(Reference for a preliminary ruling — Article 49 TFEU — Corporation tax — Freedom of establishment — Resident company — Taxable profits — Tax relief — Deduction of losses incurred by resident permanent establishments — Authorised — Deduction of losses incurred by non-resident permanent establishments — Excluded — Exception — Optional scheme of international joint taxation)

Referring court

Østre Landsret

Parties to the main proceedings

Applicants: A/S Bevola, Jens W. Trock ApS

Defendant: Skatteministeriet

Operative part of the judgment

Article 49 TFEU must be interpreted as precluding legislation of a Member State under which it is not possible for a resident company which has not opted for an international joint taxation scheme, such as that at issue in the main proceedings, to deduct from its taxable profits losses incurred by a permanent establishment in another Member State, where, first, that company has exhausted the possibilities of deducting those losses available under the law of the Member State in which the establishment is situated and, second, it has ceased to receive any income from that establishment, so that there is no longer any possibility of the losses being taken into account in that Member State, which is for the national court to ascertain.

Language of the case: Polish

Referring court

Naczelny Sąd Administracyjny

Applicant: Minister Finansów

Defendant: Gmina Wrocław

Operative part of the judgment

Article 2(1)(a) and Article 14(2)(a) of Council Directive 2006/112/EC of 28 November 2006 on the common system of value added tax must be interpreted as meaning that a transfer of ownership of immovable property belonging to a taxable person for value added tax purposes to the Public Treasury of a Member State, carried out in accordance with the law and in return for a payment of compensation, constitutes a transaction subject to VAT in a situation, such as that at issue in the main proceedings, where the same person simultaneously represents the expropriating authority and the municipality that is the subject of the expropriation and where the latter continues the practical management of the relevant property, even if the payment of compensation has been made only by means of an internal accounting transfer within the budget of the municipality.

(Reference for a preliminary ruling — Common Fisheries Policy — Regulation (EU) No 1380/2013 — Article 11 — Conservation of marine biological resources — Protection of the environment — Conservation of natural habitats and of wild fauna and flora — Exclusive competence of the European Union)

Verwaltungsgericht Köln

Parties to the main proceedings

Defendant: Bundesrepublik Deutschland

Operative part of the judgment

1. Article 11 of Regulation (EU) No 1380/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 December 2013 on the Common Fisheries Policy, amending Council Regulations (EC) No 1954/2003 and (EC) No 1224/2009 and repealing Council Regulations (EC) No 2371/2002 and (EC) No 639/2004 and Council Decision 2004/585/EC must be interpreted as meaning that it precludes a Member State from adopting, with respect to the waters under their sovereignty or jurisdiction, the measures which are necessary in order for it to meet its obligations under Article 6 of Council Directive 92/43/EEC of 21 May 1992 on the conservation of natural habitats and of wild fauna and flora and which completely prohibit, in Natura 2000 areas, commercial fishing using gear which touches the sea bed and fixed nets, since such measures affect fishing vessels flying the flag of other Member States.
2. Article 11(1) of Regulation No 1380/2013 must be interpreted as meaning that it precludes the adoption, by a Member State, of measures such as those at issue in the main proceedings, with respect to the waters under its sovereignty or its jurisdiction, which are necessary in order for it to meet its obligations deriving from Directive 2004/35/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 21 April 2004 on environmental liability with regard to the prevention and remedying of environmental damage.

Language of the case: French

Referring court

Cour de cassation

Parties to the main proceedings

Applicant: Lubrizol France SAS

Defendant: Caisse nationale du Régime social des indépendants (RSI) participations extérieures

Operative part of the judgment

Articles 28 and 30 TFEU must be interpreted as not precluding legislation of a Member State which provides that the basis of assessment for contributions levied on the annual turnover of companies, provided that the latter reaches or exceeds a certain amount, is calculated by taking into account the representative value of the goods transferred by or on behalf of a taxable person, for the purposes of his business, from that Member State to another EU Member State, that value being taken into account from the time of that transfer, whereas, in the case where the same goods are transferred by or on behalf of the taxable person, for the purposes of his business, within the territory of the Member State concerned, their value is taken into account in that basis of assessment only at the time of their subsequent sale, on condition that:

- first, the value of those goods is not taken into account in that basis of assessment for a second time at the time of their subsequent sale in that Member State;
- secondly, their value is deducted from that basis of assessment when those goods are not intended to be sold in the other Member State or have been transferred back to the Member State of origin without having been sold, and
- thirdly, the advantages stemming from the use of those contributions do not offset in full the burden borne by the national product marketed on the national market when it is placed on the market, this being a matter for the referring court to ascertain.

(Reference for a preliminary ruling — Articles 34 and 35 TFEU — Free movement of goods — Quantitative restrictions — Measures having equivalent effect — Protection of pigs — Products processed or marketed in Spain — Quality standards for meat, ham, shoulder ham and loin derived from Iberian pigs — Conditions for using the ‘de cebo’ designation — Improvement of the quality of products — Directive 2008/120/EC — Scope)

Tribunal Supremo

Parties to the main proceedings

Applicant: Asociación Nacional de Productores de Ganado Porcino

Defendant: Administración del Estado

Operative part of the judgment

1. Articles 34 and 35 TFEU must be interpreted as follows:

- Article 34 TFEU does not preclude national legislation, such as that at issue in the main proceedings, which provides that the sales designation 'ibérico de cebo' may be granted only to products that comply with certain conditions imposed by that legislation, since that legislation permits the importation and marketing of products from Member States other than the State that adopted the legislation at issue, under the designations they bear pursuant to the rules of the Member State of origin, even if they are similar, comparable or identical to the designations provided for in the national legislation at issue in the main proceedings.
- Article 35 TFEU does not preclude national legislation such as that at issue in the main proceedings.

2. Article 3(1)(a) of Council Directive 2008/120/EC of 18 December 2008 laying down minimum standards for the protection of pigs, read in conjunction with Article 12 of that directive, must be interpreted as not precluding national legislation, such as that at issue in the main proceedings, providing that the use of certain sales designations for Iberian pig products processed or marketed in Spain is subject to producers complying with conditions for the rearing of Iberian pigs that are more stringent than those laid down in Article 3(1)(a) as well as a condition imposing a minimum slaughter age of 10 months.

2. (a) Is the determination of the time at which communication to the debtor took place, in the context of the application of Article 221(3) of Regulation (EEC) No 2913/92, a question of EU law?

1. Can a Turkish national who is duly registered as belonging to the labour force of a Member State, has obtained the nationality of that Member State without renouncing his Turkish nationality and subsequently voluntarily renounced the nationality of that Member State and thus Union citizenship rely on Article 6 of Decision 3/80 <sup>(1)</sup> to avoid the residence requirement under the TW? <sup>(2)</sup>
2. If so, at what point must that Turkish national satisfy the requirement that he is not a Union citizen in order to derive rights from Article 6 of Decision 3/80: right from the time he leaves the host Member State or only later, when the benefit to be exported is payable in the foreign country?
3. Is Article 6(1) of Decision 3/80 to be construed as meaning that a Turkish national who still held the nationality of a Member State at the time of remigration to Turkey but later voluntarily renounced that nationality, from that latter point onwards may not be denied the right to a special benefit not based on non-contributory payments designed to guarantee an income to the amount of the guaranteed minimum income in the Member State concerned, solely because he is resident in Turkey, even if, until the time of departure from the Member State concerned, he was not eligible for that special benefit since the award conditions had not then be satisfied?

1. Given the circumstances in the case under consideration, does the in-house transaction come within the scope of application of Directive 2004/18<sup>(1)</sup> or of Directive 2014/24,<sup>(2)</sup> when the procedures for the conclusion of the disputed in-house transaction, inter alia, the administrative procedures, were initiated at a time when Directive 2004/18 was still in force but the contract itself was concluded on 19 May 2016, when Directive 2004/18 was no longer in force?

2. Assuming that the in-house transaction comes within the scope of application of Directive 2004/18:
- a) Must Article 1(2)(a) of the Directive (but not limited thereto), taking into account the judgments of the Court of Justice in Teckal (C-107/98), Jean Auroux and Others (C-220/05), ANAV (C-410/04), and other cases, be understood and interpreted as meaning that the notion of an 'in-house transaction' comes within the scope of EU law, and that the content and application of that notion are not affected by the national law of Member States, inter alia, by limitations on the conclusion of such transactions, for example, the condition that public procurement contracts cannot ensure the quality, availability and continuity of the services to be provided?
  - b) If the answer to the previous question is in the negative, that is to say, the notion of an 'in-house transaction' comes, either partially or fully, within the scope of the law of the Member States, should the abovementioned provision of Directive 2004/18 be interpreted as meaning that Member States have a discretion to establish limitations or additional conditions for the conclusion of in-house transactions (in comparison with EU law and the case-law of the Court of Justice interpreting that law) but can implement that discretion only by means of specific and clear positive legal provisions governing public procurement?
3. On the assumption that the in-house transaction comes within the scope of application of Directive 2014/24:
- a) Must the provisions of Article 1(4) and Article 12 of the Directive and those of Article 36 of the Charter, either together or separately (but not limited thereto), taking into account the judgments of the Court of Justice in Teckal (C-107/98), Jean Auroux and Others (C-220/05), ANAV (C-410/04), and other cases, be understood and interpreted as meaning that the notion of an 'in-house transaction' comes within the scope of EU law, and that the content and application of that notion are not affected by the national law of Member States, inter alia, by limitations on the conclusion of such transactions, for example, the condition that public procurement contracts cannot ensure the quality, availability and continuity of the services to be provided?
  - b) If the answer to the previous question is in the negative, that is to say, the notion of an 'in-house transaction', either partially or fully, comes within the scope of the law of the Member States, should the provisions of Article 12 of Directive 2014/24 be interpreted as meaning that Member States have a discretion to establish limitations or additional conditions for the conclusion of in-house transactions (in comparison with EU law and the case-law of the Court of Justice interpreting that law) but can implement that discretion only by means of specific and clear positive legal provisions governing public procurement?
4. Irrespective of which directive covers the disputed in-house transaction, should the principles of the equality and non-discrimination of public procurement suppliers and transparency (Article 2 of Directive 2004/18 and Article 18 of Directive 2014/24), the general prohibition of discrimination on grounds of nationality (Article 18 TFEU), the freedom of establishment (Article 49 TFEU), the freedom to provide services (Article 56 TFEU), the possibility of granting undertakings exclusive rights (Article 106 TFEU), and the case-law of the Court of Justice (judgments in Teckal, ANAV, Sea, Undis Servizi, and in other cases) be understood and interpreted as meaning that an in-house transaction being concluded by a contracting authority and by an entity legally separate from that contracting authority, where the contracting authority exercises control over that entity similar to that which it exercises over its own departments and the activity of that entity consists mainly of an activity carried out for the benefit of the contracting authority, is in itself lawful, inter alia, does not infringe the right of other economic operators to fair competition, does not discriminate against those other operators, and no privileges are conferred on the controlled entity which concluded the in-house transaction?

2. Does the assumption that, on the basis of a reasonable commercial decision, buses are no longer of major importance for the value of the business in the case of a temporary award of services owing to their age and more stringent technical requirements (emission values, low-floor vehicles) provide justification for the Court of Justice of the European Union to derogate from its decision of 25 January 2001 (C-172/99) to the effect that, under such circumstances, the taking over of a significant proportion of the staff can also result in Directive 77/187/EEC being applicable?

2. If not, is it sufficient for those resources to be at the disposal of a third-country national, without any requirement regarding the origin of those resources being imposed, so that those resources can be made available to the third-country national also by a family member or by another third-country national?

1. Having regard to the aim of ensuring food safety established in Regulation (EC) No 178/2002<sup>(1)</sup> (which is achieved, amongst other means, by ensuring food traceability), should Article 168(a) of Directive [2006/112/EC]<sup>(2)</sup> be interpreted as not precluding a refusal to allow deduction of input tax where the taxable person involved in the food chain, in choosing his co-contractor, has failed to demonstrate greater diligence (beyond normal commercial practice) entailing, in essence, a requirement to carry out checks on his co-contractor, but where he has at the same time verified the quality of the foodstuffs, thus meeting the aim of Regulation (EC) No 178/2002?
2. Does the requirement in Article 6 of Regulation No 852/2004<sup>(3)</sup> and in Article 31 of Regulation No 882/2004<sup>(4)</sup> concerning regulation of a food business, as interpreted in the light of Article 168(a) of Directive 2006/112/EC, require a party that contracts with that business to check that the business is registered, and is that check relevant for the purposes of determining whether that party knew or should have known that it was taking part in a transaction with a fictitious undertaking, having regard to the particular characteristics of the transaction in question?

1. Is Article 4(2) of Regulation No 1889/2005<sup>(1)</sup> of the European Parliament and of the Council to be interpreted as meaning that it permits national legislation which, in the case of a sum of money which, having been carried across the external border of the European Union, has not been duly declared and has been seized, provides for the automatic confiscation of that sum on the sole ground of the failure to declare it, even though confiscation is not necessary for the purposes of establishing the origin of that sum?

2. Is Article 9(1) of Regulation No 1889/2005 of the European Parliament and of the Council to be interpreted as meaning that it permits national legislation which, for the offence referred to in the first question, provides not only for the penalty of a term of imprisonment of up to five years or a fine in the amount of one fifth of the value of the object of the criminal offence but also for mandatory confiscation of the object of the criminal offence without consideration of the origin of the undeclared sum?

Questions referred

1. Is Article 4(2) of Regulation No 1889/2005 <sup>(1)</sup> of the European Parliament and of the Council, according to which an undeclared sum of money may be detained in accordance with national law, to be interpreted as meaning that it permits the automatic confiscation of that sum as a consequence of non-declaration, without any review as to the origin of the sum in question, or is it to be interpreted as meaning that it permits only the temporary seizure of that sum until such time as its origin is reviewed by the competent national authority? Is Article 251(2) of the Nakazatelen kodeks (Criminal Code) (NK) consistent with the possibility provided for in Article 4(2) of that regulation?
2. Depending on the answer to the first question, is Article 9(1) of Regulation No 1889/2005 of the European Parliament and of the Council to be interpreted as meaning that it does not permit national legislation which, for failure to comply with the obligation to declare laid down in Article 3 of that regulation, provides for the cumulative imposition of the penalties of a term of imprisonment or a fine and confiscation of the undeclared sum without any review as to the origin of that sum? Is the simultaneous application of Article 251(1) of the NK and Article 251(2) of the NK — that is to say, imposition of the penalty provided for in Article 251(1) of the NK and confiscation, on conviction, of the contested sum that is the object of the criminal offence under Article 251(1) of the NK, in accordance with the obligation under article 251(2) of the NK — in conformity with Article 9(1) of Regulation No 1889/2005, which, for failure to comply with the obligation to declare laid down in Article 3 of that regulation, calls for penalties which are effective, dissuasive and proportionate to the offence and to the risk to society which the latter poses?

(Case C-342/18 P)

(2018/C 276/33)

Language of the case: Polish

Parties

Appellant: Polskie Górnictwo Naftowe i Gazownictwo S.A. (represented by: M. Jeżewski, adwokat)

Other party to the proceedings: European Commission

Form of order sought

The appellant claims that the Court should:

- set aside the order under appeal of the General Court of the European Union of 15 March 2018 dismissing as inadmissible the action brought by Polskie Górnictwo Naftowe i Gazownictwo S.A. in Case T-130/17;
- give a ruling on the admissibility of the action brought by Polskie Górnictwo Naftowe i Gazownictwo S.A. in Case T-130/17 concerning an application under Article 263 TFEU for the annulment of Commission Decision C(2016) 6950 final of 28 October 2016 on review of the exemption of the OPAL gas pipeline from the requirements on third party access and tariff regulation granted under Directive 2003/55/EC, <sup>(1)</sup> and declare that action admissible;
- refer the case back to the General Court so that it may examine the substance of the action.

Grounds of appeal and main arguments

- (1) The General Court misinterpreted Article 263 TFEU by taking the view that the appellant is not directly concerned by the European Commission's decision.

In the context of the present ground of appeal, the appellant submits that the General Court's assessment, finding that the appellant is not directly concerned by the European Commission's decision, is incorrect. The approach taken by the General Court is not consistent with the existing case-law indicating that a decision of the European Commission is of direct concern to persons other than the national regulatory authority which is the addressee of that decision. In particular, the appellant indicates that the German regulatory authority clearly intended to give regulatory clearance.

- (2) The General Court misinterpreted Article 263 TFEU by taking the view that the appellant is not individually concerned by the European Commission's decision.

In this context, the appellant submits that its situation enables individualisation within the meaning of the case-law concerning the admissibility of actions. The appellant, on account of its market position, is individually concerned by the contested decision. That decision also concerns the appellant because of the situation regarding ownership of the Jamał pipeline competing with the OPAL pipeline (which constitutes a continuation of the NordStream pipeline), and also has an impact on the appellant's situation as an entity required to guarantee the security of gas supply.

- (3) The General Court misinterpreted the final limb of the fourth paragraph of Article 263 TFEU by finding that the contested decision is not a regulatory act.

In the present ground of appeal, the appellant submits that the decision is a regulatory act, and that the General Court's assessment is incorrect in that regard.

Appeal brought on 1 June 2018 by the Republic of Poland against the judgment of the General Court (Ninth Chamber) delivered on 15 March 2018 in Case T-507/15, Republic of Poland v Commission

(2018/C 276/34)

Language of the case: Polish

Parties

Appellant: Republic of Poland (represented by: B. Majczyna, acting as Agent)

Other party to the proceedings: European Commission

Form of order sought

The appellant claims that the Court should:

- set aside the judgment of the General Court of the European Union of 15 March 2018 in Case T-507/15, Republic of Poland v Commission, in so far as the following pleas in law, raised in the action seeking annulment of Commission Implementing Decision (EU) 2015/1119 of 22 June 2015 excluding from European Union financing certain expenditure incurred by the Member States under the European Agricultural Guarantee Fund (EAGF) and under the European Agricultural Fund for Rural Development (EAFRD) (notified under document C(2015) 4076), (<sup>1</sup>) were rejected in that judgment:
  - (a) the second part of the first plea in law, relating to the effectiveness of on-the-spot controls in regard to pre-recognised producer groups, and
  - (b) the second part of the second plea in law, relating to the assessment of the risk of loss to the Fund and the level of the flat-rate correction applied in relation to expenditure incurred in the context of the measure 'Fruit and Vegetables — Pre-recognised Producer Groups';
- annul Commission Implementing Decision (EU) 2015/1119 of 22 June 2015 excluding from European Union financing certain expenditure incurred by the Member States under the European Agricultural Guarantee Fund (EAGF) and under the European Agricultural Fund for Rural Development (EAFRD) (notified under document C(2015) 4076), in so far as it excludes from European Union financing the amount of EUR 55 375 053,74 in expenditure incurred by the payment agency accredited by the Republic of Poland;
- order the European Commission to pay the costs, both at first instance and on appeal.

Grounds of appeal and main arguments

In the judgment under appeal the General Court dismissed the Republic of Poland's action for annulment of the European Commission's decision excluding from European Union financing the amounts of EUR 142 446,05 and EUR 55 375 053,74 in expenditure incurred by the payment agency accredited by the Republic of Poland in the context of the measures 'Fruit and Vegetables — Operational Programmes', and 'Fruit and Vegetables — Pre-recognised Producer Groups', respectively.

The Commission accused the Republic of Poland of three infringements in connection with its spending on the measures referred to above. Those infringements concerned, first, on-the-spot controls regarding the fulfilment by producer organisations of the criteria for recognition (in terms of the number of controls), second, on-the-spot controls preceding the grant of pre-recognition to producer groups or recognition to producer organisations, and, third, support paid to producer organisations towards seed costs in the context of operational programmes.

The second of the infringements referred to above was based on the fact that, according to the Commission, the Polish authorities did not verify, before granting pre-recognition to producer groups and before granting recognition to producer organisations, the minimum required value of marketed production, namely the fundamental criterion for recognition. In the Commission's view, the on-the-spot controls carried out by the Polish authorities in that regard were ineffective. The Commission considered those controls to be key controls, and the finding by the Commission of infringement was the basis for its imposition of a flat-rate correction of 10 % on expenditure in connection with both the measure 'Fruit and Vegetables — Operational Programmes' and the measure 'Fruit and Vegetables — Pre-recognised Producer Groups'.

The Republic of Poland raises the following grounds against the judgment under appeal:

1. Manifest distortion of the facts through:

- relating findings pertaining to irregularities in controls of producer organisations preceding their recognition to controls of producer groups preceding pre-recognition;
- finding that the controls of producer groups preceding pre-recognition were ineffective, despite the Commission's position of 1 March 2011 confirming the effectiveness of those controls.

In this ground of appeal, the Republic of Poland submits, first, that the General Court improperly related findings pertaining to irregularities in controls of producer organisations — namely Vegapol and Zrzeszenie Plantatorów Owoców i Warzyw in Łowicz — preceding their recognition to the assessment of the effectiveness of controls of producer groups preceding their pre-recognition. Furthermore, the Republic of Poland submits that the General Court manifestly distorted the facts relating to the contradictions alleged by the Republic of Poland between the Commission's letter of 1 March 2011, confirming the effectiveness of the controls carried out by the Polish authorities preceding the grant of pre-recognition to producer groups, and the letter of 24 February 2014, in which the Commission accuses the Republic of Poland of infringement in that regard. Those distortions led the General Court to draw wholly incorrect conclusions regarding the ineffectiveness of the controls of producer groups preceding the grant of pre-recognition to those groups.

2. Breach of the right to effective judicial review regarding the level of the flat-rate correction applied by the Commission.

In connection with this ground of appeal, the Republic of Poland submits that the General Court failed to carry out a judicial review as to the correctness of the determination by the Commission of the level of the flat-rate correction for the measure 'Fruit and Vegetables — Pre-recognised Producer Groups'. In particular, the Republic of Poland submits that the General Court restricted its review exclusively to ascertaining whether the controls at issue were key controls within the meaning of the Guidelines of 23 December 1997 for the calculation of financial consequences when preparing the decision regarding the clearance of the accounts of the EAGGF Guarantee (document VI/5330/97). However, the General Court did not examine all of the other elements which the Commission should have taken into consideration when calculating the risk of loss to the EU budget and setting the level of the flat-rate correction.

3. Insufficient statement of reasons for the judgment under appeal, in so far as the General Court found that the Commission:

- had provided prima facie evidence of the existence of irregularities in the controls of producer groups preceding pre-recognition; and
- had applied the correct level of flat-rate correction.

In the context of this ground of appeal, the Republic of Poland submits that there was a failure to state reasons in the judgment under appeal in so far as the General Court found, first, that the controls of producer groups preceding the grant of pre-recognition to those groups were ineffective and, second, that the flat-rate financial correction of 10 % in relation to the measure 'Fruit and Vegetables — Pre-recognised Producer Groups' was applied correctly.

1. Can an EU trade mark or a national trade mark registered in a Member State be declared wholly or partially invalid on the ground that some or all of the terms in the specification of goods and services are lacking in sufficient clarity and precision to enable the competent authorities and third parties to determine on the basis of those terms alone the extent of the protection conferred by the trade mark?
2. If the answer to question (1) is yes, is a term such as ‘computer software’ too general and covers goods which are too variable to be compatible with the trade mark’s function as an indication of origin for that term to be sufficiently clear and precise to enable the competent authorities and third parties to determine on the basis of that term alone the extent of the protection conferred by the trade mark?
3. Can it constitute bad faith simply to apply to register a trade mark without any intention to use it in relation to the specified goods or services?
4. If the answer to question (3) is yes, is it possible to conclude that the applicant made the application partly in good faith and partly in bad faith if and to the extent that the applicant had an intention to use the trade mark in relation to some of the specified goods or services, but no intention to use the trade mark in relation to other specified goods or services?

Action brought on 23 April 2018 — Brunke v Commission

(Case T-258/18)

(2018/C 276/80)

Language of the case: German

Parties

Applicant: Lothar Brunke (Berlin, Germany) (represented by: A. Schniebel, lawyer)

Defendant: European Commission

Forms of order sought

The applicant claims that the Court should:

- establish the discriminatory effect of Directive 2005/36/EC as regards the possibilities of practising as a doctor without a specialist medical qualification;

- in the alternative, oblige the defendant, by a decision in favour of the applicant, having regard to the interpretation of the law given by the General Court, to allow him, within a reasonable period, to be admitted to the specialist medical profession as a specialist doctor for natural therapy in recognition of his many years of medical experience in private practice in that area and his parallel occupational training;
- in the alternative, declare that the Commission has failed to fulfil its obligations under the FEU Treaty by not adopting a decision on the basis of the applicant's complaints of 6 June 2017 and of 27 December 2017.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant claims that Directive 2005/36/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council <sup>(1)</sup> prevents him from pursuing a medical profession in Europe, since, for the applicant, the absence of an exemption for non-specialist doctors has the result that the applicant is de facto prohibited from carrying on his profession. In that regard, the applicant alleges that the Commission has failed to examine the existence of that discrimination.

Action brought on 22 May 2018 — Mediaservis v Commission

(Case T-316/18)

(2018/C 276/81)

Language of the case: English

Parties

Applicant: Mediaservis s. r. o. (Prague, Czech Republic) (represented by: D. Vosol and C. Schneider, lawyers)

Defendant: European Commission

Form of order sought

- annul Commission decision C(2018) 753 final of 19 February 2018 not to raise objections against State aid for Czech Post for the provision of the universal postal service over the period 2013-2017;
- order the Commission to pay the costs of the proceedings.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on five pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging the infringement of Article 108(2) and (3) TFEU.

- The Commission decided not to initiate the procedure provided for in Article 108(2) TFEU, even though it experienced serious difficulties in its assessment of the compatibility of the State aid with the common market.

2. Second plea in law, alleging an insufficient and incomplete examination of the case and failure of the Commission to examine all the facts and points of law brought to its notice by persons, undertakings and associations whose interests may be affected by the granting of the aid and a violation of the duty to state reasons.

- The Commission did not examine all issues raised in the applicant's complaint. Instead, the Commission superficially held that the calculation of net cost was based on an appropriate accounting separation between the cost for the universal service and other costs.
  - The Commission violated its duty to state reasons in that regard.
3. Third plea in law, alleging a manifest error of assessment regarding the calculation of the net cost and the verification of the absence of over-compensation.
- The Commission came to the wrongful conclusion that the costs Česká pošta incurred inside and outside the scope of the universal service had been allocated in line with paragraph 31 of the 2012 SGEI Framework.<sup>(1)</sup>
  - The Commission based its decision insofar on a manifestly unrealistic counterfactual scenario.
  - The counterfactual scenario accepted by the Commission did not take into account that the Czech Postal Act requires that prices should include all costs incurred.
  - The calculation of the net cost occurred in violation of paragraph 32 of the 2012 SGEI Framework, since it did not take into account relevant sources of income, even if linked to other activities than SGEI.
4. Fourth plea in law, alleging a manifest error in law regarding the application of paragraph 25 of the 2012 SGEI Framework in conjunction with Annex I Part B of the Postal Directive.<sup>(2)</sup>
- Although paragraph 25 of the 2012 SGEI Framework and Annex I Part B of the Postal Directive require the net cost calculation to assess the benefits, including intangible benefits as far as possible, to the SGEI provider (to take into account any intangible and market benefits which accrue to the universal service provider), the Commission decision, Annex A.1, dealt only with intangible benefits.
5. Fifth plea in law, alleging a violation of paragraph 51 et seq. of the 2012 SGEI Framework and a violation of the duty to state reasons.
- Due to the market behaviour of Česká pošta which aims at driving competitors from the market, the Commission would have been obliged to impose additional requirements necessary to ensure that the development of trade is not affected to an extent contrary to the interests of the Union within the meaning of paragraph 51 et seq. of the 2012 SGEI Framework, but failed to do so.
  - Even if not under such an obligation, the Commission would have been obliged, against the background of the market share and the market behaviour of Česká pošta, to state concrete reasons why such additional requirements had not been necessary, but it failed to do so.

Action brought on 22 May 2018 — Amazon EU and Amazon.com v Commission*(Case T-318/18)

(2018/C 276/82)

*Language of the case: EnglishParties

Applicants: Amazon EU Sàrl (Luxembourg, Luxembourg) and Amazon.com, Inc. (Seattle, Washington, United States) (represented by: D. Paemen, M. Petite and A. Tombiński, lawyers)

Defendant: European Commission

Form of order sought

- annul Articles 1 to 4 of the European Commission's decision of 4 October 2017 on State aid SA.38944 (2014/C) (ex 2014/NN) implemented by Luxembourg to Amazon, which finds that Luxembourg granted LuxOpCo illegal State aid over the period of May 2006 — June 2014 by virtue of a tax ruling granted in 2003 <sup>(1)</sup>;
- in the alternative, annul Articles 2 to 4 of the decision; and
- in any event, order the Commission to bear the costs.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on nine pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging that the decision violates Article 107(1) TFEU because the decision fails to establish the existence of an advantage benefitting the applicants in view of the comparables adduced by the applicants
  - the decision improperly ignores direct evidence showing that the royalty LuxOpCo actually paid for the Intangibles over the relevant period was at arm's length, and that therefore the 2003 ATC did not confer an actual advantage on LuxOpCo in the form of a reduced tax base.
2. Second plea in law, alleging that the decision violates Article 107(1) TFEU because the decision's finding of an advantage is based on an erroneous analysis of the functions of LuxOpCo and Amazon European Holding Technologies S.C.S.
  - the decision's analysis of the functions performed by Amazon European Holding Technologies S.C.S. ('LuxSCS') and LuxOpCo is vitiated by a series of fundamental errors of law and fact. These errors invalidate the decision's application of the transactional net margin method and the resulting primary finding of advantage.
3. Third plea in law, alleging that the decision violates Article 41 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU and the principle of sound administration because the decision's finding of an advantage fails to consider all of the evidence.
  - the decision does not examine the evidence on file with the required level of care and impartiality.
4. Fourth plea in law, alleging that the decision violates Article 107(1) TFEU and the duty to state reasons because the decision's finding of an advantage is premised on a royalty that violates the arm's length principle.
  - the decision's finding of an advantage implies that LuxOpCo should have paid a transfer price that manifestly deviates from the arm's length principle and is therefore unfounded.

5. Fifth plea in law, alleging that the decision violates Article 107(1) TFEU because the decision fails to show an advantage under the subsidiary line of reasoning.
  - The decision's subsidiary finding that the 2003 ATC conferred an economic advantage on LuxOpCo because it was based on three inappropriate methodological choices relies on a mischaracterisation of LuxOpCo's and LuxSCS' respective roles and is unfounded.
6. Sixth plea in law, alleging that the decision violates Article 107(1) TFEU because the decision mischaracterises the 2003 ATC as an ad hoc individual measure and as a result wrongly relies on a presumption of selectivity.
  - based on a mischaracterisation of the 2003 ATC as an ad hoc individual measure, the decision under its primary finding of selectivity erroneously applies a presumption of selectivity to find that the 2003 ATC is selective in nature.
7. Seventh plea in law, alleging that the decision violates Article 107(1) TFEU and the principle of legal certainty because the decision's selectivity analysis relies on a flawed reference framework.
  - under its subsidiary findings of selectivity, the decision improperly excludes Luxembourg's general administrative practice concerning transfer pricing from the reference framework, in violation of the applicable case law.
8. Eighth plea in law, alleging that the decision violates the principles of legal certainty, retroactivity, and non-discrimination, and an essential procedural requirement because it assesses the validity of the 2003 ATC by reference to post-dating OECD Guidelines.
  - the decision retroactively and discriminatorily applies, and improperly holds the applicants and Luxembourg to, standards in the 2017 OECD Guidelines on transfer pricing first issued after the Commission opened the procedure under Article 108(2) TFEU, and long after the adoption of the 2003 ATC.
9. Ninth plea in law, alleging that the decision violates Article 17 of Regulation 2015/1589 <sup>(2)</sup> because the decision orders the recovery of aid even though the applicable limitation period had already expired.
  - the decision's recovery order is unlawful because the ten-year limitation period provided for in Article 17 of Regulation 2015/1589 has expired.

Action brought on 18 June 2018 — Napolitano v Commission

(Case T-369/18)

(2018/C 276/89)

Language of the case: Italian

Parties

Applicant: John Napolitano (Rome, Italy) (represented by: M. Velardo, lawyer)

Defendant: European Commission

Form of order sought

The applicant claims that the Court should:

- annul the contested decisions;
- order the Commission to pay the costs.

Pleas in law and main arguments

The contested decisions in the present action are the decision of 27 September 2017 not to include the applicant on the reserve list for the competition EPSC/AD/324/16, the decision dated 25 October 2017 by which the request for review of the decision not to include him on the reserve list was refused, and the decision of the appointing authority of 7 March 2018 dismissing the administrative appeal brought under Article 90 of the Staff Regulations. The competition notice that is the subject of these proceedings concerned the selection of 10 senior investigators at level AD 9 to include on the reserve list on which the European Commission (principally the European Anti-fraud Office — OLAF) was to draw for the recruitment of new administrative officials to manage a group of investigators in the fields of EU expenditure, the fight against corruption, serious irregularities of EU staff, customs and trade, tobacco and counterfeit goods.

In support of the action, the applicant relies on five pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging infringement of the provisions governing the languages to be used by the European Institutions, particularly Articles 1, 2 and 6 of Regulation No 1/58, of the prohibition of discrimination with regards to language, of the principle of proportionality under Article 5 TFEU, and of Article 27 of the Staff Regulations.
2. Second plea in law, alleging infringement of the duty of impartiality by the Chairman of the Examining Board and of Article 3 of Annex III to the Staff Regulations.
3. Third plea in law, alleging infringement of the competition notice by the Examining Board, in so far as, first, in counting the points obtained in the multiple choice test and in the test on general competencies, that Board acted unlawfully by conflating two separate concepts (namely 'minimum score required' and 'eliminary') and, second, when assigning the case-study relating to the general test, it chose subjects that were too specific and gave an advantage to those who already had experience at the European Anti-fraud Office.
4. Fourth plea in law, alleging infringement of the principle of equality between candidates, as well as a lack of objectivity in the evaluations owing to the instability of the Examining Board.
5. Fifth plea in law, alleging an error of assessment, in the light of the large discrepancy between the individual discretionary appraisals of the Examining Board. Moreover, it is not clear from reading the general provisions that the tests were to be considered entirely separately.

Action brought on 18 June 2018 — Reiner Stemme Utility Air Systems/EASA

(Case T-371/18)

(2018/C 276/90)

Language of the case: English

Parties

Applicant: Reiner Stemme Utility Air Systems GmbH (Wildau, Germany) (represented by: O. Alexander and P. Stompfe, lawyers)

Defendant: European Aviation Safety Agency (EASA)

Form of order sought

The applicant claims that the Court should:

- declare the notification of charges — invoice No 90091554 dated 28 April 2017 issued by the defendant — in the form of the Decision of the EASA Board of Appeal dated 19 April 2018 to be null and void;
- declare Commission Regulation (EU) No 319/2014 <sup>(1)</sup> of 27 March 2014 on the fees and charges levied by the European Aviation Safety Agency to be inapplicable in the present case;
- suspend the application of invoice No 90091554 dated 28 April 2017 until the Court has rendered its decision; and
- order the defendant to pay the costs of the proceedings.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on four pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging that the Commission exceeded its competence in levying taxes in the area of air safety

The applicant puts forward that 'fees' for airplanes in the category of 2 000 — 5 700 kg would elevate to be taxes, due to the 'dramatic jump' of the 'flat fee' of more than 1 700 percent. In this particular case, the defendant's service for the citizen in return for the 'fees' would be so negligible (minimal), that one could not consider the defendant's service as a return, but it would constitute taxation.

However, the Commission would have no competence to levy taxes in the field of air safety. Therefore, Commission Regulation (EU) No 319/2014 prescribing a flat fee in the amount of EUR 263 800 for certification tasks for airplanes such as the applicant's, which is allegedly largely unrelated to the actual tasks performed by the defendant and, thus, would not constitute consideration for the defendant's services rendered, would violate the principle of conferral.

2. Second plea in law, alleging that the contested invoice as confirmed by the contested decision, constitutes a violation of Article 16 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union

Pursuant to the applicant, the fees it charged based on Regulation (EU) No 319/2014 for the given certification task would be out of proportion to the objective pursued and, thus, in violation with the applicant's freedom to conduct business in accordance with Article 16 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union.

3. Third plea in law, alleging that the contested invoice as confirmed by the contested decision, constitutes a discriminatory treatment and hence, is in violation of Article 20 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union

The contested invoice issued by the defendant pursuant to Regulation (EU) No 319/2014 would not meet the requirements of Article 20 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, since the applicant would be treated differently compared to other aircraft manufactures seeking a type certification, although the situation requires the same treatment.

4. Fourth plea in law, alleging an infringement of Article 13(2) TEU

Finally, the applicant claims that Article 7(2) of Regulation (EU) No 319/2014 would not leave any discretion to the defendant concerning the payment of fees for the certification task. Rather, it would determine when the fee to be paid shall be a flat fee or a variable fee. By that, the Commission would have exceeded its authorisation to adopt the regulation, and thus violated the institutional balance of the Union set out in Article 13(2) TEU.
