1. Regulation (EEC) No 1408/71 of the Council of 14 June 1971 on the application of social security schemes to employed persons, to self-employed persons and to members of their families moving within the Community, as amended and updated by Council Regulation (EC) No 118/97 of 2 December 1996, as amended by Council Regulation (EC) No 1606/98 of 29 June 1998, is to be interpreted as meaning that, when the competent institution of a Member State calculates a minimum benefit, such as the guaranteed pension at issue in the main proceedings, it is not inappropriate to apply Article 46(2) or Article 47(1)(d) of the regulation. Such a benefit must be calculated in accordance with Article 50 of the regulation, in conjunction with the provisions of national law, without, however, applying national provisions, such as those in the main proceedings, providing for a pro rata calculation;
2. Regulation No 1408/71, as amended and updated by Regulation No 118/97, as amended by Regulation No 1606/98, and in particular Article 50 of that regulation, is to be interpreted as not precluding the legislation of a Member State under which, when calculating a minimum benefit such as the guaranteed pension at issue in the main proceedings, the competent institution must take account of all the retirement pensions which the person concerned actually receives from one or more other Member States.

Oberlandesgericht Frankfurt am Main

Parties to the main proceedings

Applicant: Coty Germany GmbH

Operative part of the judgment

1. Article 101(1) TFEU must be interpreted as meaning that a selective distribution system for luxury goods designed, primarily, to preserve the luxury image of those goods complies with that provision to the extent that resellers are chosen on the basis of objective criteria of a qualitative nature that are laid down uniformly for all potential resellers and applied in a non-discriminatory fashion and that the criteria laid down do not go beyond what is necessary.
2. Article 101(1) TFEU must be interpreted as not precluding a contractual clause, such as that at issue in the main proceedings, which prohibits authorised distributors in a selective distribution system for luxury goods designed, primarily, to preserve the luxury image of those goods from using, in a discernible manner, third-party platforms for the internet sale of the contract goods, on condition that that clause has the objective of preserving the luxury image of those goods, that it is laid down uniformly and not applied in a discriminatory fashion, and that it is proportionate in the light of the objective pursued, these being matters to be determined by the referring court.
3. Article 4 of Commission Regulation (EU) No 330/2010 of 20 April 2010 on the application of Article 101(3) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union to categories of vertical agreements and concerted practices must be interpreted as meaning that, in circumstances such as those at issue in the main proceedings, the prohibition imposed on the members of a selective distribution system for luxury goods, which operate as distributors at the retail level of trade, of making use, in a discernible manner, of third-party undertakings for internet sales does not constitute a restriction of customers, within the meaning of Article 4(b) of that regulation, or a restriction of passive sales to end users, within the meaning of Article 4(c) of that regulation.

Operative part of the judgment

1. Directive 2004/18/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 31 March 2004 on the coordination of procedures for the award of public works contracts, public supply contracts and public service contracts, and in particular Article 15(c) thereof, must be interpreted as meaning that it precludes a Member State's legislation that provides, for the purposes of a public procurement procedure initiated after the date of its accession to the European Union in order to complete a project started on the basis of a finance agreement concluded with the European Investment Bank prior to that accession, the application of the specific criteria laid down by the provisions of the European Investment Bank's public procurement guide which do not comply with the provisions of that directive;
2. Articles 9(5) and 60(a) of Council Regulation (EC) No 1083/2006 of 11 July 2006 laying down general provisions on the European Regional Development Fund, the European Social Fund and the Cohesion Fund and repealing Regulation (EC) No 1260/1999 must be interpreted as meaning that a public procurement procedure such as that at issue in the case in the main proceedings, in which criteria more restrictive than those laid down in Directive 2004/18 have been applied, cannot be considered as having been conducted in complete conformity with EU law and is not eligible for non-reimbursable European funding, granted retrospectively.

Article 2(7) of Regulation No 1083/2006 must be interpreted as meaning that the use of pre-selection criteria for tenderers that are more restrictive than those provided for by Directive 2004/18 constitutes an ‘irregularity’, within the meaning of that article, justifying the application of a financial correction pursuant to Article 98 of that regulation, provided that it cannot be ruled out that such use had an impact on the budget of the Funds at issue, which it is for the national court to determine.

Questions referred

1. Does the applicant, as a Giudice di Pace (magistrate), by reason of his occupation, come within the definition of a ‘fixed-term worker’ for the purposes of Articles 1(3) and 7 of Directive 2003/88,<sup>(1)</sup> read in conjunction with Clause 2 of the Framework Agreement on fixed-term work implemented by Directive 1999/70<sup>(2)</sup> and Article 31(2) of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union?
2. If Question 1 above is answered in the affirmative, may an ordinary or ‘togato’ judge [a career judge engaged on a permanent basis and salaried] be regarded as a comparable permanent worker in respect of a ‘Giudice di Pace’ fixed-term worker for the purposes of the application of Clause 4 of the framework agreement on fixed-term work implemented by Directive 1999/70?
3. If Question 2 above is answered in the affirmative, do the differences between the procedure for the permanent recruitment of ordinary judges and the selection procedures, laid down by statute, for the fixed-term recruitment of Giudici di Pace constitute an objective ground, within the meaning of Clause 4(1) and/or (4) of the Framework Agreement on fixed-term work implemented by Directive 1999/70, justifying a refusal to apply: (1) — as in the recent interpretation of ‘vital law’ by the Combined Chambers of the Corte di cassazione (Court of Cassation) in judgment No 13721/2017 and by the Consiglio di Stato (Council of State) in Opinion No 464/2017 of 8 April 2017 — to Giudici di Pace, such as the applicant fixed-term worker, the same employment conditions as those applied to comparable permanent ordinary judges; and (2) preventive measures and measures imposing penalties in respect of abusive use of fixed-term contracts, as referred to in Clause 5 of the framework agreement implemented by Directive 1999/70 and the national implementing provision in Article 5(4bis) of Legislative Decree No 368/2001, in the absence of any fundamental principle under domestic law or any constitutional rule that could justify either discrimination as regards employment conditions or an absolute prohibition on engaging Giudici di Pace on permanent contracts, also taking into account the previous domestic provision (Article 1 of Law No 217/1974), which had already provided that the employment conditions of giudici onorari should be equivalent to those of ordinary judges and that there should no longer be recourse to successive fixed-term employment contracts for such judges?
4. In any event, in a situation such as that in the main proceedings, is it contrary to the second paragraph of Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union and to the EU-law concept of an independent and impartial tribunal for a Giudice di Pace, who has an interest in the case before him being resolved in favour of the applicant who, as his sole form of employment performs identical judicial functions, to stand in the place of the tribunal established by statute as having jurisdiction because of the refusal by the highest domestic judicial body — the Combined Chambers of the Court of Cassation — to grant effective protection for the rights claimed, thus obliging the tribunal established as competent by statute to decline jurisdiction, when requested, for the purpose of recognising the right claimed, notwithstanding the fact that the right in question — like the right to paid leave at issue in the main proceedings — is enshrined in primary and secondary EU law in a situation in which ‘Community’ law is directly and vertically applicable to the Member State in question? In the event that the Court of Justice should find that there is an infringement of Article 47 of the Charter, what domestic remedies are available in order to avoid a situation in which infringement of a provision of primary EU law also involves an absolute refusal under domestic law to protect fundamental rights guaranteed by EU law in the particular circumstances of the present case?

Questions referred

Must Article 4(1) of Council Directive 2011/64/EU<sup>(1)</sup> of 21 June 2011 on the structure and rates of excise duty applied to manufactured tobacco (codification) be interpreted as meaning that the term ‘cigars or cigarillos’ covers (or does not cover) cases where part of the wrapper of natural or reconstituted tobacco is additionally covered by another outer (paper) layer, as in the case at issue? Is it relevant to the answer to that question that the use of paper as an additional layer in the outer wrapper of the tobacco product (where the filter is) means that it is visually similar to a cigarette?

- 1 (a) Must Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, read in conjunction with Article 4(3) TEU, be interpreted as meaning that an applicant may challenge the legality of a decision of an institution of the Union which must be implemented by national authorities, by pleading infringement of essential procedural requirements, infringement of the Treaties or misuse of powers?
- (b) Must Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, read in conjunction with Article 4(3) TEU, be interpreted as meaning that the institutions of the Union which are involved in the adoption of a decision whose validity is challenged in proceedings before a national court are bound to provide that court, if requested to do so, with all the information at their disposal and which was taken into account, or should have been taken into account, by them in the adoption of that decision?
- (c) Must Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union be interpreted as meaning that the right to an effective remedy requires the court to conduct a robust review of whether the conditions for the application of Article 13 of Regulation (EC) No 1225/2009 <sup>(1)</sup> have been satisfied? In particular, does that Article 47 mean that that court is competent to fully assess whether the facts have been fully and adequately established so as to justify the legal effect relied upon? In particular, does that Article 47 also mean that that court is competent to fully assess whether facts which were allegedly not taken into account in the adoption of the decision, but which could be detrimental to the legal effect associated with the facts which were established, should have been taken into account?

- 2 (a) Must the term 'relevant information' in Article 15(2) of Regulation (EC) No 1225/2009 be interpreted as including the response of an independent importer of the goods forming the subject of the investigation referred to in that provision, established in the European Union, to the findings of the Commission, if that importer was notified of that investigation by the Commission, provided requested information to the Commission and, having been given the opportunity to do so, responded in a timely fashion to the Commission's findings?
- (b) If question 2(a) is answered in the affirmative, can that importer then plead infringement of Article 15(2) of Regulation (EC) No 1225/2009 if the response submitted by him was not made available at least ten working days prior to the meeting of the Advisory Committee provided for in that provision?
- (c) If question 2(b) is answered in the affirmative, does that infringement of Article 15(2) of Regulation (EC) No 1225/2009 mean that that decision is unlawful and that it should not be implemented?

Action brought on 22 November 2017 — Comprojecto-Projetos e Construções and Others v ECB

(Case T-768/17)

(2018/C 052/45)

Language of the case: Portuguese

Parties

Applicants: Comprojecto-Projetos e Construções, Lda. (Lisbon, Portugal), Paulo Eduardo Matos Gomes de Azevedo (Lisbon), Julião Maria Gomes de Azevedo (Lisbon), Isabel Maria Matos Gomes de Azevedo (Lisbon) (represented by: M. A. Ribeiro, lawyer)

Defendant: European Central Bank

Form of order sought

The applicants claim that the General Court should:

— Annul the contested acts, in particular:

- (i) The defendant's decision to refuse to act;
- (ii) The defendant's decision not to initiate infringement proceedings;
- (iii) The decision of the Governor of the Banco de Portugal and of the other 'officials' who took a position on the complaints and claims presented between 26 June 2013 and 22 April 2015.

— On those grounds, they request the General Court to make a ruling:

- (i) That allows the applicants to annul the decision of the judges concerning the claim for compensation brought against the BCP [Banco Comercial Português];
  - (ii) That allows the applicants to bring an action for recovery against the Portuguese State;
  - (iii) That allows an assessment to be made as to whether the Member State /Prosecution Service/OPG [Office of the Prosecutor General] had reasons to refuse to intervene in the civil action;
  - (iv) That allows an assessment to be made as to whether the Member State /Prosecution Service/OPG had valid grounds not to report this case to OLAF.
- If the Court considers that the applicants' claims are well founded, order the ECB, under the provisions of the articles 268 TFEU and 340 TFEU, to pay the amount of EUR 4 582 825,80, plus interest for late payment, calculated at the legal rate, which accrues until actual payment, together with such other expenses and compensation for damages arising after the interventions made;
- However, taking into account the provisions of Article 280 TFEU and that the acts 'of the European Central Bank which impose a pecuniary obligation on persons other than States, shall be enforceable', as provided for in Article 299 TFEU, the General Court must require the defendant to request that such amounts be settled by the BCP;
- Taking into account that the national central bank is the 'administrative authority competent either to decide on complaints or to initiate appropriate legal proceedings', in accordance with the provisions of Article 11(1)(b) of Directive 2005/29/EC, and of Articles 81(1) and 83(1) of Directive 2007/64/EC, and of Article 96(1)(b) — 'Additional penalties' — of DL [decree-law] 317/2009, the defendant's agent must request the BCP to 'immediately' credit the abovementioned amounts to the accounts of the applicants.
- The defendant:
- (i) Shall require its agent, the national central bank, to request the BCP to submit the abovementioned elements. If under the provisions of Article 13(2) of the BCP Organic Law, the credit institution does not present those elements, the Bank of Portugal must require the credit institution to pay the amounts in question 'immediately' into the applicants' accounts;
  - (ii) Given that the credit institution may have to 'immediately' compensate the applicants, the provisions of Articles 41 (2)(a), the second paragraph of Article 47 and Article 49(1) of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union ('the CFREU') must be complied with, that is, as occurs in relation to the Banco de Portugal and the Prosecution Service/OPG, taking into account the provisions of Article 3 of Regulation No. 2532/98 concerning the powers of the European Central Bank to impose sanctions, the ECB must decide on whether to 'initiate an infringement procedure', calling on the BCP to take action, so that that credit institution must take a decision and cannot abstain;

- Notwithstanding that, under Article 256(1) TFEU, the General Court does not have jurisdiction if the national central bank does not acknowledge that it ‘failed to fulfil an obligation under the Treaties, that bank shall be required to take the necessary measures to comply with the judgment of the Court, in accordance with the provisions of Article 271(d) TFEU the question must be referred to the Supreme Court;
- Even though it is also not a matter for the General Court, if the ECJ considers that the applicants’ action is well founded, in accordance with the provisions of Article 264 TFEU, the General Court must propose to the Supreme Court to annul the decision of the national central bank, which decision was adopted by the defendant and, having regard to the provisions of Article 41(1)(c) of the CFREU, of the second paragraph of Article 296 TFEU and Article 11(3)(c) of Directive 2005/29/EC, a substantiated decision must be adopted;
- The applicants request that the defendant and the Court serve notice and request the Portuguese State/Prosecution Service/OPG to take action and to rule on the acts committed by BCP;
- The applicants call on the defendant to report the present case to OLAF;
- In accordance with Article 134(1) of the Rules of Procedure of the General Court, the applicants seek reimbursement of the costs of the proceedings, which must be duly assessed.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on the following pleas in law:

1. Infringement of the obligation to state reasons laid down in Article 41(2)(c) of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, in the second paragraph of Article 296 TFEU and in the Article 11(3) of Directive 2005/29/EC. <sup>(1)</sup>
2. Independently of the ‘burglary’ theft of the ‘safe’, BCP knew, or ought to have known, that the financial system was being used for the purpose of money laundering and, consequently, the credit institution was aware that there was fraud or tax evasion contributing to the loss of EU budget revenue. Those acts are ‘unlawful, undermine the Union’s financial interests’ and fall within ‘overriding reasons of public interest’ which ‘constitute a legitimate objective capable of justifying an impediment to the freedom to provide services’.
3. Irrespective of the way in which an amount of more than EUR 1 000 000 has been stolen from the ‘safe’, detriment is caused to the ‘financial interests of the Union’ and, in particular, to the revenue which supports the ‘EU budget, as well as [revenue] covered by the budget of the institutions, bodies, offices and agencies, and by the budgets managed and controlled by them’; therefore, these are also acts which constitute an ‘irregularity’ due to ‘infringement of a provision of Community law resulting from an act or omission by an economic operator, which has, or would have, the effect of prejudicing the general budget of the European Union or budgets managed by it, either by reducing or losing revenue accruing from own resources collected directly on behalf of the Communities or by an unjustified item of expenditure’.
4. Where a credit institution, a Member State/national central bank, the European Central Bank or the Member State/Prosecution Service/OPG are aware of such breaches or practices, allow them and do not condemn them, they encourage non-compliance with the provisions of Article 310(5) and (6) TFEU and Article 325(1), (2) and (3) TFEU and allow the credit institution in question to perform acts constituting an ‘irregularity’ due to infringement of the provisions of Article 1(2) of Regulation No 2988/95. <sup>(2)</sup>
5. By adopting the act by which it rejected the application calling on it to take action, the defendant found a way, inter alia:
  - (i) not to report the case to OLAF;
  - (ii) not to initiate ‘infringement’ proceedings against the credit institution BCP;
  - (iii) to postpone the decision of the civil courts, before which a claim for compensation against BCP and others has been pending since 1 February 2010;
  - (iv) not to irreversibly condemn its agent, Banco de Portugal, in the context of the administrative action brought on 27 October 2015 and currently pending before the Tribunal Administrativo e Fiscal de Sintra, which has not yet ruled on the matter.

6. Breach of the duty of impartiality, misuse of powers and breach of essential procedural requirements by the defendant's agent, Banco de Portugal.

- <sup>(1)</sup> Directive 2005/29/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 May 2005 concerning unfair business-to-consumer commercial practices in the internal market and amending Council Directive 84/450/EEC, Directives 97/7/EC, 98/27/EC and 2002/65/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council and Regulation (EC) No 2006/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council ('Unfair Commercial Practices Directive') (OJ 2005 L 149, p. 22).
- <sup>(2)</sup> Council Regulation (EC, Euratom) No 2988/95 of 18 December 1995 on the protection of the European Communities financial interests (OJ 1995 L 312, p. 1).

Applicant: US (represented by: L. Levi and A. Blot, lawyers)

Defendant: European Central Bank

Form of order sought

— Declare this action admissible and well-founded;

In consequence:

- Annul the 2016 staff report (covering the period from 1 September 2015 to 1 September 2016) and the decision dated 15 December 2016 on the Annual salary and bonus review ('ASBR') for 2016, served on the applicant on 30 November 2016 and 9 January 2017 respectively;

- Award damages for the losses suffered;
- Order the defendant to pay all the costs.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on four pleas in law as regards the application for annulment of the 2016 staff report.

1. First plea in law, alleging infringement of the obligation to state reasons, in that the applicant's staff report merely sets out general, repetitive and circular criticisms.
2. Second plea in law, alleging manifest errors of assessment vitiating the contested report.
3. Third plea in law, alleging misuse of power, harassment suffered by the applicant and infringement of the duty of care and the principle of sound administration.
4. Fourth plea in law, alleging a procedural irregularity committed by the defendant when drawing up the contested report.

The applicant also raises a plea in law alleging the unlawfulness of the guidelines for the ASBR and infringement of the principle of legal certainty as regards the decision concerning the 2016 ASBR.

Action brought on 5 December 2017 — Bruel v Commission and EEAS

(Case T-793/17)

(2018/C 052/47)

Language of the case: French

Parties

Applicant: Damien Bruel (Paris, France) (represented by: H. Hansen, lawyer)

Defendants: European Commission and European External Action Service

Form of order sought

The applicant claims that the Court should:

— declare the present application admissible and well founded;

and accordingly:

— annul the undated decision signed electronically on 25 September 2017 headed ‘Application for replacement of main expert No 2 in “Financial and Contractual Project Administration”’;

— declare that the applicant must be compensated for all of the material and non-material damage suffered by him as a result of the serious infringement of the right to good administration in the form of the adoption of the undated decision signed electronically on 25 September 2017 headed ‘Application for replacement of main expert No 2 in “Financial and Contractual Project Administration”’;

— find that the defendants are either jointly and severally or each entirely liable to pay the applicant the amount of EUR 152 250 in respect of material damage and the amount of EUR 25 000 in respect of non-material damage;

and, in any event:

— order the defendants to pay all costs;

— reserve to the applicant all other rights, entitlements, pleas and actions.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on a single plea in law alleging infringement of essential procedural requirements. That plea in law is divided into three parts.

1. First part, alleging infringement of the right to be heard, in that the applicant was not able to present his point of view on the allegations made against him before the contested decision was adopted.
  2. Second part, alleging infringement of the right of access to the file, in that the applicant has not had access to the file relating to him despite requests to that effect.
  3. Third part, alleging infringement of the obligation to state reasons, in that the reasons contained in the contested decision do not make it possible for the applicant to understand what he is alleged to have done.

In support of the action, the applicant relies on four pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging that the European Chemicals Agency (the 'Agency') committed a vitiating error of fact, by excluding relevant facts from the basis of the contested decision
  - The Applicant submits that the Agency, by entirely overlooking the efforts of the parties made prior to 2017, relies on a wrong determination of facts which are contrary to the principle of good administration and vitiate the contested decision to the extent that it must be annulled.
2. Second plea in law, alleging that the Agency committed manifest errors of assessment, by failing to evaluate all the relevant facts and circumstances, by concluding that the claimant made more efforts than the applicant and by failing to take into account Article 25 of the REACH Regulation <sup>(1)</sup>
  - The applicant submits that the Agency committed a manifest error of assessment by failing to take into consideration all the relevant facts and circumstances of the situation the contested decision is intended to govern, by concluding that the claimant made more efforts than the applicant and by failing to take into account the applicant's concerns regarding the duplication of vertebrate animal tests by the claimant, contrary to Article 25 of the REACH Regulation.
3. Third plea in law, alleging that the Agency infringed the principle of legal certainty by placing the applicant in an unacceptable position of legal certainty as regards the claimant's ability to rely on the applicant's data and the quality and compliance of the claimant's data
  - The applicant considers that the Agency, in adopting the contested decision, infringed the principle of legal certainty, as it does not limit the access granted to the applicant's joint submission even though the claimant is registering by way of a full opt-out and since the Agency did not address the issues with the full opt-out dossier (quality and possible duplication of vertebrate studies). The applicant is therefore in a situation of legal uncertainty as to how to protect its rights, since the scope and extent of the rights granted to the claimant remain opaque.

4. Fourth plea in law, alleging that the Agency breached its duty to state reasons, by failing to explain why it did not consider any of the correspondence before 2017 relevant
  - The Agency adopted its contested decision by relying on a mere fraction of the negotiations that occurred between the parties and arbitrarily limited its review to the few exchanges between the parties that occurred from January 2017 onwards. The applicant had submitted all correspondence on the substance between the claimant and the applicant, highlighting why such correspondence is relevant. Despite the applicant's explanation as to the relevance of the correspondence, the Agency did not provide any reasons as to why it did not consider, and in fact it completely ignored, the communications between the applicant and SSS before January 2017.

Defendant: European Chemicals Agency

Form of order sought

The applicants claim that the Court should:

- declare the Application admissible and well-founded;
- annul decision DSH-30-3-D-0122-2017 of the European Chemicals Agency dated 2 October 2017 granting access to the joint submission of substance hexasodium 2,2'-[vinylenebis [(3-sulphonato-4,1-phenylene)imino [6-(diethylamino)-1,3,5-triazine-4,2-diyl]imino]] bis(benzene-1,4-disulphonate) (EC No. 255-217-5);
- order the Defendant to pay the costs of these proceedings;
- take such other or further measure as justice may require.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicants rely on four pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging that the European Chemicals Agency (the 'Agency') committed a vitiating error of fact, by excluding relevant facts from the basis of the contested decision
  - The applicants submit that the Agency, by entirely overlooking the efforts of the parties made prior to 2017 and by making factually erroneous findings regarding the identity of the first applicant and the date of submission of the reply to the Agency's request for information; relies on a wrong determination of facts which are contrary to the principle of good administration and vitiate the contested decision to the extent that it must be annulled.
2. Second plea in law, alleging that the Agency committed manifest errors of assessment, by failing to evaluate all the relevant facts and circumstances, by concluding that the claimant made more efforts than the applicants and by failing to take into account Article 25 of the REACH Regulation<sup>(1)</sup>
  - The applicants submit that the Agency committed a manifest error of assessment by failing to take into consideration all the relevant facts and circumstances of the situation the contested decision is intended to govern, by concluding that the claimant made more efforts than the applicants, by failing to consider the specific facts of the dispute before it and by failing to take into account the applicants' concerns regarding the duplication of vertebrate animal tests by the claimant, contrary to Article 25 of the REACH Regulation.

3. Third plea in law, alleging that the Agency infringed the principle of legal certainty by placing the applicants in an unacceptable position of legal certainty as regards the claimant's ability to rely on the applicants' data and the quality and compliance of the claimant's data
- The applicants consider that the Agency, in adopting the contested decision, infringed the principle of legal certainty, as it does not limit the access granted to the applicants' joint submission even though the claimant is registering by way of a full opt-out and since the Agency did not address the issues with the full opt-out dossier (quality and possible duplication of vertebrate studies). The applicants are therefore in a situation of legal uncertainty as to how to protect their rights, since the scope and extent of the rights granted to the claimant remain opaque.
4. Fourth plea in law, alleging that the Agency breached its duty to state reasons, by failing to explain why it did not consider any of the correspondence before 2017 relevant
- The Agency adopted its contested decision by relying on a mere fraction of the negotiations that occurred between the parties and arbitrarily limited its review to the few exchanges between the parties that occurred from January 2017 onwards. The applicants had submitted all correspondence on the substance between the claimant and the applicants, highlighting why such correspondence is relevant. Despite the applicants' explanation as to the relevance of the correspondence, the Agency did not provide any reasons as to why it did not consider, and in fact it completely ignored, the communications between the applicants and SSS before January 2017.

Action brought on 14 December 2017 — Lietuvos geležinkeliai v Commission

(Case T-814/17)

(2018/C 052/53)

Language of the case: English

Parties

Applicant: Lietuvos geležinkeliai AB (Vilnius, Lithuania) (represented by: W. Deselaers, K. Apel, P. Kirst, lawyers)

Defendant: European Commission

Form of order sought

The applicant claims that the Court should:

- annul, in whole or in part, Articles 1, 2, 3 and 4 of Commission Decision C(2017) 6544 final of 2 October 2017 relating to proceedings under Article 102 TFEU in Case AT.39813 — Baltic Rail; and/or
- reduce the fines imposed on the applicant by Article 2 of Commission Decision C(2017) 6544 final dated 2 October 2017; and
- order the Commission to pay the costs of the proceedings.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on five pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging a violation of Article 102 TFEU, a manifest error of law by using the wrong legal test to evaluate the alleged abuse. According to the applicant, there could be an abuse only if access to the Track were essential or indispensable for competitors to compete on the downstream market (which is not the case).

2. Second plea in law, alleging a violation of Article 102 TFEU and manifest errors of law and assessment. The applicant puts forward that even under the (wrong) legal test applied by the Commission, the removal of the rail track connecting Mažeikiai in north-western Lithuania with the Latvian border (the 'Track') as non-essential facility did not constitute an abuse of a dominant position in the legal and factual circumstances of the present case.
3. Third plea in law, alleging a breach of Article 296 TFEU and Article 2 of Regulation 1/2003 to the extent that, according to the applicant, there is insufficient evidence and failure to state reasons.
4. Fourth plea in law, alleging a violation of Article 23.3 of Regulation 1/2003, and manifest errors of law and of assessment in setting the amount of the fine.
5. Fifth plea in law, alleging a violation of Article 7 of Regulation 1/2003, manifest errors of law and assessment in ordering, in fact, a disproportionate remedy (i.e. the reconstruction of the Track).
