadequate or non-existent access to basic services, such as medical care or social and legal assistance,
- B. whereas a delegation from its Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs went to Malta on 24 March 2006 in order to visit administrative detention centres, in particular the centres of Hal Safi, Hal Far and Lyster Barracks, and to meet the Maltese authorities and the NGOs dealing with immigration,
- C. having regard to the facts ascertained on the spot by the delegation members,
- D. whereas asylum seekers in Malta are held in administrative detention centres,
- E. whereas the island of Malta is situated on the southern border of the European Union, it is a small island covering 316 km² and has a population of 400 000, with a population density of 1 200 people/km², and it obviously has a very limited capacity for receiving and accommodating migrants and asylum seekers, who regularly arrive on its shores in great numbers,
- F. whereas the average number of people arriving in Malta each year is equivalent to 45 % of the birth rate in Malta and, in relative terms, one arrival in Malta corresponds to 140 in Italy, 150 in France and 205 in Germany; whereas in 2005, 1 800 people arrived in Malta, which is equivalent to 252 000 in Italy, 270 000 in France and 369 000 in Germany,

- G. whereas Malta spends 1 % of its national budget on tackling the current situation, which is bound to worsen in the coming months and years; whereas Malta deploys a considerable proportion of its army and police force — more than 10 % of the personnel — to deal with the humanitarian emergency and manage the detention and reception centres,
- H. whereas Malta is not the final destination of the people arriving on the island, who state that they want to enter other Member States,
- I. whereas the Maltese authorities do not have sufficient staff to deal with asylum applications in a reasonable period of time,
- J. whereas some of the people arriving in Malta come from war-stricken countries, in particular in the Horn of Africa and Darfur, and it would be difficult to return them to their countries of origin,
- K. whereas living in 'open accommodation' is always preferable to staying in actual detention centres, as experience in Ceuta and Melilla has shown,
- L. whereas Malta's administrative practice sets eighteen months as the maximum period for holding migrants and twelve months for asylum seekers awaiting a decision on their applications,
- M. whereas the Maltese population looks to the European Union for an expression of solidarity and support, which, to date, has not been forthcoming,
- N. whereas the European Union should intervene as a matter of urgency and make every endeavour to support Malta in its effort to manage migratory flows, which the Maltese authorities would also like to see,
- O. whereas the European Union should do everything possible to help Malta and the other countries on the borders of the EU experiencing similar difficulties,
- P. whereas accession to the European Union has meant, for Malta and other small countries, difficulties in applying Regulation (EC) No 343/2003,
1. Firmly believes that Malta and other Member States must respect their obligations under international law as regards asylum seekers;
 2. Recognises the difficulties encountered by Malta in managing the migration emergency of the last few years;
 3. Expresses its solidarity with the Maltese population, the asylum seekers and immigrants held in detention, the Maltese authorities and the police and armed forces, who are confronted with a considerable problem, in view of the size of Malta and its population and the fact that Malta is not the final destination of migrants and asylum seekers;
 4. Commends the transparency of the Maltese authorities, who allowed the delegation from its Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs and the press free access to Malta's administrative detention centres;
 5. Deplores, nevertheless, the unacceptable living conditions of the migrants and asylum seekers in Malta's administrative detention centres;
 6. Calls on the Maltese authorities to reduce substantially the length of time migrants are held;
 7. Calls for the UN High Commissioner for Refugees and NGOs to be given total access to the closed holding centres; calls on the competent NGOs to ensure a permanent presence in these centres in order to ensure access to medical and legal assistance;

Thursday 6 April 2006

8. Insists that the Member States establish access to the asylum application procedure and apply the provisions of Council Directive 2005/85/EC of 1 December 2005 on minimum standards on procedures in Member States for granting and withdrawing refugee status⁽¹⁾ in a consistent and rigorous manner and ensure that asylum applications are processed swiftly and efficiently;
9. Calls on the Maltese authorities to apply Directive 2003/9/EC, especially as regards conditions in the detention centres;
10. Calls for a greater role for the European Union in the management of humanitarian emergencies linked to migratory flows and asylum seekers;
11. Calls on the Council to hold an extraordinary meeting of Justice and Home Affairs Ministers in Malta as soon as possible to take account of the need to take urgent and immediate measures to address the anticipated upsurge in numbers of irregular migrants arriving in Malta over the summer months, whilst at the same time finding a suitable solution to the current difficulties;
12. Considers that the Member States should show greater solidarity towards the Member States that suffer most from the EU-bound migratory flows and calls on the Member States to receive on their territory asylum seekers from Malta and other small countries, using technical assistance and the funding provided under the ARGO programme, the European Refugee Fund, the European External Borders Fund, the European Integration Fund and the European Return Fund for the period 2007-2013;
13. Calls on the Council and the Member States to supply practical aid for Malta:
 - by sending groups of experts, including independent experts, to provide assistance in granting asylum-seeker status, and
 - by sending groups of experts, including independent experts, to provide advice on compliance with Directive 2003/9/EC;
14. Calls on the Commission to propose, as soon as possible, the creation of an emergency fund to tackle humanitarian crises in the Member States and to incorporate in the new funds for the period 2007-2013 an emergency mechanism allowing financial assistance to be provided in emergency situations;
15. Urges the Commission to take the initiative as soon as possible with a view to revising Regulation (EC) No 343/2003, 'Dublin II', by calling into question its very principle, namely that the Member State responsible for dealing with an asylum application is the first country that applicants reach, which puts an intolerable burden on the countries situated in the south and east of the EU, and by introducing a fair mechanism for sharing responsibilities among the Member States;
16. Reiterates the need for a Community immigration and asylum policy based on the opening-up of legal immigration channels and on the definition of common standards for the protection of the fundamental rights of immigrants and asylum seekers throughout the Union, as established by the Tampere European Council in 1999 and confirmed by the Hague programme;
17. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the governments and parliaments of the Member States and to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees.

Elections in Belarus

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its previous resolutions on the situation in Belarus, in particular that of 16 February 2006 ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to the US Congress' resolution 'expressing support for the efforts of the people of the Republic of Belarus to establish a full democracy, the rule of law, and respect for human rights and urging the Government of Belarus to conduct a free and fair presidential election on March 19, 2006', passed on 8 March 2006,
 - having regard to the preliminary election assessment statement of the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights (ODIHR) of the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) of 20 March 2006 (OSCE),
 - having regard to the statement of the EU High Representative for the CFSP of 20 March 2006 on the conduct of the presidential elections in Belarus,
 - having regard to the conclusions of the General Affairs and External Relations Council meeting of 20 March 2006,
 - having regard to the statement of its ad hoc delegation to the Belarus presidential elections of 20 March 2006,
 - having regard to Rule 103(4) of its Rules of Procedure,
- A. whereas the Belarus presidential elections took place on 19 March 2006,
- B. whereas President Lukashenko extended his new term of office through a constitutional referendum which did not meet international democratic standards and the results of which have not been recognised by the international democratic community,
- C. whereas the Belarus authorities conducted the elections in a climate of fear by repeatedly harassing and arresting prominent opposition leaders and members of student and minority organisations, including religious and community leaders, journalists, campaign activists and members of pro-democracy political parties,
- D. whereas the elections took place in an atmosphere of isolation with reinforced external border controls and the authorities suppressed freedom of speech, freedom of expression, freedom of the media and freedom of demonstration in the run-up to, and after, the elections,
- E. whereas early voting was non-transparent and state employees, the elderly and students were increasingly pressured, intimidated and threatened with retribution such as loss of employment, loss of pensions and expulsion from universities,
- F. F whereas the OSCE/ODIHR Election Observation Mission to the presidential elections in Belarus concluded that those elections failed to meet international democratic standards; whereas the European Council, the Council of Europe, the United States and most other international institutions and governments also concluded that the elections were fundamentally flawed,
- G. whereas during the five days following the elections the opposition forces staged continued demonstrations in the main square of Minsk to protest against the fraudulent way in which the elections had been held, despite threats by President Lukashenko to 'wring the necks' of anyone who tried to seize power through popular protests after the result of the elections and hints of severe punishment for those arrested during such protests, including the death penalty,

Thursday 6 April 2006

- H. whereas in the early hours of 25 March 2006 the police brutally stormed the tent camp set up by young people and students in the centre of Minsk and arrested hundreds of protesters,
- I. whereas the demonstrators, foreign sympathisers and journalists present at the rallies have been defamed and tried, without due respect for the right to defence, under allegations of provoking illegal rallies and vandalism; whereas on 27 March 2006 Belarusian courts handed down jail terms of up to 15 days to the protesters who had been arrested for participating in an unauthorised demonstration; whereas politically motivated investigations have been launched against the opposition leaders, including Aleksandr Milinkievič, the main presidential candidate for the opposition,
1. Strongly condemns the failed presidential elections in Belarus and points out that the Lukashenko regime lacks all democratic legitimacy and continues as the last dictatorship in Europe;
 2. Denounces the presidential elections as not having met the required international standards of free, fair, equal, accountable and transparent elections; considers therefore that, by implication, President Lukashenko cannot be recognised as the legitimate President of Belarus and that the presidential elections should be repeated in compliance with international democratic standards;
 3. Expresses its solidarity with Aleksandr Milinkievič and the United Democratic forces, as well as Aleksandr Kozulin and all Belarusian citizens who strive for an independent, open and democratic Belarus based on the rule of law;
 4. Is impressed by the mass demonstrations against the non-democratic and sham nature of the elections, showing the desire of a large part of society to restore true democratic rights and political freedom to their country, thus revealing a huge democratic potential in Belarus;
 5. Strongly condemns the violence and the arbitrary arrests exercised by the Belarusian regime against the thousands of people who found the courage to protest against the rigging of the presidential elections and the violation of the fundamental rights of the Belarusian people;
 6. Calls on the Commission and the Council and the international community as a whole to increase their support for the Belarusian people and substantially to increase pressure on the Belarusian regime to end the dictatorial oppression of its people, to release all those detained immediately, to annul all judgements against peaceful demonstrators and to hold new, democratic elections as soon as possible;
 7. Demands that the Belarus government put an end to the beating and ill-treatment of political prisoners and conduct a transparent investigation into the abusive use of force by police and security forces against demonstrators;
 8. Demands that the Belarus authorities immediately make public the names of all persons arrested, their whereabouts and the accusations made against them; stresses that those authorities have an obligation to guarantee the right of all arrested persons to consult a private lawyer, meet with members of their families and have access to information;
 9. Condemns the Belarus authorities for not allowing certain foreign journalists to enter Belarus to observe the elections;
 10. Condemns the Belarus authorities for not allowing delegations from Parliament and the national parliaments of the Member States to observe the elections and for expelling observers from Denmark, Georgia, Germany, Ukraine and Poland, as well as from the OSCE;
 11. Welcomes the decision of the Council to add President Lukashenko to the visa ban list but calls on it and the Commission to expand that list to include representatives of the Belarus local, regional, national and academic authorities who were involved in breaching the human rights and political freedoms of Belarusian citizens during and after the electoral campaign;

Thursday 6 April 2006

12. Calls on the Commission and the Council to work towards the freezing of the assets of the Belarusian authorities abroad, restrictive measures against companies directly and personally linked to senior officials of the regime and the freezing of the personal assets of President Lukashenko and his close advisors;
 13. Calls on the Commission and the Council to make proposals to put further pressure on President Lukashenko's regime in international organisations; demands that a complete package of concrete and direct 'smart' sanctions — severely affecting the perpetrators of oppression without adding any further suffering to the citizens of Belarus — be brought forward;
 14. Calls on the Commission and the Council to direct all forms of financial support to citizens' initiatives, non-governmental organisations and small and medium-sized enterprises which are not linked to the government;
 15. Calls on the Commission to revise its external policy towards Belarus and to make proposals as to how democracy, the rule of law and human rights can be promoted; stresses that the Commission's problems in adequately supporting Belarusian civil society in the run-up to the elections is a further indication of the urgent need to set up an effective financial and administrative mechanism to promote democracy;
 16. Calls on the Commission and Council to create a visa facilitation regime for the benefit of the civil society of Belarus;
 17. Calls on the Commission and the Council to support independent journalists and strengthen TV, internet, printed media and radio broadcasting programmes for Belarus in order to help Belarusian citizens obtain impartial and accurate information about their country and the world;
 18. Calls on the Commission and the Council to fund additional educational exchange programmes for Belarusian young people who have been expelled from their universities for political reasons;
 19. Is appalled by the positive reactions of the Russian State Duma and the Russian President, Vladimir Putin, to the conduct of the presidential elections in Belarus and their outcome; takes the view that the effectiveness of EU policies towards Belarus is undermined by the irresponsible attitude of the Moscow authorities, who are lending decisive support to the last dictatorship in Europe; calls on the Council and the Commission urgently to raise the issue of Belarus with the Russian authorities so as to define a common responsibility for bringing about concrete democratic changes in that country and stop the political repression and human rights violations; is of the opinion that specific efforts to this end should be made in the framework of the Council of Europe and the OSCE as Russia — together with the Member States of the European Union — is a member of both organisations;
 20. Calls on the Member States represented in the G8 to place the current situation in Belarus on the agenda of the forthcoming summit this spring and to urge Russia to reverse its position on President Lukashenko and his regime and to use its close ties with Belarus to promote democracy and political reforms in that country;
 21. Calls on the United Nations, the Council of Europe and the Member States to set up an international commission to investigate the disappearances of Yuri Zakharenko, Victor Gonchar, Anatoly Krasovsky and Dmitry Zavadskiy;
 22. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the parliaments and governments of the Member States, the Secretary-General of the United Nations, the Parliamentary Assemblies of the OSCE and the Council of Europe, the President and State Duma of Russia and the Belarus authorities.

Elections in Ukraine

European Parliament resolution on the parliamentary elections in Ukraine

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its previous resolutions on the political developments in Ukraine, in particular its resolution of 13 January 2005 on the results of the Ukraine elections ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to its resolution of 19 January 2006 on the European Neighbourhood Policy ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to the EU-Ukraine Action Plan, and the further measures decided upon by the Council in support of a democratic and reform-oriented Ukraine,
 - having regard to the OSCE preliminary statement of 27 March 2006 on the Ukrainian elections,
 - having regard to Rule 103(4) of its Rules of Procedure,
- A. whereas Ukraine has clearly confirmed its desire to be part of Europe and its willingness to be integrated with the European Union on the basis of the EU's fundamental principles and criteria,
- B. whereas the International Election Observation Mission of the European Parliament, the Parliamentary Assemblies of the Council of Europe, the OSCE and NATO and the OSCE Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights (ODIHR) concluded that the 26 March 2006 parliamentary elections in Ukraine had been free and fair and in accordance with international standards for democratic elections,
- C. whereas the media coverage during the campaign was generally balanced, enabling parties to communicate their message and voters to express their choice freely,
- D. whereas it was concluded that the elections had been administered in a democratic and transparent manner with virtually no incidents, although problems in the staffing of polling stations and an excessive number of voters at some polling stations caused a certain degree of disorder on election day,
- E. whereas the European Union, its Member States and Ukraine have moved towards an ever closer relationship based on shared respect for fundamental European values,
1. Welcomes the fact that the parliamentary and local elections of 26 March 2006 were held in a satisfactory manner, fully in accordance with international electoral standards, and that Ukraine is firmly on the path towards becoming a mature democracy and assuming its rightful place in a European community of democratic nations;
 2. Takes note of the shortcomings of the elections identified by the International Election Observation Mission and calls upon the relevant Ukrainian authorities to take corrective action and to ensure that such problems do not re-emerge in future elections;
 3. Congratulates the people of Ukraine, who, despite the sometimes difficult circumstances at the polling stations, have demonstrated their commitment to the democratic process in their country;
 4. Urges all members of the newly elected Verkhovna Rada as well as the new Ukrainian Government to fully commit themselves to the irreversibility of this democratic process and to unreservedly continue, and strengthen, the political, social and economic reforms;

Thursday 6 April 2006

5. Urges the Commission and Council to respond promptly and concretely to the growing hopes of the Ukrainian people, who are increasingly looking to the EU, and to consider a further strengthening of the measures included in the European Neighbourhood Policy's Action Plan which are designed to support the further democratic development of Ukraine, in particular with regard to strengthening respect for the rule of law and the continuation and strengthening of social and economic reforms; also urges the Member States to undertake similar initiatives and projects to provide concrete support, contributing to a continuation of the democratisation and reform process in Ukraine;
6. Calls upon the new government formed after these elections to consolidate Ukraine's espousal of common European values and objectives by taking further steps to promote democracy, human rights, civil society and the rule of law, by resuming market reforms and by overcoming the political divisions in Ukraine;
7. Urges the new Ukrainian Government to continue to be a reliable partner of the European Union, with specific regard to enhancing stability in the region, in particular in finding a solution to the Trans-Dniester problem;
8. Appeals to all neighbouring countries to fully respect the democratic choice of the Ukrainian people and to refrain from any economic or other pressure to change the democratically decided further political, social and economic development of the country;
9. Looks forward to a visa-facilitation agreement between the EU and Ukraine with the final goal of a non-visa regime, but, in the interim, calls on the Commission to fully respect the existing agreements on free multiple-entry visas with seven Member States, as well as other actions geared to realising Ukraine's European perspective; calls for further action to move Ukraine towards full membership of the World Trade Organisation;
10. Notes that the current Partnership and Cooperation Agreement between the European Communities and Ukraine⁽¹⁾ expires in 2008, and calls on the Commission to begin to negotiate an Association Agreement;
11. Looks forward to increased cooperation with the Verkhovna Rada and to a sustained transition process in Ukraine that will bring the country closer to the objective of ever more intensive cooperation with the European Union, and commits itself to assisting and supporting Ukraine in this process;
12. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Government and Parliament of Ukraine and the Parliamentary Assemblies of the Council of Europe, the OSCE and NATO.

 - having regard to Rule 103(4) of its Rules of Procedure,
- A. whereas there is a grave shortage of health workers in many parts of the developing world, with migration both from and within poorer regions,
 - B. whereas the shortage of human resources in the healthcare sector is acute not only in developing countries, but also in Europe and all other states in the world, not least in the event of pandemics,
 - C. whereas the increased need for health workers in developed countries with ageing populations has attracted doctors and nurses from developing countries in particular, exacerbating the existing shortage of health workers in these countries,
 - D. whereas both donor and recipient countries have signed up to the MDGs, three of which are directly related to health: reducing child mortality, improving maternal health and tackling HIV/AIDS, TB, malaria and other diseases,
 - E. whereas access to health services is a fundamental human right,

Thursday 6 April 2006

1. Welcomes the abovementioned Commission Communication and fully supports its assertion that 'MDG progress will be difficult to achieve without increased investment in the health workforce' and its clear commitment to working in partnership with developing countries on development strategies;
2. Criticises, nevertheless, the contradiction between the Commission's stated commitment to improving healthcare in developing countries and achieving the MDGs and its track record on spending development funds in the healthcare sector; stresses, for example, that in 2003 only 5,2 % of the European Development Fund was earmarked for health spending, and only 4 % in 2002;
3. Views as deeply regrettable indications that the Commission intends to propose that only 6 % of development funds within the new development cooperation instrument be allocated to human and social development, covering not only healthcare, HIV/AIDS and sexual and reproductive health, but all other social development, including children, education and gender programmes;
4. Calls on the Commission to adhere to Parliament's longstanding demand that 35 % of development funds be used for the social sector, with 20 % of overall funds being used for basic healthcare and basic education;
5. Recognises the urgent need for improving harmonisation of donor assistance — within the EU as well as at global level — and agrees that budget support linked to sufficiently clear performance indicators can be an efficient way of improving harmonisation as well as of increasing predictability;
6. Calls for adequate funding for reproductive health projects and condemns the 'global gag rule' (Mexico City Policy) which blocks US funding of such projects;
7. Recognises that one major reason for this problematic situation in developing countries is the emigration of health workers who are recruited by wealthier countries (especially EU countries and the USA); calls for the EU to press for the introduction of a global Code of Conduct for Ethical Recruitment;
8. Believes that the first step in combating this trend would be to provide training and better working conditions for health workers in the areas concerned, to offer incentives to encourage them to work where they are most needed and to supply them with vaccinations in anticipation of potential pandemics;
9. Calls on the Commission and Member States to implement fully the Coherence for Development Policy that they signed up to in the abovementioned joint statement on development policy by ensuring that migration policies do not work to the detriment of developing countries by actively seeking key health workers from the poorest nations;
10. Stresses, nevertheless, that the best way of combating the 'brain drain' in the health sector is to provide career incentives for key health workers to stay in their home country; calls on the Commission, Member States and the governments of developing countries to invest in the training of key health workers;
11. Calls on developing countries to restore their public and basic healthcare systems and services and for the EU to support this process through aid for the reinforcement of human and institutional capacities and infrastructure, including an improvement in working conditions for medical staff, provision of suitable medical equipment and transfer of technology;
12. Insists that the Commission and Member States do their utmost to ensure that healthcare funds reach the poorest in developing countries; highlights the urgent need for access to healthcare in rural and remote areas;

Thursday 6 April 2006

13. Urges the Member States to make global health and medicines a strategic sector and to take determined action to emphasise priorities in research and development in order to address the needs of patients, especially those in resource-poor settings;
14. Urges the EU to ensure that progress in basic science and biomedicine is translated into improved, safe and affordable healthcare, including access to essential medicines, for all patients, especially those living in poverty;
15. Calls on the Commission and Member States to develop partnerships with hospitals in developing countries and to encourage cooperation via video conferencing, which can enable relatively small and remote hospitals to benefit from high-level expertise and guidance from other hospitals or countries and to support actively the development of primary health care;
16. Calls for effective health workforce planning in all Member States in order to meet internal demand and minimise the negative implications for its neighbours, African countries and other affected nations;
17. Calls on the Commission and Member States actively to support medical education in developing countries, as well as access thereto for students from rural and remote areas;
18. Believes that one priority for the EU, in order to remedy shortages of healthcare workers in various Member States, is to maintain and raise the number of its EU healthcare workers by a series of measures such as encouragement of professional mobility in the EU, provision of better working conditions, increased support in the form of investment in training and the development of effective incentive schemes, which must be based on research, analysis and consultation of health workers;
19. Takes the view that it is fundamental to guarantee access to high-quality and free health services for all;
20. Stresses the need to develop an effective malaria vaccine, a process which can be accelerated through international partnerships between the private and the public sector;
21. Expresses its appreciation and support for the work of NGOs that render assistance and expertise in the area of health in developing countries; calls on the Commission actively to support these NGOs;
22. Recalls the dreadful situation of the five Bulgarian nurses and the Palestinian physician who are facing the death penalty in Tripoli;
23. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the governments of the Member States and of all developing countries, and Dr Lee Jong-wook, Secretary-General of the World Health Organisation.

Thursday 6 April 2006

- A. having regard to the conclusion to the negotiations on the revision of the Cotonou Agreement in 2005 and the new measures concerning in particular the strengthening of political dialogue, the strengthening of parliaments, the International Criminal Court and cooperation in the fight against terrorism and weapons of mass destruction,
- B. whereas the JPA stands as a model of cooperation and development in the world and is making a major contribution to open, fair dialogue between North and South,
- C. having regard to the importance of the JPA's role in implementing the political dialogue provided for by Article 8 of the Cotonou Agreement, particularly as regards strengthening democracy, implementing good governance and protecting human rights,
- D. whereas six joint ACP-EU missions took place in 2005:
- in the Solomon Islands, Fiji and Papua New Guinea from 11 to 21 February 2005, to meet the political authorities of the three countries visited and non-governmental organisations (NGOs), and to visit projects financed under the EDF,
 - in Equatorial Guinea, from 28 February to 4 March 2005, to meet the country's authorities and to make recommendations to the JPA on the situation in the country,
 - in Sudan (Darfur), from 21 to 27 March 2005, to prepare for the urgent debate and the resolution at the ninth session in Bamako,
 - in Guyana and Jamaica, from 14 to 21 October 2005, in order to investigate the likely impact of the proposed EU sugar reforms,
 - in Tanzania, from 25 to 28 November 2005, to meet political and institutional leaders, as well as representatives of civil society and of the East African Community,
 - to the Pan-African Parliament, in Midrand (South Africa), on 28 and 29 November 2005, on the occasion of its fourth ordinary session,
1. Welcomes the conclusion of the negotiations that led to the amendment of the Cotonou Agreement, but regrets that the agreement reached at the Brussels summit of 15 and 16 December 2005 bringing the amount allocated to the 10th EDF (2008-2013) to EUR 22 682 million remains short of the initial proposals aimed at maintaining the same level of aid as under the 9th EDF;
2. Emphasises that the simple wording used in Annex Ia to the Cotonou Agreement is open to different interpretations with regard to determining the amount of the ACP/EU multiannual financial framework and that, in any event, this amount must reflect the major political commitments made by the EU in 2005 on development and aid to Africa;
3. Supports the request of the JPA, expressed at its ninth session in April 2005 that a suitable proportion of EDF appropriations should be used for the political education and training of parliamentarians and of political, economic and social leaders, in the interests of a lasting strengthening of good governance, the rule of law, democratic structures, and the interaction between government and opposition in pluralistic democracies based on free elections; these funds should be used for the establishment of public administration colleges and the political education of members of parliament, local administrators and people in positions of responsibility in political parties and associations;
4. Calls on the JPA to continue its work on human rights and thereby contribute to the political dialogue provided for in Article 8 of the Cotonou Agreement, if appropriate by organising public hearings; calls for greater involvement of civil society in the work of the JPA and its standing committees;
5. Calls on the JPA, and in particular its Committee on Political Affairs, to strengthen its role as a forum for political dialogue, in accordance with Article 8 of the Cotonou Agreement, and the role of parliamentarians in the ACP countries, and to continue its efforts towards reinforcing parliamentary democracy in the ACP countries, particularly by identifying and sharing good practice on parliamentary scrutiny of the executive;

Thursday 6 April 2006

6. Calls for greater transparency with regard to the progress and the substance of the negotiations on the economic partnership agreements as well as delivery of substantial assistance in line with the President of the Commission, José Manuel Barroso's, commitment to provide EUR 1 billion in 'aid for trade' in Gle-neagles, and in addition for greater involvement of the JPA in the negotiations, as well as of the European Parliament, national parliaments, local government and civil society;
7. Notes that the standing committees are now working at a normal pace, that their creation in 2003 opened up new opportunities for debate and dialogue and that the ACP and European parliamentarians have thereby not only become better acquainted with each other, but have also learnt to cooperate on fundamental subjects with a view to reaching common positions during plenary sessions, wherever possible;
8. Applauds the work of the JPA Bureau and of its vice-presidents, particularly as regards the reports on human rights and on the financing of regional and sub-regional meetings (Article 17(3) of the Cotonou Agreement and Article 6 of the JPA Rules of Procedure); calls for clarification of the duties of the vice-presidents with responsibility for budgetary affairs in order to increase transparency in the use of the operating expenditure of the JPA and supervision of these funds by the Bureau;
9. Calls on the JPA to take action in response to the message of 18 April 2005 from the UN Secretary-General, Mr Kofi Annan, according to whom 'it is not in the United Nations that the Millennium Development Goals will be achieved. They have to be achieved in each of its Member States, by the joint efforts of their governments and people';
10. Emphasises that the question of sugar reform gave rise to serious concerns at the Edinburgh summit; a letter to this end from the two Co-Presidents of the JPA was sent to the Council on 23 November 2005 calling for the sugar reform to be just and fair for all;
11. Notes that the EU package of compensation and restructuring measures for the EU sugar industry exceeds EUR 7 billion and urges that the 18 ACP signatories to the Sugar Protocol, many of whose economies depend almost entirely on sugar, receive timely and substantial financial support, which must be additional to existing commitments;
12. Calls on the JPA to make the Committee on Political Affairs a genuine forum for conflict prevention and resolution within the ACP-EU partnership framework;
13. Emphasises the role played by the Committee on Social Affairs and the Environment in response to natural disasters, and hopes that the JPA can contribute to prevention and aid in the event of a natural disaster in the ACP countries;
14. Emphasises the support expressed by the Committee on Economic Development, Finance and Trade for maintaining specific development aid for ACP countries and its contribution of points for discussion on improving the future management of the EDF;
15. Underlines the importance of the personal involvement of parliamentarians within the JPA and applauds the efforts made in this direction;
16. Considers that holding the JPA session by rotation in EU Member States provides real 'added value' and calls for this rotation to be continued in the future;
17. Welcomes the participation of representatives of the European Parliament and of the JPA in the informal council of development cooperation ministers organised by the UK Presidency of the Council of the European Union in Leeds on 24 and 25 October 2005, and expresses the hope that future presidencies of the Council do the same;
18. Notes with satisfaction the decision of the Bureau of the European Parliament of 6 September 2005 to authorise the JPA to be held in Edinburgh, and hopes that the principle of holding JPAs in the country holding the EU Presidency will be perpetuated;

Thursday 6 April 2006

19. Congratulates the Presidency and the Government of Mali, the Malian authorities and various local associations for their valuable contribution to the ninth session in Bamako, particularly to the workshops on the following subjects:

- the cotton sector in Mali,
- desertification and saving the River Niger,
- negotiations on economic partnership agreements in West Africa, the Caribbean and the Pacific;

20. Welcomes the fact that the alternation between an ACP country and the country holding the EU Council Presidency will henceforth make for real equivalence between the sessions in the ACP countries and in the EU Member States;

21. Congratulates the UK Presidency and the Scottish authorities on their excellent contribution to the 10th session in Edinburgh, particularly to the workshops on the following subjects:

- meeting the MDGs on health through research and development,
- protecting the environment: ecotourism and sustainable energy,
- fishing and fish processing: EU policies and standards;

22. Welcomes the Co-Presidents' adoption of a 'catch-the-eye' session in Edinburgh, which effectively promoted open debate during plenary sessions, and calls for this practice to be continued;

23. Notes with satisfaction the growing participation of non-governmental actors at JPA sessions, with a record number of such participants attending the Edinburgh session;

24. Calls on the Austrian Presidency and the Bureau of the European Parliament to make the necessary arrangements for the organisation of the 11th session in Vienna (Austria), from 17 to 22 June 2006, and of the 12th session in Bridgetown (Barbados), from 18 to 24 November 2006;

25. Recalls that, on the basis of the decisions taken by the JPA Bureau in Edinburgh, and subject to the availability of funds, a joint ACP-EU mission will be sent to Ethiopia and Eritrea, and to Mauritania and Togo, during the first quarter of 2006;

26. Calls on the members of the JPA to take an active part in the preparations for the forthcoming authorised reports on:

- the role of regional integration in the promotion of peace and security,
- the impact of tourism on development,
- small arms and light weapons and sustainable development,
- the problem of energy in the ACP countries,
- fishing and its social and environmental aspects in developing countries,
- water in developing countries;

27. Recommends, following the conclusions of the Women's Forum in Edinburgh, that a report be drawn up on the measures to be taken to combat human trafficking as effectively as possible;

28. Emphasises that the organisation of meetings at regional or sub-regional level, pursuant to Article 17 (3) of the Cotonou Agreement, must move into an active phase of implementation; calls on the JPA to amend its Rules of Procedure and to plan meetings of this kind, based on the existing parliamentary structures within the ACP Group, these meetings being concerned primarily with regional cooperation in the context of conflict prevention and resolution and with the conclusion and implementation of economic partnership agreements;

Thursday 6 April 2006

29. Calls on the members of the JPA and the European co-secretariat to do everything they can to strengthen the role and the position of the JPA within the European Parliament;
30. Encourages all political groups to avoid the use of votes by separate houses in order to foster the sense of solidarity and cohesiveness of the JPA;
31. Calls on the members of the JPA to continue their activities in line with the progress achieved since 2004;
32. The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Joint statement by the Council and the representatives of the governments of the Member States meeting within the Council, the European Parliament and the Commission on European Union Development Policy: 'The European Consensus' ⁽¹⁾,
- having regard to the UN Convention against Corruption of 31 October 2003,
- having regard to the UN Declaration against Corruption and Bribery in International Commercial Transactions of 16 December 1996,
- having regard to the OECD Convention on Combating Bribery of Foreign Public Officials in International Business Transactions of 21 November 1997,
- having regard to the UN Millennium Declaration of 8 September 2000, which sets out the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) as objectives established jointly by the international community for the elimination of poverty,
- having regard to the Paris Declaration on Aid Effectiveness of 2 March 2005,
- having regard to the Fourth Millennium Ecosystem Assessment Report of 12 July 2005 entitled 'Ecosystems and Human Well-being: Opportunities and Challenges for Business and Industry',
- having regard to Articles 8, 9 and 97 of the Partnership Agreement between the members of the African, Caribbean and Pacific Group of States of the one part, and the European Community and its Member States, of the other part, signed in Cotonou on 23 June 2000 ⁽²⁾,

Thursday 6 April 2006

- having regard to the Declaration by the G8 Summit in Evian on Fighting Corruption and Improving Transparency of 2 June 2003,
 - having regard to the Report of the Commission for Africa of 11 March 2005 entitled 'Our Common Interest',
 - having regard to the EU strategy to combat the illicit accumulation and trafficking of small arms and light weapons (SALW) and their ammunition adopted by the European Council of 15-16 December 2005;
 - having regard to its resolution of 15 May 2003 on Capacity-building in the developing countries ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to its resolution of 31 March 2004 on Governance in the European Union's development policy ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to Rule 45 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Development (A6-0048/2006),
- A. whereas corruption hurts the poor disproportionately, restricting their access to public goods and lowering the quality of basic services, making it more difficult to escape the poverty spiral,
- B. whereas corruption has a negative impact on the business climate, the effectiveness of public service provision and the public's trust in their government,
- C. whereas corruption obstructs aid effectiveness and therefore undermines the development goals of the EU and slows down the pace of development in the EU's partner countries,
- D. whereas the World Bank estimates that more than USD 1 000 000 000 000 is paid in bribes every year throughout the world and the African Union estimates that corruption costs African economies more than 25 % of Africa's GDP annually,
- E. whereas corruption is a problem affecting society as a whole and takes many forms and a 'one size fits all' strategy does not apply, as corruption can only be permanently eliminated through a broad approach,
- F. whereas numerous players, including politicians, government officials, civil society, the media, multi-nationals and international donors, can play a role in the fight against corruption,
- G. whereas corruption is both one of the causes and one of the consequences of conflict situations,
- H. whereas corruption is a threat to basic human needs, such as access to health and education,
- I. whereas corruption is a by-product of weak governance, inextricably linked to the role of the State, and should therefore be fought by strategies promoting good governance,
- J. whereas transparency and accountability are key principles in the fight against corruption,
- K. whereas due attention should be given to the link between the illicit manufacture, transfer and circulation of SALW and corruption practices in both developing and developed countries,
- L. whereas curbing corruption is impossible without the awareness and participation of civil society and whereas access to all the information is crucial in this process,

⁽²⁾ OJ C 103 E, 29.4.2004, p. 550.

Thursday 6 April 2006

- M. whereas the 2003 UN Convention Against Corruption is the first international legal instrument to recognise the need for all States to commit to asset repatriation, and whereas the only EU Member States that have ratified this Convention are Hungary and France,
- N. whereas the 1997 OECD Convention may be signed only by OECD Member States or full participants in the OECD Working Group on Bribery in International Business Transactions;
1. Calls on the Commission to focus more specifically, in designing its development programmes, on issues of accountability and transparency, as weak accountability mechanisms tend to facilitate corruption;
 2. Stresses that increased attention should be paid to the role of civil society in fostering good governance and voluntary control of corruption;
 3. Recalls that under the amended Cotonou Partnership Agreement serious cases of corruption can lead to consultations in accordance with Articles 96 and 97 of the Agreement;
 4. Stresses the need to support national parliaments in developing countries in their work as budget authorities by means of dialogue, information-sharing and capacity-building;
 5. Stresses the important role that a free and independent media can play in the fight against corruption and calls for greater EU support for projects assisting or strengthening such media in partner countries;
 6. Stresses the need to contribute to building and strengthening the legal system in those countries;
 7. Underlines the important role played by women also in the fight against corruption and emphasises therefore the need for more and better education of women and girls and for promoting of the involvement of women in politics;
 8. Supports the 'Publish What You Pay' campaign that calls for multinationals to disclose information about payments to governments;
 9. Stresses the importance of investment in the developing countries and encourages the Commission and the Member States to assist the flow of such investment;
 10. Stresses the importance of the establishment of watchdogs by civil society in developing countries, requiring a system of checks and balances of their government; calls on the Commission to support this process by reserving an appropriate percentage of budget aid for civil society watchdogs;
 11. Considers that the internal organisation often has to change in order to tackle corruption; emphasises the need for capacity-building in central and local institutions to combat corruption, especially in the light of the increase in aid given in the form of budget aid;
 12. Stresses that the granting of budget aid must always be carefully preceded by fiduciary risk assessments on a case-by-case basis;
 13. Stresses that budget aid should always be earmarked for a specific sector;
 14. Emphasises that any budget aid that is granted should be accompanied by a policy dialogue aimed at improving Public Financial Management (PFM), reducing the risk of corruption or mismanagement of funds;
 15. Calls for more transparency in programmes for budget aid granted by the EU, including publication of the relevant information about the aid spent in the recipient country, and by involving parliaments and informing civil players in this process;

Thursday 6 April 2006

16. Calls for support for efficient budget tracking through Public Expenditure Tracking Surveys (PETS) by civil society and national parliaments which clearly measures 'inputs' against 'outputs' under the OECD's Development Assistance Committee (DAC) criteria;
17. Considers that specific social indicators should be devised for the purpose of obtaining more precise data on the quality of governance achieved by the countries in question and calls for civil society to be more extensively involved in this area;
18. Calls on the EU, as co-chair of the Public Expenditure and Financial Accountability Programme (PEFA), which provides a harmonized framework for assessing fiduciary risk in recipient countries, to include specific indicators to measure the level of corruption;
19. Calls on the Commission to use these levels of corruption as tracked to support good governance and take adequate measures against corrupt regimes;
20. Urges the Commission to consider decisions to reduce the external debt of developing countries;
21. Stresses the need for international donors closely to coordinate their activities in the field of budget aid with a view to enhancing transparency and accountability in the recipient country;
22. Urges all Member States as well as all countries signatories to the 2003 UN Convention against Corruption to ratify the Convention and the 1997 OECD Convention on Combating Bribery of Foreign Public Officials in International Business Transactions;
23. Invites the Members of the OECD to consider the possibility of admitting Cyprus, Latvia, Lithuania and Malta as full participants in the Working Group on Bribery in International Business Transactions, which would allow them to sign and ratify the 1997 OECD Convention and invites these countries, in the meantime, to seek wider participation in the Revised Recommendation of the OECD Ministerial Council of 23 May 1997 on Combating Bribery in International Business Transactions;
24. Recalls the important role of regional initiatives in curbing corruption and promoting good governance such as the African Peer Review Mechanism; underlines the need for African countries to implement these initiatives and for the Commission and the Member States to provide technical and financial assistance for this purpose;
25. Calls on Member States to promote a legally binding international instrument on the tracing and the marking of SALW and ammunition as soon as possible, as well as to support regional initiatives to combat the illicit trade in SALW and their ammunition in the developing countries;
26. Calls for further enforcement of and commitment to the 'Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative' in order to ensure the disclosure of information about payments between governments of developing countries and multinationals;
27. Calls on Member States with financial centres to take all necessary legal and administrative action to ensure that illicitly acquired funds can be repatriated to the State of origin; stresses furthermore the need for capacity-building, concentrating on preventing the theft of assets and the misuse and misappropriation of public funds;
28. Urges the Commission and the Member States to establish an international system of blacklisting to prevent banks from lending large sums of money to corrupt regimes or individuals representing a government;
29. Calls on the Commission and the Member States to ban public purchasing or procurement contracts with companies whose employees have been involved in corrupt activities with government ministers or officials or in any other way within a developing country, if those employees are not subject to disciplinary proceedings; further calls on the Member States to refer such cases to the appropriate prosecution authorities, so that such people will be investigated and brought to trial, if they have a case to answer;

Thursday 6 April 2006

30. Stresses that there are major corruption risks involved in public procurement procedures and that, consequently, transparent procurement rules and procedures should be promoted as a key priority;
31. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission.

- B. whereas the ceasefire in the region is not being respected, whereas rebels belonging to the Sudanese Liberation Army (SLA) have increased their ceasefire violations and whereas Justice and Equality Movement (JEM) rebels have said that they will ask for self-determination for the region unless a solution to the conflict can be reached soon,
- C. whereas the Government of Sudan continues to actively support the Janjaweed militia, not only by arming the gangs but also through direct participation in attacks on villages with support vehicles ⁽³⁾, and whereas there are eye-witness reports of government helicopter fire ⁽⁴⁾,
- D. whereas the African Union Mission in Sudan has been extended until 30 September 2006, after which the international presence will be directly guaranteed by the UN,
- E. whereas the Government of Sudan has said that such a UN operation would amount to colonialism and has threatened to leave the African Union if that were to happen,

⁽³⁾ As documented in the African Union Ceasefire Commission's Ceasefire Violation Report number 96/05 on the alleged GoS attack on Umm Zoor market on 16 July 2005, which concluded that the ceasefire violation was committed by the Janjaweed and Government of Sudan forces.

⁽⁴⁾ As documented in the latest report of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) on Sudan, published on 27 January 2006, pp. 10-11.

Thursday 6 April 2006

- F. whereas the AMIS mission's original mandate was to protect the AU observers that were monitoring violations of the Humanitarian Ceasefire Agreement; whereas this mandate was extended in October 2004 to permit AMIS to protect civilians it encountered 'under imminent threat and in the immediate vicinity'; whereas this mission has never had the protection of civilians at the core of its mandate,
- G. whereas the Darfur conflict — and impunity from prosecution — is increasingly affecting the stability of neighbouring eastern Chad and constitutes a threat to international peace and security,
- H. whereas the Government of Sudan prevented Jan Egeland, the UN Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator, from visiting Darfur on 3 April 2006; whereas access to Darfur for humanitarian aid and all humanitarian workers is considered to be at its lowest level in two years,
- I. whereas the UN Security Council referred the situation in Darfur to the International Criminal Court (ICC) in March 2005, following which an investigation was launched, resulting in the names of 51 potential suspects so far being given to the Court in the Hague,
- J. whereas the Government of Sudan, in an attempt to avoid Sudanese officials suspected of war crimes being sent to the ICC, has set up its own special courts in Darfur to deal with war crimes and human rights violations,
- K. whereas, to date, these special courts have not prosecuted any officials, militia members or other individuals responsible for serious human rights violations in Darfur,
- L. whereas on 6 March 2006 a group of four teenage girls was attacked outside Al Shareif camp, the aggression resulting in the death of the attacker; whereas the police referred the case of the four girls to the Prosecution Attorney on charges of murder,
- M. whereas Russia and China continue to supply arms to the Government of Sudan; whereas both countries have consistently blocked efforts by the UN Security Council to impose sanctions on Sudan in the last six months,
1. Deplores the continuation of violence and rape by all sides, and condemns the Government of Sudan's continued support for the Janjaweed militia⁽¹⁾;
 2. Urges the United Nations Security Council to meet to address the violence in Darfur, which is tantamount to genocide, and to act on its responsibility to protect civilians by drafting a clear mandate under Chapter VII of the UN Charter, on or before 1 October 2006 (following the expiry of the mandate of the African Union mission in Darfur on 30 September 2006);
 3. Calls on the UN Security Council to extend the arms embargo in Darfur throughout Sudan and support the African Union's efforts in Darfur to reach full operational capacity and to robustly interpret its mandate to protect civilians until the transition to a UN mission;
 4. Stresses that the mandate of the AMIS force has primarily been to observe violations of the humanitarian ceasefire agreement; criticises the international community for not having acted to protect civilians sooner;
 5. Calls upon EU Member States to honour the commitments they have already made to provide military observers, staff officers and civilian police to increase security in Darfur and to ensure that the current AMIS mission is adequately funded and equipped to enable it to interpret its limited mandate as broadly as possible;

⁽¹⁾ As documented in the African Union Ceasefire Commission's Ceasefire Violation Report number 96/05 (see footnote 1 to Recital C) and in the light of the assertion made on 21 March 2006 by the UN Special Envoy to Darfur, Jan Pronk, that 'AU commanders on the ground openly speak about continued support to militia by forces allied to the Government'.

Thursday 6 April 2006

6. Welcomes the decisions taken by the UN Security Council in March 2006 on a ban on offensive flights in Darfur; calls for an effectively enforced no-fly zone across Darfur;

12. Calls on the Government of Sudan to work alongside the NGO community for the benefit of its people; urges the Government to revise the Organisation of Voluntary and Humanitarian Work Act 2006 to bring it into line with international human rights standards; insists that Sudan's Humanitarian Aid Commission (HAC) facilitate the issuing of visas and travel permits to humanitarian workers and stop the harassment of international NGOs; criticises the lack of independence of the HAC from the Government of Sudan;
13. Calls on the Government of Sudan to release Ms Amouna Mohamed Ahmed (17), Ms Fayza Ismail Abaker (16), Ms Houda Ismail Abdel Rahman (17) and Ms Zahra Adam Abdela (17) while their case is investigated and considers that these girls should be given appropriate care as victims of attempted rape;
14. Criticises Russian and Chinese efforts to block UN Security Council actions over Darfur; urges the international community to exert more pressure on these countries in order to prevent these countries' economic interests in oil and arms sales from undermining efforts to bring peace to Darfur;
15. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Government of Sudan, the UN Security Council, Jan Pronk, Jan Egeland, Kofi Annan and the Heads of Government of the ACP countries.

- having regard to its resolution of 19 January 2006 on the European Neighbourhood Policy ⁽¹⁾,

Thursday 6 April 2006

- having regard to Article 11(1) of the Treaty on European Union and Article 177 of the Treaty establishing the European Community, which establish the promotion of human rights as an objective of the common foreign and security policy,

- A. whereas the promotion of respect for democracy, human rights and civil liberties is one of the fundamental principles and aims of the European Union and constitutes a common ground for the development of the Euro-Mediterranean area,
 - B. whereas the EU has defined a European Neighbourhood Policy aiming at enhancing and strengthening political dialogue and integrating partner countries into EU policies in order to promote peace, stability and democracy in neighbouring countries,
 - C. whereas the first action plans with Morocco, Tunisia, Jordan, Israel and the Palestinian National Authority adopted by the Council commit the Union and partner countries to a closer and all-encompassing dialogue and must follow a coherent and common regional approach; whereas the adoption in June 2006 of the action plan with Egypt, which is currently under negotiation is expected,
 - D. whereas it attaches great importance to relations with Egypt and considers fair and transparent elections as the established way to make progress towards a more democratic society,
