

MINUTES OF PROCEEDINGS OF THE SITTING OF THURSDAY, 14 SEPTEMBER 1989

(89/C 256/04)

PART I

Proceedings of the sitting

IN THE CHAIR: MR BARON CRESPO

President

(The sitting was opened at 10 a.m.)

1. Approval of minutes

The following spoke:

— Mr Pannella, who pointed out that he was still being described repeatedly in the annex containing the results of roll-call votes as a member of the Liberal Group whereas he was now a non-attached member and who then asked for the approval of the minutes to be postponed as the document was yet available in certain languages;

The President replied that in the first instance the necessary arrangements would be made to correct this mistake and in the second instance that the minutes had been distributed in all languages.

— Mr Balfe, who referred to Rule 110 and protested against the fact that his appointment as a full member of the Political Affairs Committee's Subcommittee on Human Rights had been revoked in favour of Mrs Ewing, a member of the Rainbow Group. He asked for this matter to be referred to the Bureau (the President pointed out that this was an internal matter for the Socialist Group);

— Mr Vandemeulebroucke, who assured Mr Balfe, on behalf of the Rainbow Group, that his group was more than willing to discuss the matter with the Socialist Group in order to find a solution;

— Mr Cot, Chairman of the Socialist Group, who pointed out that this was an internal matter for the Socialist Group and that it would be settled within the group in collaboration with the Rainbow Group;

— Mr Fitzgerald, who congratulated the President of the sitting on his conduct of Question Time the previous day;

— Mr Pannella, who asked for a reference to be made in the minutes to the President's replies to the objections raised during voting time (Part I, Items 12, 13 and 17) concerning the President's decision to put several amendments to the vote en bloc despite opposition, these replied being: firstly that the Rules of Procedure did not exclude the possibility of putting amendments to the vote en bloc and secondly that any objections to block votes must be raised by a political group;

— Mr Balfe, who referred back to his previous comments and asked for his request to be referred to the Bureau as a matter of a member's individual rights.

The minutes of the previous sitting were approved.

2. Request for the waiver of a Member's parliamentary immunity

The President announced that he had received from the competent French authorities two requests for the waiver of Mr Le Pen's parliamentary immunity.

These requests had been referred to the committee responsible, i.e. the Committee on the Rules of Procedure, the Verification of Credentials and Immunities, in accordance with Rule 5.

'We are all deeply affected by this murder which has come at a time when a new process of reconciliation, which was to lead to the independence of Namibia and to free elections, was just beginning. In addition to condemning this act and expressing our shock, we must hope that those responsible for maintaining order and ensuring that the agreements concluded will be honoured will do everything in their power to see this process through. ## RESOLUTION

on the situation of Bulgarians of Turkish origin

The European Parliament,

- A. deeply disturbed at the reports concerning the treatment in Bulgaria of ethnic Turks who have Bulgarian nationality; the Bulgarian authorities having shown their intention, among other things, to deprive the Turks of the symbols of their ethnic origins, for example the right to speak Turkish, to have a Turkish name, to attend a Turkish school and to practise their religion,
  - B. whereas the infringement of basic human rights has led to violent disturbances and demonstrations in which human lives have been lost and which have caused well over 300 000 refugees to cross the border to Turkey,
  - C. noting with indignation the flagrant violation of the fundamental principles of human rights on the part of the Bulgarian authorities, in total disregard for the closing document of Vienna and the document on cooperation in the humanitarian and other fields,
  - D. noting that the Turkish authorities have felt obliged to reimpose from 22 August 1989 the visa requirement for Bulgarian citizens which had been waived since 30 May,
1. Reminds the Bulgarian authorities of the obligations deriving from current international treaties and agreements and those laid down under the CSCE process in relation to protection of human rights and the treatment of minorities;

  4. Calls for the unsatisfactory treatment of the Turkish minority in Bulgaria to be halted;

6. Calls on the Bulgarian Government to seek satisfactory solutions to this problem as a matter of urgency, showing a constructive spirit and a willingness to open a dialogue with Turkey, and, proceeding on that basis, to give consideration to the Turkish Government's call for negotiations to be opened with a view to the earliest possible conclusion of an immigration agreement encompassing the problem in all its aspects;
7. Recalls the initiative of the French Presidency on 24 August 1989 concerning the settlement of the Turkish refugees;

  - D. distressed at the lack of determination on the part of the Turkish Government to implement the standards of the European Convention on Human Rights and the 1966 UN Human Rights Conventions,
  - E. shocked that Turkey, which has acceded to the anti-torture convention, nevertheless uses torture to break the will of political prisoners and force them to reveal information,

1. Condemns emphatically the inhumane treatment of political prisoners and the attitude of the Turkish Government towards prisoners on hunger strike;

  4. Calls on the Turkish Government to cease torturing and mistreating political prisoners forthwith and to call those responsible to account, to bring them before the courts and to punish them;

Thursday, 14 September 1989

5. Calls on the EEC-Turkey Joint Parliamentary Committee to evaluate the various forms of aid currently being given by the Community and by the Member States to Turkey;

- B. whereas in January 1986 the military regime in Guatemala was replaced by a democratically elected government,

- J. having regard to the efforts made by Vinicio Cerezo to promote peace and integration in Central America,
- K. whereas the offices of the Group of the Families of the Disappeared (GAM) were partially destroyed by a bomb on the night of 15 August and whereas a similar attack was carried out against the offices of the Peace Brigades International,

RESOLUTION

on the fight against drug trafficking and the grave situation in Colombia

The European Parliament,

- A. convinced of the need resolutely to take up the fight against the drug traffickers and those involved in the drugs trade throughout the world, including the European Community,
- B. deeply concerned at the gravity of the situation in Colombia, where the drug cartels have declared all-out war on the Colombian Government culminating in the murder, among many other victims, of Senator Luis Carlos Galan, a candidate in the presidential elections,
- C. whereas the Colombian Government is engaged in open combat against the drug-trafficking organizations,
- D. whereas this stance adopted by the Colombian Government deserves the support of the European Community and its Member States, given the threat which the drugs trade poses to the health and safety of our citizens,
- E. having regard to the presence of foreign mercenaries as instructors in the drug traffickers' private militias,
- F. having regard also to the problem of the cultivation and production of cocaine and heroin in other countries,
- G. whereas, compared with the worldwide turnover of the drugs industry, now put at between $ 300 and 500 billion, the Community's efforts, amounting in 1989 to a total of $ 6,9 million under budget headings 6472, 6754 and 949, are paltry and, to judge by the 1990 preliminary draft budget, stand to be cut back still further,
- H. whereas the lack of a common policy to combat drugs could place a question mark against the abolition of frontier checks, and recalling, in this connection, the conclusions of the Rhodes European Council,

Thursday, 14 September 1989

- I. believing that coca growing in Colombia and the other Andean countries cannot be stamped out unless various alternatives are found to ensure the survival and the advancement of local inhabitants, under an effective development cooperation policy,
  - J. having regard to the views it has repeatedly expressed on the fight against drugs, in particular in its resolutions of 14 May 1982 <sup>(1)</sup>, 9 October 1986 marking the conclusion of the work of the Committee of Inquiry into the Drug Problem in the Community <sup>(2)</sup>, its resolutions of 17 December 1987 <sup>(3)</sup> and 18 January 1989 <sup>(4)</sup>,
1. Expresses the severest condemnation of the murder of Senator Galan, and of the long series of killings perpetrated by drug traffickers which have claimed the lives of judges, members of the forces of law and order, journalists and ordinary Colombian citizens;
  2. Congratulates President Barco on the courageous stand he has taken and expresses its solidarity with the Colombian Government and all governments which have shown their determination to combat the drugs scourge;
  3. Calls on the Colombian Government to guarantee democratic rights, to mobilize all national social forces and to remove all drug-linked or corrupt persons from the state apparatus, the administration and political appointments;
  4. Calls on the President-in-Office of the Council to urge the Council and European Political Cooperation to examine, as a matter of urgency, what political and legal measures could be taken by the Community and its Member States to assist the Colombian Government in its campaign against the drugs trade;
  5. Calls on the Commission to provide the Republic of Colombia with sufficient aid and financial resources to enable it to make good the damage which might be caused to the nation, and particularly to small farmers, trade and the balance of payments, by measures to combat the drugs trade;
  6. Proposes that a working party be set up in the European Parliament to organize the European conference on combating drugs decided on during the last parliamentary term on the basis of the experience gained by the Committee of Inquiry into the Drug Problem in the Community and to devise the necessary measures, and calls for provision to be made in the budget for the organization of the above conference;
  7. Stresses the need for closer cooperation among the competent bodies in the Member States and calls for the enactment of common legislation in the Community, particularly on the freezing and seizure of the assets of drug traffickers, and the drafting of recommendations to Community financial institutions alerting them to money laundering techniques and methods of combating this;
  8. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Colombian Government, the governments of the Member States, the US Administration and the UN.

  4. Calls on all parties concerned to allow a cease-fire to take place as soon as possible and calls for the imperative lifting of the blockade, these being prerequisite conditions for a resumption of political talks;
  5. Expresses its indignation at the direct and deliberate obstruction of the delivery of humanitarian aid and launches an urgent appeal for the Foreign Ministers meeting in European political cooperation to ensure that the humanitarian aid which the Community has decided to send actually reaches the Lebanese population in whatever circumstances and in whatever area of Lebanese territory they happen to be;
  6. Expresses its full support for the committee of three heads of state set up by the recent Arab summit in Casablanca, and for its attempts, in liaison with the UN Security Council, to achieve a full and final cease-fire and devise a political solution for the Lebanese crisis;

9. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission, the Council, the Foreign Ministers meeting in European political cooperation and the governments concerned.

4. Refugee problem in Hungary

— Joint resolution replacing Docs. B 3-132 and 162/89

RESOLUTION

on the refugee problem in Hungary

The European Parliament,

- A. having followed with concern and compassion the massive exodus of East German citizens to Hungary in search of a free and democratic life in the Federal Republic of Germany,
  - B. whereas the overwhelming majority of the refugees are leaving their country solely on account of the intolerable totalitarian pressure,
  - C. recognizing that the Hungarian Government faced a very difficult situation since it had to consider conflicting obligations due to its treaties with the GDR, as a signatory of the CSCE Final Act of Helsinki and as member of the United Nations,
  - D. whereas the human tide from Romania far exceeds the material resources of the Hungarian people,
1. Expresses its admiration to the Hungarian people for their generous readiness to help and humane attitude and welcomes the decision of the Hungarian Government to allow thousands of East German citizens who want to do so to cross the frontier to Austria to proceed into the Federal Republic of Germany;
  2. Believes that this decision marks a great advance in respect for human rights and encourages the Hungarian Government to continue the democratic and economic restructuring of their country;
  3. Calls on the GDR leadership to abide by the Helsinki Final Act — which they themselves signed — and in particular to guarantee the right of free movement;
  4. Calls once again on the Government of Romania finally to comply with the norms of civilized peoples;
  5. Calls on the Council and Commission to show European solidarity by providing material aid, provided that the Hungarian Government is prepared to accept it, forthwith and leaving aside red tape, to refugees in Hungary and, as far as the financial aspect is concerned, to help Hungary as far as they can in the reception and care of, and in finding accommodation for, the refugees;

Thursday, 14 September 1989

6. Asks the Foreign Ministers meeting in European political cooperation to call once again on the leadership in the GDR and the Government in Bucharest not just to pay lip service to human rights but to give them practical expression, namely by guaranteeing their peoples free elections, and proposes that the Commission raise and take account of these goals in its negotiations with the two countries concerned;

7. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission, the Council, the Foreign Ministers of the Community meeting in European political cooperation, the parliaments of the Member States, and the Hungarian, East German and Romanian Governments.

RESOLUTION

on the drought

The European Parliament,

- A. having regard to the disturbing extent of the recent drought in France and Italy,
- B. whereas the drought has led to large-scale damage to the agricultural sector, affecting considerable cultivated areas, with the result that certain harvests will probably be lost in the affected areas,
- C. whereas persistent drought invariably creates particularly favourable conditions for the outbreak and spreading of fires,
  1. Expresses its sympathy for those affected;
  2. Welcomes the Commission's decision to grant an emergency aid to the French farmers affected by the drought;
  3. Calls on the Commission to grant emergency aid to all those affected and calls on the Member States concerned to contribute aid in proportion to the extent of the drought;
  4. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission and the appropriate regional and national authorities in France and Italy.

RESOLUTION

on the drought in a number of regions of Europe

The European Parliament,

- A. having regard to its two resolutions of 16 March 1989 on the drought in the southern regions of the Community <sup>(1)</sup>,

Thursday, 14 September 1989

- B. whereas, even now, the drought is still causing serious damage to agriculture in these regions of the Community,
  - C. whereas, in the specific case of Spain, this drought is one of the most serious this century, and the losses suffered by the farming industry have already exceeded Pta 100 billion,
1. Calls on the Commission to intervene in close cooperation with the governments of the Member States concerned and take measures to assist the farmers affected and grant them Community aid based on their income;
  2. Calls on the Commission to give priority, under the structural funds, to the implementation of regional operational programmes and irrigation projects likely to reduce the impact of the drought by means of the rational use of water resources, the construction of purification stations to enable waste water to be re-used in agriculture, and the implementation of effective measures to combat the drought;
  3. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission, the Council and the governments of the Member States.

RESOLUTION

on the recent forest fires in Greece, Italy and the South of France

The European Parliament,

- A. concerned at the wave of forest fires which have recently broken out again in the most vulnerable regions of Southern Europe, notably those which have struck Greece, particularly the region around Athens (Attica), Italy and the South of France, where some 6 000 acres of pine forest have already been destroyed,
  - B. having regard to its earlier resolutions on the critical problem of forest fires in the Mediterranean countries,
  - C. whereas the Commission has not yet submitted to the European Parliament any proposals or plans for tackling this problem which poses a threat to all the forests of Greece and of the other countries of southern Europe,
  - D. whereas the problem of the destruction of forests by fires is increasing rather than diminishing every year, threatening to upset the ecological balance in the regions concerned,
1. Expresses its deep concern and support for the inhabitants of the region of Attica affected by the recent fires;
  2. Calls on the Commission and the Council to submit proposals as a matter of urgency aimed at providing all possible economic and technical aid for the inhabitants and authorities of these regions to enable them to face up to the damages in the initial period;
  3. Calls on the Commission to submit immediately a plan for the coordination of the most effective resources in the Member States for fighting this type of fire (aeroplanes, fire-fighting vehicles, manpower, etc.) with a view to making joint use of them and increasing their efficiency;

Thursday, 14 September 1989

4. Calls on the Commission to devote special attention, on the one hand, to the more rational and coordinated use of the resources of the various structural funds for the prevention of forest fires (so as to give strong support to those Member States who require this kind of Community economic aid) and, on the other, to the direct protection of flora and fauna which are directly threatened in the Mediterranean regions;

5. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Governments of the Member States concerned and the local authorities of the regions which suffered from the recent fires.

RESOLUTION

on storms in Portugal

The European Parliament,

- A. whereas in June 1989 a number of areas in Portugal (Meda, Pinhão, Pinhal, Armamar, Penalva do Castelo, Oliveira do Hospital, Chaves, Redondo and the area round Vila Franca de Xira) were affected by storms;
  - B. whereas the farmland in these areas was devastated by torrential rainfall (which reached approximately 50 litres per square metre), hail and cyclones;
  - C. whereas orchards, crops and farm buildings were destroyed, affecting thousands of farmers, many of whom are faced with the frightening prospect of destitution,
1. Expresses its sympathy with the farmers affected by this natural disaster;
  2. Calls on the Commission to grant an emergency aid to the sum of ECU 10 million to assist farmers in the above areas and enable them to receive compensation for the enormous damage suffered;
  3. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission, the Council and the municipal authorities in the affected areas.

RESOLUTION

on the floods in the Valencian Community, Murcia and the Balearic Islands (Spain)

The European Parliament,

- A. whereas severe flooding has occurred once again following torrential rainfall in south-eastern Spain, affecting, in particular, the Valencian Community (Valencia, Alicante and Castellón provinces), Murcia and the Balearic Islands and accounting for three deaths,
- B. whereas, in addition to the above deaths, the floods have also inflicted vast and unquantifiable material damage,

Thursday, 14 September 1989

- C. whereas hundreds of citizens have had to be evacuated, while numerous households have lost their entire harvest (of rice, grapes, etc.) as well as their houses, possessions and instruments of labour,
  - D. whereas severe damage has also been inflicted on the communications infrastructures (roads, bridges, railways and airports) and electricity and water supplies, and there have been cases of pollution, etc.,
  - E. whereas the Valencian Community and Murcia are classified as priority targets in the Regional Development Plan, with aids from the structural funds (the ERDF, the ESF and the EAGGF (Guidance Section)),
1. Calls on the Commission and the Council to grant substantial emergency aid to compensate for the damage;
  2. Calls for immediate determination and implementation, with funding from the structural funds, of the infrastructural reforms which are required to prevent or reduce the effects of the floods which periodically recur in this region, entailing severe economic and social disruption almost every year;
  3. Urges the Commission to examine the regional development plans submitted by Spain with especial attention to ensure that they include, as a priority, hydraulic development and regulation projects which would permit greater use and enhanced regulation of water resources, thus preventing disasters similar to the present one;
  4. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission.

RESOLUTION

on the disastrous situation caused by the horse sickness epidemic in the south of the Iberian Peninsula

The European Parliament,

- A. having regard to the outbreak of African horse sickness in the south of the Iberian Peninsula, especially in the Autonomous Community of Andalusia, which has so far caused the death of approximately one thousand animals,
  - B. having regard to the very heavy losses suffered by breeders as a result of this disease,
  - C. whereas unless appropriate measures are taken, there is a danger that the disease will spread throughout the rest of the Community,
  - D. having regard to its resolution of 15 December 1988 on African horse sickness in Spain and Portugal <sup>(1)</sup>,
1. Calls on the Commission to adopt urgent measures, in cooperation with the authorities of the Member States concerned, to prevent the spread of horse sickness to other Community countries by means of a programme of control measures;

Thursday, 14 September 1989

2. Renews its request to the Commission for immediate economic aid to the sum of ECU 10 million to provide compensation to the breeders who have suffered losses;
3. Calls on the Commission, in addition, to draw up a programme for the detection, control and eradication of epidemics originating in third countries which principally affect Member States situated on the Community's external frontiers;
4. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission and the Governments of the Member States concerned.

RESOLUTION

on the destruction of the University of the Azores

The European Parliament,

- A. aware that on 12 June 1989, an immense fire completely destroyed the main building of the University of the Azores causing incalculable architectural, historical and cultural loss,
  - B. whereas the historic libraries, which were the depository of the Portuguese heritage in the Atlantic, have been totally destroyed,
  - C. having regard to the destruction of academic records, of the informatics centre and all its computers and of the Centre of European Documentation, which was one of the first to be set up in Portugal, with all its books, magazines and equipment, which has dealt a shattering blow to the dissemination of the ideas and plans of the European Community in the most Western University in Europe,
1. Calls on the Commission to provide emergency aid for the reconstruction of the main building of the University, including the reconstruction of the offices of the Rector, the academic records, the informatics centre and the Centre of European Documentation;
  2. Proposes that the Commission should send to the Azores a group of experts to investigate the ways in which the lost heritage can be restored and how the Community can avoid a repetition of such disasters;
  3. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission, the Council, the Portuguese Government, the Regional Government of the Azores and the University of the Azores.

RESOLUTION

on the protection of the waters, marine fauna and forests in the Mediterranean area

The European Parliament,

- A. whereas the process of eutrophication of the Adriatic, which has been in progress for some time, reached a dramatic climax in July this year as a result of the accumulation of nutrient substances and pollutants and climatic conditions which accentuate this process, causing, owing to a lack of oxygen, an ecological disaster which has meant the death of the Adriatic and its fauna and flora, with incalculable repercussions on fisheries and tourism,

Thursday, 14 September 1989

- B. whereas an ecological disaster of this nature cannot be viewed as peculiar to a single country, not only because it physically affects other countries and indeed the Mediterranean as a whole, but also because eutrophication is beginning to manifest itself in other European seas and lakes,
- C. believing that the causes of this disaster are diverse and complex and involve a wide range of powerful interests, especially the system of farming practised throughout Europe and encouraged by the Community's agricultural policies and based on an absurd abuse of pesticides and chemical fertilizers and zootechnics based on large-scale industrial stockbreeding,
- D. believing that the disaster was also caused by inadequate, ill-managed and inefficient domestic waste disposal plants, the failure to control or limit industrial waste in accordance with the quality of the watercourse into which it is discharged, and the lack of proper regulations on phosphate substitution in detergents,
- E. recalling that on 17/18 May 1988 the Italian regions of Piedmont, Lombardy, Emilia-Romagna and Veneto explained the problem of the 'Adriatic and Paduan environmental system' to the Community institutions but that since that date the European Community has taken no appropriate initiatives,
- F. pointing out that the life of the Mediterranean is also threatened by the massive proliferation of pelagic driftnet fishing, which is used particularly to catch swordfish,
- G. whereas every year in Italian seas alone, this fishing technique causes the accidental death of several thousands of dolphins and hundreds of large cetaceans of various species, including sperm whales,
- H. aware that swordfish fishermen make constant use of the emergency radio frequency for their communications, causing congestion and consequent inconvenience and danger to shipping,
- I. concerned that if appropriate and urgent measures are not taken, it is highly likely that the cetacean populations of our seas will be on the brink of extinction by the year 2000,
- J. whereas the areas destroyed by fire this year in Italy, Greece, Spain, Portugal and France, and also Corsica and Sardinia, are estimated at over 400 000 hectares,
- K. whereas, in addition to the ecological disaster involved, forest fires increasingly constitute an economic disaster, to which must also be added the severe loss of human life,
- L. whereas the great majority of fires are due to human agency and are caused by a few small fires getting out of control because of unfavourable meteorological conditions,
- M. whereas, despite the efforts made by many Member States in the field of forest fire fighting, the number of fires that break out and areas destroyed continues to increase,
- N. noting that on 29 June 1989 the Community adopted a forestry action programme (Doc. COM(88) 255 final),

Thursday, 14 September 1989

- O. noting that Council Regulation 3529/86 <sup>(1)</sup> contains a specific provision on forest fires,
- P. believing that protection of the Mediterranean forest necessitates the introduction of a comprehensive prevention policy,
- Q. whereas forest fires have been recorded during the summer period at numerous points along the Mediterranean coastline,
- R. whereas much recent research shows that present standards are well below the levels required to guarantee public health,
- S. whereas this problem reaches beyond the Mediterranean and concerns all the countries of Europe;

1. Calls on the Commission and the Council to treat this ecological disaster as a matter of priority under the environment policy and to take all possible action with the utmost urgency, to assist in coping with its effects;

2. Calls also for an urgent investigation to be launched into the causes of this phenomenon, during which use should also be made of experience gathered and more advanced research carried out outside the Community in order to determine the most suitable means of fully identifying the causes of the phenomenon, preventing its recurrence and providing remedies, with a view to holding an international conference on the Mediterranean;

3. Calls upon the Commission to promote surveys and studies, with the assistance of the relevant committees, in order to establish reliable estimates of the Mediterranean stocks of the individual species fished and of accidental catches resulting from all fishing activities, with particular reference to the swordfish;

4. Requests the Commission to report to the European Parliament on the outcome of these studies and surveys in order to enable it to assess the current stocks of protected fish species (dolphins) whose survival is currently threatened by driftnet fishing;

5. Asks that, for this purpose, driftnet fishing should be prohibited, as a preventive measure, in all the member countries of the Community in the Mediterranean area, pending the outcome of the studies referred to above;

6. Requests that, for this purpose, the Commission should promote initiatives with third countries in the Mediterranean area with a view to concluding agreements which are consistent with the objectives of safeguarding protected species;

7. Request the Commission to provide incentives for alternatives to driftnet fishing proven to be selective, by setting up an appropriate Community fund to encourage the productive conversion of fishing activity;

8. Calls on the Commission to:

(a) draw up an inventory of the causes of the fires and assess the future potential of the areas burnt;

(b) assess the costs and requirements for setting up a comprehensive fire prevention policy based on:

— support for forestry;

— regional planning as a passive means of protection against fire;

9. Further calls on the Commission to:

(a) carry out a check on the utilization of funds allocated for this purpose hitherto;

<sup>(1)</sup> OJ No L 326, 30. 11. 1986, p. 5.

Thursday, 14 September 1989

- (b) launch an information and public awareness campaign aimed at tourists and emphasising the vulnerability of the Mediterranean forests to fire;
  - (c) propose harmonization of legislation involving a ban on construction in areas destroyed by fire, as already exists in certain Member States;
  - (d) to investigate the possibility of the European countries' pooling their prevention resources;
10. Calls on the Commission to carry out a study of the bacteriological contamination of water, adjusting the relevant standards in line with the latest scientific knowledge;
11. Calls on the Commission, in the meantime and in the absence of better standards, to ensure strict compliance with current standards by the various Community countries;
12. Calls upon the Commission and the Council to undertake to ensure that sufficient appropriations are entered in the budget lines relating to environmental protection to enable the above objectives to be attained;
13. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission, the Council and the governments of the Member States and of the non-member countries in the Mediterranean area.

RESOLUTION

on the effects of the plague of caterpillars in France

The European Parliament,

- A. having regard to the exceptional increase in the number of caterpillars of the Cirphis Unipuncta species, some of which have come from Spain, and which have led to severe defoliation in the mountains and plains on the whole of the French side of the Pyrenees since the beginning of August 1989,
- B. whereas this plague is having an extremely damaging effect on livestock farming in the region, where most farmers have already had to start using their stocks of winter fodder or to buy in feedingstuffs,
- C. whereas this scourge has mainly affected fodder crops and maize,
- D. whereas most of the areas of livestock farming affected are also among the least-favoured in the Community,
- E. whereas the effects of this phenomenon have been exacerbated considerably by the severe drought in the region since June,
- F. whereas the damage incurred as a result of the devastation of crops by these caterpillars is not covered by the arrangements for dealing with agricultural disasters and farmers have had to bear the high costs of treating the affected areas (including the costs of helicopter spraying of insecticide),
- G. whereas in the regions affected by this disaster, mountain and hill farming provides a guarantee of an attractive environment in areas with great potential for tourism,

Thursday, 14 September 1989

1. Calls on the Commission to release emergency aid for the regions most affected and to look into the possibility of making special funds available to remedy the effects of agricultural disasters of this kind;
2. Calls on the Commission to make available to the French farmers who are the victims of Cirphis Unipuncta certain quantities of fodder at reduced prices to meet the needs of their livestock;
3. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission.

- I. whereas the activities of property development companies are targeted at potential purchasers, often with the aim of inducing them through hard-sell techniques to part with large cash payments by way of deposit on the purchase of real property interests,
- J. whereas consumers contemplating the purchase of property in a foreign country are at a disadvantage in such a situation and have a legitimate expectation that their financial interests should be protected by the Community, particularly where they are called upon to sign contracts in a foreign language,
- K. aware that Article 222 of the EEC Treaty precludes the Community from proposing any measures likely to prejudice the rules in the Member States governing the system of property ownership,

1. REGRETS:

- the frequent cases of fraud and malpractice perpetrated against property buyers from another Member State, often by their compatriots, and the inability of certain Member States' judicial systems to deal adequately with such cases;
- the excessive commission rates and high pressure techniques often associated with property sales;
- the failure of planning laws and the inability of local authorities in certain Member States to accommodate coastal development, to the detriment of the environment as well as property owners;
- the increasing use of offshore tax havens for real property or timeshare operations in Member States to avoid tax;
- the failure of Member States' civil servants when convoked by the European Commission, to work together to eradicate property problems;

2. CALLS on the Commission, which is preparing a study entitled 'Transborder Property Purchase: the Home Buyer and 1992', to prepare a Directive with minimum provisions covering consumer rights within property transactions to include:

- a cooling-off period such as that provided for in Directive 85/577/EEC (contracts negotiated away from business premises) under which a purchaser may be entitled to rescind a contract within 7 days of signature and obtain repayment in full of all monies paid to the vendor or his agent;
- provisions covering unfair contract terms and misleading advertising;
- an obligation on vendors to hold purchasers' money in a separate or trust account;
- adequate protection against developers' bankruptcy and against building or title defects;
- the requirement that advertisements for speculative developments or unbuilt property in another Member State should advise potential purchasers to seek professional advice;
- the provision that, when deposits are accepted against an 'option contract', these should state that the final contract is 'subject to clear title and free of encumbrances';

3. ASKS the Commission in addition to the proposed directive on property transactions to help combat fraud by publishing a guidebook aimed at prospective purchasers of foreign property, as part of its action programme on consumer protection and tourism;

4. RECOMMENDS that prospective purchasers of property should engage the services of an independent professional adviser to carry out all necessary checks, before paying over money to a vendor;

Thursday, 14 September 1989

5. CALLS on the Commission and the Member States in the context of the 1992 programme to set up a European register, available for public inspection in all Member States, of persons barred from holding company directorships and other commercial responsibilities;
6. URGES the Member States in the context of the coming Single Market to collaborate more closely to reduce fraud, both within the property and other commercial sectors, using a centralized pool of information on suspected frauds;
7. WELCOMES the fact that the Commission has already submitted to the European Parliament for its opinion a proposal dated 26 July 1988 for a Council directive on voting rights for Community nationals in local elections in their Member State of residence (COM(88) 371 final) <sup>(1)</sup>;
8. REQUESTS the national, regional and local authorities in the Member States to address themselves adequately to the issues raised by this resolution and, in this connection, welcomes the report by the Spanish special committee on the situation and problems of property transactions in Spanish tourist areas, adopted by the Committee on Industry, Public Works and Services of the Spanish Lower House at its meeting of 27 June 1989, and the Spanish Royal Decree 515/89 of 21 April 1989 on consumer protection in relation to information which must be supplied for the sale and purchase and renting of properties;
9. CONSIDERS that, pending the introduction of Community legislation, EC citizens contemplating purchasing property in another Member State should safeguard their interests by arranging the fullest possible insurance cover;
10. CONSIDERS that the national, regional and local authorities in the Member States should promote private consumer associations as an effective means of supervising and regulating all the sectors involved in the production and distribution of goods and services;
11. INSTRUMENTS its President to forward this resolution and the committee's report to the Commission, the Council and the governments of the Member States.

7. Implementation of economic and social cohesion

(a) Doc. B 3-44/89

RESOLUTION

on economic and social cohesion

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the decision of the European Council meeting on 26/27 July 1989 in Madrid,
- having regard to the declaration made by the President of the Commission, Mr Jacques Delors, on 17 January 1989 concerning the Commission's guidelines,
- having regard to the declarations made by the President of the Council before the European Parliament in July 1989,

Thursday, 14 September 1989

1. Welcomes the progress made hitherto towards the completion of the single market and notes with deep satisfaction that the anticipated positive effects of the single market on growth and the employment situation are already beginning to be seen;
2. Expects now, however, that specific measures will at long last be taken to ensure that young people are better integrated into working life and that the training of the long-term unemployed is improved, so that they, too, may benefit from the positive effects of the internal market on the employment situation;
3. Points to the serious social and regional disparities within the Community and hopes that greater efforts will be made to reduce those disparities;
4. Looks not only for an inventory of this situation to be made but also for a specific programme in the form of a White Paper for the achievement of social and economic cohesion;
5. Supports the efforts of the European Council to introduce the mutual recognition of professional and vocational qualifications and calls, therefore, on the Commission, the Council and the social partners to enshrine the results of their deliberations in legislation so as to guarantee freedom of choice as to the type and place of work;
6. Cannot be content with a solemn declaration of the Council concerning the fundamental social rights of workers and calls, therefore, despite all the problems involved, for the embodiment of fundamental social rights in Community law as rights that may be tested in the courts and for the progressive approximation of social security schemes at the highest level;
7. Calls for the rights of workers to consultation, participation and co-determination to be regulated generally and not just in the Statute for the European Company;
8. Is aware that a European area of interdependent employment networks can only be created through an extension and intensification of the social dialogue;
9. Welcomes the Commission's efforts, therefore, to strengthen the social dialogue and expects that the social partners will exploit to the full all the possibilities offered to them under Article 118 b of the EEC Treaty;
10. Recognizes from the numerous rulings handed down by the Court of Justice that the free movement and mobility of workers are still restricted; expects, therefore, that the Commission will submit specific proposals for the abolition of such barriers;
11. Attaches great importance to the training and further training of workers, given that economic structures are changing at an ever-increasing rate, and expects the Commission to submit practical proposals in this area;
12. Recalls that social peace is disturbed not only by the emphasis on the economic dimension of the internal market but also by the unsolved problems regarding immigrants from third countries;
13. Affirms, therefore, its support for the principle of the right of establishment and the right of asylum and calls for the harmonization of legislation governing asylum at Community level, in accordance with its resolution of 12 March 1987 <sup>(1)</sup>;
14. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission and the Council.

RESOLUTION

on the achievement of economic and social cohesion

The European Parliament,

- A. whereas the European Councils in Rhodes and Madrid failed to take the necessary measures to ensure genuine economic and social cohesion in the Community and put an end to the subordination of the social policy of harmonization with progress,
- B. whereas, on the contrary, the measures decided on at the above European Councils concerning the free movement of capital, as well as the prospect of the total abolition of capital taxation, are likely to jeopardize the social rights which have been gained in the Member States of the Community and to undermine the promotion of those social rights,
- C. whereas the first stages of implementation of the first directives aimed at completion of the internal market have already had unfavourable results, leading to the intensification of regional and social inequalities and to increasing pressure on working conditions and labour market conditions,
  1. calls on the Commission to draw up a programme of specific measures, with a definite timetable, with a view to compensating for the delay which has already occurred, ensuring the implementation of the principle of economic and social cohesion and, with this end in view, taking full advantage of the short time remaining until 1 January 1993;
  2. Calls on the Commission, in this context, to draw up new fiscal and financial proposals with a view to combating unemployment and the growth of casual labour, as an essential condition for any economic and social policy for the Community;
  3. Calls on the Commission to draw up, as a matter of urgency, specific measures of financial and other support, with a view to combating the growing intensification of national and regional inequalities and creating the conditions for genuine economic cohesion;
  4. Calls for genuine cooperation with all trade union organizations at Community level with a view to ensuring that workers are enabled significantly to influence EEC decisions;
  5. Expresses the view that, on the basis of workers' proposals, the project for a Charter of Social Rights should be made binding, in order to guarantee progress with equality;
  6. Calls on the Commission and the Council, in this spirit, to accept the amendments already adopted by Parliament and endorsed by the trade unions to the directives concerning health and safety in the workplace, which will guarantee that workers' rights are harmonized in a progressive direction;
  7. Urges the European Council to give priority to these matters at its next meeting in Strasbourg, and to propose practical measures to this end;
  8. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission.

(c) Doc. B 3-90/89*RESOLUTION*on economic and social cohesionThe European Parliament,*

Recalling its resolution of 15 March 1989 on the social dimension of the internal market <sup>(1)</sup>, urges that:

- (a) employers should not discriminate against older workers in their recruitment policies; it is undesirable to mention upper age limits in job advertising;
- (b) the Commission and other Community institutions should cease age discrimination in their own recruitment policies;

(d) Doc. B 3-92/89*RESOLUTION*on speeding up the process of implementing economic and social cohesionThe European Parliament,*

- A. whereas there are barely three years left before the deadline of 1 January 1993,
- B. having regard to the decision of the European Council in Madrid on economic and monetary union,

1. Reaffirms its total support for the objectives defined in the Single Act, in particular the completion of the internal market and the strengthening of economic and social cohesion which is expected to result therefrom, and undertakes to cooperate with the other institutions in pursuit of this goal;

2. Stresses that, in order to attain these two complementary objectives, it is essential that Member States reach an overall political compromise at the earliest opportunity on certain issues which cannot be implemented too hastily, such as tax harmonization, which is needed in order to liberalize the movements of goods, capital and services and remove obstacles hampering the free movement of citizens;

3. Draws the attention of the Council and the Commission to the danger that the deadline of 1 January 1993 established following the signature of the Single Act will lose credibility if the current failure to clarify issues in these key sectors persists, which may jeopardize the efforts made over the last few years to achieve economic and political integration;

4. Reiterates its determination to ensure that the goal of strengthening economic and social cohesion is considered to be as important as and parallel to the goal of achieving the large internal market; recalls paragraphs 25-30 of its resolution of 18 January 1989 on the economic and social cohesion of the Community <sup>(1)</sup>, particularly the requirement on rigorous monitoring of the extent to which cohesion is strengthened;

Thursday, 14 September 1989

5. Stresses the need to make economic operators and the two sides of industry aware of the integration of the internal market, which requires a proper social dimension in accordance with requirements;
6. Calls on the Commission and the Council to adopt at the earliest opportunity the measures and strategy needed to give fresh impetus to the objectives for 1993, which are prerequisites for the achievement of economic and monetary union;
7. Urges the forthcoming European Council in Strasbourg to adopt all the necessary guidelines for fulfilling the commitments undertaken to date;
8. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission.

RESOLUTION

on economic and social cohesion

The European Parliament,

- A. having regard to the crucial importance of the social dimension of the internal market, which is an absolutely essential condition for the construction of a large common economic area,
  - B. having regard to the lack of enthusiasm shown by the European Council in Madrid and to the superficial manner in which the Twelve have dealt with the issue of economic and social cohesion,
  - C. whereas the European Social Charter should define the fundamental principles of the European social area, while guaranteeing a margin of independence to national and regional governments,
  - D. whereas, according to the Commission's estimates in its annual economic report for 1988/89, the GNP of the four poorest Member States will be approximately 65 % of the Community average by 1992 (as opposed to 60 % in 1987),
1. Expresses its concern at the failure of the Commission and the Council to act rapidly in implementation of the social dimension of the internal market;
  2. Calls on the Commission to submit to Parliament, as soon as possible, a draft of the content of the Charter of fundamental social rights;
  3. Reminds the Commission that the primary aim of any social policy is to combat unemployment through economic and social measures;
  4. Calls on the Commission to take all necessary steps to reduce regional inequalities and guarantee economic and social cohesion;
  5. Urges the Commission, with this end in view, to include in its annual report, pursuant to Article 16 of Regulation 2052/88, an account of the action taken to ensure that all Community policies contribute to economic and social cohesion;
  6. Calls on the Commission to submit to Parliament a specific plan concerning the free movement of persons and freedom of establishment;

Thursday, 14 September 1989

7. Calls on the Commission to draw up a periodic report on the action taken with a view to compensating for the considerable delay which has occurred in this area;
8. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission and the Council.

RESOLUTION

on economic and social cohesion

The European Parliament,

- A. convinced that the completion of the large internal market, a key stage in the process of European integration, must be simultaneously and indissociably linked with the establishment of a genuinely social Europe,
- B. noting the delays in the establishment of a social Europe and the legal and political obstacles to it, and whereas the rise in unemployment, the increase in the number of unsecured jobs, and the attacks on union rights are undermining European consciousness and go a long way towards explaining why the process of European integration does not inspire public opinion to a sufficient degree, as demonstrated by the low turnout in European elections,
- C. having regard to the social objectives which flow from the various treaties establishing the Community, in particular:
  - the achievement of full employment on the best possible terms,
  - the improvement of the living and working conditions of the population in general and the least favoured groups in particular,
  - the involvement of the two sides of industry in framing economic and social policy,
  - equality between men and women,
- D. anxious to respond to workers' concerns and expectations as voiced by their trade union organizations in the Community which are no longer satisfied with solemn declarations but wish to see rapid, practical steps taken towards the establishment of a Europe based on full employment and social progress.
  1. Reiterates that the implementation of a thoroughgoing and wider-ranging social policy is an essential prerequisite for the completion of the internal market;
  2. Warns that the lack of significant progress in the sphere of the social dimension will have serious consequences for future cooperation between the European Parliament and the other Community institutions with regard to certain matters to be dealt with under the Single Act;
  3. Calls on the Commission in future — as decided by Parliament — to submit all its legislative proposals on employment, notably the directives on the duration, organization and content of work, on the basis of Article 118A of the Treaty, which stipulates that the Council shall act by a qualified majority;

Thursday, 14 September 1989

4. Calls, in accordance with a strict timetable to be put forward by the Commission by the end of 1989, for the legally binding enactment of basic social rights in accordance with its resolution of 15 March 1989 <sup>(1)</sup> on the social dimension of the internal market;
5. Looks to a future government conference called to amend the Single Act to simplify targeted and legally binding Community action not only in the sphere of economic and monetary union but also in the social sphere by introducing majority voting in the Council on all social matters;
6. Urges that a legal and procedural Community framework be developed to foster social dialogue and collective bargaining resulting in binding undertakings at European, sectoral and national level and in individual firms;
7. Calls for the implementation of an active labour market policy to include:
  - ongoing forecasts of employment trends and the creation of a labour market monitoring unit;
  - vocational training and retraining programmes;
  - measures to ease the transition between school and work;
  - a special policy to reintegrate the long-term unemployed into the labour market;
  - programmes to assist particularly underprivileged categories;
8. Draws attention to the fact that although the establishment of economic and monetary union is likely to boost growth and create new jobs, it will lead to restructuring which will give rise to additional employment problems at sectoral and regional level;
9. Calls on the Commission to draw up proposals for the next four years through which increased use can be made of EC finance instruments in combating unemployment (employment fund);
10. Calls for the swift adoption of directives and regulations which are pending, notably:
  - the framework directive on the incorporation in social legislation and individual directives of all forms of work, in particular part-time work, temporary and fixed-term contracts, work at home and hired labour,
  - the European company statute,
  - the directive on parental leave;
11. Calls for the forthcoming intergovernmental conference to concern itself not merely with economic and monetary union but also with social rights and workers' rights on the basis of majority voting by the Member States;
12. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission and Council.

RESOLUTION

on economic and social cohesion

The European Parliament,

A. having regard to the conclusions of the Madrid European Council of 26-27 June 1989,

Thursday, 14 September 1989

- B. having regard to the urgent need to bring about the social dimension of the internal market in time for completion of the market proper,
- C. concerned that further delays in the social, economic and political integration process may block progress towards the 1992 target date,
1. Repeats the views expressed and the proposals contained in its resolution of 15 March 1989 on the social dimension of the internal market <sup>(1)</sup>;
  2. Urges the next European Council, which is to meet in December in Strasbourg, to state its position on that resolution and take clear decisions with a view to:
    - (i) ensuring that the Community Charter of Fundamental Social Rights is given actual legal force;
    - (ii) combating unemployment effectively, if need be by adopting exceptional measures;
    - (iii) making up the serious delay in bringing about the social dimension of the internal market by means of an action programme to be completed before the deadline of 31 December 1992;
    - (iv) laying down a global Community policy on immigration from third countries in order to regulate the situation and promote the integration of workers and their families;
  3. Considers it essential to implement an agreement between the Commission and the European Parliament to govern the substance, the instruments, and the time-scale of Community social policy, making provision for the involvement of the national parliaments and employers' and workers' representatives and giving particular attention to:
    - the substance and implementation of the Community Charter of Fundamental Social Rights;
    - initiatives to fight unemployment;
    - the action programme on the social dimension of the internal market;
    - equality between men and women;
    - immigration policy;
    - measures to support collective bargaining and economic democracy;
    - implementation of all the provisions of Article 118a of the EEC Treaty in accordance with the interpretation set out in the EP's resolution of 15 December 1988 <sup>(2)</sup>;
    - implementation of the directives on health and safety at work;
    - implementation of all the provisions of structural fund reform and of Articles 130a, 130b, 130c, 130d and 130e of the EEC Treaty on economic and social cohesion;
    - the free movement of persons;
  4. Instructs its Committee on Social Affairs, Employment and the Working Environment to take the initiatives most likely to encourage an agreement to that effect between the EP and the Commission and to secure the involvement of the national parliaments and employers' and workers' representatives;
  5. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Commission, the Council and the Parliaments of the Member States.

RESOLUTION

on economic and social cohesion in the completion of the internal market

The European Parliament,

- A. whereas the internal market will have major effects on the social and ecological spheres,
- B. whereas ecological principles are a basic condition of economic and social policy,
- C. whereas it has no say at all regarding the creation of the European Social Charter,
- D. whereas it has no say at all regarding the harmonization of indirect taxation,
- E. whereas moreover the content of the European Social Charter offers too little scope for a sound European social policy as there is no proposed directive regarding a minimum wage, nor is there a basic directive on the shorter working week,
- F. whereas moreover there are no directives on the stocks at all on key ecological conditions,
  1. Believes that the adverse social and ecological effects of the internal market should be offset by means of an improved European Social Charter and directives on key ecological conditions;
  2. Demands that European social policy and the directives on key ecological conditions should form part of the cooperation procedure between the Council and the European Parliament;
  3. Proposes that the European Social Charter should be extended to include a directive on the minimum wage related to the average wage level of the country concerned and a basic directive on the shorter working week;
  4. Demands that the Commission draw up at a very early date directives for strict basic ecological conditions, such as ecological taxes;
  5. Demands that the harmonization of indirect taxation be finalized only after, and in connection with, the above ecological directives;
  6. Resolves to make its activities in respect of the completion of the internal market contingent upon the improvement of the European Social Charter and the introduction of strict ecological directives, both of which should be integral parts of the completion of the internal market;
  7. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the parliaments of the Member States, the European Trade Union Confederation, the European Environmental Bureau and the European Employers' Federation.
