Remarks

The vision of the eHealth action plan 2012-2020 is to utilise and develop e-health to address several of the most pressing health and health systems challenges of the first half of the twenty-first century, namely:

- to improve chronic disease and multi-morbidity (multiple concurrent disease) management and to strengthen effective prevention and health promotion practices,
- to increase the sustainability and efficiency of health systems by unlocking innovation, enhancing patient-/citizen-centric care and citizen empowerment and encouraging organisational changes,

- to foster cross-border healthcare, health security, solidarity, universality and equity,
- to improve legal and market conditions for developing e-health products and services.

ICT-based products and services have demonstrated their capacity to help address these major challenges in the form of personalised health, telehealth and telecare solutions, service robotics for health and care, support for prolonged active and independent living and home-based care. It is also a major new growth opportunity as large new markets for ICT-based products and services emerge to address health, demographic change and well-being.

Activities will cover development and exploitation of ICT for health, well-being and 'ageing well' solutions. This will build on the emergence of underpinning technologies arising out of ICT in Leadership in Enabling and Industrial Technologies such as micro-nano systems, embedded systems, robotics, internet of the future and cloud technologies. It will also build on further development of security- and privacy-enhancing technologies.

The ambient assisted living research and development joint programme will also be supported to contribute to market availability and exploitation of ICT-based products and services and the ICT innovation and pilot projects will be further supported in response to the European Innovation Partnership on Active and Healthy Ageing and the eHealth 2020 action plan.

Activities will cover collaboration, networking actions and national programme coordination initiatives. Also entered in this item are the costs of independent experts assisting in proposal evaluations and project reviews, the costs of events, meetings, conferences, workshops and seminars of European interest organised by the Commission, the costs of studies, analyses and evaluations, the costs of monitoring and evaluation of the specific programme and of the framework programmes and the costs of measures to monitor and disseminate the results of the programmes, including measures under previous framework programmes.

Remarks

The specific objective is to foster inclusive, innovative and reflective European societies in a context of unprecedented transformations and growing global interdependencies.

Activities will cover four main areas: ICT-enabled public sector innovation, understanding and preserving Europe's intellectual basis and cultural heritage, learning and inclusion.

The first challenge, ICT-enabled public sector innovation, refers to the use of ICT for the creation and implementation of new processes, products, services and methods of delivery which result in significant improvements in the efficiency, effectiveness and quality of public services. The future public administrations should be digital and cross-border by default. Activities will cover fostering efficient, open and citizen-centric public services, involving the public sector as an agent for innovation and change, as well as cross-border innovation measures or seamless delivery of public services.

The aim of the second challenge is 'to contribute to an understanding of Europe's intellectual basis and cultural heritage: its history and the many European and non-European influences; as an inspiration for our lives today', as well as to facilitate the access and exploitation of this cultural heritage.

The aim of the third challenge is to support the widespread adoption of ICT in schools and for training in Europe.

The aim of the fourth challenge is to get the elderly (aged 65 and above), the unemployed and low-educated persons, migrants, people in need of care, people living in remote or poorer areas, persons with disabilities, and the homeless people to fully participate in society. Activities will focus on empowering them with the necessary digital skills and providing them with access to digital technologies. Activities aiming at fostering a better consideration for inclusiveness and responsibility aspects in ICT-related innovations will also be supported.

Activities will cover collaboration, networking actions and national programme coordination initiatives. Also entered in this item are the costs of independent experts assisting in project reviews, the costs of events, meetings, conferences, workshops and seminars of European interest organised by the Commission, the costs of studies, analyses and evaluations, the costs of monitoring and evaluation of the specific programme and of the framework programmes and the costs of measures to monitor and disseminate the results of the programmes, including measures under previous framework programmes.

Part of the support of the Union to the COST intergovernmental framework for transnational cooperation among researchers, engineers and scholars across Europe will also be covered from this appropriation.

This preparatory action addresses the need to improve digital skills through education and professional training more actively and homogeneously throughout Europe. Despite the efforts made at European and national level, such as the Digital Skills for Jobs Coalition initiatives, there is still a huge digital skills gap to contend with in society. Existing initiatives are of great benefit in tackling Member States' current challenges. Therefore, the action should not duplicate those initiatives; rather, it should complement them instead. The Academy will address the lack of a well-developed, transnational network in Europe that supports and facilitates exchanges between and coordination of all stakeholders in this area. It could showcase, scale and multiply European best practices in training and in developing the digital skills of different target groups.

The European Digital Academy should be considered a possible long-term solution to the current challenges resulting from the combined impact of increasing robotisation and digitisation of the workspace, on the one hand, and, on the other, the lack of digital skills in society.

The European Digital Academy will have the following remit:

- making the workforce fit for the new digital era by ensuring that employees can update their e-skills and knowledge on an ongoing basis. The Academy will offer regular workshops and consulting services on robotics and automation issues. For information and communication technology (ICT) beginners, the Academy could offer an opportunity to participate in occupational retraining and to become familiar with the advantages of robotics and automation technology in order to use them profitably within the workspace.

SMEs in particular could benefit from such an academy because they often do not have the financial and human resources to provide training internally;

- making schoolchildren and students fit for the new digital era by bringing robotics and automation technology into school life. The Academy should offer courses on e-skills which excite, inspire, and motivate young people about the importance and impact of robotics technologies in daily life. The Academy could provide a great opportunity to assist in equipping students with the necessary skills for the jobs of tomorrow. However, the courses offered by the Academy should have no implications for national education systems; rather, they should instead be considered an optional complement and support;
- creating a European environment that empowers and encourages girls and young women to consider careers in the growing ICT field, thereby enabling both girls and technology companies to reap the benefits of greater female participation in the ICT sector.

The Academy will be established in cooperation with ministries, industry, specialist ICT companies, national institutions or initiatives with responsibility for professional training and lifelong learning programmes, and social partners. They all have the necessary expertise to coordinate and devise content and programmes for workshops and courses. In order to guarantee that this can be offered at European level, the Academy will set up a network of regional and national professional training centres throughout Europe. The network could provide considerable added value for addressing the challenge of reducing the various imbalances between skills offered and skills needed in Europe.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

This pilot project will empower girls to learn and become leaders in technology. It will promote and teach science, technology, engineering and maths subjects (STEM) to girls, thereby addressing the ongoing skills gap in the sector within the Union, and especially the lack of women in this area and the increasing STEM dropout rates for girls. The pilot project includes two-week summer camps and measures to engage girls in STEM subjects in schools by creating a network to promote best practices.

This network for the exchange of best practices in promoting STEM to girls will be a network of schools, universities, companies and civil society organisations to attract female STEM students and employees and to raise awareness among students and academic staff regarding the full spectrum of education and training options. The network will serve as a platform for exchanging experience and support for the advancement of girls in STEM education and careers.

The main goal of the Union STEM summer camps for girls is to foster new profiles and combat stereotypes for girls when choosing their secondary education and career paths. STEM summer camps can help young girls to gain an interest in science, technology, engineering and maths. The camps will feature experiments, field trips and lab-based activities to show what it is like to work in STEM careers. ICT companies, companies with technical departments and technical training facilities, universities, and research centres will be invited to cooperate and participate in the camps.

The no-cost two-week summer camps for girls aged 13 to 18 years will introduce middle and high school girls to software engineering principles and programming languages. The summer programme will involve all Member States, targeting over a thousand middle and high school girls, many of whom come from underrepresented backgrounds. The programme will include learning how to code, and it will contribute to strengthening abilities, boosting confidence and empowering each girl to create her own future and achieve success in STEM studies. The programme instructors will provide instruction in programming and teach the principles of software engineering and how to code. In doing so, they will address important social issues surrounding the gender gap in STEM and foster a sense of community. The summer curriculums focus on real-life tools (Ruby, JavaScript, HTML, CSS) to empower the girls on their educational journeys.

This preparatory action follows up on a previous pilot project. It directly encourages and supports the adoption of the relevant accessibility requirements of European Standard EN 301 549 v1.1.2 by awarding grants to firms, associations or not-for-profit organisations which incorporate settings that meet the requirements of the standard as the default option for their authoring tools or platforms. Priority will be given to open-source or free-to-use tools and platforms. The grants will also be available to Member State authorities that develop internal web-authoring tools or platforms for public sector websites and can also be used for the testing of services.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

It is time to reconsider the concept of freedom in the digital sphere. The current state of the digital economy powerfully demonstrates the paradoxes of network freedom: internet giants benefit from an extraordinarily free, immensely profitable, dynamic market, yet their business models raise basic questions about precisely this freedom in the digital sphere. Even though some legislative actions to regulate digital companies are already under way – in this regard, reference should be made to the Commission proposal regarding a digital tax – these measures only partly tackle the problems with digital monopolies. The regulatory framework, including Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 April 2016 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data, and repealing Directive 95/46/EC (General Data Protection Regulation) (OJ L 119, 4.5.2016, p. 1) and Directive (EU) 2019/790 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 April 2019 on copyright and related rights in the Digital Single Market and amending Directives 96/9/EC and 2001/29/EC (OJ L 130, 17.5.2019, p. 92), shows that the Union is a leader in protecting the data of users and securing cultural diversity by allowing fair remuneration of artists.

However, there is no European competition oversight of the mainly US-located digital monopolies that far too often use their market power to influence public opinion or legislators. Furthermore, they are based on a dubious business model at best, as the scandal involving Cambridge Analytica and Facebook scandal shows.

The Commission came up with similar considerations in its communication entitled 'Tackling online disinformation: a European approach', issued in April 2018, stating the need for a more transparent, trustworthy and accountable online ecosystem. On the issue of fake news, it pointed out that '...mechanisms which enable the creation, amplification and dissemination of disinformation rely upon a lack of transparency and traceability in the existing platform ecosystem and on the impact of algorithms and online advertising models', and that therefore 'it is necessary to promote adequate changes in platforms' conduct, a more accountable information ecosystem, enhanced fact-checking capabilities and collective knowledge on disinformation, and the use of new technologies to improve the way information is produced and disseminated online'.

Further on, the communication states the need to improve transparency as to the origin and production of information, encourage diversity of information, and checks on its credibility. In further remarks, it seeks 'to fashion inclusive solutions. Effective long-term solutions require awareness-raising, more media literacy, broad stakeholder involvement and the cooperation of public authorities, online platforms, advertisers, trusted flaggers, journalists and media groups.'

In the same spirit, this pilot project will create a new European digital platform in accordance with a strong Union regulatory framework. The platform will work on a business model that is fundamentally different to the data trading model Facebook and Google use. The European alternative will aim to provide quality content without restricting freedom of linking. Instead, there must be a licensing regime that underpins high-quality journalism. A common European platform, therefore, could mean a joint action at European level against fake news and hate speech. The need to provide an alternative is not only highlighted by the recent scandals, but also by the fact that there are initiatives within the Union to launch alternative platforms, such as Verimi.

Additionally, the pilot project covers a broad range of objectives and policies, taking stock of the work done by the Commission in the field. It is also part of its drive to create a digital single market. The Commission aims to make the Union's rules more future-oriented and aligned with the rapid advance of technological development.

The pilot project is an additional tool to promote the digitisation of information published by listed companies in Europe, including the use of innovative technologies to interconnect national databases. Furthermore, the pilot project could link the existing platform of Europeana, which is already a Commission-run digital platform for cultural heritage. Through Europeana, citizens and the cultural and creative industries can access European culture for the widest possible variety of purposes. This new European platform could be merged with Europeana in the future. Public broadcasters such as ARTE, newspaper publishers and cultural institutions such as universities, theatres, museums and many others should participate.

The pilot project is divided into two phases:

Phase 1: Gaining an overview

The first phase will involve taking stock of initiatives connected to online platforms within the Union at a local, regional and (inter)national level, whether private or public. Stakeholders and experts need to be consulted and a study could be launched in order to gain an overview of initiatives on all levels. Finally, these initiatives will be analysed to assess to what extent and in which specific areas they are suitable to help build a European platform. Furthermore, an alternative business model to data trading needs to be found.

Phase 2: Constructing the platform

In the second phase, existing platforms have to be adjusted and linked together with the stakeholders in order to provide a European platform covering all kinds of content, including journalism, videos and pictures. It would fit in with the Commission's plan to set up a platform on disinformation.

Legal basis

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

Reading disability is one of the most common neurological condition that affects European citizens. Dyslexia and other disorders are not related to intelligence or to a child's desire to learn, but it is sometimes hard to find, develop and incorporate the right instruments in everyday life.

This is especially true for the public institutions that must be accessible and transparent for everyone, including the most vulnerable people.

This pilot project will develop a Europe-wide system for access to official documents for people with reading disabilities.

Steps:

- (1) assessing the current technologies available, including typefaces (free fonts such as openDyslexia, for example) and supporting IT software;
- (2) assessing which documents/websites/publications should be made available with the utmost priority and then defining a roadmap for a 'reading disorder friendly' environment for the European Institutions;
- (3) converting at least the most recent official documents with an appropriate format and/or typeface;
- (4) converting the complete Union archive of acts, publications, online presence and texts, using the predefined format.

Estimated costs

Depending on which technology the relevant departments decide to implement, the cost of the pilot project may vary, but, in general, many products and tools are distributed under GNU/open source licences. Where possible, the technology may be customised so as to better meet the needs of the institutions.

It may also be possible to launch a Europe-wide public procurement procedure in order to select a company or start-up that could build the technology from scratch.

Once is defined and well established, the solution could also be shared with national and local authorities in order to make even more documents and official acts available.

Remarks

The pilot project will develop and trial:

- (i) reliable online checks to identify and protect or block under-age children using sites or apps processing personal data, providing peer-to-peer or one-to-many communication services or providing goods and services that are potentially harmful to children;
- (ii) reliable consent mechanisms for holders of parental responsibilities;
- (iii) effective support mechanisms for children encountering difficult situations online;
- (iv) a mechanism for defending children's rights in the online domain;
- (v) options for online access to Union content dedicated to children; and
- (vi) mechanisms to involve children in the decision-making process for the infrastructure.

In carrying out the above tasks, the pilot project will involve relevant European and Member State stakeholders in the authentication and validation supply chain.

In particular, the Connecting Europe Facility supports the cross-border exchange of eID attributes so that they can be used to implement child protection mechanisms (e.g. age verification for access to online content based on the date of birth contained in the eID).

The pilot project will be implemented over two years (2020-2021).

Remarks

Europe's capacity to compete in the global market will depend on its capacity to convert scientific and technological knowledge into innovative products and services. Furthermore, the appeal of Europe will strongly depend on how its regions can conceive an inspiring, motivating and future-oriented environment for its citizens. The transformation of society by digital technologies is creating opportunities for Europe that a joint effort between the arts and technology could help fully exploit. In the digital world, Europe can stake a claim on leadership in ways of living and in those components of the digital revolution that most depend on creativity, i.e. broadly in 'content'. A committed partnership between the arts and technology can make this claim a reality in areas as diverse as social inclusion, new digital media (augmented reality, new media such as social media, etc.), urban development (smart cities, Internet of Things, etc.) or the future of mobility.

Enhanced collaboration between the arts and technology would not only stimulate innovation and thereby enhance the competitiveness of Europe; it would also help unleash creativity in society and in European regions. Multiple presidency conclusions on 'crossovers from culture to businesses' have therefore invited the European institutions to consider enhancing collaboration between the arts and technology for a holistic exploration of opportunities that overcomes the traditional boundaries of sectors, disciplines or the culture-engineering divide.

The Commission has reacted by launching the STARTS initiative - innovation at the nexus of science, technology and the arts. This is a highly pertinent step focused on promoting innovation in industry, with the arts as the catalyst for unconventional thinking and exploration. The Commission is fostering innovation rooted in such collaboration by introducing lighthouse projects that will put forward the crucial role of the arts in tackling challenges in the context of the digital single market.

This preparatory action will build on the work carried out by the pilot projects preceding it and explore how to best introduce the programme across the board and have STARTS ideas extended from pure industrial settings to, for instance, areas of regional and urban development where the digital also plays a prominent role. It will develop a coherent horizontal framework for 'art-technology' thinking in Europe across sectors and disciplines as well as across pertinent activities of European institutions (including framework programmes structural funds and education programmes).

The preparatory action will create a network of key players from the art world (art institutions and artists engaging with technology), digital media relying on the arts for media content, industry that considers art as a means for exploration of possible applications, and regions and cities willing to create infrastructure to host collaborations of artists and technologists as a seed for urban development. It will support artistic explorations of technology, e.g. by supporting technologies for performances and installations, and will stimulate the most promising pathways by seed-funding ideas for art-technology collaborations. It will in particular foster practical mechanisms that help turn ideas emerging from such collaborative explorations into tangible assets for European society and industry.

Remarks

Sustainable water management is essential for Europe, given the global trend of ever-higher water consumption. Water scarcity and the role of water in a broader context of preservation of natural habitats must be tackled through methods for water reuse, reduction of waste and measures to conserve natural water habitats. The capacity of European regions to tackle the issue of water scarcity beyond resource efficiency is an important issue to address. It will in particular be important to enable multi-stakeholder governance of these scarce resources and to increase awareness of the fact that water is a valuable resource.

Opening up the traditional water sector to new technologies, in particular digital technologies, will help introduce efficiency and productivity in water management, but will also help raise awareness of the problems and position of sustainable water management in a broader context of sustainability and preservation. For example, data from sensors and robotics can help cope with water waste, virtual reality can introduce scenarios for future use of water resources, augmented reality can help evaluate different policies and help citizens better understand and react to water problems. An important aspect of the management of natural resources is community involvement (e.g. community-based measurements of pollution levels or water shortage), where digital technologies can play an important role.

Action must be taken to speak to the heart of innovators and to stimulate their minds to come up with creative solutions. The contention is that in this context new opportunities arise for joint efforts between digital technologies and artistic practices. Performance artworks and virtual or augmented reality can jointly address the need to raise awareness. Artists can come up with novel uses of digital technologies, such as artificial intelligence, to help address water sustainability in new and unforeseen ways. Links between digital technologies and traditional crafts (such as, for example, boat building) can give rise to new forms of alliances for conserving water habitats by, for instance, linking cultural and ecological aspects for tourism.

Remarks

This pilot project will support actions in the area of independent and inclusive access to online content and services for people with cognitive disabilities. Building on the work of the W3C's Web Accessibility Initiative, under this project two specific actions will be taken. First, it will seek to create an overview of existing research/studies and identify gaps in web accessibility requirements for cognitive disabilities. The overview will then serve as guidance on practical measures to further accessibility. Second, it will seek to propose/promote tools drawing on artificial intelligence, machine learning or similar solutions to automate the transformation and/or adaptation of web content and services in a way that enables persons with cognitive disabilities to understand and use such content and services (content absorption). Equally, it will seek to propose the simplification or adaptation of web-authoring tools that persons with cognitive disabilities could use to create online content (content creation). The project may be implemented on the basis of a tender for the first action and a public grant for the second action(s); it may be implemented in a way that complements existing projects, but overlaps should be prevented.

- promoting transnational marketing, branding and distribution of audiovisual works on all other non-theatrical platforms,
- supporting audience development as a means of stimulating interest in, and improving access to, European audiovisual works, in particular through promotion, events, film literacy and festivals,

This appropriation covers the prospective financial contribution of the Commission to the LUX Prize through the promotion/dissemination of European films shortlisted by the LUX Prize.

It will also cover the Commission's prospective financial contribution to the LUX Prize for subtitling and promoting participating European films.

The contributions from the EFTA States pursuant to the Agreement on the European Economic Area, and in particular Article 82 thereof and Protocol 32 thereto, must be added to the appropriations entered in this article. By way of information, these amounts derive from contributions from the EFTA States entered against Article 6 3 0 of the statement of revenue, which constitute assigned revenue in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation; they give rise to the provision of corresponding appropriations and to implementation under the 'European Economic Area' Annex to this part of the statement of expenditure in this section, which forms an integral part of the general budget.

Any revenue from the contributions from candidate countries and, if applicable, the Western Balkan potential candidates for participating in Union programmes entered in Item 6 0 3 1 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations, according to the same ratio as between the amount authorised for expenditure on administrative management and the total appropriations entered for the programme, in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation.

Any revenue from the contributions from the countries of the European neighbourhood area in accordance with the procedures defined with those countries following the framework Agreements providing for their participation in Union programmes as entered in Item 6 0 3 3 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations, according to the same ratio as between the amount authorised for expenditure on administrative management and the total appropriations entered for the programme, in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation.

Any revenue from the contribution from the Swiss Confederation's contribution for participation in Union programmes entered under Item 6 0 3 3 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations, according to the same ratio as between the amount authorised for expenditure on administrative management and the total appropriations entered for the programme, in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation.

In addition to the traditional actions carried out via the MEDIA sub-programme, the additional funding is necessary to carry out the following actions:

- actions supporting European cinema operators' networks;
- multilingual access to quality programmes for as many Union citizens as possible, building on the success of the preparatory action on 'Subtitling of European cultural content throughout Europe' in the period 2016-2018. Continuing multilingual access to television programmes is crucial for reaching Union citizens in their mother tongues and thus disseminating European cultural content, educating and fostering the richness and diversity of European languages.

It concerns essentially the funding or co-funding of the production or dissemination of multimedia (radio, TV, internet, etc.), information products, including pan-European networks made up of local and national media delivering news on European affairs, as well as the tools necessary to develop such a policy. Part of this appropriation will be used to ensure continuity of existing actions.

This appropriation also covers support expenditure such as studies, meetings, ex post controls, expert technical and administrative assistance not involving public authority tasks outsourced by the Commission under ad hoc service contracts, evaluation and audit on current or future activities, feasibility studies, publications, and the repayment of travel and related expenses of experts.

Where appropriate, the procurement and grant procedures may include the conclusion of framework partnerships, with a view to promoting a stable financing framework for the pan-European media funded under this appropriation.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

The objective of the preparatory action is to continue the achievements of the previous pilot project, which, through specific actions, sought to increase critical thinking towards the media among citizens of all ages and to test the feasibility and usefulness of such actions. Critical thinking includes, among other skills, the ability to distinguish information from propaganda, to deconstruct media communication and information media policies and to interact with social media in a mindful way. Its implementation covered a wide range of Member States with the final goal of improving the technical, cognitive, social, civic and creative skills of citizens in order to stimulate their civic engagement and their awareness of the importance of taking action and directly participating in social and democratic life. Media is understood to mean all kinds of media outlets, such as radio, internet, broadcasting, newspapers and social media. The target group was composed of citizens of all ages, with a particular focus on minorities, low-skilled people and people at risk of being socially marginalised. The pilot project included social media campaigns, the creation of networks to share best practices, conferences, workshops and training programmes.

Cultural venues are evolving to combine film, music, live performances, exhibitions and events and offer learning opportunities such as workshops on, for example, new technologies. Therefore, the cinematic experience can be renewed, taking into account audiences' needs and with a strong focus on attracting young audiences. The prototypes could be multifunctional venues for screenings, concerts and performances that also provide scope for virtual-reality experiences, gaming, debates, etc.

This preparatory action may complement funding from the Europa Cinemas network, which provides training and networking opportunities as well as financial support to theatres that screen an above-average number of non-national European films.

The preparatory action will test new cinema-going experiences, while taking into account local audiences' needs, and will focus on:

- (a) improving cinema infrastructure (e.g. improving cinema accessibility),
- (b) audience development,
- (c) building communities through learning experiences (offering a wide range of learning activities),
- (d) testing new ways of rethinking the cinema experience and creating innovative cultural venues.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

For more than 500 years the book industry has been a creative and innovative pioneer with a high impact on social and cultural development in Europe. Particularly the German book market, as the second-largest book market in the world, can be seen as a role model when it comes to cultural variety and technological standards.

Especially in times of fake news and information overload, media companies that provide orientation and reliable content are becoming more relevant. Such challenges as digitisation and monopolisation are forcing established players to demand a culture of collaboration and innovation. However, innovation programmes such as Horizon 2020 do not meet the needs of the creative and cultural industries. Hence, developing new approaches and products is difficult because of SME structures and for funding reasons.

Action required so as to ensure content variety in Europe and a leading role for European companies when it comes to innovative media:

- central meeting point: building an holistic platform for innovation in the content sector (virtual or otherwise);
- matchmaking: connecting different cultural and creative industries, tech companies, start-ups, research institutes and universities, and SMEs and corporations;
- the right mindset: engaging industry to develop new business models and technologies by creating a general framework for innovative thinking and working;
- technology transfer and collaboration: supporting the development of a digital infrastructure by European players in order to meet high demands and costs, which cannot be handled by individual companies.

The aim of this pilot project is to enable the European media sector to be ready and fit for the future. Overall, CONTENTshift will be a support network, where actors can find the right information, the right people and the right ideas for content innovation in Europe.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

This pilot project has two distinct objectives:

- providing financial support for investigative journalism,
- providing direct support for investigative journalism and protection of journalists exposed.

(1) As regards the first objective, the pilot project will create a permanent and dedicated fund for supporting independent investigative journalists. The goal is to provide financial resources to help journalists face potential legal proceedings, cooperate across borders and ensure their financial independence.

Quality investigative journalism requires proper tools and resources in order to continue to reveal wrongdoing throughout the Union and beyond its borders. That is why a Union financial instrument for supporting such projects is of utmost importance, its direct beneficiaries being European citizens. A dedicated Union financial instrument will be created that benefits legal entities (professional organisations and associations, consortiums, editors and publishers) without preventing individuals such as freelancers from applying for grants (provided that they meet certain criteria, which will have to be looked into as part of the project). This funding scheme will be managed by an independent intermediary organisation (with no national links). Applications for funding will be assessed by a team composed of members of the Commission, investigative journalists and other relevant experts.

Examples of projects that could be supported:

- (a) documenting and investigating the use of European funds;
- (b) mapping of organised crime entities in one or more Member States; eligible expenses could include training and tools such as software needed for aggregating data for public interest or experts' input, or any other expenses contributing to the development of investigative capabilities;
- (c) covering expenses for producing expensive documents required to support an investigation; in Romania, full release of land register documents costs up to EUR 800 (EUR 20 per page; in the United Kingdom, one page can cost up to GBP 9; in Malta, the cost is EUR 5 per sheet;
- (d) subscriptions to software programmes correlating data and databases (costing up to EUR 10 000);
- (e) television-related investigative projects; in some Central and Eastern European countries, television media freedom has been under constant threat, since most stations are owned or influenced media oligarchs; relevant studies in this field have been published by organisations such as the Centre for Media Transparency;
- (f) Court costs relating to an earlier or ongoing investigation if there are clear links established with the investigation or work; in this specific instance, the fund could only be used to post bail or pay legal fees, but not fees relating to damages set in a judgment.

(2) As regards the second objective, the pilot project will set up a Europe-wide rapid response mechanism in direct support of investigative journalists with a view to strengthening press and media freedom in Member States and candidate countries. The purpose of the mechanism will be to make press freedom violations more visible as well as to protect journalists who are exposed. It will involve all stakeholders needed to counteract threats to press and media freedom. It will be flexible enough to adjust to rapidly changing needs. The scope of activities includes advocacy, fact-finding missions, and monitoring to inform the European public and to raise public awareness. It will provide direct support to journalists under threat in direct collaboration with European, regional and local stakeholders in the field of media freedom. This will include providing direct advice and legal support as well as offering shelter and assistance so that they can continue to pursue their profession. Representatives will be sent to countries affected and anti-impunity action will be supported through advocacy. Monitoring will provide reliable and comprehensive information for the public as well as European authorities while raising overall awareness and triggering early warnings. Instruments will be adjusted to accommodate individual needs on a case-by-case basis. This toolkit will prevent violations and will improve press and media freedom.

Remarks

The project will address the failure to communicate Europe to younger generations of Europeans that is the result of a lack of a truly transnational public sphere for media, the fact that traditional media no longer attract young Europeans in the same way as the internet does and the fact that national media do not cover pan-European topics positively or in a way which unites people. Therefore, the project will more effectively portray the sense of togetherness which is at the heart of European identity and which is reflected in a common culture, similar lifestyles and shared values.

The younger generations of Europeans consume information and entertainment primarily online using new social media and content-sharing platforms. Therefore, it must be made clear that young Europeans get their information online. In order to enter into a dialogue about Europe via relevant themes and topics, attract younger European citizens to European ideas and values and empower truly European citizens through current and future information and dialogue platforms, the pilot project will take a radically new approach to providing news and information to young people.

The pilot project will be based on new concepts of editorial thinking, a new multiplatform strategy and a highly innovative and flexible technical infrastructure that allows fast adaptation, translation and conversion of content in many languages and formats across Europe, creating a highly innovative, digital product that intentionally stands out from traditional media.

The project is targeted at Europeans aged between 18 and 34, i.e. at a time of life when many young people are developing their political views and laying the foundations for their professional and private lives. The focus is on informative, thought-provoking, entertaining and emotive content. All content will be bundled on one specific online service. Furthermore, it will be made accessible on all kinds of social media as well as other online gateways through which the target group can be reached.

The content will deal with topics that are of current interest for young Europeans in the Union and will be put into context in order to make it compelling and appealing to the target group. The European perspective will be created by comparing and contrasting regional experiences and points of view on matters of pan-European importance. Young Europeans share an interest in issues such as work, education, equality, love, culture and music. Nevertheless, there are significant differences between countries and between urban and rural areas. The aim is to address relevant topics of pan-European importance and at the same time provide a forum for local perspectives, allowing young users to identify strongly with the content.

Controversial opinions will provide an impetus for debate. On political issues, a personal approach makes it easier to understand the effects of institutional decisions. In this context, well-known influencers and local personalities from social networks will have their say in addition to actors from the political sphere in order to bridge the gap between European affairs and the everyday reality of users' lives.

This ambitious pan-European and multilingual project will launch offline and online an open, true, deep and constructive debate about recent and future life in Europe among young Europeans, using innovative formats on digital platforms, with the ultimate goal of creating greater awareness about European visions and realities and enhancing Europeans' commitment to European values and ideas so that they subsequently contribute to a more active civil society.

The project will build on a strong partnership of independent and innovative media across Europe, including the start-up and creative sector. The project will also benefit from substantial investment in research and innovation, e.g. in automated translation in the media sector.

Remarks

The Union has 24 official Member State languages. In addition, there are unofficial regional languages as well as minority languages and languages used by immigrants and important trading partners. Several studies have found a striking imbalance in terms of digital language technologies. Very few languages, such as English, French and Spanish, are well supported technologically, while more than 20 languages are in danger of digital extinction. The recent study 'Language equality in the digital age', commissioned by the European Parliament's Science and Technology Options Assessment (STOA) panel, made 11 general recommendations on how to address this growing threat. It was followed up by a European Parliament resolution of 11 September 2018 on language equality in the digital age (on the basis of a joint CULT/ITRE report), making 45 general recommendations, several of which follow the STOA study.

Technology-enabled multilingualism is missing one crucial and mission-critical piece – a strategic research and implementation agenda. This pilot project will develop an agenda and a roadmap for achieving full digital language equality in Europe by 2030. In close collaboration with the European institutions, the project will bring together all stakeholders (including industry, research and innovation communities, national innovation organisations, national and international public administrations and associations), initiate a structured dialogue and public consultations, organise brainstorming sessions and conferences throughout Europe, and pull together all initiatives that are currently isolated and fragmented in order to produce a sustainable and interwoven strategy for human language technologies in Europe in all relevant sectors and areas of life, including trade, education, health, tourism, culture and governance. This will also extend to an investigation into the impact of artificial intelligence technologies on the linguistic landscape in Europe, including the ever-increasing brain drain of young talent to other continents.

Remarks

The pilot project involves proposing that grants be provided by the Commission to one or more NGOs in order to support initiatives for the swift removal of child sexual abuse material on the internet. It is important to help organisations already working proactively to build platforms and umbrella organisations so as to cooperate across all Member States. If stakeholders receive more funds, they will be able to cooperate more effectively to prevent the dissemination of such material. The pilot project will support cooperation between actors in the provision of training for staff, development of digital resources and exchange of information to detect and remove potential harmful material. As communication in this area needs to be safe and quick, such solutions should also be supported.

Remarks

These remarks are applicable to all the budget lines in this chapter.

This appropriation shall be used for Horizon 2020 — the framework programme for research and innovation which covers the 2014-2020 period.

Horizon 2020 shall play a central role in the delivery of the Europe 2020: a strategy for smart, sustainable and inclusive growth ('Europe 2020 strategy') by providing a common strategic framework for the Union's funding of excellent research and innovation, thus acting as a vehicle for leveraging private and public investment, creating new job opportunities and ensuring Europe's long-term sustainability, growth, economic development, social inclusion and industrial competitiveness, as well as addressing societal challenges across the Union.

In Horizon 2020, gender equality is addressed as a cross-cutting issue in order to rectify imbalances between women and men and to integrate a gender dimension in research and innovation content. Particular account shall be taken of the need to step up efforts to enhance the participation at all levels, including decision-making, of women in research and innovation.

This appropriation is intended to be used in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 1290/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 December 2013 laying down the rules for participation and dissemination in 'Horizon 2020 — the Framework Programme for Research and Innovation (2014-2020)' and repealing Regulation (EC) No 1906/2006 (OJ L 347, 20.12.2013, p. 81).

The contributions from the EFTA States pursuant to the Agreement on the European Economic Area, and in particular Article 82 thereof and Protocol 32 thereto, must be added to the appropriations entered in this chapter. By way of information, these amounts derive from contributions from the EFTA States entered against Article 6 3 0 of the statement of revenue, which constitute assigned revenue in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation; they give rise to the provision of corresponding appropriations and to implementation under the 'European Economic Area' Annex to this part of the statement of expenditure in this section, which forms an integral part of the general budget.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover the scientific and technical support and research activities carried out by the Joint Research Centre (JRC) in accordance with Part VI of the specific programme implementing Horizon 2020 'Non-nuclear direct actions of the JRC', in order to provide customer-driven scientific and technical support to Union policies. The JRC shall focus on:

- excellent science: the JRC shall carry out research to enhance the scientific evidence base for policymaking and to examine emerging fields of science and technology, including through an exploratory research programme,
- industrial leadership: the JRC shall contribute to competitiveness in the Union through support to the standardisation process and standards with pre-normative research, development of reference materials and measurements, and harmonisation of methodologies in five focal areas (energy; transport; the flagship initiative 'Digital Agenda for Europe'; security and safety; consumer protection). It shall carry out safety assessments of new technologies in areas such as energy and transport and health and consumer protection. It shall contribute to facilitating the use, standardisation and validation of space technologies and data, in particular to tackle societal challenges,
- societal challenges: the JRC shall carry out research on the following themes: health, demographic change and well-being; food security, sustainable agriculture and forestry, marine, maritime and inland water research and the bio-economy; secure, clean and efficient energy; smart, green and integrated transport; climate action, environment, resource efficiency and raw materials; Europe in a changing world — inclusive, innovative and reflective societies; secure societies — protecting freedom and security of Europe and its citizens.

This appropriation covers specific expenditure relating to research and support activities, including the purchase of scientific and technical equipment, subcontracting of scientific and technical services, access to information and acquisition of consumables. This includes expenditure on scientific infrastructure directly incurred for the projects concerned. This also includes expenses of external users accessing JRC physical research infrastructures in order to conduct research, undertake experimental development, or provide education and training.

It also covers expenditure of any type concerning research and scientific support tasks relating to activities under this article entrusted to the JRC within the framework of its participation on a competitive basis in support of the Union policies and on behalf of outside bodies.

In accordance with Article 21 of the Financial Regulation, any revenue entered in Items 6 2 2 3 and 6 2 2 6 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations.

The corresponding amount is estimated at EUR 5 000 000.

Former Item 04 03 77 28

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

Differences between social groups on the basis of age, origin or income have been increasing in many European countries over the last few decades. Moreover, the economic crisis has accelerated certain macroeconomics trends and recovery has been uneven. Sluggish economic growth since the crisis has contributed to stagnant, or even falling, standards of living in many European households. Although inequality is predominately measured in terms of economic variables, such as earnings, income or wealth, there is a growing recognition that inequality is multidimensional and experienced across a number of life domains, such as health, physical security and participation. Oxfam Intermon and the London School of Economics, combining academic expertise with practitioner knowledge, have developed a systematic approach to conceptualising and measuring multidimensional inequality. Work shall be conducted with the advisor support of Eurofound and other possible partners. The Multidimensional Inequality Framework (MIF) developed through that collaboration is theoretically grounded in Amartya Sen's capability approach and facilitates a systematic assessment of inequalities.

The MIF has been developed to allow for measurement of inequality between groups (age, gender, ethnicity, disability status, etc.), sometimes referred to as 'horizontal inequality' (e.g. inequality in the experience of physical violence or loneliness), and overall measures of inequality, sometimes referred to as 'vertical inequality' (e.g. inequality in educational attainment or wealth), which can also be expressed in terms of social gradients. Through the identification of drivers, the MIF also recognises the interconnections between dimensions; inequalities in one domain can be seen to drive inequalities in another.

The MIF offers European leaders a solid path not only to understand inequalities and their interconnections in seven life domains, but also to identify drivers and potential solutions to fight inequalities at Union level and in each Member State. The seven life domains around which the MIF is structured are:

- (1) Life and health: Inequality in the capability to be alive and to live a healthy life;
- (2) Personal safety and security: Inequality in the capability to live in physical safety and legal security;
- (3) Education and learning: Inequality in the capability to be knowledgeable, to understand and reason, and to have the skills to participate in society;
- (4) Financial security and dignified work: Inequality in the capability to achieve financial independence and security, enjoy dignified and fair work, and recognition of unpaid work and care;

- (5) Comfortable, independent and secure living conditions: Inequality in the capability to enjoy comfortable, independent and secure living conditions;
- (6) Participation, influence and voice: Inequality in the capability to participate in decision-making, have a voice and influence;
- (7) Individual, family and social life: Inequality in the capability to enjoy individual, family and social life, to express yourself and to have self-respect.

The flexibility of the MIF means that it can be applied to a variety of situations: to assess current levels of inequalities, to make comparisons between countries, and to examine trends over time.

The pilot project should use this multidimensional approach to develop a rich understanding of inequalities and identify drivers and potential solutions for decision makers to take steps to reduce inequalities within the Union at three levels: (1) within the Union, treated as one population, (2) within each Member State, and (3) between Member States for a selected range of comparable inequality indicators. In the future it will be possible to examine trends over time and to assess the impact of macro-level shocks such as the financial crisis.

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

In the Union there are about 25 billion square meters of built-up area, of which about 10 billion built before 1960 require substantial maintenance because of their structural condition, changes in environmental conditions and building sector regulations.

CHAPTER 10 02 — HORIZON 2020 — DIRECT ACTIONS OF THE JOINT RESEARCH CENTRE IN SUPPORT OF UNION POLICIES *(cont'd)*10 02 77 *(cont'd)*10 02 77 04 (cont'd)

Particularly relevant is the seismic vulnerability that characterises the building heritage of Member States with medium and high seismic hazard such as Italy and Greece, where the seismic events of recent decades have claimed thousands of victims and caused extensive economic damage, but also in some areas of Member States at low risk, such as Germany, France and Spain. Likewise, the energy performance of European buildings is unsatisfactory: in fact, the energy consumed in buildings is one of the biggest sources of CO₂ emissions in Europe. Therefore, an organic action plan is a primary objective for the Union in order to redevelop and modernise the existing building stock. In view of the huge number of constructions involved, the plan must be based on criteria of high efficiency and economic and environmental sustainability. That objective is comprehensively covered by Decision (EU) 2019/420 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 13 March 2019 amending Decision No 1313/2013/EU on a Union Civil Protection Mechanism (OJ L 77I, 20.3.2019, p. 1). That Decision pays much more attention, with respect to the past, to prevention and to the role of the Union in this connection through increasingly effective integration between risk reduction policies and cohesion policies. This pilot project defines, including by examining specifically identified case studies, solutions that, at the same time and in the least invasive way, can both reduce seismic vulnerability and increase energy efficiency in such a way to produce a significant environmental impact (reduction of CO₂ emissions, reduction of the waste that would be generated through widespread building replacement action, etc.) The measures to be developed should build on the experience already gained in the energy field on the basis of Directive 2010/31/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 19 May 2010 on the energy performance of buildings (OJ L 153, 18.6.2010, p. 13) and Directive 2012/27/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 25 October 2012 on energy efficiency, amending Directives 2009/125/EC and 2010/30/EU and repealing Directives 2004/8/EC and 2006/32/EC (OJ L 315, 14.11.2012, p. 1), albeit limited to building energy performance, and will be incorporated into a sustainable intervention process encompassing seismic reinforcement. The activities planned should be directly integrated into, and complementary with, those already under way within the Joint Research Centre, in particular under the SAFESUST project.

Remarks

These remarks are applicable to all the budget lines in this chapter.

This appropriation will be used for the Research and Training Programme of the European Atomic Energy Community (2019-2020) ('Euratom Programme') which is an integral part of Horizon 2020, the framework programme for research and innovation. The Euratom Programme will strengthen the research and innovation framework in the nuclear field and coordinate Member States' research efforts, thereby avoiding duplication, retaining critical mass in key areas, and ensuring public funding is used in an optimal way.

This appropriation will be used in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 1290/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 December 2013 laying down the rules for participation and dissemination in 'Horizon 2020 — the Framework Programme for Research and Innovation (2014-2020)' and repealing Regulation (EC) No 1906/2006 (OJ L 347, 20.12.2013, p. 81).

TITLE 10 — DIRECT RESEARCH

CHAPTER 10 03 — EURATOM PROGRAMME — DIRECT ACTIONS (cont'd)

The general objective of the Euratom Programme is to pursue nuclear research and training activities with an emphasis on continuous improvement of nuclear safety, security and radiation protection, in particular to potentially contribute to the long-term decarbonisation of the energy system in a safe, efficient and secure way. It will cover both RTD indirect actions on the fusion research and development, nuclear fission, safety and radiation protection research activities, as well as the Joint Research Centre (JRC) direct actions in nuclear security and safety. The JRC will provide independent customer-driven scientific and technological support for the implementation and monitoring of Community policies, in particular in the field of nuclear safety and security research and training. By achieving these objectives, the Euratom Programme will reinforce outcomes under the three priorities of the Horizon 2020: excellent science, industrial leadership and societal challenges. These objectives are clearly linked to those of the Europe 2020 and Energy 2020 strategies and the creation and operation of the European Research Area.

In accordance with Article 7 of the Euratom Treaty, the 2014-2018 Euratom Programme is bound by a five-year timeframe. The 2019-2020 Euratom Programme ensures the seamless continuation of the programme in 2019-2020. This approach ensures the continuity and coherence of action throughout the full seven-year period, 2014-2020, and therefore greater coherence with the Horizon 2020 timeline. This is all the more important in view of the fact that the Euratom Programmes and Horizon 2020 pursue mutually reinforcing objectives.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover the scientific and technical support and research activities carried out by the Joint Research Centre (JRC) to implement the research and training programme of the European Atomic Energy Community (2019-2020). Direct actions under the Euratom Programme shall have the following specific objectives:

- to improve nuclear safety including nuclear reactor and fuel safety, waste management, including final geological disposal as well as partitioning and transmutation; decommissioning, and emergency preparedness,
- to improve nuclear security including nuclear safeguards, non-proliferation, combating illicit trafficking, and nuclear forensics,
- to increase excellence in the nuclear science base for standardisation,
- to foster knowledge management, education and training,
- to support the policy of the Union on nuclear safety and security.

This appropriation also addresses the activities necessary for implementing safeguards pursuant to Chapter 7 of Title II of the Euratom Treaty and the obligations arising from the Non-Proliferation Treaty and implementation of the Commission's programme to support the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA).

It covers specific expenditure relating to research and support activities, including the purchase of scientific and technical equipment, subcontracting of scientific and technical services, access to information and acquisition of consumables. This includes expenditure on scientific infrastructure directly incurred for the projects concerned. This also includes expenses of external users accessing JRC physical research infrastructures in order to conduct research, undertake experimental development, or provide education and training.

This appropriation also covers expenditure of any type concerning research and scientific support tasks relating to activities under this article entrusted to the JRC within the framework of its participation on a competitive basis in support of Union policies and on behalf of outside bodies.

In accordance with Article 21 of the Financial Regulation, any revenue entered in Items 6 2 2 3 and 6 2 2 6 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations.

This appropriation is intended to finance the following activities for closer dialogue with the fishing industry and those affected by the common fisheries policy and the integrated maritime policy:

- grants to Advisory Councils (ACs) (following the adoption of Regulation (EU) No 1380/2013, the seven existing Regional Advisory Councils (RACs) were transformed into ACs and three new ones were created) to cover operational costs, as well as interpretation and translation costs of AC meetings,
- the implementation of measures to provide documentation about and explain the common fisheries policy aimed at the fishing industry and those affected by the common fisheries policy, as well as the integrated maritime policy.

The Commission continues supporting the functioning of the ACs with a financial contribution. It will participate in meetings when appropriate and analyse the recommendations issued by the ACs which may provide an input when drafting legislation. Through the consultation of stakeholders in the ACs, the involvement of people working in fisheries and other interest groups in the common fisheries policy process will be strengthened, so that greater account of specific regional characteristics is taken.

Part of this appropriation is earmarked also for information and communication activities linked to the common fisheries policy and the integrated maritime policy, as well as for communication activities addressed to the interested parties. Efforts continue to be made to inform the stakeholders and the specialised media in the Member States, as well as in the candidate countries about the common fisheries policy and the integrated maritime policy.

Any revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with Article 21 of the Financial Regulation.

Europe is a key market for the global cruise industry. In 2015 the global cruise industry carried 25 300 000 passengers, accounting for 956 597 jobs and generating total spending of USD 117 000 000 000 worldwide. The demand for cruise travel increased by 62 % in the ten years from 2005 to 2015.

All of this translates into economic value and jobs for Europe. However, the coastal and maritime regions need to create conditions to better integrate the advantages of cruise tourism. With that in mind, the preparatory action will establish a Charter of Good Practices for Cruises on the basis of the existing pan-European dialogue between cruise operators, ports and coastal tourism stakeholders. The focus should be on the environmental impact of receiving cruiseships, but also on the social impact and the way in which reception facilities at ports and in the regions concerned are to be adapted. This charter will cover the following:

- a design for a process to integrate all the maritime stakeholders involved,
- environmental aspects and mitigation policies to reduce externalities,
- social and economic dimension of cruises in the regions concerned,
- need for coordination between cruise ports and cities,
- best practices already in place.

This charter will make it possible to reduce externalities resulting from cruise activities and trigger more economic and social benefits for cities and their inhabitants. One example is the exchange of best practices on managing congestion in peak season. The charter will also help enhance mutual understanding between cruise ports and city authorities. Moreover, the scope of the charter needs to extend to the possible environmental impact of cruise services, and it will help raise awareness of best practices already in place at various cruise ports in order to avoid duplication.

Legal basis

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

Environmental and climate risks involve challenges that are not appropriately taken into account by the financial sector. Between 60 and 80 % of the coal, oil and gas reserves of publicly listed companies are 'unburnable' if the world is to have a chance of keeping global warming well below 2 °C and as closely as possible to 1,5 °C as agreed at the COP21 in Paris. This means in practice that a very substantial source of global systemic risk is currently embedded within the Union and global financial markets due to such 'carbon stranded assets'.

CHAPTER 12 02 — FINANCIAL SERVICES AND CAPITAL MARKETS (cont'd)12 02 77 (cont'd)12 02 77 09 (cont'd)

As the Commission points out in its action plan for financing sustainable growth, adopted in March 2018, 'The increase in weather-related natural disasters means that insurance companies need to prepare for higher costs. Banks will also be exposed to greater losses due to the lower profitability of companies most exposed to climate change or highly dependent on dwindling natural resources (...) close to 50 % of the exposure of euro area banks to risk is directly or indirectly linked to risks stemming from climate change'.

As part of its action plan for financing sustainable growth, the Commission came up with a proposal for a regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on the establishment of a framework to facilitate sustainable investment (COM(2018)0353). The aim was to embed the future Union sustainability taxonomy in Union law and provide the basis for using such a classification system in different legal framework, such as that for banking prudential standards. The Commission also set up in July 2018 a technical expert group on sustainable finance. The group published, based on broad consultation of all relevant stakeholders, a report providing a first taxonomy with a particular focus on climate change mitigation activities.

In the same context, the European Parliament's Committee on Economic Affairs adopted a report on sustainable finance that asked the Commission to adopt a regulatory strategy and a roadmap aimed inter alia at measuring sustainability risks within the Basel IV prudential framework for banks. The report includes a commitment to initiate a Union pilot project within the next annual budget so as to start developing a methodology with that purpose as well as a call for introducing European 'carbon stress tests' and a roadmap towards a mandatory reporting of 'carbon stranded assets'.

This pilot project supports the activities of the Commission as well as of the expert group on sustainable finance by providing dedicated resources for exploring how to develop methodologies that could be used by supervisors for measuring the intensity of climate/environmental risks to which banks are exposed (including risks related to the depreciation of assets due to changes in regulatory treatment). Such dedicated resources also support capacity building for developing an underlying methodology for 'carbon stress tests'.

Methodologies will have to be based on specific qualitative criteria and quantitative indicators and will be used by supervisors to assess (i) whether banks manage the abovementioned risks properly and (ii) whether the overall business strategy and investment policy of a bank is aligned with the Paris targets and Union-related environmental, social and governance goals. The pilot project is expected to build on the Union taxonomy to be laid down by the expert group and further developed by the platform to be set up by the Commission.

Remarks

Currently, there is a massive shift of money away from actively managed funds and into index funds that passively track established benchmark indices. There are a number of reasons for this recent development. First, private pensions have become more important and investors are looking for low-cost products as offered by passively managed funds in order to maximise their profits. Second, Directive 2014/65/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 15 May 2014 on markets in financial instruments and amending Directive 2002/92/EC and Directive 2011/61/EU (OJ L 173, 12.6.2014, p. 349) has entered into force and introduces stricter governance, accountability and transparency requirements that large investment firms can more easily meet.

Since the index funds industry is highly concentrated in three large investment firms located outside the Union, the high growth of index funds is leading to a concentration of ownership in European publicly listed corporations. Additionally, the shift to passively managed index funds increases the market power of the small group of virtually unstudied index providers setting the criteria for the inclusion of companies in key benchmark indices. This situation first and foremost gives cause for concern for the corporate governance of European firms, including but not limited to codetermination, long-term investments and location choice. Furthermore, 'common ownership' raises competition concerns. Moreover, the ongoing concentration process within the asset management industry may also have potentially negative consequences for financial stability in the Union.

This pilot project will conduct the first analysis of the consequences of common ownership in European publicly listed corporations by institutional investors. The analysis will be three-pronged, combining (1) the first truly comprehensive empirical mapping of common ownership in the Member States of the Union with (2) an analysis of the voting behaviour of the large index investment firms in European companies, (3) expert interviews with market participants and company executives about the influence of both index investment firms and index providers and (4) the impact on corporate governance, competition and financial stability in the Union.

Remarks

As demonstrated by recent media investigations into tax evasion and money laundering, such as the Panama Papers and Paradise Papers, the use of 'offshore' structures, such as companies, trusts, foundations and financial instruments held in or via other jurisdictions, allows not only the real ownership of wealth, but also its location and perhaps its very existence, to remain hidden. In the short to medium term, this secrecy allows wealth to escape taxation but also creates fertile ground for financial crimes such as corruption, money laundering, tax evasion and avoidance, and the funding of terrorism. In the longer term, this secrecy helps fuel inequality as approximately 50% of the wealth hidden offshore (wealth held offshore and not reported to authorities) belongs to the top 0.01% of the wealthiest people in the world. Offshore wealth is likely therefore to be a key factor responsible for exacerbating wealth inequality if it remains undertaxed.

Some progress have been made in the past to tackle secrecy, especially at Union level. Many Member States have land registries; they have adopted the directive on administrative cooperation to automatically exchange financial information among themselves (including bank accounts); and with the revision of the anti-money laundering directive, they will soon all have public registries of beneficial owners of companies and registries of trusts' beneficial owners accessible to persons with a legitimate interest in obtaining that information .

However, there are still gaps in the availability of important information in order to properly be able to tax wealth in the Union and fight money laundering. Having a less fragmented approach across the Union would be beneficial. The Union should consider the feasibility of and arrangements for creating a Union-wide registry in which details of ownership of certain types of assets are recorded, in order to ensure the necessary linkages between existing transparency mechanisms and with a view to adding new key information necessary to fight tax evasion and money laundering.

The pilot project should be used by the Commission to explore how to better collect and link full beneficial ownership information (e.g. registries of land, companies, trusts and foundations; and central depositories of securities ownership) and analyse areas for further work (e.g. design, scope and capacity constraints) for such a Union registry. The Commission should pay special attention to the scope for including other assets in that registry (e.g. bitcoins, art, gold and properties) and to the IT requirements and take into consideration privacy issues.

By mapping existing information (in a public and non-public form) and through exchanges with experts in the relevant field (taxation, corruption, money laundering, financial markets, IT and law), this pilot project will provide recommendations for the possible creation of an asset registry which could be turned into policy action in the future if technical and political conditions were met.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover European Regional Development Fund support under the investment for growth and jobs goal in the 2014-2020 period in a new category of region — 'transition regions' — that replaces the 2007-2013 phasing-out and phasing-in system. This category of regions includes regions with a GDP per capita between 75 % and 90 % of the average GDP of the Union.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover European Regional Development Fund support under the Investment for growth and jobs goal in more developed regions in the 2014-2020 programming period. While interventions in the less developed regions will remain the priority for cohesion policy, this appropriation is thus intended to cover important challenges that concern all Member States such as global competition in the knowledge-based economy, the shift towards the low-carbon economy and social polarisation exacerbated by the current economic climate. This category of regions includes regions with a GDP per capita above 90 % of the average GDP of the Union.

Remarks

Union urban development policy, and international cooperation on urban policy, is moving forward in areas such as smart cities, waste management and climate change adaptation. Other areas are much less tested. Accordingly, this pilot project will test international experience and examine best practice regarding four sustainable urban development themes which are relatively neglected and yet are crucially important for the quality of life in cities inside and outside the Union. These are areas in which cities across the world, including in less prosperous countries, have much experience to offer Union cities. For example, a fundamentally important field is the circular economy, where Union cities have much to learn from non-Union cities. Janez Potočnik, former European Commissioner and now Co-Chair of the United Nations Environment Programme's International Resource Panel, has said that 'transition to the circular economy is not only necessary, it is unavoidable'. This is therefore one of the four key areas where there is a need to test new practices on the basis of international experience, which in turn can point the way for future Union urban development programmes under cohesion policy. To ensure the success of this cooperation it is important that it involve the stakeholders inside and outside the Union, notably the research community and the private sector.

The Adriatic Ionian Network of Universities, Regions, Chambers of Commerce and Cities (AI-NURECC) initiative involving key stakeholders in the Adriatic and Ionian regions, who have joined forces to support implementation of the EUSAIR, will take more effective ownership of the EUSAIR's main objectives and opportunities, at regional and local level, and foster the sound implementation of its action plan.

The AI-NURECC initiative is being coordinated by the Conference of Peripheral Maritime Regions with support from four partners in the area: the Adriatic Ionian Euroregion, the Forum of Adriatic and Ionian Cities, the Forum of the Adriatic and Ionian Chambers of Commerce, and UniAdrion.

The initial AI-NURECC initiative ran for 18 months (ending in autumn 2018) and feedback from stakeholders and participants showed the need for a second, extended initiative.

The AI-NURECC initiative spin-off will run for 36 months.

The AI-NURECC initiative spin-off will:

- Enhance regional and local authorities' ownership of the EUSAIR's main objectives and opportunities, promoting an efficient participatory and bottom-up approach;
- Promote the development of sustainable tourism, focusing on the eight priority activities for Thematic Steering Group (TSG) 4 as set out in the report in connection with the EUSAIR national tourism strategies on common priorities and actions in relation to the EUSAIR action plan – Pillar IV: 'Sustainable Tourism' – and support the implementation of the activities in cooperation with TSG 4 members;
- Encourage multi-actor networking and collaboration among representatives of the private and public sector and civil society so as to:
 - foster coordination of Union, national, regional and local policies to develop a circular economy;
 - work on territorial challenges in specific Adriatic and Ionian territories (mountains, islands and sparsely populated areas) by linking the EUSAIR to the new territorial agenda and supporting regions with specific territorial challenges (existing platforms, young people in areas with territorial challenges) with a view to establishing a dialogue;
 - increase the skills and knowledge of young people, students and civil servants, including those in areas with territorial challenges;
 - promote the EUSAIR cross-pillar topics 'Research and Innovation', 'SME Development' and 'Capacity Building', i.e. to support entrepreneurship, transnational clusters and digital innovation hub activities for the EUSAIR, and contribute to disseminating and strengthening the existing RIS3 platforms and working on new ones, where appropriate.
- Enable synergies with the EUSAIR TSGs;
- Promote synergies with other initiatives (WESTMED, BLUEMED) or other macroregional strategies (EUSDR, EUSBSR, EUSALP).

CHAPTER 13 03 — EUROPEAN REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT FUND AND OTHER REGIONAL OPERATIONS (cont'd)13 03 77 (cont'd)13 03 77 28 (cont'd)

The target groups of the AI-NURECC initiative spin-off will be:

- regional and local government practitioners;
- universities, vocational education and training institutions, students and student associations;
- young people, including unemployed young people;
- regional or local development agencies;
- chambers of Commerce;
- small and medium-sized enterprises;
- creative and cultural industries;
- private investors;
- island, rural and mountainous communities and networks.

The activities undertaken by the AI-NURECC initiative spin-off will be to:

- Organise AI-NURECC training seminars focused on different thematic areas and cross-cutting issues (sustainable tourism, blue growth, SME development, R&I, etc.);
- Deal with RIS3, innovation and SME development issues within the strategy;
- Create the AI-NURECC scholarship fund (a six-month free internship in an innovative Adriatic-Ionian enterprise);
- Develop specific studies (e.g. on how to tackle challenges affecting the development of sustainable AI cruise tourism, maritime western silk roads, indicators and data collections for EUSAIR islands, etc.).

The territorial scope of the AI-NURECC initiative spin-off will be the EUSAIR macroregion.

Activities, where possible, should target or be implemented in AI territories with specific challenges (e.g. mountains, islands and sparsely populated areas).

Given the activities that the AI-NURECC initiative spin-off aims to deliver, implementation of specific actions will also involve associated partners.

This preparatory action will organise and develop:

- Effective multi-level governance in pursuit of the objectives laid down in the EUSAIR;
- Capacity building among EUSAIR key implementers as a prerequisite for effective implementation of the EUSAIR Action Plan;
- Actions to generate, prepare and implement initiatives and projects with a genuine macro-regional value;
- Awareness-raising initiatives, supporting partnerships between NGOs and local and regional authorities, cultural events, training programmes and/or seminars for citizens and especially for young people in the region, with the aim of creating ownership with regard to EUSAIR, emphasising shared regional identity and promoting partnership and networking across the region. These programmes should stress civic education, transnational entrepreneurship, opportunities for cultural events and good-neighbourly relations, and help promote effective Union integration of candidate and potential candidate countries for Union membership;
- Support for international associations representing regions, cities, chambers of commerce, universities, portal authorities and others that aim to further improve implementation of the strategy.

CHAPTER 13 03 — EUROPEAN REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT FUND AND OTHER REGIONAL OPERATIONS (cont'd)13 03 77 (cont'd)13 03 77 30 (cont'd)Remarks

The outermost regions (ORs) and overseas countries and territories (OCTs) are a source of immeasurable cultural wealth for the Union. That is demonstrated in particular by the fact that UNESCO classifies two ancestral cultural practices from those regions – ‘maloya’ from Réunion and ‘gwoka’ from Guadeloupe – as part of the world’s intangible cultural heritage.

The Union’s specific approach to ORs and OCTs should also be the basis for establishing an initiative to safeguard the identity and cultural diversity of those regions that primarily benefits European indigenous peoples such as Guyana’s Amerindians.

Along the lines of the BEST programme for promoting and supporting biodiversity and ecosystem services, the BEST Culture pilot project will set up a dedicated mechanism for ORs and OCTs in order to safeguard and promote local and indigenous culture and provide a vehicle for local knowledge and popular arts and practices, which act as a unifying factor for overseas communities. It will set up a financing mechanism specifically given over to safeguarding, supporting and fostering the indigenous cultural richness of ORs and OCTs, as well as to promoting the territories and peoples concerned, and providing for cultural exchanges, among themselves and across the Union.

The pilot project will address all living traditions and expressions inherited from ancestors and passed on to descendants, such as oral traditions, performing arts, social practices, rituals and festive events, knowledge and practices concerning nature and the universe, and the knowledge and know-how necessary for traditional craftsmanship. The pilot project will extend to the entire geographical area of the ORs and OCTs. Any persons or organisations located in that geographical area will be eligible to take part in the pilot project, provided that the main purpose of their actions is to safeguard and promote the traditional culture of ORs and OCTs.

Other Union programmes, such as Creative Europe, could complement the pilot project’s objective of safeguarding traditional culture and be used, for example, to disseminate cultural knowledge and practices throughout the Union via Union communication networks and media.

By bringing greater prominence to ORs’ and OCTs’ identity and history, which also tie in with those of continental Europe, the pilot project will help continue the process of making ORs and OCTs better known. Promoting the local cultures of continental Europe’s remote territories would therefore fully reflect the Union’s motto ‘United in diversity’ and would also combat certain prejudices.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover the continuation of aid under Regulation (EC) No 389/2006 to facilitate the reunification of Cyprus by encouraging the economic development of the Turkish Cypriot community with particular emphasis on economic integration of the island, on improving contacts between the two communities and with the Union and on preparation for the application of the acquis communautaire. Assistance is delivered in the areas specified in that Regulation, and includes notably the promotion of social and economic development, the development and restructuring of infrastructure, reconciliation, confidence building measures and support to civil society, bringing the Turkish Cypriot community closer to the Union, including scholarships for Turkish Cypriot students. Also, the TAIEX instrument is used for the preparation of legal texts for the purpose of these being applicable upon the entry into force of a comprehensive settlement of the Cyprus problem, as well as for the preparation of the Union acquis immediately following a political settlement for reunification.

The appropriations will, in particular, allow for the continuation of Union financial support to facilitate the intensification of the work of the Committee on Missing Persons in order to meet the goals of its strategic plan on the faster identification of missing persons, as well as the implementation of the decisions of the bi-communal Technical Committee on Cultural Heritage, which should include projects of minorities.

This appropriation is to be used, inter alia, to sustain the outcome of works, supplies and grants being funded under earlier allocations. In addition, grant schemes addressed to a large variety of economic and civil society beneficiaries (non-governmental organisations, students and teachers, schools, farmers, small villages, and the private sector) may continue. These activities aim at socio-economic development and are driven by the prospect of reunification. Priority should be given, where possible, to reconciliation projects that create bridges between the two communities and build confidence. These measures underline the strong desire and commitment of the Union to the Cyprus problem settlement and reunification.

Any income from additional financial contributions from Member States and contributions from third countries or from bodies other than those set up under the TFEU or the Euratom Treaty to certain external aid actions or programmes financed by the Union and managed by the Commission may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations. Such contributions under Article 6 3 3 of the statement of revenue constitute assigned revenue under points (a)(ii) and (e) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation. The amounts entered on the line for administrative support expenditure will be determined, without prejudice to Article 235(5) of the Financial Regulation, by the contribution agreement for each operational programme with an average not exceeding 4 % of the contributions for the corresponding programme for each chapter.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

New tax standards have been recently agreed and implemented to increase automatic exchange of tax information among tax authorities. Whether they are national (but with international effect, such as the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act in the US) or international (such as the OECD Common Reporting Standards, implemented in the Union through Council Directive 2011/16/EU of 15 February 2011 on administrative cooperation in the field of taxation and repealing Directive 77/799/EEC (OJ L 64, 11.3.2011, p. 1)), the standards aim to curb tax evasion by individuals by ensuring greater access to information by tax authorities. This pilot project measures to what extent these measures are effective in curbing international tax evasion, since tax evaders might find new loopholes or shift their wealth to less compliant jurisdictions. On the basis of an analysis of data from multiple sources, including but not limited to the IMF, the Bank for International Settlements, the Commission and academics, this pilot project will present a study on cross-border transactions involving personal wealth (and therefore potentially relevant for tax evasion by individuals) such as portfolio investments, loans and deposits or foreign direct investments. The study will also look at potential new loopholes to be exploited in order to circumvent these standards (e.g. citizenship/residency programmes or other aggressive tax competition measures for high-net-worth individuals). The project builds on ongoing studies by the Commission (on the evaluation of Directive 2011/16/EU on administrative cooperation and on tax evasion by individuals) which were due in early 2019. With a timeframe of two years (2019-2020) and in a spirit of complementarity, this research will provide additional geographical and statistical information on offshore financial centres and their impact for the fight against tax evasion in the Union.

Legal basis

Remarks

The abundance of money laundering, tax evasion and tax avoidance revelations over the last few years has significantly shaken the confidence of European citizens, businesses and trade unions in the robustness and fairness of EU rules against money laundering, tax evasion and tax avoidance. When three out of four citizens expect the European Union to do more on taxation, it is essential to ensure that public interests and interests of all stakeholders are taken into account in designing initiatives to strengthen European rules against financial crimes, tax evasion and tax avoidance

This preparatory action will create a specialised and independent observatory on EU tax and financial crime matters, its main functions being to:

- create a publicly-accessible repository of data on tax evasion and tax avoidance in the EU and the effects of policy reform in these domains;
- disseminate the available data in a user-friendly manner and inform the wider public of issues relating to tax fairness, including related issues such as anti-money-laundering rules, for business and individual taxpayers and the wider public;
- provide secretarial and management functions for a future multi-stakeholder expert forum, which inter alia would be a consultative body in charge of methodological guidance in the area of taxation and financial crime;
- produce evidence and recommendations relating to combating tax evasion, tax avoidance and financial crime on the basis of the work of the forum;
- liaise with different international organisations and national administrations on issues relating to EU tax and anti-money-laundering policymaking (i.e. anti-money-laundering legislation is necessary to counter tax evasion).

Given the role of this observatory, implementation of this preparatory action should be led by the Commission's DG TAXUD, in close collaboration with other relevant DGs.

Legal basis

Preparatory action within the meaning of Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

Remarks

This preparatory action serves as a follow-up to the first trial conducted in 2018 prior to setting up a fully-fledged programme providing every European turning 18 with a free travel pass. The objective is not only to give them an opportunity to explore Europe's cultural diversity, but also, more importantly, to better connect young people with European identity and raise awareness of the Union's core values.

Because of low purchasing power, cultural obstacles and a lack of inclusive and targeted projects, a substantial number of very young Europeans have never or rarely travelled within Europe. This is particularly true for particular regions of Europe and for low-income families. Although educational exchange programmes exist and have benefited many Europeans, the Union has still not managed to set up an easy and inclusive tool providing any European, regardless of social or educational background, with a travel experience that would foster a European identity, familiarise them with a sustainable and clean mode of transport, and connect them with other cultures.

The European Parliament has repeatedly welcomed the DiscoverEU initiative and stressed that, if it were socially and geographically inclusive and at all times tied in with educational and cultural objectives, it could offer younger generations a chance to take advantage of freedom of movement and travel in an environment-friendly way.

The first steps under the initial project were taken in 2018 and have made it possible to explore the conditions needed for the operational aspects to be successful. Insight from the initial trial could be fine-tuned to ensure that more youngsters benefit from the project and correct shortcomings found during the first year of implementation by meeting the following key requirements and objectives:

Principal requirements:

The Commission must build on the first year of implementation of the preparatory action; however, the preparatory action must be seen as unique and independent, in particular with a view to targeting young people who are currently not covered by any programme of the Union.

Accordingly, programmes such as Erasmus+ must not be affected by the preparatory action.

The preparatory action will cover young people from all Member States regardless of whether they are part of the Interrail network (the five Member States currently not covered being Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Malta, Cyprus)

Action points:

- pursuing contact with and involving the relevant stakeholders regarding the product offered to young people turning 18;
- determining the number of young people who could be given the pass;
- purchasing passes;
- distributing passes to beneficiaries;
- defining precisely what the DiscoverEU pass is to cover so as to match young people's travel patterns (duration, validity, seasonal requirements, time and budgetary constraints, load factors);
- making the system more user-friendly for 18-year-olds applying for passes;
- improving the process for selecting the users who will benefit from the preparatory action, including defining criteria allowing inter alia all Member States to be covered, including the five that are currently not covered by the Interrail network, i.e. Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Malta and Cyprus, and better targeting young people who are not already benefiting from a European programme;
- improving the voucher scheme for distributing and personalising passes in close cooperation with relevant stakeholders;
- investigating together with the relevant stakeholders, mechanisms to encourage specific itineraries for young people to really experience Europe (to include less 'popular' destinations);
- improving the arrangements for publicising the programme, so as to ensure visibility, with a particular focus on linking the initiative to a campaign on European identity and values;
- developing a creative and participative way for users to share and follow-up their experience (e.g. a photo competition and exhibition in the European Parliament and social media contributions).

The preparatory action should be implemented in 2020.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

This preparatory action is aimed to provide an opportunity for sport support team staff (sportsmen's and sports-women's entourages) to improve their qualifications and acquire new skills through spending a period abroad (inside and outside the Union). Opportunities for learning mobility in this context are provided for:

- coaching staff — volunteers — professional sport,
- coaching staff — volunteers in not-for-profit sports organisations.

In a second phase, the preparatory action is aimed to support sportsmen and sportswomen in pursuing dual careers through exchanges (with Member States as well as third countries), with a focus on education without jeopardising their sporting careers. This will enhance their future employability as well as their personal development.

The initiative is based on the following:

- exchanges,
- placements,
- periods of study,
- job-shadowing.

The action could have an impact in three major fields:

- improving the knowledge and know-how of sport support team staff,
- allowing students who play sport to have access to training sessions (including facilities) on the same conditions as nationals,
- developing international cooperation in the field of mobility and education in sport.

The expected outcomes include:

- (1) a regular exchange scheme for sport support team staff;
- (2) establishment of European networks of coaches and sport support team staff and, during the second phase, of dual-career service providers.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

Organisations that encourage and support European cities to excel in sport have greatly contributed to the promotion of physical activities. Moreover, they have helped municipalities throughout Europe to score major achievements such as increasing the percentage of people who practice sport, integrating communities and social sectors, attracting investment to the community, generating new opportunities, increasing focus on sport policies involving other areas such as education, health, social affairs and tourism. All this has been done under the Union brand, with a common sense of belonging, and European pride at the same time. Increased support for organisations promoting sport and physical activity at municipal level, in particular in the context of the European Capital, City, Community and Town of Sport, will certainly have a great impact, and furthermore increase the associated benefits of sport and physical activity for all citizens. There is a clear need to support organisations that work all year round in this field in terms of capacity building, networking and ability to develop specific projects at local level.

This preparatory action is aimed to support organisations that promote sport initiatives at local level with the goal of disseminating the positive values of sport.

The main goals of this action are to:

- make it possible for the relevant organisations to develop a European approach to promoting sport at local level, helping them to become financially sustainable promoters of sport activities among the European public, on the basis of the principles of good governance, as promoted by international organisations and the Commission,
- create or develop a network of cities and towns so that they can exchange best practices in the field,
- raise awareness about strategies as to how local authorities, through their decisions and activities, can positively influence the well-being of the people who live there through sport and physical activity,
- work with European sports policymakers to achieve the same objectives in line with possible changes in sports policy.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

This appropriation covers support for sport-related projects, organised by local actors and civil society, targeting young people from disadvantaged backgrounds — especially those who are considered at risk of radicalisation— with the aim of preventing marginalisation and radicalisation, tackling inequalities and helping these youngsters to find an identity and a sense of belonging.

Sports activities are extremely well-suited for community-building and strengthen social inclusion by respecting diversity and multicultural communities. Therefore, projects under this preparatory action will intend to offer sports, education and job coaching to teach essential skills, such as social and communicative competences, critical thinking and problem-solving.

Projects will ideally be organised in partnership with local authorities and be embedded in a wider anti-radicalisation action plan. Involvement of local organisations, well-acquainted with the local social fabric, will contribute to well-targeted actions and to a more structural approach to the challenges concerned.

The proliferation of makerspaces - 600 set up in Europe in 17 years - has not been paralleled by full interconnection between the centres concerned. That has already been established and demonstrated in various projects funded via Erasmus+ (Key Action: Cooperation for innovation and the exchange of good practices) such as ARTFIX, A Knowledge Alliance between HEIs, Makers and Manufacturers to Boost Open Design & Manufacturing in Europe, Fostering use of technical spaces in higher education, Makerspace for Inclusion.

Unfortunately, initiatives in this area do not cite mobility as one way of strengthening existing networks and encouraging innovation within them. The pilot project is part of an approach intended to address that shortcoming: mobility will make it possible to step up expansion of makerspaces and to interconnect these innovation centres more effectively. That will promote the exchange of good practices, knowledge and know-how, fostering the creation of a knowledge-based economy within a network already established in Europe. Through innovation, exchanges between maker communities would highlight different cultures and languages and would develop in each a strong sense of belonging to the Union.

Although there are provisions promoting learner mobility between the various training centres under the current Erasmus+ programme and in the Commission proposal for the next MFF, the opportunities for mobility for learners and teachers in makerspaces are not being sufficiently exploited.

To address these shortcomings, the pilot project will transpose best practices that have already been consolidated in the other mobility schemes under the Erasmus + programme, such as mobility for apprentices (Erasmus Pro) and for students (Erasmus).

Objectives

The preliminary objective is to enable the Union to identify and understand the maker network and to target its support by 2027, and to formally recognise the maker movement and validate the outcomes of innovation in fab labs.

The pilot project was to initially focus on 'official' fab labs, since they are recognised by the Fab Lab Foundation at MIT, because they comply with the Fab Lab Charter, and they already have an identified global network. The project will strengthen this sound basis by facilitating and encouraging mobility.

In addition, the mobility arrangements available are intended for learners and teachers in makerspaces in all Member States, thus going beyond existing restrictive collaborative frameworks that cover only a limited number of countries.

This first stage will lead on to the ultimate objective of the project, which is to establish a European framework for mobility for makers. This calls for obstacles to mobility to be eliminated and for soft skills to be recognised, which would enhance the employability and creativity of the young people involved. This framework should be backed up by a structured organisational set-up (e.g. services, including transport, accommodation, language courses, practical information and insurance agreements). Lastly, the approach taken must be coherent so that the benefits of mobility can be validated. The pilot project is supposed to be accessible to all categories of learners and teachers working in fab labs, in particular young people from disadvantaged social groups.

Mobility will make it easier to give all makers access to the various items of equipment available in the various fab labs, ultimately ensuring that the same expensive equipment is not duplicated across the network. Resource pooling is expected to result in specialisation by the various centres that have equipment and specific knowledge enabling them to become attractive centres of excellence.

Establishing this European framework will symbolise what could be the first building block in an intergenerational European programme embedded in a network that already exists, and is being expanded, in all Member States.

- (5) assessment of opportunities and obstacles;

This appropriation is for a preparatory action with the same name as an earlier pilot project.

In recent years, the European project has been seemingly weakened from within and from without. Citizens' trust needs to be restored, while knowledge of the European integration process and awareness of European culture and values need to be disseminated as widely as possible.

The pilot project was launched symbolically on the 30th anniversary of the death of Altiero Spinelli, one of the founding fathers of the European Union. Now, building on the 60th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Rome, concrete efforts must be undertaken to address a certain 'disenchantment' with the Union.

The aim of the Altiero Spinelli Prize for Outreach is to encourage, reward and provide European level recognition of and visibility for high-quality contributions dedicated to:

- (1) promoting knowledge of the Union and critical reflection on the past, present and future of the Union among non-specialist audiences and the general public. The role of citizens and civil society organisations in the European integration process, the intellectual history of European integration and the life and works of Altiero Spinelli fall under this category;
- (2) enhancing citizens' understanding of the values, objectives and benefits of the European integration process, of the enormous accomplishments of the Union but also of failures, contradictions and dilemmas. Improving the general public's understanding of the theory of models of integration (e.g. trade agreements, international organisations, federations) and comparative studies of existing integration models (e.g. the Union, African Union, Mercosur, United States of America, Canada) falls under this category;
- (3) proposing, testing and assessing innovative approaches and materials that European and national policy-makers, practitioners, civil society organisations and institutions in various fields can use to better inform, educate, inspire and empower citizens to develop positive and positively critical European identities and a European sense of belonging;
- (4) exposing anti-Union populist myths about various aspects of the European integration process, including extremist rhetoric based on intolerance and misinformation about the legitimacy, competences and actual work of the Union.

The prize is not intended to reward research as such; rather, it will be awarded for outstanding work that draws upon and best exploits, popularises, effectively communicates and spreads to wider society and to ordinary citizens the findings, knowledge and insights emerging from research into European integration processes, for example through publications, the media, newspapers, films and documentaries, as well as through institutional initiatives.

The prize was to be awarded to attractive, appealing, user-friendly, evidence-based/informed, scientifically rigorous, myth-busting and inspiring work that has a strong potential to achieve the objectives outlined above and that is suitable for outreach to a variety of lay, non-academic and non-specialist audiences.

There should be cooperation with existing programmes, e.g. Jean Monnet Actions, and also existing bodies, e.g. the Historical Archives of the European Union at the European University Institute.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

The Jan Amos Prize will be a Union-wide prize for the best secondary school teacher teaching about the Union; it is intended to strengthen the European dimension in school education. The name is taken from the first names of Comenius, the 'teacher of nations'. The prize will reward the most attractive, innovative and informative methods used when teaching about the Union to secondary school pupils (15-19). Pupils in participating schools throughout the Union will elect their candidates. A selection board will choose three finalists and a winner (who will receive a cash prize at an award ceremony in the European Parliament).

Pupils will have to provide a video of their teacher teaching about the Union; videos will be available to all participants and – in case of the finalists – for the ceremony. The process could be coordinated by the European Parliament and Commission Representations in Member States. Involvement of youth organisations (e.g. the European Youth Parliament) is sought.

The selection process will be based on a set of criteria known to participants in advance. The aspects to be assessed include originality and innovations, implementation, quality of learning content, and pupils' factual knowledge. In addition, the teachers will be nominated and introduced by their pupils.

The proposed budget will cover the necessary costs: the prize for winners, the cost of media campaigns, travel expenses and additional costs.

In Member States, calls for proposals will be issued in order to reach out to participating schools. The prize is inspired by the Czech national award for teachers: the Golden Amos.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

This preparatory action will support the implementation of the Council Recommendation on promoting the automatic mutual recognition of higher education and upper secondary education diplomas and the outcomes of learning periods abroad (OJ C 444, 10.12.2018, p. 1), specifically for the recognition of study periods abroad in secondary education. It could also support implementation of the future Commission programme for education and training in a strengthened strand on pupil mobility.

The two-year preparatory action involves creating a network of experts and stakeholders (representatives of Member States, the Commission, pupil mobility organisations, and other civil society organisations) that will facilitate peer learning across Member States, building on:

- existing well-performing recognition systems;
- the results of the public consultation conducted in January 2018 by the Commission and the European Federation for Intercultural Learning study 'Recognition of school study periods abroad in Europe – an overview and policy recommendations';
- the work carried out in connection with the EU Key Competences Framework and by relevant associations and institutions;
- the 'Comenius individual pupil mobility' pilot project carried out in 2007-2008, which laid the foundations for launching the Commission funding programme in 2009.

The specific activities are:

- (1) analysing how the key principles of the Council Recommendation can be applied to national education systems and contexts in Member States, and proposing potential ways forward for the adoption of national-level policies;
- (2) testing the recognition frameworks developed on a significant sample of exchange students;
- (3) creating an online platform that will allow users to navigate across different systems and understand procedures and requirements, linking in with the School Education Gateway;
- (4) developing a conceptual model for training relevant education stakeholders in competence-based assessment after a school study period abroad; this will be done in cooperation with relevant associations, networks and institutions;
- (5) disseminating the results of the preparatory action.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

Sports initiatives to integrate refugees and promote social inclusion have proven to be successful in the European context as well as in conflict zones and neighbouring areas. However, existing programmes, even if open to social inclusion, do not provide sufficient support for sports organisations, in particular in terms of capacity building and the possibility of working with non-EU partners, in order to help effectively integrate refugees through sport. These practices can be adapted and scaled to effectively engage refugee, host and conflict communities and multiply the impact of efforts to mitigate the refugee crisis in the Member States.

Remarks

Grassroots sports is a traditional and slowly evolving area. Society in general and individuals' needs and preferences regarding sports, however, change more rapidly. Indeed, participation figures highlight a growing mismatch between the provision of opportunities for sports via traditional sports organisations and the demand for sports from individuals. The way in which sports associations and clubs are organised and their lack of innovation prevents them from bridging this gap. This project will challenge parties outside the traditional sports structure to propose innovative solutions to bring sports supply into line with individuals' demand at all levels, and provide a sports innovation ecosystem to make it possible for new ways of playing sports to be offered to the general public faster.

In order to produce a working innovative ecosystem for grassroots sports organisations, two things are needed: new, soft programmes offering sports in new ways, and a flexible sports infrastructure able to host different sports at a single location.

This preparatory action will identify and test multiple promising innovations in both categories. To achieve this, innovation challenges will be organised that select and reward promising innovations by any interested party (institution, company, start-up, individual(s) or other parties), which can be introduced and tested over a substantial period (minimum six months). The funding will be invested in soft programmes and new (small) sports infrastructure.

The final aim of the preparatory action is to include tested innovations in the ecosystem of existing sports clubs and infrastructure. Examples of soft programmes might be three-a-side football, cross-overs between different sports (e.g. fitness and football) or recurring local mini-tournaments. Examples of new small infrastructure innovations might be flexible pitch line marking systems or sensors to indicate what pitches are available and which is in current use. Successfully tested examples will be shared with European stakeholders via an online platform, with the cooperation of European governing bodies such as UEFA.

The action will:

- unlock innovative solutions for non-traditional sports by organising open innovation challenges;
- increase the number of people practising sports by offering new concepts;
- increase the use of existing sports infrastructure.

The expected outcomes include:

- a number of tested innovative soft programmes that can be integrated into grassroots sports clubs;
- a number of tested innovative small infrastructure elements that can be incorporated into existing sports infrastructure;
- new methods to increase sports participation through innovation, which will have beneficial effects on public health and social integration;
- learning how to include non-traditional stakeholders in bringing innovation to the sports landscape, to be shared through European association structures.

Since the expected outcomes of this action include changes to the existing sports infrastructure, it is not eligible under the Erasmus+ programme.

Remarks

These remarks are applicable to all the budget lines in this chapter.

This appropriation will be used for Horizon 2020 — the Framework Programme for Research and Innovation (2014-2020) of the European Union, and for the completion of the previous research programmes (Seventh Framework Programme) and the completion of the European Institute of Innovation and Technology (EIT) from the previous financial period.

The Programme shall play a central role in the implementation of the Europe 2020 flagship initiative 'Innovation Union' and other flagship initiatives, notably 'Resource-efficient Europe', 'An industrial policy for the globalisation era', and 'A digital agenda for Europe', as well as in the development and functioning of the European Research Area. Horizon 2020 shall contribute to building an economy based on knowledge and innovation across the whole Union by leveraging sufficient additional research, development and innovation funding.

It will be carried out in order to pursue the general objectives set out in Article 179 TFEU, in order to contribute to the creation of a society of knowledge, based on the European Research Area, i.e. supporting transnational cooperation at all levels throughout the Union, taking the dynamism, creativity and the excellence of European research to the limits of knowledge, strengthening human resources for research and for technology in Europe, quantitatively and qualitatively and research and innovation capacities in the whole of Europe and ensuring optimum use thereof.

In Horizon 2020, gender equality is addressed as a cross-cutting issue in order to rectify imbalances between women and men and to integrate a gender dimension in research and innovation content. Particular account will be taken of the need to step up efforts to enhance the participation at all levels, including decision-making, of women in research and innovation.

Also entered against these articles and items are the costs of high-level scientific and technological meetings, conferences, workshops and seminars of European interest organised by the Commission, the funding of high-level scientific and technological analyses and evaluations carried out on behalf of the Union to investigate new areas of research suitable for Union action, inter alia, in the context of the European Research Area, and measures to monitor and disseminate the results of the programmes, including measures under previous framework programmes.

This appropriation will be used in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 1290/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 December 2013 laying down the rules for participation and dissemination in 'Horizon 2020 — the Framework Programme for Research and Innovation (2014-2020)' and repealing Regulation (EC) No 1906/2006 (OJ L 347, 20.12.2013, p. 81).

The contributions from the EFTA States pursuant to the Agreement on the European Economic Area, and in particular Article 82 thereof and Protocol 32 thereto, must be added to the appropriations entered in this chapter. By way of information, these amounts derive from contributions from the EFTA States entered against Article 6 3 0 of the statement of revenue, which constitute assigned revenue in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation; they give rise to the provision of corresponding appropriations and to implementation under the 'European Economic Area' Annex to this part of the statement of expenditure in this section, which forms an integral part of the general budget.

The possibility of third countries or institutes from third countries taking part in European cooperation in the field of scientific and technical research is envisaged for some of these projects. Any financial contribution entered in Items 6 0 1 3 and 6 0 1 5 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with Article 21 of the Financial Regulation.

Any revenue from States taking part in the European cooperation in the field of scientific and technical research entered in Item 6 0 1 6 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with Article 21 of the Financial Regulation.

Any revenue from the contributions from candidate countries and, if applicable, the Western Balkan potential candidates for participating in Union programmes entered in Item 6 0 3 1 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation.

Any revenue from the contributions by outside bodies to Union activities entered in Item 6 0 3 3 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with Article 21 of the Financial Regulation.

Additional appropriations will be provided under Article 15 03 05 and Item 15 03 50 01.

Administrative appropriations of this chapter will be provided under Article 15 01 05.

15 03 01 Excellent scienceRemarks

This priority of Horizon 2020 aims to reinforce and extend the excellence in the Union's science base and ensure a steady stream of world-class research to secure Europe's long-term competitiveness. It will support the best ideas, develop talent within Europe, provide researchers with access to priority research infrastructure, and make Europe an attractive location for the world's best researchers. Research actions to be funded will be determined according to the need and opportunities of science, without predetermined thematic priorities. The research agenda will be set in close liaison with the scientific community and research will be funded on the basis of excellence.

Remarks

Europe needs a strong and creative human resource base, mobile across countries and sectors, and has to be attractive for the best researchers, European and non-European. This will be achieved by structuring and raising excellence in a substantial share of the high-quality initial training of early stage researchers and doctoral candidates and by supporting attractive career opportunities for experienced researchers in both public and private sectors worldwide. Researchers are encouraged to move between countries, sectors and disciplines to enhance their creative and innovative potential. In addition, initiatives will be supported to raise awareness of the importance of the research career and to disseminate the results of research and innovation to the wider public.

Assigned revenue received under Item 6 6 0 0 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations under this item, in accordance with Article 22(1) of the Financial Regulation.

The corresponding amount is estimated at EUR 9 960 000.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover European Institute of Innovation and Technology (EIT) staff and administrative expenditure, and operational expenditure relating to the work programme, including the knowledge and innovation communities (KICs) designated by the EIT.

In the framework of the EIT's Strategic Innovation Agenda (SIA) and Regulation (EU) No 1292/2013, the EIT contributes to the general objective and priorities of 'Horizon 2020 — The Framework Programme for Research and Innovation', with the specific objective of integrating the knowledge triangle of higher education, research and innovation. The EIT aims to give Europe's innovation capacity a much needed boost and its overall goal is to create a new European way of delivering essential economic growth and societal benefits through innovation by helping transform innovative ideas into products and services that create sustainable growth and jobs.

KICs are the operational base of the EIT. They are excellence-driven partnerships, which bring together the whole innovation web in order to offer new opportunities for innovation in Europe and generate real impact in terms of new business creation and societal benefits. They address focused innovation topics and integrate public and private research organisations, innovative industries, higher education institutions, investors, start-ups and spin-offs. The first three KICs were designated in December 2009 and address the following societal challenges: climate change mitigation and adaptation (through Climate-KIC), sustainable energy (through KIC InnoEnergy) and future information and communication society (through EITDigital). Two additional KICs were designated in 2014 in the themes of Raw Materials and Innovation for Healthy Living and Active Ageing. The EIT expanded its portfolio of KICs to up to three additional ones addressing the topics: Food for the Future (in 2016), Added Value Manufacturing and Urban Mobility (the last two selected by the end of 2018 have 1 year to complete their set-up and should become fully operational in 2020).

The EIT aims to generate tangible impact in the following areas:

- addressing key societal challenges: the KICs combine expertise from across disciplines to ensure innovative and global responses to complex societal challenges,
- setting a clear business-friendly framework: turning new ideas into tangible new products, services or business opportunities will be the main benchmark of the EIT's and the KICs' success,
- enhancing the free flow of knowledge through co-location: the KICs are organised around co-location centres — geographical locations where most or the whole innovation chain is in close proximity. The emphasis is on people from diverse backgrounds (industry, SMEs, academia, nationality, gender, discipline, etc.) working together with face-to-face contact, thus leading to great mobility of knowledge,
- creating a new generation of entrepreneurs: people with an entrepreneurial mindset are the drivers of innovation, thereby keeping our economies and societies moving. The EIT promotes entrepreneurship education as a key feature of KICs' Masters and doctoral programmes by shifting the emphasis from 'learning about' to 'learning by doing'. The Master and PhD programmes will provide students with the entrepreneurial skills they need to succeed in the knowledge economy, focusing on learning outcomes and the use of innovative teaching methods.

The EIT's strategic objectives for this period are to consolidate and synergise its operations and to prepare for achieving the priorities set out in the Strategic Innovation Agenda (2014-2020): firstly, by incentivising growth, impact and sustainability by continuing to strengthen its partnership with the existing KICs whilst creating new KICs, leading up to a total portfolio of eight KICs in the period 2014-2020 (equalling the set-up of 40-50 co-location centres across the Union); secondly, by enhancing the EIT's impact by fostering entrepreneurship-driven innovation across the Union through wide dissemination of novel innovation models attracting and developing talent from across Europe; and thirdly, by introducing new means of achieving impact, alongside results-oriented monitoring.

The establishment plan of the EIT is set out in Annex 'Staff' to this section.

The Union contribution for 2020 amounts to a total of EUR 496 793 764. An amount of EUR 115 416 coming from the recovery of surplus is added to the amount of EUR 496 678 348 entered in the budget.

Remarks

The concept of European Houses of Culture is referred to in Joint Communication to the European Parliament and the Council of 8 June 2016 entitled 'Towards an EU strategy for international cultural relations' (JOIN(2016) 29 final) as one of the tools for enhanced Union cooperation in the area of cultural external relations. They are described as institutions that 'would enable cultural institutes and other stakeholders to come together and provide services to the local population, engage in joint projects and offer scholarships, cultural and educational exchanges'. This also ties in with a recommendation made in the study 'European Cultural Institutes abroad' produced for the European Parliament's Committee on Culture and Education in 2016.

This preparatory action tests initial experience with European Houses of Culture in a limited number of priority countries/regions and examines their potential in a number of partner countries in different formats, including permanent structures, pop-up formats, festival pavilions or purely digital tools. It can be developed over two years in order to have the time needed to launch the various projects, deliver them and check outcomes with a view to further recommendations.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

Europe is home to some of the leading music songwriters, performers, concert venues, festivals, record labels, publishers, distributors, start-ups and digital services in the world. In recent years, the creation, production, distribution and consumption of music have fundamentally changed: new distribution channels, powerful digital players, innovative start-ups, business models and consumption patterns have emerged. Digitalisation, for example in the case of music streaming, has brought opportunities, but also many challenges for the sector.

This preparatory action addresses some of the sector's main challenges, taking into account the outcome of the recent Union-level dialogue with music stakeholders and focusing on the following fields:

- (a) offline and online distribution (e.g. increasing citizens' access to music in all its diversity);
- (b) artist and repertoire development (including boosting mobility of artists and cross-border circulation of European repertoire);
- (c) professionalisation and education (e.g. skills development and capacity building for creators and SMEs to succeed in a highly competitive and global market);
- (d) exporting European music outside Europe.

The preparatory action should be implemented mainly by means of calls for proposals and calls for tenders, also building on and complementing the activities developed to implement the preparatory action in the first year (2018). It is designed to ensure that a large variety of relevant music operators, organisations and stakeholders across the value chain in Europe can benefit from the activities.

The preparatory action builds on and develops further the existing, albeit very limited, support for music under the Creative Europe Programme (notably cooperation projects, platforms and prizes), which is necessary, but fails to fully meet the needs of the sector. It tests suitable action with a view to a possible future fully fledged funding scheme for music within the next generation of Union programmes, which could support European diversity and talent as well as the competitiveness of the sector in a more targeted way.

In this regard, the preparatory action includes in particular measures for surveying and mapping the funding needs of relevant branches of the music ecosystem in the Member States in order to serve as an additional element when defining relevant future fields of action with clear Union added value (post-2020).

Provenance research is of significant importance in the context of protecting cultural heritage and the fight against illegal trafficking of artworks and other cultural objects looted in armed conflicts and wars. It is the process of documenting the chronology of the ownership, location and chain of custody of an object from its creation to the present day. In order to facilitate, thorough provenance research, the exchange of expertise, knowledge and research results, data must be enhanced.

Digitisation resources are important tools to achieve those goals. As such, databases that collect and provide an overview of existing data are able to support and facilitate research, including cross-border research. However, there is as yet no comprehensive database combining the results of existing projects and making them accessible at object level.

The Commission for Art Recovery (CAR) and the Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany (Claims Conference) are working to form a consortium of archives (with partners including the German Federal Archive, the French National Archives and the Belgian State Archives), art history organisations and other relevant institutions. The goal of the Jewish Digital Cultural Recovery Project (JDCRP) is to begin to construct a comprehensive object-level database of Jewish-owned cultural assets plundered by the Nazis and their allies and collaborators, beginning with France, Belgium and the Netherlands. This network of governmental and heritage institutions will cooperate closely on developing the project, disseminating best practices and promoting further research.

JDCRP will include a web portal consisting of a database that permits – through the use of various archival sources – the comprehensive and precise documentation of cultural objects plundered during the Nazi era from the time of their expropriation to the present. The project's eventual goal is to aggregate, cross-reference and relate information regarding the fate of looted art. It will do so not only by including historical and art historical information retrieved from relevant documentation, but also by connecting and integrating existing databases of the participating institutions. The information accumulated and presented by JDCRP will be supported by digital surrogates for the documentation, thus creating an immense, cross-border virtual archive. The database will be embedded in visual, narrative and educational components helping to disseminate the content to academic and lay audiences.

As Nazi looting of Jewish artworks is one of the most extensive and well-documented cultural robberies in European history, JDCRP is perfectly positioned to create best practices regarding the creation of large-scale, comprehensive, pan-European, object-level databases on plundered pieces of European cultural heritage in general. A pilot project digitising specific archival collections, creating the basic structures of the database as well as accumulating, presenting and connecting relevant historical information would greatly contribute to the success of JDCRP as the project's methodology and workflow could be tested on a smaller scale.

COMMISSION

TITLE 15 — EDUCATION AND CULTURE

Cultural diversity and identification of the proper cultural mix are of strategic importance for creativity and innovation. The cultural and creative industries (CCIs) in Europe employ more than 12 million people, or 7.5% of the European workforce, and create about EUR 509 000 000 000 in added value as a result, in particular, of the contribution made by small and micro enterprises. CCIs are a driving force generating a competitive advantage for Europe, especially since they provide products and services that promote evolution of the production paradigms of Industry 4.0.

This preparatory action will define and test the policies and actions necessary to sustain and develop these enterprises, which, with appropriate support, can generate cross-benefits and spill-overs in all the areas and sectors with which these companies interface in achieving their business objectives.

The thrust of the preparatory action involves four areas:

1. A new model for analysing skills

The model for recognising skills normally used in European training systems needs to be reviewed and updated to properly include the organisational model of those enterprises, which often have little hierarchy, a broader tolerance for risk, a different time-management approach and strong disciplinary interchange, and which are therefore not compatible with the traditional manufacturing paradigm. This new model for analysing and identifying skills compatible with the Science, Technology, Engineering/Environment, Arts, Manufacturing (STEAM) areas seeks to create a privileged relationship among virtuous companies, the most significant best practices, and success stories, in order to identify and define both the skills and the characteristics of the professionals who work in these areas. In other words, the genesis and evolution of those skills must be traced back, moving beyond the more widespread paradigm in which professionals are codified within analytical-descriptive work processes (typical of manufacturing organisations), in order to obtain job descriptions consistent with the distinctive organisational characteristics of those companies.

More specifically, the preparatory action will be divided into the following phases:

- selecting 'best practice' CCIs to be involved in the investigation to formulate a skill classification model that recognises the special nature of the various sectors (historical and artistic heritage, content industry, ICT industries, and materials culture, including the macro-sectors of fashion, design and the taste industry) and the regional dimensions of the Union,
- developing a model for recognising skills,
- testing the model with a broader panel of enterprises,
- releasing the model for codifying skills and associating them with professionals in the light of the European framework on skills.

2. Indications for the education system

Nowadays, the development of creative and cultural skills is the result of a process that is neither fully structured, nor entirely aligned with the needs for medium/long-term management of CCI. The output generated by the skill recognition model would pave the way for the identification of aspects and issues in the education system with respect to the characteristics of training programmes aimed at developing skills. In fact, the development of strategic skills for CCI is often left to chance and individual initiative and inventiveness, or to informal processes, without a structural approach derived from a vision that fosters a precise training policy and targeted programmes.

The key goal of this phase of the action is to perpetuate these skills through the training system, so as to prepare more European citizens for operating effectively in the various business areas in which CCI are involved.

The guidelines should be structured in such a way that observing the specific nature of the national and regional education systems will guide their training programmes, from primary training to tertiary education. Efforts should be made to improve the capability of the education system to communicate with CCI and promote innovative training models (learning laboratories, creative hubs, etc.). This should accompany the formulation of guidelines to empower teachers to promote skill-based learning, going beyond a rigid system of disciplines and favouring a holistic and multi-disciplinary approach. Centuries of craftsmen's traditions across Europe show the value of spending time gaining experience from different workshops as an important part of the cultural and practical training of an aspirant master in creative artisanship. While the German 'Wandergeselle' or the French 'compagnon' of the past were self-organised forms of learning, they highlight the need for a structured and common European approach to identify and transfer the elusive skills of CCI.

3. A new financial classification for CCI

Access to finance is a major obstacle to growth for many CCI, which are generally small and often undercapitalised. The banking and financial system is slow to classify those enterprises within traditional systems, as most of them are founded on one prototype or single project and are heavily dependent on their products and services, on individual talent, and on assumption of risks. Unlike companies operating in the technological sectors, CCI find it hard to obtain recognition of the value of their intangible assets on their balance sheets, and their investments in the development of new talent and creative ideas do not correspond to the usual concept of R&D.

The action will define guidelines to improve CCI's capability to better communicate financial values associated with intangible assets so as to give them fair access to lending. This would make it easier for CCI to access guarantee systems (e.g. Creative Europe Programme and the European Fund for Strategic Investments) and other financing mechanisms. The guidelines will be defined on the basis of a comparison of existing instruments in European countries (e.g. Bancopass in Italy) that those enterprises are already using to communicate proactively with banks.

4. Valuing and defending intellectual property produced by CCI

Companies that protect their intellectual activities are 22 % more productive (for the same territory, sector and size), with revenue growth 2 % higher than the sample average. Specifically, companies that filed a patent in 2011-2013 have a 6,5 % higher percentage of exports to total revenue, for the same territory, size and sector.

Because of the often under-structured organisation of CCIs, the registration or patenting of innovations they are able to produce is not always a priority, thus diminishing the value of the results produced by that innovation. It is therefore essential to study how to make those industries — especially the small and medium-sized ones — more aware of the benefits in terms of stronger impact deriving from the registration or patenting of their innovative products and services, and foster access to those opportunities, as these enterprises are often undercapitalised. Through a close tie-in with outputs emerging from a comparison of best practices and instruments described in point 3, the preparatory action will take forward existing instruments in European countries, which enterprises use to communicate with banks, financial bodies and institutions, involving specific items that can enhance the values of innovation registration or patenting.

Framework development of the action

The initiative will be developed through the creation of European partnerships that enhance qualified organisations' expertise in the various phases and activities that make up the action. The organisations that carry out the action should represent the main reference regions for CCIs and be equipped with the necessary resources to maximise the action's impact.

Legal basis

Remarks

The existing pilot project has made it possible to map Jewish cemeteries across Europe – itself an urgent task due to the increasing threat of erosion, neglect and vandalism. The resulting database is unique in its accuracy, thoroughness and scope, but it is only partially finished. The preparatory action would make most sense if the survey were completed in every Member State as well as in Neighbourhood Policy states. Maintenance of the database would be crucial for it to function appropriately and continue to serve as a reference point.

Jewish cemeteries in Europe are a ubiquitous form of cultural heritage; they testify to the multicultural history of the continent and often serve as the sole such heritage in remote, rural areas. Protecting that heritage inevitably brings together state actors, NGOs, local communities, Jewish communities and descendants, offering a unique opportunity to develop strong, cross-sectoral collaborative ties, strengthening and enriching local identity.

Developing and implementing a bottom-up, decentralised form of protection therefore serves as an entry point for many such localities into the broader infrastructure of conservation, heritage management and heritage-oriented education. This being so, protecting Jewish cemeteries is a key element for capacity building in the cultural sector, a more active and tolerant civil society, and a multi-scalar European heritage infrastructure.

It is therefore of utmost importance to take the pilot project forward as a preparatory action for another two year-period.

Remarks

In 2018, the Union adopted the New European Agenda for Culture, further developing the scope of the 'European Agenda for Culture in a Globalised World' (2007). The New Agenda reaffirms that the cultural and creative sectors strengthen European identity, have the power to improve lives, transform communities, generate jobs and growth, and create spillover effects in other sectors. More precisely, one of the three strategic objectives of the New Agenda is to harness the power of culture and cultural diversity for social cohesion and well-being by promoting cultural participation, mobility of artists and protection of heritage.

The document calls for research into cultural crossovers to assess impacts in different fields, including health and well-being.

Access to culture and participation in cultural life promote individual empowerment, democratic consciousness and social cohesion through exchanges with other people and civic engagement. Changing user behaviour because of digitalisation, ageing and culturally diverse societies calls for a better understanding of different audiences. A stronger orientation towards the interests and needs of specific groups, such as young people, older people, people with disabilities, people with a migrant background and people living in poverty or material deprivation, is necessary. Digital technologies are an asset for audience development and innovative methods of participation. Cross-sectoral cooperation with other areas, such as education, social care, healthcare, science and technology, and regional and urban development, has a significant effect on cohesion and well-being. Special attention should be paid to the role of culture at local level, to the quality of architecture and the living environment and to culture-led social innovations contributing to the development of cities and regions across the Union.

Target outputs: The exchange of experience and success stories will help identify best practices. Synergies could be established with the Structural Funds, the Urban Agenda for the EU and its new Partnership on Culture and Cultural Heritage as well as with the UN Agenda 2030 and the OECD project on culture-led regional productivity and well-being.

The preparatory action will support

1. research into culture and well-being;
2. trans-sectoral and trans-European cooperation with the aim of generating knowledge, pilot projects and policy guidelines on how to enhance well-being through culture – the European Culture and Well-being Think Tank;
3. experimental work on the ground in pilot cities across Europe on methods, actions and measures to enhance the well-being of individuals and communities (quality of built environments, quality of spaces for social interaction, quality of services for specific groups such as school pupils, children, the elderly and special needs groups);
4. development of action and policy guidelines for cities, institutions and cultural actors on the effective use of culture for well-being;

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to fund general information to citizens and covers the expenditure on centralised and decentralised communication as well as the expenditure on Citizens' Dialogues. The aim of local communication activities is in particular to provide clearly identified target groups with the tools to gain a better understanding of the Commission's political priorities and of topical Union policy issues. The aim of Citizens' Dialogues is in particular to provide citizens with first-hand information on major Union policy initiatives and to promote an open dialogue between citizens and the Members of the Commission or Commission's senior officials with regular attendance of representatives of other Union institutions and the Member States, in order to improve citizens' knowledge of Union policy issues and to allow citizens to make their voice heard to policymakers.

These activities are implemented in the Member States through:

- communication actions linked to specific annual or multiannual communication priorities as per State of the Union Address of the Commission President, the Commission's Work Programme and the Joint Declaration (in the context of implementing the Interinstitutional Agreement of 13 April 2016 between the European Parliament, the Council of the European Union and the European Commission on Better Law-Making (OJ L 123, 12.5.2016, p. 1)),
- ad hoc communication actions on a national or international scale that fit in with the communication priorities,
- open door events for citizens from all walks of life,
- dialogues with citizens in the Member States and/or online,
- seminars and conferences as well as workshops with more specific target groups, such as young people, and by applying participatory methods,

CHAPTER 16 03 — COMMUNICATION ACTIONS (cont'd)16 03 01 (cont'd)16 03 01 04 (cont'd)

- organisation of or participation in European events, exhibitions and public-relations activities, organisation of individual visits, etc.,
- direct communication actions targeting the general public (e.g. citizens' advice services),
- direct communication measures targeting opinion multipliers, in particular stepped-up measures involving the regional daily press, which is a major information outlet for a large number of Union citizens,
- management of information centres and multimedia installations for the general public in the European Commission Representations.

Communication actions can be organised in partnership with the European Parliament, the European Economic and Social Committee, the European Committee of the Regions and the Member States in order to create synergies between the means of each partner and to coordinate their information and communication activities on the Union.

This appropriation could also serve to fund awareness-raising and information activities on European citizens' initiatives in cooperation with the Commission Representations and Europe Direct information centres in the Member States.

This appropriation is further intended to cover expenditure on studies, logistical services, technical assistance, in particular for IT including web maintenance and social media services, meetings of experts and expert technical and administrative assistance not involving public authority tasks outsourced by the Commission under ad hoc service contracts as well as the repayment of travel and related expenses of persons invited to follow the work of the Commission.

This appropriation is also intended to cover IT expenditure for relevant information and management systems development and maintenance.

This appropriation also covers evaluation and professionalisation expenditure.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

The project is strongly linked to work in the field of health literacy, patient education, adherence and concordance, patient safety and quality of care, and accessible health systems for all. If patients are better protected against infectious diseases, it is easier to manage underlying conditions. In addition, having access to evidence-based information enables patients to have a meaningful dialogue with health professionals and make appropriate choices in the healthcare environment, including actions for prevention and health promotion.

TITLE 17 — HEALTH AND FOOD SAFETY

CHAPTER 17 03 — PUBLIC HEALTH (cont'd)17 03 77 (cont'd)17 03 77 29 (cont'd)Two strategic pillars

The project has two core strategic pillars to be delivered utilising the capacity-building potential of patient groups: (1) an advanced toolkit for national advocacy groups to use, building on existing work, and (2) three workshops rolled out in geographically and socio-economically diverse countries in 2019, targeting patients with chronic diseases.

(1) An advanced toolkit for national advocacy groups to use

The first pillar entails the development of a tailored, objective, evidence-based, state-of-the-art toolkit about vaccines and their vital importance for chronic disease patients.

The advanced toolkit should build on previous targeted material for the patient community on the basis of peer-reviewed, evidence-based, state-of-the-art publications in the field. The project draws on knowledge and expertise regarding ensuring that the toolkit is accessible, taking on board specific needs of certain populations and applying health literacy principles. The materials and resources shall be layered to suit different audiences and thoroughly tested by a relevant segment of a patient population. The advanced toolkit shall be produced in English and translated into the languages of the three Union languages where the workshops take place

A dissemination strategy using a 'network of networks' should be devised. In addition, various conferences and events throughout the year (e.g. World Diabetes Day, World Immunisation Week) will promote the toolkit.

(2) Three national workshops targeting patients with chronic diseases

The second pillar should focus on three national workshops, reaching out to chronic disease patients together with experts on each of the diseases targeted, and disseminating the toolkit through their ecosystem.

The workshops should be one-day events for about 40 patient leaders from throughout the countries selected (not only the capital) in various relevant disease areas. The workshops should be highly interactive and be facilitated by an expert in the country in the local language.

The format of the workshop should be designed to enable leaders to disseminate knowledge afterwards to their communities through effective use of the advanced toolkit at their events and via their social media networks.

The workshops should be evaluated with a view to scaling up to include further countries in the future, building on lessons learned.

Remarks

The Union's financial assistance helps accelerate the eradication or control of animal diseases by providing funds to supplement national financial resources and contributes to harmonising measures at Union level. The bulk of these diseases or infections are zoonoses communicable to man (BSE, brucellosis, avian influenza, salmonellosis, tuberculosis, etc.). Moreover, the persistence of the diseases in question hampers the smooth operation of the internal market; fighting them helps to improve the level of public health and to boost food safety in the Union.

This appropriation is also intended to cover the Union's contribution to measures for eliminating obstacles to the free movement of goods in these sectors, for veterinary support and as back-up action.

It consists in providing financial assistance:

- for the purchase, storage and formulation of foot-and-mouth antigens and of different vaccines,
- for the development of marker vaccines or tests that can distinguish between sick and vaccinated animals.

Remarks

Outbreaks of some animal diseases within the Union could significantly affect the operation of the internal market and the Union's trading relations with third countries. It is therefore essential for the Union to make a financial contribution to enable serious infectious diseases — should any outbreak occur in Member States — to be eradicated as quickly as possible by deploying Union resources for disease control.

This appropriation is intended to cover curative actions to combat pests and diseases threatening agricultural and horticultural crops, forests, and landscape, including the spread of invasive alien species and diseases (for example the pine wood nematode), which are becoming more frequent and are spreading, causing a severe and prolonged impact, especially on Member States most exposed to risk, and with less economic capacity, and on the Union's outermost regions.

Legal basis

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover the Agency's staff, administrative and operational expenditure for the activities related to the implementation of the biocides legislation.

The Agency must inform the European Parliament and the Council about transfers of appropriations between operational and administrative expenditure.

The contributions from the EFTA States pursuant to the Agreement on the European Economic Area, and in particular Article 82 thereof and Protocol 32 thereto, must be added to the appropriations entered in this item. By way of information, these amounts derive from contributions from the EFTA States entered against Article 6 3 0 of the statement of revenue, which constitute assigned revenue in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation; they give rise to the provision of corresponding appropriations and to implementation under the 'European Economic Area' Annex to this part of the statement of expenditure in this section, which forms an integral part of the general budget.

The establishment plan of the Agency is set out in Annex 'Staff' to this section.

The Union contribution for 2020 amounts to a total of EUR 7 008 000. As the amount of the assigned revenue related to the 2018 budget outturn is EUR 577 292, a contribution of EUR 6 430 708 is entered in the budget.

Remarks

The expansion of the dairy sector, the increase in the average productivity of dairy cows, and the surplus of male dairy calves have not been accompanied by updated animal welfare policies. A recent Commission's report indicates that insufficient attention is being paid to parameters such as mastitis, lameness, cubicle design and lying comfort, which are known to influence not only welfare but also health and on-farm longevity of dairy cows. Member States have different regulatory regimes, thus disrupting the level-playing field for producers. Additionally, the increase in the size of dairy herds in some countries is causing a chronic surplus of male dairy calves, which have to be transported unweaned over very long distances to specialised fattening farms. The challenges encountered during the long-distance transport of unweaned dairy calves have not been resolved, and there is evidence from several non-governmental organisations that these vulnerable animals cannot be protected during such transport. Another overlooked aspect is the treatment of end-of-career animals. There is evidence that 'downer' cows (i.e. unfit for transport) may be transported to complacent abattoirs for slaughter. This is not only a violation of Union rules on animal transport and slaughter, but it also represents a threat to food safety.

CHAPTER 17 04 — FOOD AND FEED SAFETY, ANIMAL HEALTH, ANIMAL WELFARE AND PLANT HEALTH (cont'd)17 04 77 (cont'd)17 04 77 07 (cont'd)

This pilot project has four main aims: (1) to produce a clear set of good and best practice guidelines for the welfare of dairy heifers, cows and calves on the basis of robust animal-based indicators, as well as guidance on the correct treatment of end-of-career dairy cows; (2) to carry out a socio-economic impact assessment of shifting from transport of unweaned male dairy calves over long distances to local rearing and fattening; (3) to propose economic models to prevent the transport of end-of-career dairy cows; (4) to disseminate the outcomes in dairy-producing Member States and in those affected by the intra-Union trade of live unweaned calves. The project should bring together from the onset relevant stakeholders, including scientists, veterinarians and non-governmental organisations. The outcomes should strongly draw on the scientific and practical expertise available, including from best practices already implemented.

Legal basis

Public acceptance of the use of 'enriched' cages for laying hens is decreasing, in particular in the light of scientific evidence showing that such cages severely restrict the ability of laying hens to engage in many normal behaviours. The pilot project will help egg producers meet market demand by providing practical guidance on how to transition to alternative higher-welfare cage-free systems. Major food businesses have already committed to sourcing only cage-free eggs by 2025 or earlier. In order to equip Union producers for such a transition and guarantee that they stay in business, support should be provided to them to convert conventional systems to higher-welfare alternative systems that are not only fit for purpose but also fit for the future. The pilot project will look into the different systems for laying hens and identify those that are optimal for animal health and welfare. The recommendations, which should include economic aspects, will be supported by robust indicators to measure animal welfare outcomes. The first phase of the pilot project will collect information on best available practices for facilitating the transition towards higher-welfare rearing and keeping of laying hens in barn, free-range and organic systems. The second phase will consist of information events in at least four countries where alternative rearing systems are still not predominant (e.g. Spain, Poland, Portugal and Belgium) and a final event at Union level with major industry and political stakeholders as well as representatives from all Member States. The resulting guidance document should be as practice-oriented as possible, and should be illustrated, for example, with case studies (including economic data) on relevant systems from at least four Member States with the highest proportion of cage-free egg production (e.g. Germany, the Netherlands, France and Italy).

In view of the alarming data contained in reports such as the European Drug Report 2019, there is an urgent need for stronger Union-wide coordinated action on monitoring the Darknet to counter rising threats from criminal activities such as trafficking and distribution of drugs and other illegal substances, illegal arms trading and human trafficking. Hard-to-track communication on the Darknet has become a key element of such illegal operations, especially cross border, and its effective monitoring remains a challenge for Member State law enforcement authorities. Not all Member State law enforcement authorities possess adequate means to systematically monitor the Darknet or effectively coordinate joint Union actions and cooperation in this area, but examples of good practices and results do exist, albeit fragmented and uneven across the Union.

The action will develop software and hardware for efficient Darknet monitoring at Union level, which will be made available to the Union and Member State law enforcement authorities, together with training and assistance in coordination and capacity building for joint European Darknet monitoring.

Emergency response may encompass assistance, relief and, where need be, protection operations to save and preserve life in disasters or their immediate aftermath. This appropriation is also intended to cover the purchase and delivery of any product or equipment needed for the implementation of emergency support operations, including the building of homes or shelters for affected groups of people, short-term rehabilitation and reconstruction work, particularly of facilities, storage, shipment, logistic support and distribution of relief and any other action aimed at facilitating freedom of access to the recipients of the aid.

This cooperation includes measures supporting the Union's bilateral, regional or multilateral relationships in addressing challenges of global concern, the implementation of the international dimension of the Europe 2020 strategy, trade and investment opportunities and public diplomacy and outreach activities.

This appropriation will enable support for Union Arctic policy related goals and also be used to fund cooperation between the Union's Arctic partners so as to build stronger linkages with the region.

Any income from additional financial contributions from Member States and contributions from third countries or from bodies other than those set up under the TFEU or the Euratom Treaty to certain external aid projects or programmes financed by the Union and managed by the Commission may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations. Such contributions under Article 6 3 3 of the statement of revenue constitute assigned revenue under points (a)(ii) and (e) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation. The amounts entered on the line for administrative support expenditure will be determined, without prejudice to Article 235(5) of the Financial Regulation, by the contribution agreement for each operational programme with an average not exceeding 4 % of the contributions for the corresponding programme for each chapter.

Remarks

The information activities to be carried out under this article fall into two broad categories: horizontal activities and logistical support from headquarters, and activities carried out by Union delegations in third countries and vis-à-vis international organisations.

Measures carried out from headquarters:

- the European Union visitors programme (EUVP), carried out jointly by the European Parliament and the Commission, provides approximately 150 participants a year, chosen by the Union delegations, with the opportunity of experiencing contact with the Union by visiting the European Parliament and the Commission as part of a made-to-measure individual programme of visits based on a theme,
- the production and distribution of publications on priority themes as part of an annual programme,
- the production and dissemination of audiovisual material,
- the development of information delivered via electronic media (the internet and electronic message systems),

CHAPTER 19 06 — INFORMATION OUTREACH ON THE UNION'S EXTERNAL RELATIONS (cont'd)

- the organisation of visits for groups of journalists,
- the support for the information activities of opinion leaders that are consistent with the Union's priorities,
- strategic communications including on disinformation, in particular in the Union neighbourhood and the Western Balkans; this includes systematic tracking and exposing of disinformation spread by foreign powers.

This includes the activities in the future Union delegation in the United Kingdom relating to information on citizens' rights after the withdrawal of the United Kingdom from the Union.

The Commission will continue to fund news broadcasts in Farsi.

Decentralised measures carried out by Union delegations in third countries and vis-à-vis international organisations

In accordance with the communication goals laid down for each region and each country, the Union delegations propose an annual communication plan, which, once approved by headquarters, is assigned a budgetary allocation covering the following activities:

- websites,
- relations with the media (press conferences, seminars, radio programmes, etc.),
- information products (other publications, graphic material, etc.),
- organisation of events, including cultural activities,
- newsletters,
- information campaigns,
- strategic communications, in particular in the Union neighbourhood and the Western Balkans.

Assigned revenue received under Article 6 6 0 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations under this article, in accordance with Article 22(1) of the Financial Regulation.

Legal basis

Task resulting from the Commission's prerogatives at institutional level, as provided for in Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

This preparatory action tests how to counter disinformation more systematically, effectively and efficiently. An important objective is to build Union capacity on fact-checking disinformation by upgrading the skills base of staff through training and coaching by appointed strategic communication experts, who will then report on their monitoring activities to headquarters, including the East StratCom task force.

Therefore, the preparatory action finances: (a) training to raise awareness of disinformation campaigns among Union staff; (b) monitoring of disinformation campaigns both within and outside the Union; (c) data-based analysis of the challenge and ways forward throughout Europe; (d) better output for the product of that analysis, i.e. translation and dissemination in local languages. As disinformation campaigns target the Union and its partner countries alike, these activities can benefit staff, according to priorities to be set, in: (1) Commission Permanent Representations in Member States; (2) Union delegations in Eastern Partnership countries; and (3) Union delegations in Western Balkans countries.

The preparatory action is jointly implemented by the Commission (Service for Foreign Policy Instruments) and the European External Action Service.

This preparatory action allows the Union to raise awareness, to increase capacity to anticipate, analyse and respond, to be more efficient, to better reach out to Member States and to promote its policy objectives vis-à-vis its citizens as well as the Eastern Neighbourhood and the Western Balkans, including in their languages.

Building on its first two years of implementation, the preparatory action should continue to be adequately financed in 2020. As tackling fake news has become a priority for the Union, including through adoption of a communication on this issue, ensuring adequate funding to tackle the phenomenon at Union level is essential.

Legal basis

Preparatory action within the meaning of Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

CHAPTER 21 02 — DEVELOPMENT COOPERATION INSTRUMENT (cont'd)Remarks

The primary objective of the Union's development cooperation policy is the reduction of poverty, as laid down in the TFEU. The European Consensus on Development provides the general policy framework, guidance and the focus to direct implementation of Regulation (EU) No 233/2014.

These appropriations are intended to cover activities concerning the pursuit of poverty reduction, sustainable economic, social and environmental development and consolidating and supporting democracy, the rule of law, good governance, human rights and the relevant principles of international law, including those reflected in the Millennium Development Goals and in the emerging post-2015 international development framework. Synergies with other Union external instruments will be sought where appropriate, without any loss of focus on the above basic objectives.

In principle, 100 % of expenditure in the geographic programmes and at least 95 % of expenditure in the thematic programmes and 90 % of expenditure in the pan-African programme must conform to the OECD/DAC criteria for Official Development Assistance.

As a general rule, at least 20 % of appropriations should be used for basic social services and secondary education. Moreover, the Development Cooperation Instrument should contribute to the objective of addressing at least 20 % of the Union budget to a low carbon and climate-resilient society.

Remarks

The purpose of development cooperation under this article is primarily its contribution to support the promotion of democracy, good governance, equality, respect for human rights and for the rule of law, and fostering sustainable development and economic integration, as well as to achieving the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

The Commission must continue to report annually on the benchmark used in the past for the assistance to developing countries that is to be allocated to social infrastructure and services, recognising that the Union contribution must be seen as part of overall donor support for the social sectors and that a degree of flexibility must be the norm. Moreover, the Commission will endeavour to ensure that a benchmark of 20 % of its assistance under the Development Cooperation Instrument is dedicated to basic social services, with a focus on health and education, and to secondary education, this being an average across all geographical areas, and recognising that here too a degree of flexibility must be the norm, for example where exceptional assistance is involved. This appropriation is intended to cover cooperation schemes in developing countries, territories and regions in Latin America in order to:

— contribute to the achievement of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in the region,

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover help to eradicate poverty and contribute to the creation of conditions for sustainable and inclusive economic and social development, social cohesion, democratisation and the improvement of people's lives. Appropriate consideration will be given to the areas described below, reflecting jointly-agreed strategies, partnerships, cooperation and trade agreements. Priorities will be established in accordance with the Commission's policy priorities, the Sustainable Development Goals, building on the European Consensus on Development, the Global Strategy for the European Union's Foreign and Security Policy and the subsequent conclusions of the Council.

The bilateral programmes will focus on promoting sustainable growth, integrated rural development, income-generating opportunities and jobs creation in rural areas, and fostering food security; reforms in the area of rule of law, promoting democratisation and human rights, transparency and anti-corruption measures, and supporting public finance management; the establishment of an effective system of education focused on quality secondary and vocational education matching job market needs; support to the health sector through improved access to equitable and quality health services and support to economic investments.

Regional programmes aim at supporting a broad-based process of dialogue and collaboration between Central Asian countries, notably in areas sensitive for overall security and stability.

The programmes will be implemented with a steady focus on those most in need. Cross-cutting issues, such as environment and climate change, disaster risk reduction, local governance, anti-corruption, human rights, including freedom of religion and belief, gender equality, and youth will be mainstreamed in all Union programmes.

When and where governance reform efforts of a meaningful nature and genuine democratisation processes exist, providing support for them will be a priority. Similarly, allocations to border management and anti-drugs programmes will depend on the outlook for achieving significant results. Cooperation with civil society will be a major element of cooperation. Increasingly, collaboration with Member States' agencies to implement these programmes will be considered as well as blending with resources from international financing institutions.

CHAPTER 21 02 — DEVELOPMENT COOPERATION INSTRUMENT (cont'd)21 02 07 Global public goods and challenges and poverty reduction, sustainable development and democracyRemarks*

This programme is intended to benefit primarily the poorest and least developed countries and the most disadvantaged sections of the population in countries covered by Regulation (EU) No 233/2014.

This appropriation is intended to cover poverty reduction and fostering sustainable development as a component under the 'Global Public Goods and Challenges' programme. The objective of the programme is to support inclusive sustainable development by addressing the main global public goods and challenges in a flexible and cross-cutting manner. The main areas of action include environment and climate change, sustainable energy, human development (including health, education, gender, equality, identity, employment, skills, social protection, social inclusion, and economic-development-related aspects such as growth, jobs, trade and private-sector engagement), food and nutrition security, sustainable agriculture, and migration and asylum. This thematic programme will also enable a swift response to be made to unforeseen events and global crises affecting the poorest populations. By promoting synergies across the various sectors, the 'Global Public Goods and Challenges' programme will reduce fragmentation of Union development cooperation and increase coherence and complementarity with other Union programmes and instruments. At least 50 % of the funds, prior to the use of the markers based on OECD methodology (Rio markers), should serve for climate action and environment-related objectives.

This appropriation is intended to provide financial support to actions under the 'food and nutrition security and sustainable agriculture' action area, of the 'Global Public Goods and Challenges' programme.

In the area of food and nutrition security and sustainable agriculture, the overall objective is to improve food security for the poorest and more vulnerable, to help eradicate poverty and hunger for current and future generations and to better address under-nutrition, thereby reducing child mortality. This objective will be pursued in line with the Union policy which focuses on enhancing the incomes of smallholder farmers, the resilience of vulnerable communities and on helping partner countries ensure availability and access to nutritious foods during pregnancy and early childhood, and access to basic nutrition services and a safe and healthy environment so as to reduce the number of stunted children by 7 million by 2025. As food security is a global challenge, the 'Global Public Goods and Challenges' programme will focus on activities and approaches to address global public goods and challenges that provide strong multiplier to the agricultural, livestock and fisheries sector, the food and nutrition security situation of households, the quality of diets of children and women, the rural economy and food systems, and the resilience of the most vulnerable households to shocks and stresses. This will complement and add value to the support provided through geographical programmes.

The following three components are included in the theme:

- Component 1: Generating and exchanging knowledge and fostering innovation that will generate and apply new knowledge to the challenges of food and nutrition security mainly at international and continental levels. This component will work with existing global and regional initiatives, but also envisages new partnerships that are needed to ensure that knowledge generated by research is used by beneficiaries to improve their income and livelihoods, and quality of diets,
- Component 2: Strengthening and promoting governance and capacity at the global, continental, regional and national levels, for all relevant stakeholders. This component will support international initiatives addressing food and nutrition security, including land and sustainable fisheries, and improve the effectiveness of dialogue on food and nutrition security issues. It will also foster a coordinated international effort to generate reliable, accessible and timely information and analytical capacity to support evidence-based policymaking and to strengthen or set up sustainable regional and national information systems for food security (ISFS) institutions. This component may also support capacity development initiatives of stakeholders such as civil society organisations, farmers' organisations and other inter-professional groups along the value chain,
- Component 3: Supporting the poor and nutrition-insecure to react to crises and strengthen resilience. This component will provide support to countries where there will not be bilateral programmes under geographical programming, to countries which suffer from the consequences from a major unforeseen crisis or shock, including natural and man-made disasters, epidemics and major food and nutrition crises in fragile and food crisis prone countries. This component will also support innovative approaches to identify and manage risks, strengthen prevention of undernutrition and to build resilience. Where relevant, interventions will be also designed in order to enhance synergies and complementarities between humanitarian and development interventions. Joint analysis of the situation performed by humanitarian and development stakeholders will be encouraged.

Other assigned revenue received under Articles 5 2 0, 5 2 1, 5 2 2, 5 7 0, 6 4 1 and 9 0 0 and Item 6 6 0 0 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations under this item, in accordance with Article 22(1) of the Financial Regulation.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover implementation of initiatives under the 'migration and asylum' action area of the 'Global Public Goods and Challenges' programme with the aim of enhancing the governance and maximising the development impact of migration and mobility.

In particular, the 'Global Public Goods and Challenges' programme in the area of migration and asylum aims to enhance the governance of migration in and by developing countries, placing particular attention on maximising the positive impact and minimising the negative impact of migration and mobility on development in low- and middle-income countries of origin and destination. In this sense, the programme will support the implementation of the migration related Sustainable Development Goals, including in particular target 10.7 on facilitating orderly, safe regular and responsible migration and mobility. Initiatives launched will contribute to the implementation of Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions of 13 May 2015 entitled 'A European Agenda on Migration' (COM(2015) 240 final), including notably the priorities set out in Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the European Council, the Council and the European Investment Bank of 7 June 2016 on establishing a new Partnership Framework with third countries under the European Agenda on Migration (COM(2016) 385 final). Protection and promotion of the human rights of migrants, including access to services such as health, and support for the Union commitments to ensure policy coherence for development on migration will be pursued as cross-cutting objectives. Activities funded under this budget line must be in line with the primary objective of the Union's development policy, which is poverty reduction.

The programme will focus on initiatives at global level as well as multi-regional level (e.g. to support cooperation along south-south or south-north migratory routes). A limited number of national projects to support new cooperation activities with priority countries for the Union's external migration policy may also be launched.

Other assigned revenue received under Articles 5 2 0, 5 2 1, 5 2 2, 5 7 0, 6 4 1 and 9 0 0 and Item 6 6 0 0 the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations under this item, in accordance with Article 22(1) of the Financial Regulation.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover support to the implementation of the Joint Africa-EU Strategy (JAES). In particular, the Pan-African programme will be used to provide specific support to development cooperation activities of cross-regional, continental and trans-continental nature, as well as relevant JAES initiatives in the global arena. The Pan-African programme will work in close cooperation with other instruments, notably the European Neighbourhood Instrument established by Regulation (EU) No 232/2014, the European Development Fund and the thematic programmes under the Development Cooperation Instrument established by Regulation (EU) No 233/2014, and will concentrate on specific initiatives agreed in the framework of JAES, ensuring the necessary coherence and synergy and preventing duplications and overlaps.

This will be used in the following main priority development areas, subject to their possible update in the multiannual indicative programme 2018-2020 following the outcomes of the 5th Africa-EU summit held in Abidjan in November 2017:

- development of peace, security, democratic governance and human rights, with a support to the African governance architecture through cooperation with the Commission of the African Union and other related institutions such as the Pan-African Parliament, the African Court for People and Human Rights; civil society organisations,
- support to regional integration at the continental level, including harmonisation of policies, standards and regulations, and capacity building to promote regional integration, trade and investments,
- on migration, mobility and employment, targeting improvements in the areas of remittances, mobility and labour migration, fight against trafficking in human beings, irregular migration and international protection,
- good stewardship of natural resources (this includes areas such as environment and climate change, raw materials and agriculture) and development-oriented use of the wealth they can bring,
- development of a knowledge-based and skilled-based society, in order to develop competitiveness and sustain growth, through support to higher education and research at continental level, by providing support to the African Union flagship initiatives in these areas, and supporting the improvement and availability of accurate statistical data.

Support will also be provided in order to develop the Africa-EU partnership, to tackle global issues in the worldwide arena, and to reinforce civil society for specific action at continental level.

Assigned revenue received under Articles 5 2 0, 5 2 1, 5 2 2, 5 7 0, 6 4 1 and 9 0 0 and Item 6 6 0 0 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations under this article in accordance with Article 22(1) of the Financial Regulation.

The Union, faced with mass migration, must commit to stopping such population movements at source in addition to strengthening control of its external borders.

This development is likely to be accentuated: demographers estimate that Africa could have 800 million more inhabitants within 30 years.

The European Fund for Sustainable Development, established by Regulation (EU) 2017/1601 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 September 2017 establishing the European Fund for Sustainable Development (EFSD), the EFSD Guarantee and the EFSD Guarantee Fund (OJ L 249, 27.9.2017, p. 1), is one of the financial instruments for a pro-active development aid policy. It remains essential to make support manpower available to provide services in priority areas, in particular schooling, health care and technical assistance.

Accordingly, the Union could encourage young Europeans to become volunteers for periods of 6 months to a year; they would be hosted by public-sector development aid bodies, NGOs and approved civic-service structures. The Union budget contribution would take the form of grants to cover travel and accommodation expenses. The EU Aid Volunteers scheme can serve as a model, the two differences being that assignments will focus on development and the target audience age range is 18 to 26.

To best cater for funding needs for this preparatory action, the focus should be on Heading 4, which is the heading most suited to the Development Cooperation Instrument reaching its objectives.

Legal basis

Preparatory action within the meaning of Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

In its Health Sector Development Programme (2017-2020), the Mauritanian Government proposed introducing universal health cover. The country's only pilot is an innovative trial being conducted by the NGO Memisa Belgium in partnership with the Dar Naïm Health Association (APSDN), with scientific support from the Institute of Tropical Medicine in Antwerp. It focuses on the Dar Naïm district of Nouakchott. The current trial offers integrated health care and mutual health insurance complemented by inclusive social protection actions. This service package significantly improves the living conditions of the most disadvantaged and poorest sections of the population.

The pilot project, running for 36 months on the basis of direct grants, will scale up and adapt this Mauritanian model for rural areas with a view to rolling out universal health cover.

The project has three components:

The first component involves consolidating the various trials developed under the APSDN health programme, i.e.: 1. a quality care offer (integrated patient-centred care) at the level of front-line patient care; 2. developing community-based mutual health insurance for people in the informal sector in addition to action by the National Health Insurance Fund (CNAM) targeting the formal sector; and 3. developing a non-contributory health and social protection scheme ('equity fund') for poorer sections of the population.

The second component involves a participatory and global analysis of the conditions determining the success of these trials and the pitfalls to be avoided during their implementation, followed by exhaustive sharing of this knowledge with the various actors in the Mauritanian health system.

The third component involves planning and preparing in close collaboration with all relevant actors (public and private, in the health and social sub-sectors) an extension of these trials to other regions of the country.

It is intended to cover actions aiming to help safeguard countries and populations against risks either of an intentional, accidental or natural origin. This may, inter alia, include:

- strengthening the capacity of the competent civilian authorities involved in the development and enforcement of effective control of the trafficking in chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear materials or agents (including the equipment for their production, or delivery or effective border controls), including through the installation of modern logistical evaluation and control equipment. The actions relate to natural and industrial disasters as well as criminal activities,
- the development of the legal framework and institutional capacities for the establishment and enforcement of effective export controls on dual-use goods, including measures of regional cooperation,

CHAPTER 21 05 — INSTRUMENT CONTRIBUTING TO STABILITY AND PEACE — GLOBAL AND TRANS-REGIONAL THREATS AND EMERGING THREATS (cont'd)21 05 01 (cont'd)

- the development of effective civilian disaster preparedness, emergency planning, crisis response, and capabilities for clean-up measures in relation to possible major environmental incidents in this field,
- the promotion of civilian research activities as an alternative to defence-related research, and support for the retraining and alternative employment of scientists and engineers having formerly been employed in weapons-related areas,
- support for measures to enhance safety practice related to civilian facilities where sensitive chemical, biological, radiological or nuclear materials or agents are stored, or are handled in the context of civilian research programmes,
- support, within the framework of Union cooperation policies and their objectives, for the establishment of civil infrastructure and relevant civilian studies necessary for the dismantlement, remediation or conversion of weapons-related facilities and sites where these are declared as no longer belonging to a defence programme.

Other measures in the field of global and trans-regional threats will cover:

- strengthening the capacity of law enforcement and judicial and civil authorities involved in the fight against terrorism,
- countering radicalisation, violent extremism and organised crime, including illicit trafficking in human beings, drugs, firearms and explosive materials, cybercrime, falsified medicine and in the effective control of illegal trade and transit; exchanging expertise and best practices on countering radicalisation and violent extremism with partner countries in regions where extremism is on the rise, such as South Asia; also addressing global and trans-regional effects of climate change with a potentially destabilising impact, and including the promotion of biosafety and biosecurity of facilities handling dangerous microbes,
- support for measures to address threats to international transport, and critical infrastructure, including passenger and freight traffic, energy operations and energy distribution, electronic information and communication networks,
- ensuring an adequate response to major threats to public health, such as pandemics with a potential transnational impact.

Such measures may be adopted under this instrument in the context of stable conditions, where they aim to address specific global and trans-regional threats having a destabilising effect, and only to the extent that an adequate and effective response cannot be provided under related Union instruments for external assistance.

Any income from additional financial contributions from Member States and contributions from third countries or from bodies other than those set up under the TFEU or the Euratom Treaty to certain external aid actions or programmes financed by the Union and managed by the Commission may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations. Remarks

Budget financing provides the Commission with the means of support it needs to prepare, formulate and follow up coordination measures under its development policy. Policy coordination is crucial to consistency, complementarity and aid and development effectiveness.

COMMISSION
TITLE 21 — INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION AND DEVELOPMENTCHAPTER 21 08 — DEVELOPMENT AND COOPERATION WORLDWIDE (cont'd)21 08 02 (cont'd)

Coordination measures are essential in defining and shaping the Union development policy at a strategic and programming level. The specific nature of the Union development policy is directly enshrined in the Treaties (Articles 208 and 210 TFEU). Union aid and the national policies of the Member States in the sphere of development cooperation need to complement and reinforce each other, and this cannot work without coordination. Article 210 TFEU calls on the Commission to act as coordinator of the Member States' and the Union's development policies and of action in development cooperation.

Coordination is not only a major factor in the Commission's value added vis-à-vis the policies of the Member States but also a priority in the work schedule at the point where the agendas of the Union and the international community intersect. This appropriation covers various forms of action:

- effectiveness, efficiency, relevance, impact and viability studies in the area of coordination,
- support, analyses and coordination activities in the priority areas of development policy (including budget support, public finance management and domestic revenue mobilisation), aid and development effectiveness (including joint programming/joint implementation and transparency) and financing for development,
- meetings of experts and exchanges between the Commission, Member States and other international actors (United States of America, emerging donors, etc.) and preparation of and participation to international fora such as the Global Partnership for Effective Development Cooperation or those under the policy stream financing for development, means of implementation, Agenda 2030 and new Consensus,
- technical assistance and methodological support (including monitoring, analysis and dissemination of good practices, and IT expertise); internal communication and e-training,
- research, communication and consultation, as well as evaluation services, including for technical assistance,
- monitoring of policies and operations in the course of implementation,
- support measures to improve the quality of the monitoring of ongoing operations, including expenditure necessary for the implementation of the European Fund for Sustainable Development (EFSD), and the preparation of future operations, including capacity-building and training,
- measures to support external initiatives in the sphere of coordination,
- the preparation of common positions, statements and initiatives,
- the organisation of events relating to coordination,
- the Commission's membership fees and contributions to the international organisations and networks,
- the dissemination of information through the production of publications and the development of information systems,
- implementation of TAIEX activities: provision of services and public sector expertise in the framework of TAIEX.

COMMISSION

TITLE 21 — INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION AND DEVELOPMENT

This appropriation covers the financing of activities designed to draw attention to action by the Union and Member States in the field of the international cooperation and development and the enlargement and neighbourhood policies, and to raise public awareness of related issues. Every activity financed pursuant to this action must include the following two components, which are complementary:

- an 'information' component, designed to promote the various activities which the Union undertakes in the field of international cooperation and development and the enlargement and neighbourhood policies, and the activities which it conducts in partnership with its Member States and other international institutions,
- an 'awareness-raising' component, covering public opinion in the Union and in partner countries.

These activities consist mainly, though not exclusively, of financial support for audio-visual and online publications, communication via social media, seminars, trainings and events, the production of information material, the development of information systems, networks of Member States and prizes for journalism in the field of development and the enlargement and neighbourhood policies.

These activities are directed at the general public and are implemented through public and private sector partners and stakeholders and through a network of Member States, the Commission Representations in the Member States and Union delegations in partner countries.

This appropriation is moreover intended to cover the funding of priority information and communication activities directed towards the citizens of the Union and dealing with the Union's external policies as a whole.

The areas which will be covered by information activities include those below, but may include other aspects of the Union's external relations, particularly in relation to the future of the Union's external policies:

- addressing the public perception of external assistance, building on the results and the evaluation of the activities deployed by the Union institutions and Member States in the context of European Year for Development 2015, the Joint Declaration of the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission on the Legacy of the European Year for Development 2015, and on the adoption of the Agenda 2030 by the United Nations in September 2015. The objective is to make clear that external assistance is an integral part of what the Union does for the benefit both of the population of partner countries and of European taxpayers and to raise awareness of the fact that the Union is delivering tangible results on behalf of Union citizens to fight poverty and support sustainable growth worldwide,
- organising key events highlighting the Union's leading role in international development, most notably the annual edition of the European Development Days (EDD). This major event has become one of the main events in the Commission agenda in terms of external relations. It brings together development advocates, decision-makers and practitioners. Each year, EDD serves as a platform for policy brainstorming and forward-looking recommendations ahead of key international summits. It highlights the importance of the Union's role not only as the world's largest development assistance provider, but also as a leader in the international development policy debates,
- the organisation of visits for groups of journalists and other target groups.

The Interinstitutional Group on Information (IGI), co-chaired by the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission, lays down common guidelines for interinstitutional cooperation in matters of Union information and communication policy. It coordinates the central and decentralised public information activities on European topics. Each year the IGI gives its opinion on the priorities for the following years on the basis of information provided by the Commission.

This appropriation is also intended to cover:

- expenditure on technical and administrative assistance not involving public authority tasks outsourced by the Commission under ad hoc service contracts for the mutual benefit of the Commission and beneficiaries,
- the contracting of supplementary legal counsel services for the provision of specialised advice on the individual agreements to be signed for investment programmes, under the EFSD,
- communication and outreach activities linked to the implementation of the External Investment Plan (EIP), including activities establishing structured dialogue with the private sector and trainings on the EIP
- the contracting of independent consultants to audit the mapping of the individual rating scales of the financial institutions, as well as new private partners in preparation of the new MFF implementation, in order to integrate them into a common scale, in line with the risk assessment methodology to be used by the Guarantee Technical Assessment Group in the implementation of the EFSD Guarantee,
- the contracting of independent consultants to support the Commission in monitoring the functioning of the EFSD and assessing its results and impact, in line with the obligation under the Regulation (EU) 2017/1601 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 September 2017 establishing the European Fund for Sustainable Development (EFSD), the EFSD Guarantee and the EFSD Guarantee Fund (OJ L 249, 27.9.2017, p. 1),
- expenditure on printing, translation, studies, meetings of experts, information and the purchase of information material directly linked to the achievement of the objective of the programme.

It also covers the costs of publication, production, storage, distribution and dissemination of information material, in particular via the Publications Office of the European Union, and other administrative costs related to coordination.

Assigned revenue received under Articles 5 2 0, 5 2 1, 5 2 2, 5 7 0, 6 3 3 and 9 0 0 and Items 6 3 5 2, 6 3 5 3 and 6 6 0 0 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations under this article in accordance with Article 22(1) of the Financial Regulation.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

This preparatory action supports the International Commission on Missing Persons (ICMP) Western Balkans Programme for 2018 and 2019 in assisting governments in the search for and identification of missing persons from the conflicts in the former Yugoslavia through enhanced regional cooperation.

Despite the progress achieved so far and the significant efforts and active commitment of the Union, resolving the fate of the missing from the conflicts in the former Yugoslavia remains a burning issue. Cooperation at regional level between the countries concerned has not been sufficiently explored.

This preparatory action helps authorities address the large number of NN (unidentified bodies) cases in countries in the region and the interrelated issue of misidentification, which occurred prior to the ICMP's introduction of DNA identification in 2001.

Following the signing of cooperation agreements between the ICMP and Bosnia and Herzegovina, Kosovo and Montenegro respectively in 2016, and the conclusion of an agreement with Serbia in 2017, the preparatory action establishes a database of active missing person cases from the conflicts in the former Yugoslavia and facilitates regular meetings with regional authorities to discuss them. This enables the transparent management of data on missing persons and a cooperative approach at regional level in order to reduce the number of unresolved missing person cases. Collection of additional genetic references from families of missing persons in the region, supported by outreach and campaigning efforts, helps the authorities to identify NN cases and take corrective action where misidentifications are demonstrated to have occurred. The action also strengthens regional cooperation among associations of families of the missing so they can be involved in the process and jointly ensure government accountability on this matter.

The main activities to be undertaken under this regional preparatory action are:

- (1) establishing a database of active missing person cases from conflicts in the former Yugoslavia, and facilitating regular meetings with regional authorities to discuss cases;
- (2) providing and managing a small grant to the body responsible for regional coordination of associations of families of missing persons from the former Yugoslavia for the purposes of lobbying to encourage regional governments and authorities to search for and identify the missing;

CHAPTER 22 02 — ENLARGEMENT PROCESS AND STRATEGY (cont'd)22 02 77 (cont'd)22 02 77 03 (cont'd)

- (3) providing assistance to national authorities in affected countries in the Western Balkans to excavate and examine mortal remains from clandestine graves;
- (4) providing continued access to the ICMP's DNA laboratory standing capacity (sampling and extraction of DNA profiles from excavated cases, and DNA matching of genetic reference profiles and post mortem profiles);
- (5) engaging the national authorities in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Kosovo and Serbia that are responsible for searching for missing persons (government commissions on missing persons) in a regional policy dialogue that will develop sustainable and effective initiatives for resolving the related issues of NN cases and misidentifications resulting from the use of traditional visual recognition methods.

The added value of this preparatory action is in ensuring that the issue of missing persons remains a rule-of-law priority in the Western Balkan region. It is indeed important to remember the regional dimension of the wars in the former Yugoslavia, with tens of thousands of missing persons now living in neighbouring countries and with many of those who died during the conflicts having been buried in neighbouring countries.

ICMP activities financed at national level, at this point in time mainly in Bosnia and Herzegovina, include: technical support for locating and excavating clandestine graves; access to DNA testing and matching; support for local stakeholders to complete the review of unidentified remains in mortuaries through a systematic process involving additional blood collection from relatives of the missing in order to identify NN cases in mortuary facilities in Bosnia and Herzegovina, increase the identification rate and significantly reduce the number of unidentified remains in storage.

Activities carried out under this regional preparatory action are separate from and complementary to the activities that are currently taking place at national level. It is essential to note that, while separate from each other, there are important synergies between the regional and national projects that will help ensure that goals are achieved under both actions.

In this process it is also important that investigations are done in a manner that respects the needs of families and the long-term societal need to provide a historically accurate accounting of atrocities that can counterbalance unsubstantiated and politically motivated narratives. To this end, the regional dimension will be very important in strengthening cooperation among associations of families in the countries concerned.

This preparatory action builds on successful practices under the Union-funded preparatory action to support Arab Spring countries to implement asset recovery. That action focused on supporting Egypt, Libya and Tunisia in furthering asset recovery cases resulting from the 2011 revolutions that toppled their former leaders, in particular with respect to bilateral judicial cooperation with the Member States and other countries. This has resulted in, among other achievements, strengthened coordination between Arab Spring countries and the Member States on asset recovery, and in facilitating the recovery and return of over USD 300 million. In the light of the above, officials from the Member States and high-level officials of the original beneficiary states (including the Prime Minister of Libya, the Prosecutor-General of Egypt and the Minister for State Property for Tunisia) have indicated a strong interest in seeing a broader, more permanent Union programme to implement asset recovery which includes the activities referred to above:

- (1) strengthening regional platforms for dialogue, exchange of best practices and operational cooperation (particularly with Union counterparts) on asset recovery;
- (2) strengthening legislation on seizure and confiscation of assets linked to corruption;
- (3) specialised case mentoring for asset recovery practitioners so as to produce better operational practices in tracing and recovering stolen assets;
- (4) technical advice to ensure that recovered stolen assets are directed to high-priority development needs in national health and education sectors so as to help further stabilise Union neighbours;
- (5) technical advice to ensure greater operational harmonisation with both the Union and Financial Action Task Force standards;
- (6) dissemination of evidence-based research to enhance widespread knowledge of how assets are corruptly diverted and stolen, and to educate policymakers on how development is impeded by delays in the recovery of assets; and
- (7) strengthening civil society's role in prioritising the final destination of recovered assets.

It should be noted that the Global Project to Combat Money Laundering and the Financing of Terrorism (CRIS number: 038875) planned by the Directorate-General for International Cooperation and Development (DG DEVCO) focuses principally on anti-money-laundering and combating the financing of terrorism, whereas this action focuses principally on asset recovery and on continuing the work of assisting beneficiary countries in actual high-level cases linked to acts of corruption and other forms of organised criminal activity. Accordingly, this preparatory action is distinct in nature, but will serve as a useful complement to the DG DEVCO project and strengthen its impact.

Given the value of asset recovery work in contributing to stabilisation among Union neighbours, the ownership taken up by national counterparts and the results achieved thus far through the expertise provided through the preliminary preparatory action, this preparatory action will be highly relevant to Tunisia and Libya, as well as to other European Neighbourhood Policy South partner countries (Jordan and Lebanon). Egypt will be involved in region-wide activities. The preparatory action, while distinct in scope from other pending or planned projects, will also serve to reinforce and complement such efforts to assist these countries in combating corruption, money laundering, the financing of terrorism and other forms of organised crime. This preparatory action will also directly support existing Union and United Nations sanctions regimes affecting countries in the Middle East and the North Africa region.

Legal basis

Preparatory action within the meaning of Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover support expenditure directly linked to the achievement of the objectives of the humanitarian aid policy. This covers, inter alia:

- expenditure on technical and administrative assistance not involving public authority tasks outsourced by the Commission under ad hoc service contracts,

CHAPTER 23 01 — ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENDITURE OF THE ‘HUMANITARIAN AID AND CIVIL PROTECTION’ POLICY AREA (cont'd)23 01 04 (cont'd)23 01 04 01 (cont'd)

- fees and reimbursable expenses incurred through service contracts to undertake audits and evaluations of partners and actions of the Directorate-General for European Civil Protection and Humanitarian Aid Operations (ECHO),
- expenditure on studies, information systems and publications, on public awareness and information campaigns, and on any other measure highlighting the Union character of the aid,
- expenditure on external personnel at headquarters (contract staff, seconded national experts or agency staff) limited to EUR 1 800 000. This personnel is intended to take over the tasks that were entrusted to external contractors handling the administration of individual experts and to manage programmes in third countries. That amount, based on an estimated annual cost per person/year, is intended to cover the remuneration of the external personnel in question and training, meetings, missions, information technology (IT) expenditure and telecommunications expenditure related to their tasks,
- expenditure related to the purchase and maintenance of security, specialised IT and communication tools and technical services necessary for the establishment and functioning of the Emergency Response Centre. This centre ('crisis room') will be operational on a 24-hour basis and responsible for the coordination of the Union's civilian disaster response, in particular to ensure full consistency and efficient cooperation between humanitarian aid and civil protection,
- expenditure on the development, maintenance, operation and support of information systems, intended for internal use or to improve the development and humanitarian nexus in key sectors such as food assistance and nutrition; coordination between the Commission and other institutions, national administrations, agencies, non-governmental organisations, other partners in humanitarian aid, and Directorate-General for European Civil Protection and Humanitarian Aid Operations (ECHO) experts in the field.

Any income from additional financial contributions from Member States and contributions from third countries or from bodies other than those set up under the TFEU or the Euratom Treaty to certain external aid actions or programmes financed by the Union and managed by the Commission may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations. Such contributions under Article 6 3 3 of the statement of revenue constitute assigned revenue under points (a)(ii) and (e) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation. The amounts entered on the line for administrative support expenditure will be determined, without prejudice to Article 235(5) of the Financial Regulation, by the contribution agreement for each operational programme with an average not exceeding 4 % of the contributions for the corresponding programme for each chapter.

This appropriation covers administrative expenditure under Articles 23 02 01 and 23 02 02.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover the financing of humanitarian and food assistance operations of a humanitarian nature to help people in countries outside the Union who are the victims of conflicts or disasters, both natural and man-made (wars, outbreaks of fighting, etc.), or comparable emergencies, for as long as is necessary to meet the humanitarian needs that such situations give rise to. It will be carried out in accordance with the rules on humanitarian aid under Regulation (EC) No 1257/96.

The aid and assistance is granted to victims without discrimination or adverse distinction on the grounds of race, ethnic origin, religion, disability, sex, age, nationality or political affiliation. That aid and assistance is provided in accordance with international humanitarian law and should not be subject to restrictions imposed by other partner donors, as long as it is necessary to meet the humanitarian needs to which such situations give rise.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

The creation of a network of European hubs, with existing infrastructures specialised in different components of civil protection and crisis management interventions, could help to prepare the Union, its Member States and various stakeholders (including the Directorate-General for European Civil protection and Humanitarian Aid Operations) for tackling new challenges in the field of civil protection and crisis management.

Emerging new risks can lead to global crises (for instance, population displacement or new types of terrorist attacks). Hence there is a need for:

- (1) identifying existing gaps for which new scenarios should be designed to react to global crisis situations more quickly, more effectively and with deeper coordination between European actors. Experience sharing and promotion of best practices at European level will also make risk prevention more effective;
- (2) existing infrastructure and projects to be used for enhanced capacity building and pooling for interventions in and outside Europe. This could involve geographical and technical specialisation of the hubs, depending on the type of risk, e.g. forest fires, health assistance, shelters and containers for humanitarian aid;
- (3) designing new European standards for capacities (i.e. new types of crisis equipment) in order to strengthen European knowledge and make actions in the field more visible.

This appropriation is intended to cover the implementation of the European Voluntary Humanitarian Aid Corps ('EU Aid Volunteers initiative').

The objective of the EU Aid Volunteers initiative is to contribute to strengthening the Union's capacity to provide needs-based humanitarian aid aimed at preserving life, preventing and alleviating human suffering, and maintaining human dignity, and to strengthening the capacity and resilience of vulnerable or disaster-affected communities in third countries, particularly by means of disaster preparedness, disaster risk reduction and by enhancing the link between relief, rehabilitation and development. That objective shall be attained through the added value of joint contributions of EU Aid Volunteers, expressing the Union's values and solidarity with people in need and visibly promoting a sense of Union citizenship.

This appropriation is intended to cover the following measures and items of expenditure:

- the certification of sending and hosting organisations,
- the identification and selection of candidate volunteers,
- the establishment of a training programme and support for training of candidate volunteers and apprenticeship placements,
- the establishment, maintenance and updating of a database of EU Aid Volunteers,
- the deployment of EU Aid Volunteers in order to support and complement humanitarian aid in third countries,

Any income from additional financial contributions from Member States and contributions from third countries or from bodies other than those set up under the TFEU or the Euratom Treaty to certain external aid actions or programmes financed by the Union and managed by the Commission may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations. Such contributions under Article 6 3 3 of the statement of revenue constitute assigned revenue under points (a)(ii) and (e) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation. The amounts entered on the line for administrative support expenditure will be determined, without prejudice to Article 235(5) of the Financial Regulation, by the contribution agreement for each operational programme with an average not exceeding 4 % of the contributions for the corresponding programme for each chapter.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover all expenditure resulting from the mandate of the members of the Supervisory Committee of the European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF), namely:

- allowances granted to the members of the Supervisory Committee for the time dedicated to the fulfilment of their functions, as well as their travel expenses and ancillary costs,
- costs incurred by members of the Supervisory Committee officially representing the Supervisory Committee,
- all operating expenditure, such as the cost of purchase of equipment, stationery and office supplies and expenditure arising from communications and telecommunications (postal charges, telephone, fax and telegraph charges), documentation and library expenditure, the purchase of books and subscriptions to information media,
- travel, subsistence and incidental expenses of experts, invited by the members of the Supervisory Committee to participate in study groups and working parties, and the cost of organising such meetings where they are not covered by the existing infrastructure (in the headquarters of the institutions or external offices),
- expenditure on specialised studies and consultations contracted out to highly qualified experts (individuals or firms) where the members of the Supervisory Committee are unable to entrust such studies to suitable staff of OLAF.

Moreover, for the sake of transparency, the resources made available to the secretariat of the Supervisory Committee in PMO's budget (Article 26 01 21) can be identified. Based on a secretariat of seven permanent posts and an allocation for one member of contract staff, the appropriations for the operation of the secretariat of the Supervisory Committee would amount to approximately EUR 1 000 000. This amount covers expenditure on staff costs, training, missions, internal meetings, buildings and IT.

Remarks

The Anti-Fraud Information System (AFIS) is an umbrella term for a set of anti-fraud applications operated by the European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF) under a common technical infrastructure aiming at the timely and secure exchange of fraud-related information between the competent national and Union administrations, as well as storage and analysis of relevant data.

The AFIS encompasses two major areas, mutual assistance in customs matters and irregularities management.

AFIS supports mutual assistance in customs matters through specific information exchange modules and databases, analysis tools and electronic workflow applications.

AFIS also provides the Irregularities Management System (IMS), a secure electronic tool which facilitates the Member States' obligation to report irregularities detected in agricultural, structural, cohesion and fisheries funds, the Asylum, Migration and Integration Fund (AMIF), the instrument for financial support for police cooperation, preventing and combating crime, and crisis management (ISF) and the Fund for European Aid to the Most Deprived (FEAD) as well as pre-accession aid, and which supports the management and analysis of irregularities.

Legal basis

Council Regulation (EC) No 515/97 of 13 March 1997 on mutual assistance between the administrative authorities of the Member States and cooperation between the latter and the Commission to ensure the correct application of the law on customs and agricultural matters (OJ L 82, 22.3.1997, p. 1).

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

This preparatory action will develop the potential and enhance the active and passive use of open data by linking data (linked open data) for European public administrations. The concept of open data is becoming a reference for the dissemination of data produced by public administrations. 'Knowledge is open if anyone is free to access, use, modify and share it — subject, at most, to measures that preserve provenance and openness.' Open data refers to data that is legally open (i.e. data published under an open licence with conditions for re-use limited to attribution) and technically open (i.e. machine-readable and non-proprietary where possible). In practice, this means that the data is free to access for everybody and that the file format and its content are not restricted to a particular non-open source software tool. In recent years, several initiatives to disseminate open data have been launched at national and European level, including the Open Data Portal of the Publications Office of the European Union.

Linked open data is a method of publishing structured open data so that it can be interlinked and become more useful through semantic queries. It builds upon standard web technologies, but, rather than using them to serve web pages for human readers, it extends them to share information in a way that can be read automatically by computers. This enables data from different sources and different policy areas to be connected and queried.

This preparatory action will boost linked open data in European public administrations by developing the implementation of linked open data techniques and infrastructure. The aim is to identify, assess and support the exploitation of the potential of linked open data for European public administrations and, consequently, facilitate the generation of new data, information and knowledge.

The preparatory action targets open data produced and released by European public administrations (notably the European data portal) and focuses on:

- enabling a core set of open data to be identified for linking according to ISA semantic guidelines. e.g. migration data,
- providing the technical solutions to generate targeted queries to be used by European public administrations, e.g. a search engine for linked open data on migration,

- providing the capability to define indicators and contextualise them, e.g. performance indicators for migration policies v statistics on migration,
- promoting the culture and potential of linked open data.

Open dissemination of public administration data is critical for ensuring transparency and accountability of policy actions and empowering citizens in democratic processes.

The preparatory action builds on the results of the ongoing activity financed for 2018, which aims to develop the technical and semantic standards for linked open data dissemination in European public administration.

The preparatory action will make progress in producing analysis services for users. Access to open data is not sufficient in itself to ensure data usability. While linking data provides a powerful tool to generate information, harnessing the power of data for knowledge should be based on user-friendly data analytics systems that put the citizen in control.

The preparatory action will tangibly demonstrate the power of data integration for information purposes and help public administrations in Europe move towards enabling the 'web of data' for knowledge generation.

The specific aim is to pilot the implementation of visualisation and data analytics services so as to exploit the public administration linked open data cloud with a user-centred focus. It will demonstrate scalable, user-friendly and tailored tools to manage, process and analyse the data and make sense of them through intuitive visual analytics tools.

The solution will ensure reuse of the services across public administrations and by national and European open data portals. Accordingly, the action will be based on a co-creation development platform that will crowdsource contributions from civil society organisations and experts and organise co-development initiatives involving the open data community, including collaborative workshops and hackathons.

Legal basis

Preparatory action within the meaning of Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

SMEs are a key engine for job creation and economic growth in Europe. They also include some of the most innovative start-up companies and are frequently linked to value creation and new product and service development. However, many SMEs have not yet fully benefited from the advantages of digital transformation.

In the context of the Digital Single Market, public administrations in Europe have promoted, with support from the Commission, the creation of generic digital public administration components enabling better services to be provided for citizens and business.

While these solutions have been adopted by public administrations in Europe as part of the digital transformation of government, in accordance with the principles set out in the Tallinn Declaration on eGovernment, their use for private-sector development has been limited so far. That reflects in part a lack of awareness about the technology potential of reusing these building blocks for market-based services.

Reusing generic open standards developed by public administrations for identity and access management, secure data exchange, digital trust services and eTranslation could help SMEs overcome the sunk cost of digital transformation and provide tools to create new services which can be offered in the market. This will create opportunities for growth and job creation and allow SMEs to benefit from digital transformation. At the same time SMEs could benefit from a one-stop-shop service portal to provide information and tools supporting compliance with Union data protection rules.

The pilot project will prepare ready-to-use implementations of open digital standards in the areas of digital identity and trust services and for secure data and documents exchange. The take-up of these solutions for the development and implementation of market services will be tested across different countries in Europe with the support of SME business associations. The prototype market services will demonstrate the use of eGovernment digital standards for private-sector development. The pilot project will also develop a service portal focused on SMEs' compliance with Union data regulation rules and a set of tools to support data-enabled digital services.

Remarks

The programme on interoperability solutions and common frameworks for European public administrations, businesses and citizens (ISA² Programme) is the successor of the ISA programme (established by Decision No 922/2009/EC) that ended in December 2015.

ISA² Programme aims to implement a holistic approach on interoperability in the Union and to facilitate the efficient and effective electronic cross-border or cross-sector interaction between European public administrations as well as between them and citizens and businesses. It shall identify, develop and operate interoperability solutions (frameworks, common services and generic tools) implementing the Union's policies.

The programme is implemented in close cooperation and coordination with Member States and concerned Commission services via projects and accompanying measures (awareness raising, promotion, community building, etc.).

The contributions from the EFTA States pursuant to the Agreement on the European Economic Area, and in particular Article 82 thereof and Protocol 32 thereto, must be added to the appropriations entered in this item. By way of information, these amounts derive from contributions from the EFTA States entered against Article 6 3 0 of the statement of revenue, which constitute assigned revenue in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation; they give rise to the provision of corresponding appropriations and to implementation under the 'European Economic Area' Annex to this part of the statement of expenditure in this section, which forms an integral part of the general budget.

Any revenue from the contributions from candidate countries and, if applicable, the Western Balkan potential candidates for participating in Union programmes entered in Item 6 0 3 1 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

This preparatory action is aimed at identifying, developing, implementing and promoting the use of data analytics techniques in the Union and national policymaking process.

The use of data analytics (big data, data and text mining, business intelligence, data analytics) is becoming more and more instrumental in the Union decision-making process. Initiatives launched in recent years by the Commission, such as its Regulatory Fitness and Performance (REFIT) programme – which ensures that Union legislation delivers results for citizens and businesses effectively, efficiently and at minimum cost — and the better regulation agenda – on designing and evaluating Union policies and laws transparently, with evidence, and backed up by the views of citizens and stakeholders – openly promote interaction with citizens and call for the use of evidence in policymaking.

This preparatory action covers the development, implementation and promotion of data analytics solutions for evidence-based policymaking, with potential application at national and Union level. In particular:

- developing and implementing selected text mining solutions for analysing feedback from citizens on policies and initiatives (e.g. the Doris tool developed by the Commission),
- developing and implementing selected data mining solutions for assessing data in specific policy areas and adding intelligence,
- integrating those solutions in consultation processes (e.g. Doris for analysing the Better Regulation feedback; text mining solutions for Union Survey, the open-source survey solution developed by the Commission),
- developing and implementing data analytics tools for monitoring the performance of specific policies and contextualising them (e.g. key performance indicators for Union-funded programmes contextualised against the key social and economic indicators in that specific area).

The development of such data analytics (in the broad sense) solutions is in its early stage and requires dedicated actions to be embedded in the regular Union decision-making process. The potential benefits at Union level and the re-usability for Member States are expected to be relevant.

Remarks

Since expenditure on staff and buildings is included in the appropriations entered in Items XX 01 01 01 and XX 01 03 01 and Article 26 01 23, the Commission contribution, together with the Agency’s own revenue, is intended to cover expenditure incurred by the Agency in its activities.

At its 23rd session on 1 and 2 February 1960, the Euratom Council proposed unanimously that the Commission postpone not only the levying of the charge (intended to cover the operating expenditure of the Euratom Supply Agency) but also the actual introduction of that charge. Since then a subsidy has been included in the budget to balance the revenue side against the Agency expenditure figures shown in the statement of estimates.

The recovery of the Union from the economic crisis and the effective implementation of its key goals of strong growth and global competitiveness, including through sustainable reindustrialisation and modernisation of the Union economy, must be founded on long-term environmental, economic and social sustainability. In the context of the ambitious climate commitments of the Union and its transition to a low-emission economy based on the circular model, its coal and carbon-intensive regions with a high proportion of workers in carbon-dependent sectors need targeted support to effectively contribute to this strategic transformation.

According to Eurostat figures, coal and lignite mining alone currently account for over 300 000 direct jobs in the Union. These are concentrated in a limited number of regions, where their impact on the local economy and social cohesion is the principal driver. In the face of the challenges of technological progress, global competition and demanding environmental and climate policies, the ability of those regions to contribute to and benefit from the Union's transition to a low-emission circular economy has a crucial bearing on the overall success of the Union. This has been acknowledged by the Commission, which in Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of the Regions and the European Investment Bank of 30 November 2016 'Clean Energy for All Europeans' (COM(2016) 860 final) committed to 'examine how to better support the transition in coal and carbon-intensive regions'.

This preparatory action will ensure the effectiveness of these support efforts, their long-term sustainability, and ultimately the success of the transformation of the Union as a whole and its global leadership, by establishing a platform which should enable the Commission to:

- identify the Union's coal and carbon-intensive regions in transition and their smart specialisations,
- build a dedicated practical toolkit with (a) best practices, (b) existing support instruments identifying best synergies, and (c) information exchange with and between regions,
- establish stakeholder fora and provide tools for intra-regional exchanges, including on comprehensive roadmaps for low-emission reindustrialisation and reskilling needs,
- identify on-the-ground bottlenecks and streamline support to new technologies and clean-coal innovation development and uptake, including carbon capture and storage, carbon capture and utilisation and coal gasification,
- establish a compendium of best practices and operational guidelines, and eventually a practical toolkit for third country coal and carbon-intensive regions in transition, as part of the capacity-building measures under the Paris Agreement,
- set up a cross-DG team to (a) identify areas of possible Union policy/programme synergies with a view to ensuring the most effective financial and policy support post-2020; (b) assist regions (central and local authorities) in developing sustainable transition strategies by providing more targeted tools for intra-regional exchanges on best practices, including on comprehensive roadmaps for low-emission reindustrialisation,
- refocus existing stakeholder fora, including social dialogue and dialogue with civil society in general, on establishing just transition and economic strategies,
- provide additional financial support, on top of existing funding schemes without redeployment from other programmes, for the establishment of regional/local just transition roadmaps towards Union carbon neutrality by 2050 in the regions and communities most affected; extra funding should also support existing or future territorial/community projects that are based on the involvement of workers and communities affected through consultation and empowerment,
- strengthen the Platform for Coal Regions in Transition and its Secretariat (established by the preparatory action in 2018 and continued in 2019) in order to achieve the Union's climate goals and fulfil its commitments under the Paris Agreement, while ensuring a just energy transition in which coal regions are not left behind, by providing an increased budget in 2020 and extending the scope of the action to:

- further technical assistance and capacity building in coal and carbon intensive regions in the Union in areas such as strategy preparation, project development, project financing and private investment facilitation (there were 20 pilot regions participating in the Union initiative as of March 2019, compared with four regions in 2017),
- engagement with Energy Community members and observers on coal regions in transition by organising regional outreach in cooperation with international financial institutions and international partners,
- development of a social dimension to the Platform for Coal Regions in Transition, applying best social innovation practices: reskilling and upskilling of workers and programmes for young people and retired miners.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the preparatory action.

With its 2011 Low Carbon Economy Roadmap, the Commission developed a vision to largely decarbonise the European economy and set out specific steps to achieve that goal. The Union has confirmed that commitment, most prominently with the adoption of the Paris Agreement. While recognising that Member States have the sole prerogative to determine their national energy mix, this inevitably puts the focus on coal-mining regions, which have to deal with multiple challenges in connection with this transition, brought about by political decisions, economic realities and public aspirations. The Commission is therefore launching a dedicated dialogue in the form of a coal platform for regions facing this transition.

Activities: Produce a series of toolkits to integrate the results of coal platform meetings in order to support participants in developing local transition strategies in the following fields:

- (a) establishing a governance process at local level: How to start an inclusive dialogue with a view to developing a common transition vision with local and social partners, civil society, industrial and economic actors and academia, including information on best practices and lessons learnt;

- (c) employment and growth perspectives: How to support the labour market transition process (including reskilling and retraining as well as targeted support for vulnerable groups) with a regional concept for economic development to attract future-proof, local jobs;
- (d) environmental rehabilitation: Guidance on converting former sites, including best practices on decommissioning, recultivation, remediation and re-establishment of ground water levels.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

This pilot project sets up a study to analyse the present and future potential demand for renewable energy in industrial sectors and processes, and make a comparative analysis of their ambitions, efficiency in reducing CO₂ emissions, technology needs and investment needs so as to identify priorities in the direct and indirect electrification of industrial processes, which is essential for decarbonising Union industries.

The comparison examines the following issues:

- (1) CO₂ emissions saved in industrial processes through direct or indirect electrification;
- (2) the value created through direct or indirect electrification (i.e. the added value of using decarbonised electricity or hydrogen in a specific sector or process compared to other means of decarbonisation);

CHAPTER 32 02 — CONVENTIONAL AND RENEWABLE ENERGY (cont'd)32 02 77 (cont'd)32 02 77 14 (cont'd)

- (3) the impact of (direct or indirect) electrification on the energy system, in particular in terms of demand flexibility to contribute to the grid supply/demand balance, sector coupling and electricity storage (i.e. apart from the impact on electricity demand, whether the electrification of a sector or industrial process can contribute to making the energy system more flexible, stable and secure, for example via demand response or long-term storage or by reducing or reusing waste heat).

The pilot project focuses on as many industrial sectors as possible, in particular on the key industrial CO₂ emitters, as well as on intermediate products that make it possible to create a more sustainable supply chain, and on industrial processes with high added value. The project will develop a methodology for prioritising sectors and industries.

The pilot project includes a number of case studies of industrial partners in order to test the analysis in practical business cases.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

This pilot project aims to reduce household energy consumption and guarantee universal access to energy. Energy poverty is a Europe-wide problem that requires a holistic approach underpinned by a joint, strong effort at all levels: local, regional, national and European. Towns, cities and regions are often best placed to identify at an early stage those households at risk of energy poverty and thus tackle it in the most effective way.

By the end of this pilot project, outcomes will include:

- providing vulnerable homes with technical support to reduce energy consumption and costs, together with support to improve their energy performance,

- action across a number of government departments involving public health, social services, housing and environmental services, in order to take coordinated action to tackle the various aspects of energy poverty, which causes public health problems and social vulnerability and is often linked to buildings with poor energy performance; reducing energy consumption also has a positive effect in terms of combating climate change,
- actions to link energy savings in local public facilities with the creation of a fund to fight energy poverty in all municipalities,
- actions to empower consumers in their energy consumption patterns,
- assessments of how energy poverty projects can improve the local economy by creating opportunities for energy investments in private houses, and help create jobs,
- dissemination actions including Europe-wide exchange of good practices.

Objectives

The pilot project focuses both on measures to raise awareness and exchange good local and regional practices for tackling energy poverty and on concrete measures to reduce energy poverty in Europe.

According to the Buildings Performance Institute Europe (BPIE-2014) between 50 000 000 and 125 000 000 people in the Union are currently suffering from fuel poverty and cannot afford proper indoor thermal comfort. In addition, investments in energy efficiency can help to prevent fuel poverty and, as stated in Directive 2012/27/EU on energy efficiency, should be a priority for energy-poor households.

The Covenant of Mayors for Climate and Energy, which recently celebrated its 11th anniversary, is a unique bottom-up movement with 7 755 signatory cities, bringing together local and regional authorities voluntarily committing to implementing the Union's climate and energy objectives, offering citizens a high quality of life in sustainable and climate-resilient cities.

On 25 September 2015, the United Nations adopted a set of goals to end poverty, protect the planet and ensure prosperity for all as part of a new Sustainable Development Agenda. Each Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) has specific targets to be achieved over the next 15 years. SDG 1 'End poverty' and SDG 7 'Ensure access to affordable, reliable, sustainable and modern energy for all' relate to this project. In parallel there is an ongoing initiative – Urban Agenda for the EU – to tackle various key aspects of the Union's future policy in this area. The related process involves two specific partnerships: energy transition and urban poverty.

To sum up: energy is central to nearly every major challenge and opportunity for Europe today; whether for jobs, security, climate change, food production or increasing incomes, universal access to energy is essential.

Legal basis

Pilot project within the meaning of Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

Remarks

Under this preparatory action, island authorities and communities will be taught how to write open tenders themselves. The open tenders will then be for private clean-energy companies to competitively respond to with proposals, in particular in connection with solar, wind energy, storage (not only batteries) and district heating/cooling.

Rapidly falling renewable energy costs and increasing numbers of clean-energy providers mean that Union islands should now be transitioning to clean energy, provided that their authorities know how to write, evaluate and award tenders. For islands with low administrative budgets, this process is risky, as it makes highly technical, financial and legal demands. This preparatory action will provide islands with off-the-shelf templates for tendering and will be developed throughout its duration by taking island representatives to visit renewable energy experts for islands and sites around Europe, where profitable clean-energy projects are already being delivered, where possible involving renewable energy communities, in order to share first-hand experiences and learn about the latest project life-cycle budgeting for islands. These real-life training classes and site visits will then be distilled into free, open-access online training courses at the end of the preparatory action.

This preparatory action reverses the normal Union project process, in that, instead of providing a successful standalone proposal in response to a Commission open tender, it will teach island communities how to write tenders themselves, to which they will receive responses that they have been trained to process and manage.

In short, it follows the well-known mantra: 'Give a person a fish and he will eat for a day; teach a person to fish and he will eat for a lifetime.'

Remarks

The preparatory action is unique in that it brings together, through the new framework of the Global Covenant of Mayors, villages and rural areas which are at the forefront of climate change action. Union villages and rural authorities around the world, having a closer knowledge of climate change challenges for rural territories and having pushed for an ambitious global climate agreement, will join forces to lead the efforts to achieve the climate objective of zero emissions by 2050.

Union villages will work closely together within and beyond the Union for overall capacity building and, specifically, to share experiences, transfer knowledge and know-how on sustainable energy and climate planning, share best examples on climate change mitigation and adaptation, and share knowledge about Union innovative financial instruments in support of sustainable energy investments.

The preparatory action will involve analysis of existing good practices for sustainable energy and climate planning implemented in villages and rural areas and the development of innovative integrated rural strategies to properly address access to energy and energy poverty, climate change mitigation and reduction of greenhouse gas emissions, as well as adaptation of rural territories to climate change.

These strategies will be in line with the 'Clean Planet for All' strategy (Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the European Council, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of the Regions and the European Investment Bank of 28 November 2018 'A Clean Planet for all – A European strategic long-term vision for a prosperous, modern, competitive and climate neutral economy' (COM(2018) 773 final)) and the 'Clean Energy for all Europeans' package (Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of the Regions and the European Investment Bank of 30 November 2016 'Clean Energy for all Europeans' (COM(2016) 860 final)), as well as the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals and 'Sustainable Energy for All' objectives.

Finally, provision will be made for the transparent monitoring, reporting and verification of greenhouse gas emissions in line with the requirements of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change.

The provisions on consumer empowerment in Directive (EU) 2018/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 December 2018 on the promotion of the use of energy from renewable sources (OJ L 328, 21.12.2018, p. 82) and Directive (EU) 2019/944 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 5 June 2019 on common rules for the internal market for electricity and amending Directive 2012/27/EU (OJ L 158, 14.6.2019, p. 125) are among the most innovative in the Clean Energy for all Europeans Package. They oblige Member States to adopt enabling frameworks for energy communities. Directive (EU) 2019/944 provides for a level playing field for 'citizen energy communities' on electricity markets, while Directive (EU) 2018/2001 requires adoption of a level playing field and incentives for 'renewable energy communities' active in all areas of renewable energy. While energy communities already exist in some Member States, they are a novelty in others.

The energy communities repository should fulfil two basic functions: (i) monitoring and collecting data on development of energy communities in the Union and (ii) providing communities with models for technological and administrative solutions.

The data collected through the repository would constitute a very important source of information for the European institutions and national and local governments. The data would feed in to existing and future policy streams. In other words, it would facilitate the implementation or, if need be, revision or improvement of the regulatory framework.

In addition, the repository could be a great source of know-how for citizens and citizen associations that wish to set up their energy communities, in particular in Member States that have not developed regulatory frameworks or best practices so far. Best practices may include technological solutions, e.g. for electricity sharing, the use of blockchain and distributed ledgers for transacting and providing information on the origin of electricity from sources belonging to the community, and documentation to set up a community, e.g. models for rules of associations and examples of agreements with distribution system operators.

Remarks

A European private-sector dimension will be developed to complement existing bottom-up energy/climate initiatives of cities local municipalities (e.g. the Covenant of Mayors). By engaging leading (industrial and commercial) companies to form a Union-wide (voluntary) movement, the scale, impact and synergies of actions taken by different levels of governance can be increased. Voluntary incentives for action are needed as the share of CO₂ emissions from industry is expected to grow in relative terms compared to energy supply and road transport towards 2050.

CHAPTER 32 04 — HORIZON 2020 — RESEARCH AND INNOVATION RELATED TO ENERGY (cont'd)Remarks

These remarks are applicable to all the budget lines in this chapter.

This appropriation will be used for Horizon 2020 — the framework programme for research and innovation, which covers the 2014 to 2020 period, and for the completion of the previous research programmes (seventh framework programme and preceding framework programmes) and the completion of the 'Intelligent energy — Europe' programmes (prior to 2014).

Horizon 2020 activities, in particular those addressed under the societal challenge 'Secure, clean and efficient energy', but also relevant parts of other sections of the programme, including 'Access to finance', implemented in line with the Union's energy policy framework and in particular the Energy Union strategy (Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of the Regions and the European Investment Bank of 25 February 2015 'A Framework Strategy for a Resilient Energy Union with a Forward-Looking Climate Change Policy' (COM(2015) 80 final)) as well as the European strategic energy technology plan (SET-Plan) and Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions of 2 May 2013. 'Energy Technologies and Innovation' (COM(2013) 253 final), will contribute primarily to the Europe 2020 flagship initiative 'Innovation Union' and other flagship initiatives, notably 'Resource-efficient Europe', 'An industrial policy for the globalisation era' and 'A digital agenda for Europe', as well as in the development and functioning of the European Research Area. Horizon 2020 will contribute to building an economy based on knowledge and innovation across the whole Union by leveraging sufficient additional research, development and innovation funding.

Horizon 2020 will be carried out in order to pursue the general objectives described in Article 179 TFEU, in order to contribute to the creation of a society of knowledge, based on the European Research Area, i.e. supporting transnational cooperation at all levels throughout the Union, taking the dynamism, creativity and the excellence of European research to the limits of knowledge, strengthening human resources for research and for technology in Europe, quantitatively and qualitatively, and research and innovation capacities in the whole of Europe and ensuring optimum use thereof.

In Horizon 2020, gender equality is addressed as a cross-cutting issue in order to rectify imbalances between women and men and to integrate a gender dimension in research and innovation content. Particular account will be taken of the need to step up efforts to enhance the participation at all levels, including decision making, of women in research and innovation.

Also entered against these articles and items are the costs of high-level scientific and technological meetings, conferences, workshops and seminars of European interest organised by the Commission, the funding of high-level scientific and technological analyses and evaluations carried out on behalf of the Union to investigate new areas of research suitable for Union action, inter alia, in the context of the European Research Area, and measures to monitor and disseminate the results of the programmes, including measures under previous framework programmes.

This appropriation will be used in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 1290/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 December 2013 laying down the rules for the participation and dissemination in 'Horizon 2020 — the Framework Programme For Research And Innovation (2014-2020)' and repealing Regulation (EC) No 1906/2006 (OJ L 347, 20.12.2013, p. 81).

TITLE 32 — ENERGY

CHAPTER 32 04 — HORIZON 2020 — RESEARCH AND INNOVATION RELATED TO ENERGY (cont'd)

The contributions from the EFTA States pursuant to the Agreement on the European Economic Area, and in particular Article 82 thereof and Protocol 32 thereto, must be added to the appropriations entered in this chapter. By way of information, these amounts derive from contributions from the EFTA States entered against Article 6 3 0 of the statement of revenue, which constitute assigned revenue in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation; they give rise to the provision of corresponding appropriations and to implementation under the 'European Economic Area' Annex to this part of the statement of expenditure in this section, which forms an integral part of the general budget.

The possibility of third countries or institutes from third countries taking part in European cooperation in the field of scientific and technical research is envisaged for some of these projects. Any financial contribution will be entered in Items 6 0 1 3 and 6 0 1 5 of the statement of revenue and may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with Article 21 of the Financial Regulation.

Any revenue from states taking part in the European cooperation in the field of scientific and technical research will be entered in Item 6 0 1 6 of the statement of revenue and may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with Article 21 of the Financial Regulation.

Any revenue from the contributions from candidate countries and, if applicable, the Western Balkan potential candidates for participating in Union programmes, entered in Item 6 0 3 1 of the statement of revenue, may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation.

Any revenue from the contribution by outside bodies to Union activities entered in Item 6 0 3 3 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations in accordance with Article 21 of the Financial Regulation.

Additional appropriations will be made available under Item 32 04 50 01.

Administrative appropriations of this chapter will be provided under Article 32 01 05.

32 04 03 Societal challenges

Remarks

This priority of Horizon 2020 responds directly to the policy priorities and societal challenges identified in the Europe 2020 strategy. Those activities will be implemented using a challenge-based approach which brings together resources and knowledge across different fields, technologies and disciplines. The activities will cover the full cycle from research to market, with a new focus on innovation-related activities such as piloting, demonstration, test beds, support for public procurement, design, end-user-driven innovation, social innovation and market take-up of innovations. The activities will support directly the corresponding sectoral policy competences at Union level.

This appropriation is intended to support the implementation of the societal challenge 'Secure, clean and efficient energy' of the Horizon 2020 priorities, in line with the Union's energy policy and in particular the Energy Union strategy (Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of the Regions and the European Investment Bank of 25 February 2015 'A Framework Strategy for a Resilient Energy Union with a Forward-Looking Climate Change Policy' (COM(2015) 80 final)), Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of the Regions and the European Investment Bank of 30 November 2016 'Clean Energy for all Europeans' (COM(2016) 860 final), Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of the Regions and the European Investment Bank of 22 November 2007 'A European Strategic Energy Technology Plan' (SET-Plan) (COM(2007) 723 final) and Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the European Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of the Regions and the European Investment Bank of 2 May 2013 'Energy Technologies and Innovation' (COM(2013) 253 final). These initiatives are primarily addressing energy efficiency, wind, solar, bioenergy, carbon capture and storage, smart cities and electricity grids. In recognition of their important contribution to future sustainable energy systems, at least 85 % of the budget appropriations over the period 2014-2020 will be allocated to the renewable and end-use energy efficiency policy areas, including smart grids and energy storage.

Support to market uptake measures will be part of the Horizon 2020 programme to build capacity, improve governance and overcome market barriers so that energy efficiency and renewable energy solutions can be rolled out, thus contributing to improving energy security in the Union. Part of the appropriations in the overall energy challenge budget will therefore be spent on market uptake activities for existing renewable and energy efficiency technologies within the programme, carried out by a dedicated management structure, and will include support for sustainable energy policy implementation, capacity building and mobilisation of financing for investment, in line with what has been done to date. Attention shall be paid to helping to close the research and innovation divide in Europe, without undermining the excellence criteria.

CHAPTER 32 05 — ITER (cont'd)Remarks

The ITER project aims to demonstrate fusion as a viable and sustainable source of energy by building and operating an experimental fusion reactor as a major step towards the creation of prototype reactors for fusion power stations that are safe, sustainable, environmentally responsible and economically viable. It will contribute to the Europe 2020 strategy and in particular to its Innovation Union flagship initiative as the mobilisation of European high-tech industries, which are involved in the construction of ITER, should provide the Union with a global competitive advantage in this promising sector.

The project brings together seven parties: the Union, China, India, Japan, South Korea, Russia and the United States.

The preparatory action will build on pilot project 'Capacity-building for Roma civil society and strengthening its involvement in the monitoring of national Roma integration strategies' (Item 33 02 77 09), which is nearing completion, and by drawing lessons from that project it will, in an improved way, continue contributing to the strengthening and further capacity building of Roma and pro-Roma civil society as well as to the monitoring mechanism regarding Roma inclusion, especially by producing and disseminating independent reports in which civil society coalitions could present alternative information and data to what is contained in the reports submitted by Member States concerning the implementation of their strategies. These civil society reports could provide local knowledge to help national and European policy processes and reflect on the real social impact of government measures.

Monitoring will focus on the local implementation of strategies in the four priority areas (employment, education, housing, health), as regards anti-discrimination, combating anti-Gypsyism and promoting gender equality, and will also provide information on the level of involvement of civil society, the use of Union funds and the mainstreaming of Roma inclusion measures.

Legal basis

Preparatory action within the meaning of Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

Empowering civil society organisations, movements and individuals is key to a truly democratic Union and its values as enshrined in the Treaties and the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. This preparatory action will create a Union fund for awareness raising and legal assistance to individuals and civil society organisations litigating democracy, rule of law and fundamental rights violations based on the outcome of a requested feasibility study. This feasibility study should include an overview of the current obstacles facing individuals and NGOs wishing to exercise their rights regarding democracy, the rule of law and fundamental rights through litigation. The fund will work closely with and build upon the work of the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights.

This preparatory action will help strengthen a wide range of civil society organisations, including some new actors not actively involved in fighting money laundering and financial crimes, so as to build up their expertise and capacity in connection with Union law and rules, enhance awareness-raising efforts and further develop tools and instruments to fight money laundering and financial crimes. In the light of the challenges revealed by the Panama Papers and Paradise Papers scandals and the fifth revision of the Anti-Money Laundering Directive (providing public access to beneficial owner registers of companies and access to people with a legitimate interest for beneficial owners of trusts), it is apparent that the Union-level capacity of a wide range of organisations in this field (e.g. NGOs, trade unions and academic communities) needs to be boosted. Enhanced capacity building for research, training and awareness raising, alliance building (including with journalists) and greater involvement of civil society experts in the design and implementation of, and advocacy for, action to combat money laundering and financial crimes will create synergies with current Union efforts to put an end to such abusive and criminal practices.

This appropriation is intended to cover expenditure for achieving the objectives established through the multiannual consumer programme for the years 2014-2020. The aim of the programme is to ensure a high level of consumer protection and to empower consumers in the heart of the internal market within the framework of an overall strategy for smart, sustainable and inclusive growth, by contributing to the protection of the health, safety, legal and economic interests of consumers, as well as to the promotion of their right to information, education and to organise themselves in order to safeguard their interests, supporting the integration of such consumer interests into other policy areas, as well as to increase customers' knowledge of their fundamental rights and their trust in the market and public authorities and to facilitate the complaints and dispute resolution mechanisms. The programme complements, supports and monitors the policies of Member States.

This general objective shall be pursued through the following four specific objectives:

- safety: to consolidate and enhance product safety through effective market surveillance, in particular in the Digital Single Market, throughout the Union,
- information and education and support to consumer organisations: to improve consumers' education, information and awareness of their rights and empowerment regarding consumer policy, to develop the evidence base for consumer policy and to provide support for consumer organisations, also taking into account the specific needs of vulnerable consumers,
- rights and redress: to develop and reinforce consumer rights, in particular through smart regulatory action, and to improve access to simple, efficient, expedient and low-cost redress, including alternative dispute resolution,
- enforcement: to support enforcement of consumer rights by strengthening cooperation between national enforcement bodies and by supporting consumers with advice. The programme also takes into account new societal challenges which have grown in importance in recent years. They include: the increased complexity of consumer decision-making, the need to move towards more sustainable patterns of consumption, the opportunities and threats that digitalisation brings, an increase in social exclusion and the number of vulnerable consumers, and an ageing population.

The contributions from the EFTA States pursuant to the Agreement on the European Economic Area, and in particular Article 82 thereof and Protocol 32 thereto, must be added to the appropriations entered in this article. By way of information, those amounts derive from contributions from the EFTA States entered against Article 6 3 0 of the statement of revenue, which constitute assigned revenue in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation; they give rise to the provision of corresponding appropriations and to implementation under the 'European Economic Area' Annex to this part of the statement of expenditure in this section, which forms an integral part of the general budget.

Any revenue from the contributions from candidate countries and, if applicable, the Western Balkan potential candidates for participating in Union programmes entered in Item 6 0 3 1 of the statement of revenue may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations, according to the same ratio as between the amount authorised for expenditure on administrative management and the total appropriations entered for the programme, in accordance with points (b), (e) and (f) of Article 21(2) of the Financial Regulation.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

This pilot project will focus on strengthening consumer organisations' capacities in relation to testing and comparing basic consumption products both as regards dual quality issues and in a national context. The pilot project will support organisations in identifying and counteracting misleading branding strategies or misleading information on packaging in all relevant instances in order to maximise consumer protection objectives. The outcomes of the pilot project will help improve consumer organisations' testing capacities and expand exchange of best practices between consumer organisations, competent authorities and relevant private players. The pilot project will also improve consumer organisations' advocacy policies in the areas referred to.

The pilot project will explore the reaction patterns and effectiveness of consumer organisations across the Single Market when dealing with the above issues. This will include identification of capacity weaknesses and recommendations for further protection of consumers through empowerment of consumer organisations. The pilot project will help raise awareness among consumers and empower them to use their rights in any 'representative action', further to the proposals in the recent 'New deal for consumers' package, should Union law be adopted. Non-profit organisations, such as consumer associations, could seek redress on behalf of a group of consumers, which will provide a far fairer level playing field when it comes to infringements of Union consumer law concerning several or all Member States.

The target group consists of consumer organisations in the Union. The activities supported by the pilot project will be tailored to the specific needs of each participating country and will involve the target consumer organisations so as to create a sense of ownership of the project activities. The pilot project will be implemented in close coordination with relevant projects for capacity building for consumer organisations, led by the Commission, by embedding the pilot activities within such projects. The results of the Union-wide testing exercise by the Joint Research Centre in 2018 will be fully taken into account when designing the specific activities for the pilot project.

Legal basis

Pilot project within the meaning of Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

Remarks

This preparatory action is a follow-up to pilot projects from 2017, 2018 and 2019. It will be carried out in a manner that is fully consistent with what has already been done by the Commission to address the issue of dual quality. It will take fully into account the results of the pilot projects, thus ensuring continuity. Moreover, the preparatory action will build on a common methodology as well as on what has emerged and what has been learnt from the Union-wide testing campaign. It will focus on extending the scope of research to include non-food products (e.g. detergents, cosmetics, toiletries and baby products, as provided for under the pilot projects), with samples from all Member States, and on the feasibility of creating a permanent quality monitoring centre for products sold on the internal market, with a view to long-term action to resolve the issue of dual quality on the internal market.

Legal basis

Preparatory action within the meaning of Article 58(2) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

New item

This appropriation is intended to cover the contribution to the expenditure of INEA's staff and administration incurred as a result of the Agency's role in the management of the Innovation Fund (IF) subject to the final decision on the delegation of the Innovation Fund.

For budget year 2020, it is provisionally estimated that an amount between EUR 2,5 and 3,0 million will be needed in order to finance the contribution to the expenditure of INEA's staff and administration incurred as a result of the Agency's role in the management of the Innovation Fund (IF).

This will allow the preparation of a first call for proposals in 2020, expected to be launched at the beginning of the second half of 2020, in the range of EUR 1,0-1,5 billion.

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to finance measures to support the Union's role in the development, implementation and enforcement of policy and legislation in the area of climate change mitigation. It includes the monitoring of mainstreaming across policy areas by developing, testing and demonstrating policy or management approaches, best practices, solutions for the climate, improving the knowledge base of effective climate mitigation, enhancing its capacity to apply in practice, facilitating development and implementation of integrated approaches and action plans at local, regional or national level, as well as contributing to the development and demonstration of innovative low carbon technologies, systems, methods and instruments for being replicated, transferred or mainstreamed.

The following priorities will be taken into account:

- ensuring the implementation of the Union's commitments under the Kyoto Protocol to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC), in particular the Paris Agreement and the Commission Communication of 2 March 2016 entitled 'The Road from Paris: assessing the implications of the Paris Agreement and accompanying the proposal for a Council decision on the signing, on behalf of the European Union, of the Paris agreement adopted under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change' (COM(2016) 110 final),

- ensuring the Union's commitments under the Montreal Protocol on Ozone Depleting Substances, including the Kigali Amendment reducing the consumption and production of hydrofluorocarbons,
- further implementation of the existing 'Climate and Energy' package, the achievement of the 20/20/20 climate and energy targets of the Europe 2020 strategy, and the development 'climate tracking' methodologies to monitor climate-related expenditure under the mainstreaming objective 'to increase the proportion of climate mainstreaming to at least 20 % of the future total Union budget in 2014-2020', with contribution from different policies,
- achieving the Energy Union 2030 goals by supporting the development of long term climate and energy strategies, new policies and implementing measures targeting to cut greenhouse gas emissions by at least 40 % by 2030 and having at least 32 % of renewable energy and an energy efficiency increase of at least 32,5 %, taking into account the Commission Communication of 22 January 2014 entitled 'A policy framework for climate and energy in the period from 2020 to 2030' (COM(2014) 15 final), the Commission Communication of 30 November 2016 entitled 'Clean Energy For All Europeans' (COM(2016) 860 final) and the Commission Communication of 28 November 2018 entitled 'A Clean Planet for all - A European strategic long-term vision for a prosperous, modern, competitive and climate neutral economy' (COM(2018) 773 final).

The measures financed by LIFE may be implemented through action grants, operating grants, financial instruments, procurement procedures or any other interventions that are needed (Articles 17, 18, 21 and 22 of Regulation (EU) No 1293/2013) including:

- cooperation with Eurocontrol on implementation of Union emissions trading system in aviation,
- the costs of development, maintenance, operation and support (hardware, software and services) of policy support systems, in particular but not exclusively the Union Single Registry, Union Transaction Log and the ozone-depleting substances and fluorinated gases monitoring system.

At least 81 % of the budgetary resources for the LIFE programme shall be allocated to projects supported by the way of action grants or, where appropriate, financial instruments (Article 17(4) of Regulation (EU) No 1293/2013).

Cooperation with relevant international organisations and their institutions and bodies shall be possible where needed for the purpose of achieving the climate action objectives.

Assigned revenue received may give rise to the provision of additional appropriations under this Article in accordance with Article 22(1) of the Financial Regulation.

As regards integrated projects, a distributional element in the selection of projects to facilitate geographical balance shall be taken into account. This is of an indicative nature and should not suggest secured funds or allocations per Member State.

This appropriation is intended to finance measures to support the Union's role in enhancing climate governance by broadening the involvement of stakeholders, including non-profit-making organisations, in the development and implementation of policy, building capacity, raising awareness, promoting policies and legislation in the area of climate action and knowledge on sustainable development, supporting communication, management and dissemination of information, facilitating sharing of knowledge regarding successful climate solutions and practices including developing platforms among stakeholders via cooperation platforms, contributing to more effective compliance with and enforcement of climate legislation, in particular by promoting the development and dissemination of best practices and policy approaches ('success stories').

The following priorities will be taken into account:

- further implementation of the existing 'Climate and Energy' package, the achievement of the 20/20/20 climate and energy targets of the Europe 2020 strategy,
- implementing the Paris Agreement of 2015 on Climate Change and achieving the Energy Union 2030 goals by supporting the development of long term climate and energy strategies, new policies and implementing measures targeting to cut greenhouse gas emissions by at least 40 % domestically and having at least 32 % of renewable energy and an energy efficiency increase of at least 32,5 % by 2030, taking into account the Commission Communication of 22 January 2014 entitled 'A policy framework for climate and energy in the period from 2020 to 2030' (COM(2014) 15 final) and the Commission Communication of 28 November 2018 entitled 'A Clean Planet for all - A European strategic long-term vision for a prosperous, modern, competitive and climate neutral economy' (COM(2018)773 final),
- developing policies and further implementation in line with the Commission Communication of 16 April 2013 entitled 'An EU Strategy on adaptation to climate change' (COM(2013) 216 final) supporting the transition towards a low carbon and climate-resilient economy and society,
- implementing Regulation (EU) 2018/1999 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 December 2018 on the Governance of the Energy Union and Climate Action, amending Regulations (EC) No 663/2009 and (EC) No 715/2009 of the European Parliament and of the Council, Directives 94/22/EC, 98/70/EC, 2009/31/EC, 2009/73/EC, 2010/31/EU, 2012/27/EU and 2013/30/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council, Council Directives 2009/119/EC and (EU) 2015/652 and repealing Regulation (EU) No 525/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council (OJ L 328, 21.12.2018, p. 1), requiring Member States to establish a 10-year integrated national energy and climate plan for the period from 2021 to 2030.
- promotion of non-profit-making entities primarily active in the field of climate action at a European level and involved in the development and implementation of Union policy and legislation aiming to strengthen the participation of those entities in the dialogue process of climate action policymaking, in its implementation and in the European standardisation process to ensure balanced stakeholder representation and the systematic integration of climate-related aspects.

This appropriation is intended to cover commitments remaining to be settled from previous years under the pilot project.

CO₂ levels in the atmosphere have risen steeply over the past 250 years and carbon capture from the atmosphere could be an essential tool to mitigate global warming. Cutting greenhouse gas emissions, halting deforestation and preventing the negative impacts of land use change are crucial for achieving the Union's long-term climate ambitions. However, more tools can be added to the toolbox in order to more efficiently tackle the impacts of global warming. The amount of atmospheric carbon also needs to be reduced, which is where carbon capture could prove useful. Carbon sequestration into biomass and soil is widely accepted as one key solution, but it lacks a global economic model to put it in practice.

The pilot project will study and create a sustainable, widely accepted and measurable carbon storage concept. The concept focuses on carbon sequestration in biomass, such as forests, and in soil, such as carbon sequestered below ground, e.g. in roots. The main focus is on forest carbon sequestration as there are many ongoing soil carbon studies and projects. The pilot project will map out a concept that could be used as a viable climate change mitigation method and subsequently create a business case for companies to invest in afforestation. In practical terms, this could involve allowing an oil company, for example, to fulfil part of its annual greenhouse gas (GHG) reduction requirement or energy/volume based biofuel blending mandate through a verified and measured newly established carbon sink (e.g. forest, tonnes of CO₂ captured).

Climate change is a global phenomenon and it makes no difference where in the world GHG are emitted or absorbed. There is small-scale piloting in Morocco. Numerous benefits could be gained from conducting large-scale afforestation projects in developing countries outside the Union, i.e. in countries that are sources of migration to the Union, in major conflict zones and/or in countries with soil quality problems. This would not only mitigate climate change globally, but also benefit the local communities by combating erosion and desertification and supporting food production, as well as potentially reducing the migration pressure on the Union. However, the current land use, land use change and forestry regulation only acknowledges domestic management actions by the Member States. Instead, afforestation and other direct measures promoting the removal of CO₂ from the atmosphere conducted, for example, by a European company in a third country should be counted towards the net credits of the Member State where the company is registered. This approach would enable further modifications to be made to the Union or national obligations of energy companies, for example, focusing on actual GHG reductions rather than on strict blending mandates. The objective is to make such carbon sink actions in third countries financially attractive to companies and other actors in Europe without excluding mitigation measures implemented within the Union.

The pilot project addresses all the necessary success factors, ranging from regulatory aspects, including testing and verifying carbon sink measuring methods, to sustainability and technical feasibility studies, and small-scale piloting with irrigation, soil improvement and plant selection. Small-scale piloting in Morocco will concentrate mainly on finding fast-growing tree species that can benefit from soil improvement and irrigation. Intercropping different species such as legumes will not be implemented in the project, but knowledge from other projects, such as CLIMA, can be studied in the literature review and will be implemented in the next phase, involving large-scale projects. Other kinds of soil carbon cultivation methods will not be covered in the project either.

During the pilot project, carbon capture measurement and verifying methods will be studied. This is one of the most important areas of the project as the measuring of carbon provides a basis for large-scale and commercial use of carbon sequestration. In the future, the amount of carbon sequestered should be measured according to international and verified methods so as to give precise and reliable data (e.g. the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) guidelines on carbon sink measurement). The entire process needs to be regularly verified and audited to ensure legislative compliance. In practice, the objective of the project is to carry out all necessary actions so as to amend Union-level legislation in order to enable commercial carbon sequestration for companies in third countries. The necessary actions include carbon sink measurement surveys and verifying work, regulatory surveys and all surveys needed as regards amending Union legislation and meeting the requirements of the IPCC guidelines.

New article

This appropriation is intended to cover all operational expenditure needed for the implementation of the Innovation Fund (IF) by the Commission in accordance with Article 4 of Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2019/856 subject to the final decision on the delegation of the Innovation Fund.

For budget year 2020, a first call for proposals for projects in the range of EUR 1,0-1,5 billion is planned and expected to be launched at the beginning of the second half of 2020.

The necessary appropriations would be generated by the revenue arising from the auctioning, as of January 2020 of the first tranche of the 50 million emission allowances allocated to the Innovation Fund from the market stability reserve and the unspent amounts from the previous NER300 fund. Payments for projects selected from the first call are expected to be made from 2021 onwards.

Remarks

The emergency aid reserve is intended to allow for a rapid response to specific aid requirements of third countries following events which could not be foreseen when the budget was established, first and foremost for humanitarian operations, but also for civil crisis management and protection, and situations of particular pressure resulting from migratory flows at the Union's external borders where circumstances so require.

The annual amount of the reserve is fixed at EUR 280 000 000 (2011 prices) and may be used up to year n+1 in accordance with the Financial Regulation. The reserve shall be entered in the general budget of the Union as a provision. The portion of the annual amount stemming from the previous year shall be drawn on first. That portion of the annual amount from year n which is not used in year n+1 shall lapse.

Remarks

The aim of this reserve is to cover the European Globalisation Adjustment Fund (EGF) so as to enable the Union to demonstrate solidarity towards, and to support, workers made redundant and self-employed persons whose activity has ceased as a result of major structural changes in world trade patterns due to globalisation, as a result of the continuation of the global financial and economic crisis addressed in Regulation (EU) No 1309/2013, or as a result of a new global financial and economic crisis and to provide financial support for their rapid reintegration into sustainable employment.

The methods for entering the appropriations in this reserve and for mobilising the EGF are laid down in point 13 of the Interinstitutional Agreement of 2 December 2013 between the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission on budgetary discipline, on cooperation in budgetary matters and on sound financial management.

Legal basis

Regulation (EU) No 1309/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 December 2013 on the European Globalisation Adjustment Fund (2014-2020) and repealing Regulation (EC) No 1927/2006 (OJ L 347, 20.12.2013, p. 855), and in particular Article 1 thereof.

Legal basis

ANNEXES

EUROPEAN ECONOMIC AREA

Under the Agreement establishing the European Economic Area the EFTA States (with the exception of Switzerland) take part in a wide range of Union policies covered by subheading 1a and headings 2, 3, 4 and 5 of the multiannual financial framework in exchange for a financial contribution to operating appropriations calculated by applying a 'proportionality factor'. This proportionality factor is equal to the sum of the ratios obtained by dividing the gross domestic product at market prices of each EFTA State by the gross domestic product at market prices of all the Member States plus that of the EFTA State concerned.

For 2020 the proportionality factor is estimated at 2,45 % (on the basis of 2018 figures), i.e. 2,27 % for Norway, 0,14 % for Iceland and 0,04 % for Liechtenstein.

These financial contributions will not be formally entered into the budget; each budget heading relating to activities in which the EFTA States take part will refer to the EFTA contribution as a memorandum item. A summary table, listing the budget headings concerned and the amounts of the EFTA contribution for each budget heading, is published as an annex to the general budget of the Union. The total EFTA contribution for the operational part for 2020 is estimated at about EUR 480 659 885 in commitment appropriations. The EFTA States will also share in the administrative expenditure directly linked to the implementation of these policies.

A. INTRODUCTION

This Annex is drawn up in accordance with Article 38(1) of Regulation (EU, Euratom) 2018/1046 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 July 2018 on the financial rules applicable to the general budget of the Union, amending Regulations (EU) No 1296/2013, (EU) No 1301/2013, (EU) No 1303/2013, (EU) No 1304/2013, (EU) No 1309/2013, (EU) No 1316/2013, (EU) No 223/2014, (EU) No 283/2014, and Decision No 541/2014/EU and repealing Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 966/2012 (OJ L 193, 30.7.2018, p. 1).

It provides information on the amounts of the borrowing-and-lending operations guaranteed by the Union budget: loans for balance-of-payments support (BOP), assistance under the European Financial Stability Mechanism (EFSM), borrowing operations to provide macro-financial assistance to third countries (MFA), Euratom borrowings to contribute to the financing required for improving the degree of efficiency and safety of nuclear power stations in certain third countries and European Investment Bank loans in certain third countries.

At 31 December 2018, outstanding operations covered by the Union budget totalled EUR 82 468 080 471, of which a total of EUR 50 437 225 468 referred to operations inside the Union and EUR 32 030 855 003 outside the Union (including accrued interest and rounding, exchange rate applicable at 31 December 2018).

B. BRIEF PRESENTATION OF THE VARIOUS CATEGORIES OF BORROWING-AND-LENDING OPERATIONS GUARANTEED BY THE UNION BUDGET

I. SINGLE FACILITY PROVIDING MEDIUM-TERM FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR MEMBER STATES' BALANCES OF PAYMENTS

1. Legal basis

Council Regulation (EC) No 332/2002 of 18 February 2002 establishing a facility providing medium-term financial assistance for Member States' balances of payments (OJ L 53, 23.2.2002, p. 1).

Council Regulation (EC) No 1360/2008 of 2 December 2008 amending Regulation (EC) No 332/2002 (OJ L 352, 31.12.2008, p. 11).

Council Decision 2009/290/EC of 20 January 2009 providing Community medium-term financial assistance for Latvia (OJ L 79, 25.3.2009, p. 39).

Council Decision 2009/459/EC of 6 May 2009 providing Community medium-term financial assistance for Romania (OJ L 150, 13.6.2009, p. 8).

Council Regulation (EC) No 431/2009 of 18 May 2009 amending Regulation (EC) No 332/2002 (OJ L 128, 27.5.2009, p. 1).

2. Description

In accordance with Regulation (EC) No 332/2002, the Union may grant loans to Member States which are experiencing, or are seriously threatened with, difficulties in their balance of current payments or capital movements. Only Member States which have not adopted the euro may benefit from this facility. The outstanding amount of loans was limited to EUR 12 000 000 000 in principal.

On 2 December 2008, the Council decided to extend the facility to EUR 25 000 000 000.

On 20 January 2009, the Council decided to provide Community medium-term financial assistance for Latvia in the form of a medium-term loan of a principal of up to EUR 3 100 000 000 for a maximum average maturity of 7 years.

On 6 May 2009, the Council decided to provide Community medium-term financial assistance for Romania in the form of a medium-term loan of a principal of up to EUR 5 000 000 000 for a maximum average maturity of 5 years.

On 18 May 2009, the Council decided to extend the facility to EUR 50 000 000 000.

3. Effect on the budget

Since both parts of these borrowing-and-lending operations are carried out on identical terms, they affect the budget only if the guarantee is activated in case of default. As at 31 December 2018 the outstanding capital amount under this instrument is EUR 1 700 000 000.

2. Description

Article 122(2) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union provides for the possibility of the Union granting financial assistance to a Member State which is in difficulties or is seriously threatened with severe difficulties caused, inter alia, by exceptional occurrences beyond its control.

The guarantee provided by the Union is for borrowings raised on the capital markets or from financial institutions.

In accordance with Article 2(2) of Council Regulation (EU) No 407/2010, the outstanding amount of loans and credit lines granted to Member States under the European financial stabilisation mechanism shall be limited to the margin available under the Union's own resources for payment appropriations.

This item constitutes the structure for the guarantee provided by the Union. It will enable the Commission to service the debt should debtors default.

1. Legal basis

Council Decision 77/270/Euratom of 29 March 1977 empowering the Commission to issue Euratom loans for the purpose of contributing to the financing of nuclear power stations (OJ L 88, 6.4.1977, p. 9).

2. Description

Pursuant to Decision 94/179/Euratom (OJ L 84, 29.3.1994, p. 41), the European Union extends the scope of Euratom borrowings under Decision 77/270/Euratom to the improvement of the degree of efficiency and safety of nuclear power stations in the countries of central and eastern Europe and the Commonwealth of Independent States.

The maximum amount of Euratom borrowings for the Member States and third countries remains fixed at EUR 4 000 000 000.

In 2000 the Commission decided on a loan for Kozloduy in Bulgaria (EUR 212 500 000) and the last instalment was in 2006. In 2000 the Commission granted a loan to K2R4 in Ukraine but reduced the loan amount to the EUR equivalent of USD 83 000 000 in 2004. K2R4 was granted a loan of EUR 39 000 000 (first tranche) in 2007, USD 22 000 000 in 2008, and USD 10 335 000 in 2009 under the 2004 Commission Decision. In 2004 the Commission decided on a loan for Cernavodă in Romania (EUR 223 500 000). A first instalment of EUR 100 000 000 and a second one of EUR 90 000 000 were disbursed in 2005 and the last one of EUR 33 500 000 in 2006.

In 2013 the Commission decided to grant a loan to Energoatom, Ukraine, of EUR 300 000 000 for safety upgrades of nuclear power plants. The loan will be provided in cooperation with the EBRD, which provides another EUR 300 000 000 loan in parallel. The conditions precedent to the initial availability of the loan have been assessed as fully met in 2015 and the loan was declared effective.

On 27 May 2015 the Commission authorised disbursements under the Euratom loan to Energoatom in the amount of up to EUR 100 000 000, subject to Energoatom having drawn the loan amount granted by the EBRD in an amount not less than EUR 50 000 000. These loans benefit from State guarantees which cover 100% of the amounts outstanding at year end. The first tranche of EUR 50 000 000 was disbursed in May 2017 and the second tranche of EUR 50 000 000 was disbursed in July 2018.

3. Effect on the budget

Since the entry into force of Council Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 2728/94 of 31 October 1994 establishing a Guarantee Fund for external actions (OJ L 293, 12.11.1994, p. 1), subsequently amended by Council Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 480/2009 (OJ L 145, 10.6.2009, p. 10) and Regulation (EU) 2018/409 (OJ L 76, 19.3.2018, p. 1), any defaults are covered by this Fund within the limit of the amount available.

The effect on the budget is thus limited to:

- one annual payment to or, exceptionally, from the Fund to maintain its target amount of 9 % of the guaranteed operations,
- activation of the budget guarantee should the debtor default.

From 1 January 2007, loans with Bulgaria and Romania cease to be external actions (see Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 2273/2004 (OJ L 396, 31.12.2004, p. 28)) and are therefore covered directly by the Union budget and no longer by the Fund.

3. Description

Under the Financial Protocols concluded with Mediterranean third countries, global amounts are laid down for loans to be granted by the European Investment Bank from its own funds. The European Investment Bank (EIB) grants the loans for purposes which may contribute to the economic and social development of the countries in question (transport infrastructures, ports, water supply, production and distribution of energy, agricultural projects and promotion of small and medium-sized businesses).

On 14 April 1997, the Council, acting on a proposal from the Commission and after consulting the European Parliament, decided to renew the Community guarantee to the EIB for loans for projects in the following Mediterranean countries: Algeria, Cyprus, Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon, Malta, Morocco, Syria, Tunisia, Turkey, Gaza and the West Bank. The guarantee is restricted to 70 % of the aggregate amount of the appropriations made available, plus all related sums. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available is equivalent to EUR 7 105 000 000, of which EUR 2 310 000 000 is for the abovementioned Mediterranean countries. It covered a period of three years beginning on 31 January 1997 (with a possible extension of six months).

The EIB is invited to aim to cover the commercial risk on 25 % of its lending from non-sovereign guarantees.

On 29 November 1999, the Council decided to grant a Community guarantee to the EIB against losses under loans for projects for the reconstruction of the earthquake-stricken areas of Turkey. The guarantee is restricted to 65 % of the aggregate amount of the appropriations made available, plus all related sums. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available is equivalent to EUR 600 000 000 and covered a period of three years beginning on 29 November 1999 (with a possible extension of six months).

The EIB is invited to aim to cover the commercial risk on 30 % of its lending from non-sovereign guarantees. This percentage is to be increased whenever possible, in so far as the market allows.

On 22 December 1999, the Council, acting on the basis of a Commission proposal and after consulting the European Parliament, decided once again to grant the EIB the Community guarantee against losses resulting from loans for projects carried out in the following Mediterranean countries: Algeria, Cyprus, Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon, Malta, Morocco, Syria, Tunisia, Turkey, Gaza and the West Bank. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available for all countries under Decision 2000/24/EC is equivalent to EUR 19 460 000 000. The guarantee is limited to 65 % of the total value of the appropriations made available plus all the related amounts. It covers a period of seven years from 1 February 2000 to 31 January 2007. As at the end of that period the loans granted by the EIB had not reached the abovementioned total values, the period has automatically been extended by six months.

On 4 December 2000, the Council decided to establish an EIB special action programme in support of the consolidation and intensification of the EC-Turkey Customs Union. The value of those loans is limited to an overall ceiling of EUR 450 000 000.

Decision 2005/47/EC restructured the Mediterranean regional mandate to exclude Cyprus, Malta and Turkey which were included in the South Eastern Neighbours mandate.

Decision 2006/1016/EC grants a Community guarantee to the EIB against losses under loans and loan guarantees for projects outside the Community for loans in the following Mediterranean countries: Algeria, Egypt, West Bank and Gaza, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya (eligibility to be decided by the Council), Morocco, Syria, Tunisia. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available for all countries under Decision 2006/1016/EC is equivalent to EUR 27 800 000 000 and covers the period beginning on 1 February 2007 and ending on 31 December 2013 with a possible extension of six months. The Community guarantee is restricted to 65 %.

Decision 2006/1016/EC has been replaced by Decision No 633/2009/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council.

Decision No 1080/2011/EU, which entered into force on 30 October 2011, increased the aggregate amount of credits disbursed and guarantees provided under EIB financing operations from EUR 25 800 000 000 to EUR 29 484 000 000 (EUR 2 000 000 000 for financing of climate change operations and EUR 1 684 000 000 for enhancing EIB risk operations).

Decision No 466/2014/EU granted an EU guarantee to the EIB against losses under financing operations supporting investment projects outside the Union (pre-accession countries, neighbourhood and partnership countries, Asia and Latin America, South Africa) throughout the period 2014-2020. It has been amended by Decision (EU) 2018/412 of the European Parliament and the Council of 14 March 2018 (OJ L 76, 19.3.2018, p. 30). The maximum ceiling of the EIB financing operations, as per the amending Decision, is not to exceed EUR 32 300 000 000 broken down into regional ceilings and sub-ceilings as well as into:

- (a) a maximum amount of EUR 30 000 000 000 under a general mandate, of which EUR 1 400 000 000 is earmarked for projects in the public sector directed towards the long-term economic resilience of refugees, migrants, host and transit communities, and communities of origin as a strategic response to addressing root causes of migration; and
- (b) a maximum amount of EUR 2 300 000 000 under a private-sector lending mandate for projects directed towards the long-term economic resilience of refugees, migrants, host and transit communities, and communities of origin as a strategic response to addressing root causes of migration.

The EU guarantee is restricted to 65 % of the aggregated outstanding amount.

4. Effect on the budget

Since the entry into force of Council Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 2728/94 of 31 October 1994 establishing a Guarantee Fund for external actions (OJ L 293, 12.11.1994, p. 1), subsequently amended by Council Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 480/2009 (OJ L 145, 10.6.2009, p. 10) and Regulation (EU) 2018/409 (OJ L 76, 19.3.2018, p. 1), any defaults are covered by this Fund within the limit of the amount available.

The effect on the budget is thus limited to:

- one annual payment to or, exceptionally, from the Fund to maintain its target amount of 9 % of the guaranteed operations,
- activation of the budget guarantee should the debtor default,
- the granting, in a series of cases, of interest-rate subsidies of 2 % in non-repayable aid, subject to the overall amounts laid down by the Financial Protocols.

Loans with new Member States cease to be external actions (see Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 2273/2004 (OJ L 396, 31.12.2004, p. 28)) and are therefore covered directly by the Union budget and no longer by the Fund.

3. Description

In response to a call made by the Council on 9 October 1989, the Board of Governors of the European Investment Bank (EIB) decided on 29 November 1989 to authorise the Bank to provide loans from its own resources to finance investment projects in Hungary and Poland for a total amount not exceeding EUR 1 000 000 000. These loans are granted to finance investment projects which satisfy the Bank's usual requirements for loans from its own resources.

On 14 May 1991 and 15 March 1993, the Council, acting on a proposal from the Commission and after consulting the European Parliament, decided that this guarantee should be extended to any loans that the EIB might make in the other countries of central and eastern Europe (Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Romania) over a period of 2 years up to a maximum of EUR 700 000 000.

On 13 December 1993, the Council, acting on a proposal from the Commission and after consulting the European Parliament, decided to renew for 3 years the Community guarantee for EUR 3 000 000 000 in EIB loans for projects in Poland, Hungary, the Czech Republic, the Slovak Republic, Romania, Bulgaria, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Albania.

The budget guarantee covers all aspects of debt-servicing (repayment of capital, interest, related costs) in connection with these loans.

On 14 April 1997, the Council, acting on a proposal from the Commission and after consulting the European Parliament, decided to renew the Community guarantee to the EIB for loans for projects in Albania, Bulgaria, Czech Republic, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Romania, Slovak Republic and Slovenia. The guarantee is restricted to 70 % of the aggregate amount of the appropriations made available, plus all related sums. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available is equivalent to EUR 7 105 000 000, of which EUR 3 520 000 000 is for the abovementioned countries of central and eastern Europe. It covers a period of 3 years beginning on 31 January 1997. As at the end of that period, the loans granted by the EIB had not attained the overall amounts referred to above, the period has been automatically extended by six months.

On 19 May 1998, the Council decided to grant a Community guarantee to the EIB against losses under loans for projects in the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia. The guarantee is restricted to 70 % of the aggregate amount of the appropriations made available, plus all related sums. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available is equivalent to EUR 150 000 000 for a period of 2 years beginning on 1 January 1998. As at the end of that period, the loans granted by the EIB had not attained the overall amounts referred to above, the period has been automatically extended by six months.

On 14 December 1998, the Council decided to amend Decision 97/256/EC in order to extend the Community guarantee to the EIB to loans for projects in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The guarantee is restricted to 70 % of the aggregate amount of the appropriations made available, plus all related sums. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available is EUR 100 000 000 for a period of two years beginning on 22 December 1998. 3. Description

In accordance with the provisions of Decision 95/207/EC, the Union will guarantee European Investment Bank (EIB) loans to South Africa up to a maximum total amount of EUR 300 000 000.

The budget guarantee covers all the debt-servicing (repayment of principal, interest and ancillary costs) in connection with these loans.

On 14 April 1997, the Council, acting on a proposal from the Commission and after consulting the European Parliament, decided to renew the Community guarantee to the EIB for loans for projects in the Republic of South Africa. The guarantee is restricted to 70 % of the aggregate amount of the appropriations made available, plus all related sums. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available is equivalent to EUR 7 105 000 000, of which EUR 375 000 000 is for the Republic of South Africa. It covered a period of three years beginning on 1 July 1997 (with a possible 6-month extension).

The EIB is invited to aim to cover the commercial risk on 25 % of its lending from non-sovereign guarantees.

On 22 December 1999, the Council, acting on a proposal from the Commission and after consulting the European Parliament, decided to renew the Community guarantee to the EIB for loans for projects in the Republic of South Africa. The guarantee is restricted to 65 % of the aggregate amount of the appropriations made available, plus all related sums. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available for all countries under Decision 2000/24/EC is equivalent to EUR 19 460 000 000. It covers a period beginning on 1 July 2000 and ending on 31 January 2007. As at the end of that period, the loans granted by the EIB had not attained the overall amounts referred to above, the period has been automatically extended by 6 months.

The EIB is invited to aim to cover the commercial risk on 30 % of its lending from non-sovereign guarantees. This percentage is to be increased whenever possible, in so far as the market allows.

Decision 2005/47/EC was the basis for a restated and amended contract of guarantee between the European Community and the EIB signed in Brussels on 30 August 2005 and in Luxembourg on 2 September 2005 setting up a guarantee restricted to 65 % of the aggregate amount of the appropriations made available, plus all related sums.

Decision 2006/1016/EC grants a Community guarantee to the EIB against losses under loans and loan guarantees for projects outside the Community for loans. The overall ceiling of the appropriations made available for all countries under Decision 2006/1016/EC is equivalent to EUR 27 800 000 000 and covers the period beginning on 1 February 2007 and ending on 31 December 2013 with a possible extension of 6 months. The Community guarantee is restricted to 65 %. This Decision has been replaced by Decision No 633/2009/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council.

Decision No 1080/2011/EU, which entered into force on 30 October 2011, increased the aggregate amount of credits disbursed and guarantees provided under EIB financing operations from EUR 25 800 000 000 to EUR 29 484 000 000 (EUR 2 000 000 000 for financing of climate change operations and EUR 1 684 000 000 for enhancing EIB risk operations).

Decision No 466/2014/EU granted an EU guarantee to the EIB against losses under financing operations supporting investment projects outside the Union (pre-accession countries, neighbourhood and partnership countries, Asia and Latin America, South Africa) throughout the period 2014-2020. It has been amended by Decision (EU) 2018/412 of the European Parliament and the Council of 14 of March 2018 (OJ L 76, 19.3.2018, p. 30). The maximum ceiling of the EIB financing operations, as per the amending Decision, is not to exceed EUR 32 300 000 000 broken down into regional ceilings and sub-ceilings as well as into:

- (a) a maximum amount of EUR 30 000 000 000 under a general mandate, of which EUR 1 400 000 000 is earmarked for projects in the public sector directed towards the long-term economic resilience of refugees, migrants, host and transit communities, and communities of origin as a strategic response to addressing root causes of migration; and
- (b) a maximum amount of EUR 2 300 000 000 under a private-sector lending mandate for projects directed towards the long-term economic resilience of refugees, migrants, host and transit communities, and communities of origin as a strategic response to addressing root causes of migration.

The EU guarantee is restricted to 65 % of the aggregated outstanding amount.

4. Effect on the budget

Since the entry into force of Council Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 2728/94 of 31 October 1994 establishing a Guarantee Fund for external actions (OJ L 293, 12.11.1994, p. 1), subsequently amended by Council Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 480/2009 (OJ L 145, 10.6.2009, p. 10) and Regulation (EU) 2018/409 (OJ L 76, 19.3.2018, p. 1), any defaults are covered by this Fund within the limit of the amount available.

The effect on the budget is thus limited to:

- one annual payment to or, exceptionally, from the Fund of 9 % of the guaranteed operations,
- activation of the budget guarantee should the debtor default.

Technical notes on tables

Exchange rate: the amounts in column 2 'Equivalent at date of disbursement' are converted at the rate applicable on the date of signature. As regards refinancing operations, Table 1 shows both the initial operation (e.g. in 1979) and the replacement operation (e.g. in 1986), the amount for the latter being converted at the rate of the initial operation. The resulting duplication affects the annual figures but is eliminated in the total.

All other amounts are converted at the rate applicable at 31 December 2017.

Column 3 'Initial amount paid up to 31 December 2017': with reference to 1986, for example, this column shows the cumulative total of all amounts received up to 31 December 2016 under loans signed in 1986 (Table 1), including refinancing (which produces some duplication).

Column 4 'Amount outstanding at 31 December 2017': these are net figures, with no duplication as a result of refinancing operations. They are obtained by subtracting from the column 3 figure the cumulative total of repayments made up to 31 December 2016, including repayments in respect of refinancing operations (total not given in the tables).

Column 7 = column 4 – column 5.

MFA 2011: following the loan agreement signed by Montenegro on 9 February 2010 pursuant to Council Decision 2008/784/EC of 2 October 2008 establishing a separate liability of Montenegro, and reducing proportionally the liability of Serbia with regard to the long-term loans granted by the Community to the State Union of Serbia and Montenegro (formerly the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia) pursuant to Decisions 2001/549/EC and 2002/882/EC (OJ L 269, 10.10.2008, p. 8), the loans initially granted to Serbia and Montenegro in 2001, 2003 and 2005 have been re-initiated with a virtual starting date in 2011 in order to implement the splitting of the countries.

Appropriations 2020	Appropriations 2019	Outturn 2018
150 000	150 000	94 646,58

Remarks

This appropriation is intended to cover the cost of information and communication measures undertaken by the Office.

The Office's external information and communication strategy is central to its work. The Office was set up as an independent investigative body and must therefore have its own communications strategy. The Office's work is often too technical to be immediately comprehensible to the general public. The Office has to inform its interlocutors and the public as a whole of its role and tasks. Public perception of the Office's work is of paramount importance.

As a Commission service, the Office also needs to take account of the democratic deficit existing between the Union institutions and the citizens of Europe. The Commission has recognised this deficit and drawn up an action plan to address it.

The communications strategy that the Office has developed and continues to implement must demonstrate its independence.

(1) The grading of the Establishment plan posts is based on the assumption that the agency seat is in Brussels. Following the decision of the co-legislators on the seat, the Establishment plan may need to be adjusted to take into account the coefficient level applicable in the Member State in which the seat is decided and the features of the local labour market.
