Operative part of the order

Articles 63 and 65 TFEU must be interpreted as precluding the legislation of a Member State, such as that at issue in the main proceedings, under which the dividends distributed by a resident company are subject to a tax the effective rate of which is higher where those dividends are received by an entity resident in a third country which does not principally carry out activities of a commercial, industrial or agricultural nature than where such dividends are received by such an entity resident in that State. The situation is different only if the application of the tax convention signed on 14 June 1999 for the avoidance of double taxation and the prevention of fiscal evasion with respect to taxes on income allows the effects of the difference in treatment under the legislation of that Member State to be completely neutralised, which it is for the referring court to ascertain.

The concept of ‘school and university education’ for the purpose of Article 132(1)(i) and (j) of Council Directive 2006/112/EC of 28 November 2006 on the common system of value added tax must be interpreted as not including surfing and sailing tuition provided by surf and sailing schools, such as those at issue in the main proceedings, for schools or universities in which that tuition may, respectively, form part of the sporting activities programme or the training for physical education teachers and count towards the grade given to such pupils or students.

2. Operative part of the order

Article 6(1) of Council Framework Decision 2002/584/JHA of 13 June 2002 on the European arrest warrant and the surrender procedures between Member States must be interpreted as meaning that the concept of ‘issuing judicial authority’, for the purposes of that provision, covers French prosecutors, managed and supervised by their hierarchical superiors and under the authority of the Minister of Justice in accordance with the statutory rules and institutional framework to which they are subject, since their statute grants them a guarantee of independence, in particular vis-à-vis the executive, in the context of the issue of a European arrest warrant.

Framework Decision 2002/584 must be interpreted as meaning that the requirements inherent in effective judicial protection to be provided to a person against whom a European arrest warrant is issued with a view to criminal prosecution are satisfied where, in accordance with the legislation of the issuing Member State, the conditions for the issue of that warrant and, in particular, the proportionality thereof are subject to judicial review in that Member State.

3. collective agreement for the construction sector contravening Spanish national legislation, under which, pursuant to Article 44 of the Workers' Statute, all rights and obligations of the previous employer are transferred, not merely those arising under the most recent contract?

Form of order sought

The Commission claims that the Court should:

- declare that Hungary has failed to fulfil its obligations under Article 11(1)(a) of Directive 2003/109/EC <sup>(1)</sup> by not admitting third-country nationals who are long-term residents as members of the College of Veterinary Surgeons, which prevents those third country nationals ab initio from working as employed veterinarians or exercising that profession on a self-employed basis.
- order Hungary to pay the costs.

Pleas in law and main arguments

1. The Commission received a complaint on 3 January 2017 concerning a requirement laid down in the Magyar Állatorvosi Kamaráról valamint az állatorvosi szolgáltatói tevékenység végzéséről szóló 2012. évi CXXVII. törvény (Law CXXVII of 2012, on the College of Veterinary Surgeons of Hungary and the provision of veterinary services), in accordance with which, only a person who fulfils, inter alia, the requirement of being a national of a State which is part of the Agreement on the European Economic Area may be a member of the College of Veterinary Surgeons. The complainant is a third-country national who, since 2007, has held a long-term residence permit in Hungary and who in 2014 graduated from the Állatorvostudományi Egyetem (University of Veterinary Medicine) of Budapest. The complainant's request to be admitted to the College of Veterinary Surgeons was rejected on the basis of non-compliance with the abovementioned legal requirement. In Hungary it is necessary to be a member of the College of Veterinary Surgeons in order to exercise the profession of veterinarian whether on an employed or self-employed basis.
2. On 20 July 2018, the Commission initiated infringement proceedings against Hungary in relation to the abovementioned provision of the Law on the College of Veterinary Surgeons, alleging that Hungary had failed to fulfill the obligation under Article 11(1)(a) of Directive 2003/109/EC.
3. The Hungarian Government, in its reply, claimed that the veterinary profession is covered by the exception laid down in Article 11(1)(a) of Directive 2003/109/EC, since it may, not only occasionally, entail the exercise of public authority.
4. As it did not consider the claims put forward by the Hungarian Government persuasive, on the 25 January 2019, the Commission gave a reasoned opinion in which it maintained its position.
5. On 29 March 2019, the Hungarian Government sent the Commission a reply to the reasoned opinion, in which it restated its position.
6. The Commission concluded that the exercise of the activity of veterinarian on an employed or self-employed basis in Hungary was not covered by the exception in Article 11(1)(a) of Directive 2003/109/EC. In its view, the activities of veterinarians which Hungary considers to be an exercise of public authority do not entail direct and specific participation in the exercise of public authority and are not necessarily and inseparably inherent in that profession, since, they are only preparatory and additional, or are activities which are carried out pursuant to a special agreement or under supervision of the public authority.
7. In the light of the foregoing, on 25 July 2019, the Commission decided to refer the case to the Court of Justice for a declaration that Hungary has failed to fulfil its obligations under Directive 2003/109/EC.

If Question 1 is answered in the affirmative:

2. Is it permissible also in the case of a turnover tax claim made by the taxable person as a result of a subsequent reduction of consideration under Article 90(1) of Council Directive 2006/112/EC of 28 November 2006 on the common system of value added tax <sup>(1)</sup> that interest begins to accrue only after expiry of a reasonable period for the tax office to assess the lawfulness of the entitlement claimed by the taxable person?

2. If Question 1 is answered in the affirmative:
  - (a) Is the second paragraph of Article 11 of the VAT Directive — regard being had to the principles of proportionality and neutrality — to be interpreted as being capable of justifying an exclusion of partnerships of the type mentioned in Question 1 from a tax-group arrangement for turnover-tax purposes because, in the case of partnerships, there is no obligation to comply with a required form for the conclusion and amendment of partnership agreements under national law and there may, in the event of merely verbal agreements, be difficulties in proving the existence of the financial integration of the controlled company in individual cases?

Appeal brought on 28 November 2019 by FV against the judgment of the General Court (Eighth Chamber) of 19 September 2019 in Case T-27/18 RENV, FV v Council

(Case C-875/19 P)

(2020/C 77/35)

Language of the case: French

Parties

Appellant: FV (represented by: É. Boigelot, avocat)

Other party to the proceedings: Council of the European Union

Form of order sought

The appellant claims that the Court should:

- set aside the judgment of 19 September 2019 (T-27/18 RENV) and, consequently, grant the appellant the order sought at first instance and therefore annul the appellant's 2013 staff report;
- order the Council to pay the costs of the proceedings at first instance and in the appeal.

Grounds of appeal and main arguments

The judgment under appeal dismissed the action for the annulment of the appellant's 2013 staff report. In the appellant's ground of appeal, he claims, first, that the General Court infringed the duty to review and the obligation to state reasons and distorted the file and, second, that it infringed the Guide to staff reports, the obligation to state reasons and the duty to care for staff, and manifestly erred in its assessment.

The appellant claims that, by requiring the existence and disclosure of medical certificates and subsequently taking the view that those absences were not justified and could validly be regarded as capable of being taken into account in the assessment period, the General Court misconstrued the Guide to staff reports. In addition, the decision to take account necessarily, or even automatically, of absences and/or late arrivals in assessing the appellant negatively is unlawful. Lastly, the Council did not challenge the medical nature of those absences and/or late arrivals or criticise the justification of the absences through the adoption of administrative measures and approved applications for regularisation of the late arrivals ex post. The General Court therefore contradicted itself and distorted the evidence in the file.

Furthermore, a lack of regular presence at the workplace does not mean ipso facto a lack of continuous effort. Moreover, no individually tailored timetable was registered in the programme relating to the appellant's working times. In addition, a general comment considering that the appellant's sense of responsibility is remarkable can be expressed only by an excellent evaluation. As regards the assessment of quality of work, the reasons given in the staff report do not relate to the actual quality of work delivered by the appellant. Lastly, as far as concerns the assessment of team working and human skills, the General Court failed to take into consideration several pieces of evidence in the file. The appellant claims that the General Court therefore distorted the evidence in the file, erred in its interpretation and statement of reasons, breached the Guide to staff reports and failed to conduct a lawful and accurate review of a manifest error of assessment.

Lastly, the appellant claims that the situation of professional mistreatment and psychological harassment suffered by him was overlooked in the judgment under appeal. The General Court also breached the duty to care for staff by overlooking the appellant's interests and taking into account only the alleged interests of the service.

Appeal brought on 28 November 2019 by FV against the judgment of the General Court (Eighth Chamber) of 19 September 2019 in Case T-153/17, FV v Council

(Case C-877/19 P)

(2020/C 77/36)

Language of the case: French

Parties

Appellant: FV (represented by: É. Boigelot, avocat)

Other party to the proceedings: Council of the European Union

Conclusions

The appellant claims that the Court should:

- set aside the judgment of 19 September 2019 (T-153/17);
- consequently, grant the order sought at first instance and therefore annul the 2014 and 2015 staff reports adopted definitively on 5 December 2016;
- order the respondent to pay the entire costs of the proceedings at first instance and in the appeal.

Grounds of appeal and main arguments

The judgment under appeal dismissed the action for the annulment of the 2014 and 2015 staff reports.

In the appellant's ground of appeal, he claims, first, that the General Court infringed the duty to review and the obligation to state reasons and distorted the file and, second, that it infringed the Guide to staff reports, the obligation to state reasons and the duty to care for staff, and manifestly erred in its assessment.

The appellant claims that the General Court manifestly erred in its assessment and distorted the facts in taking the view that his allegedly inappropriate conduct was the only reason why the administration had granted him a passable assessment for sense of responsibility, despite the fact that that section is defined by the Guide to staff reports as the individual's engagement with his or her work and availability to complete his or her tasks in an active and constructive spirit.

In addition, the appellant claims that the General Court did not review the decrease in the appellant's tasks correctly. His state of health and part-time work for medical reasons cannot justify reducing part of an official's tasks, in particular, without his consent.

Furthermore, the appellant contests the General Court's assessment of his change of office and position and of his conduct during the 2014 assessment period, claiming that they constitute distortion of the file.

Lastly, the appellant claims that the judgment under appeal failed to criticise the failure to care for staff, in particular in respect of an official suffering from mental health problems, and to apply the third subparagraph Article 59(1) of the Staff Regulations.

- order UZ to pay the costs of the proceedings at first instance.

Grounds of appeal and main arguments

By its first ground of appeal, alleging an error of law, distortion of the facts and a failure to state reasons, the Parliament submits that the General Court erred in finding that the investigations carried out were vitiated by a lack of objective impartiality. One of the investigators' limited and prior knowledge was not capable of supporting legitimate doubt in respect of his objective impartiality since such doubt could have been dispelled by the involvement of several investigators in the same investigation. That essential point was not even taken into account in the General Court's findings of fact. Lastly, the General Court did not examine or explain how the alleged lack of objective impartiality in that context could have led to another outcome, as required by the case-law.

The second ground of appeal alleges an error of law, distortion of the facts and a failure to state reasons in respect of the finding of infringement of the principle of equality of arms during the disciplinary council's proceedings. The Parliament claims that the General Court misconstrued the facts by wrongly holding that the Appointing Authority was represented by two individuals whereas the applicant at first instance, in the presence of his lawyer, had equivalent rights. The Parliament considers that the General Court failed to justify departing from its case-law on the application of the principle of equality of arms in administrative matters and failed to examine whether, in the absence of that alleged irregularity, the procedure could have had a different outcome.

By its third ground of appeal, alleging an error of law, distortion of the facts and a failure to state reasons in respect of the finding by which it held that the applicant at first instance's right to be heard had been infringed, the Parliament claims that the applicant at first instance had been duly heard, first, orally, on the basis of a delegation from the Appointing Authority and, second, by the submission of his written observations following the hearing. Since a delegation is provided for by internal rules and operates only where, in the interests of the service, the delegating Appointing Authority is prevented from acting itself, the General Court erred in law by holding that Article 22 of Annex IX to the Staff Regulations had not been complied with. Furthermore, the Parliament claims that the General Court erred in regarding the demotion from Grade AD 13 to Grade AD 12 as a serious measure in so far as it involves the loss of a management position. Lastly, the Parliament claims that the General Court did not examine whether, in the event that the applicant at first instance had been heard directly by the Appointing Authority, he could have adduced evidence in addition to that contained in the file and the extent to which the Appointing Authority's decision could have been different.

Can it be inferred from the prohibition of discrimination in Article 64 of the Euro-Mediterranean Agreement with Tunisia <sup>(1)</sup> that a curtailment of the period of validity of a residence permit because the conditions for the grant of that residence permit are no longer satisfied is prohibited if

- the Tunisian national was in employment at the time when the retroactive curtailment of the period of validity of the residence permit was notified,
- the decision to curtail the period of validity is not based on grounds relating to the protection of a legitimate national interest, such as public policy, public security or public health, and
- the Tunisian national did not possess authorisation to take up employment (work permit) that was independent of the residence permit, but was entitled by law to take up employment during the period of validity of the residence permit?

Does the legal status of a foreign national arising from the prohibition of discrimination in Article 64 of the Euro-Mediterranean Agreement with Tunisia require, in addition to the residence permit, the grant of an administrative authorisation to take up employment?

What is the relevant point in time for the assessment of legal status under the law on residence and work permits? Is the relevant point in time the date of adoption of the administrative decision withdrawing the right of residence or the date of the judicial decision?

1. Does a tender condition under which suppliers are required to demonstrate a certain level of average annual operating income derived from carrying out activities relating only to specific services (mixed municipal waste management) fall within the scope of Article 58(3) or (4) of Directive 2014/24? <sup>(1)</sup>
2. Does the method of assessment of the supplier's capacity, which is set out by the Court of Justice in its judgment of 4 May 2017, Esaprojekt (C-387/14), <sup>(2)</sup> depend on the answer to the first question?
3. Does a tender condition under which suppliers are required to demonstrate that the vehicles necessary for the provision of [refuse management] services comply with the specific technical requirements, including polluting emissions (EURO 5), installation of a GPS transmitter, appropriate capacity and so forth, fall within the scope of (a) Article 58(4), (b) Article 42 in conjunction with the provisions of Annex VII, (c) Article 70 of Directive 2014/24?
4. Are the third subparagraph of Article 1(1) of Directive 89/665, <sup>(3)</sup> which lays down the principle of the effectiveness of review procedures, Article 1(3) and (5) thereof, Article 21 of Directive 2014/24 and Directive 2016/943, <sup>(4)</sup> in particular recital 18 and the third subparagraph of Article 9(2) thereof (together or separately, but without limitation thereto), to be interpreted as meaning that, where a binding pre-litigation dispute settlement procedure is laid down in the national legal rules governing public procurement:
  - (a) the contracting authority has to provide to the supplier who initiated the review procedure all details of another supplier's tender (regardless of their confidential nature), if the subject matter of that procedure is specifically the lawfulness of the evaluation of the other supplier's tender and the supplier which initiated the procedure had explicitly requested the contracting authority prior thereto to provide them;
  - (b) irrespective of the answer to the previous question, the contracting authority, when rejecting the claim submitted by the supplier regarding the lawfulness of the evaluation of his competitor's tender, must in any event give a clear, comprehensive and specific reply, regardless of the risk of disclosing confidential tender information entrusted to it?
5. Are the third subparagraph of Article 1(1), Article 1(3) and (5) and Article 2(1)(b) of Directive 89/665, Article 21 of Directive 2014/24 and Directive 2016/943, in particular recital 18 thereof (together or separately, but without limitation thereto), to be interpreted as meaning that the contracting authority's decision not to grant a supplier access to the confidential details of another participant's tender is a decision which may be challenged separately before the courts?
6. If the answer to the previous question is in the affirmative, is Article 1(5) of Directive 89/665 to be interpreted as meaning that the supplier must file a claim with the contracting authority in respect of such a decision by it and, if need be, bring an action before the court?
7. If the answer to the previous question is in the affirmative, are the third subparagraph of Article 1(1) and Article 2(1)(b) of Directive 89/665 to be interpreted as meaning that, depending on the extent of the information available on the content of the other supplier's tender, the supplier may bring an action before the courts concerning exclusively the refusal to provide information to him, without separately calling the lawfulness of other decisions of the contracting authority into question?
8. Irrespective of the answers to the previous questions, is the third subparagraph of Article 9(2) of Directive 2016/943 to be interpreted as meaning that the court, having received the applicant's request that the other party to the dispute be ordered to produce evidence and that the court make it available to the applicant, must grant such a request, regardless of the actions on the part of the contracting authority during the procurement or review procedures?

9. Is the third subparagraph of Article 9(2) of Directive 2016/943 to be interpreted as meaning that, after rejecting the applicant's claim for disclosure of confidential information of the other party to the dispute, the court should of its own motion assess the significance of the data whose loss of confidentiality is requested and the data's effects on the lawfulness of the public procurement procedure?
10. May the ground for exclusion of suppliers which is laid down in Article 57(4)(h) of Directive 2014/24, regard being had to the judgment of the Court of Justice of 3 October 2019, Delta Antrepriză de Construcții și Montaj 93, <sup>(5)</sup> be applied in such a way that the court, when examining a dispute between a supplier and the contracting authority, may decide of its own motion, irrespective of the assessment of the contracting authority, that the tenderer concerned, acting intentionally or negligently, submitted misleading, factually inaccurate information to the contracting authority and therefore had to be excluded from public procurement procedures?
11. Is Article 57(4)(h) of Directive 2014/24, applied in conjunction with the principle of proportionality set out in Article 18(1) of that directive, to be interpreted and applied in such a way that, where national law provides for additional penalties (besides exclusion from procurement procedures) in respect of the submission of false information, those penalties may be applied only on the basis of personal responsibility, in particular where factually inaccurate information is submitted only by a proportion of the joint participants in the public procurement procedure (for example, one of several partners)?

1. What content should be given to the term ‘public undertaking’ in Article 1(2) of Directive 2008/104? <sup>(1)</sup> Are European Union agencies such as EIGE to be regarded as ‘public undertakings’ within the meaning of Directive 2008/104?
2. Which entities (temporary-work agency, user undertaking, at least one of them, or possibly both) are subject, according to Article 1(2) of Directive 2008/104, to the criterion of being engaged in economic activities? Are the areas of activity and functions of EIGE, as defined in Articles 3 and 4 of Regulation (EC) No 1922/2006 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 December 2006, <sup>(2)</sup> to be regarded as economic activities as that term is defined (understood) within the meaning of Article 1(2) of Directive 2008/104?
3. 4. Should the provisions of Article 5(1) of Directive 2008/104 concerning the rights of temporary agency workers to basic working and employment conditions, in particular as regards pay, apply in full to European Union agencies, which are subject to special EU labour-law rules and to Articles 335 and 336 TFEU?
5. Does the law of a Member State (Article 75 of the Lithuanian Labour Code) transposing the provisions of Article 5(1) of Directive 2008/104 for all undertakings using temporary workers (including EU institutions) infringe the principle of administrative autonomy of an EU institution established in Articles 335 and 336 TFEU, and the rules governing the calculation and payment of wages laid down in the Staff Regulations of Officials of the European Union?
6. In view of the fact that all posts (job functions) to which workers are directly recruited by EIGE include tasks which can be performed exclusively by those workers who work under the Staff Regulations of Officials of the European Union, can the respective posts (job functions) of temporary agency workers be regarded as being ‘the same job[s]’ within the meaning of Article 5(1) of Directive 2008/104?

1. Do Article 11(a) and the first paragraph of Article 22 of Protocol No 7 to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union on the privileges and immunities of the European Union apply to the post of member of the Governing Council of the European Central Bank, held by the governor of the central bank of a Member State, that is to say, the President of the Bank of Latvia, AB?
2. If the answer to the first question is in the affirmative, does that person continue to be immune from criminal proceedings under those provisions even after he has left the post of governor of the central bank of a Member State and, therefore, the post of member of the Governing Council of the European Central bank?
3. If the answer to the first question is in the affirmative, does that immunity relate only to immunity ‘from legal proceedings’ as referred to in Article 11(a) of Protocol No 7 to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union on the privileges and immunities of the European Union or does it also cover the criminal prosecution, including service of the indictment and the gathering of evidence? In the event that the immunity applies to the criminal prosecution, does that fact influence whether the evidence can be used?
4. If the answer to the first question is in the affirmative, does Article 11(a) of Protocol No 7 to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union on the privileges and immunities of the European Union, read in conjunction with Article 17 of that protocol, allow the person directing the proceedings or, at the corresponding stage of the proceedings, the composition of the court, to assess whether there is a European Union interest in those proceedings and, only where it is found that there is — that is to say, if AB’s alleged conduct relates to the performance of his duties at an EU institution — to request the institution concerned, that is to say, the European Central Bank, to waive that person’s immunity?
5. For the purposes of applying the provisions of Protocol No 7 to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union on the privileges and immunities of the European Union, must the existence of a European Union interest always relate directly to decisions taken or acts carried out in performance of duties at an EU institution? May such an official be subjected to a measure of criminal procedure if his indictment does not relate to his duties at an EU institution but to activities carried on as part of his duties in a Member State?

- annul Decision C(2019) 5361 final of the Commission;
- annul, or in the alternative, reduce substantially the amount of the fine;
- order the Commission to pay the costs.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on fifteen pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging that the Decision is the result of grave procedural irregularities that have irreparably infringed Qualcomm's rights of defence.
2. Second plea in law, alleging that in defending the relevant market and in finding Qualcomm dominant, the Decision commits manifest errors of assessment of fact and law and fails to state adequate reasons.
3. Third plea in law, alleging that the Decision fails to apply the correct legal standard thereby committing manifest errors of law.
4. Fourth plea in law, alleging that the Decision's predation theory is illogical and unsupported by evidence.
5. Fifth plea in law, alleging that in reconstructing alleged 'effectively paid' prices, the Decision commits manifest errors and fails to state adequate reasons.

7. Seventh plea in law, alleging that the Decision manifestly fails to establish an appropriate cost benchmark.
8. Eighth plea in law, alleging that the Decision's price-cost analysis is manifestly incorrect.
9. Ninth plea in law, alleging that in finding that Qualcomm's prices foreclosed Icera and produced consumer harm, the Decision commits manifest errors of law and of appraisal.

11. Eleventh plea in law, alleging that in dismissing the objective justification, the Decision commits a manifest error of appraisal and fails to state adequate reasons.
  12. Twelfth plea in law, alleging that the Decision is not adequately reasoned.
  13. Thirteenth plea in law, alleging that the Decision's findings regarding the duration of the alleged infringement are manifestly incorrect.
  14. Fourteenth plea in law, alleging that the Decision manifestly errs in imposing and calculating the fine.

Action brought on 8 January 2020 — Czech Republic v Commission*(Case T-8/20)

(2020/C 77/77)

Language of the case: CzechPartiesApplicant: Czech Republic (represented by: M. Smolek, J. Pavliš, J. Očková and J. Vlácil, Agents)Defendant: European CommissionForm of order sought

The applicant claims that the Court should:

- annul Commission Implementing Decision (EU) 2019/1835 of 30 October 2019 in so far as it excludes from European Union financing expenditure incurred by the Czech Republic under the European Agricultural Fund for Rural Development (EAFRD) in connection with the M14 measures for the financial years 2017, 2018 and 2019 in the total amount of EUR 35 109,02, and order the European Commission to pay the costs of the proceedings.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on the following plea in law:

- The plea in law is based on the infringement of Article 52(1) of Regulation (EU) No 1306/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 December 2013 on the financing, management and monitoring of the common agricultural policy. The Commission imposed a financial correction on the basis of an alleged infringement of a single provision of EU law, namely Article 25 of Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) No 809/2014 of 17 July 2014 laying down rules for the application of Regulation (EU) No 1306/2013 with regard to the integrated administration and control system, rural development measures and cross compliance ('Regulation No 809/2014'). However, there was no infringement of that provision. The Commission incorrectly submits that the initiation of an on-the-spot check on the first beneficiary constitutes the implicit announcement of subsequent controls and attributes the same consequences to that implicit announcement as if it were an actual announcement of a check within the meaning of Article 25 of Regulation No 809/2014.

Action brought on 14 January 2020 — Buxadé Villalba and Others v Parliament*(Case T-32/20)

(2020/C 77/78)

Language of the case: SpanishPartiesApplicants: Jorge Buxadé Villalba, María Esperanza Araceli Aguilar Pinar and Hermann Tertsch Del Valle-Lersundi (represented by: M. Castro Fuertes, lawyer)Defendant: European Parliament

Form of order sought

The applicants claim that the Court should:

- annul the decision to grant Carles Puigdemont i Casamajó and Antoni Comín i Oliveres the status of Members of the European Parliament;
- order the cessation of any effects of that status and the annulment of any effects already produced;
- order the termination of any contracts for the provision of services concluded by Carles Puigdemont i Casamajó and Antoni Comín i Oliveres with assistants, advisers, trainees or third parties;
- order Carles Puigdemont i Casamajó and Antoni Comín i Oliveres to reimburse all sums, regardless of the reason and the amount, received by them from the European Parliament in their unlawful status as MEPs and the sums paid by the European Parliament to third parties for any contract for the provision of services concluded with assistants, advisers, trainees or third parties;
- in the alternative, declare that the post of MEP is incompatible with that of member of the Legislative Assembly of the Autonomous Community, declare that Carles Puigdemont i Casamajó and Antoni Comín i Oliveres have no right to receive any remuneration from 2 July 2019 until the date on which they took up their posts, and order the reimbursement of that remuneration together with late payment interest, in the event that they have received any amount;
- in the event that the application is successful, order the European Parliament to pay the costs.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicants rely on four pleas in law.

1. First plea, alleging infringement of Articles 8 and 12 of the Act concerning the election of the members of the European Parliament of 20 September 1976, in accordance with Spanish electoral law.
  - In that regard, the applicants submit that, in accordance with that Act, the European electoral procedure is governed, in each Member State, by national provisions and that, consequently, Articles 219 to 224 of the Ley Orgánica del Régimen Electoral General (Organic Law on the General Electoral System) are applicable. Specifically, the latter provision provides that within five days, elected candidates must swear or pledge to abide by the Constitution and that, where that is not done, the seat will be declared vacant. Mr Puigdemont and Mr Comín have not at any point appeared before the Junta Electoral Central (Central Electoral Board) in order to swear or pledge to abide by the Constitution.
2. Second plea, alleging infringement of Article 3(3) of the Rules of Procedure of the European Parliament.
  - In that regard, the applicants submit that the competent Spanish authority has not provided any certificate stating that Mr Puigdemont and Mr Comín have sworn or pledged to abide by the Constitution, which is a condition precedent to their status as elected representatives. Consequently, according to the applicants, the European Parliament's conduct disregards the European Electoral Act, encroaches upon sovereign competences of the Member States and could result in any agreement adopted by the European Parliament in plenary sessions or committees in which Mr Puigdemont and Mr Comín may participate being entirely unlawful and invalid.
3. Third plea, alleging that the judgment of the Court of Justice of the European Union of 19 December 2019 delivered in Case C-502/19, Junqueras Vies, is irrelevant for the purposes of the European Parliament's measure being invalid.
  - It is submitted in that respect that Mr Puigdemont and Mr Comín were never in preventive detention and that they hold immunity only through being declared elected representatives, but they do not hold the full status of MEPs, on the ground that not all of the requirements of the Spanish electoral procedure have been fulfilled.

4. Fourth plea, put forward in the alternative, alleging infringement of Article 7(3) and (4) of the European Electoral Act, in so far as there is a ground for incompatibility provided for under Spanish electoral law (Article 211(2)(d) of the Organic Law on the General Electoral System).

— The applicants claim in that regard that, in accordance with EU law, each Member State may extend the grounds for incompatibility provided for at national level to elections to the European Parliament, that the abovementioned provision of national electoral law provides for the incompatibility of persons who are members of the Legislative Assemblies of the Autonomous Communities, and that Mr Puigdemont and Mr Comín ceased to be members of the Catalan Parliament on 7 January 2020.

Language of the case: German

Parties

Applicant: Datenlotsen Informationssysteme GmbH (Hamburg, Germany) (represented by: T. Lübbig, lawyer)

- order the defendant to pay the costs of the proceedings.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on the following pleas in law.

1. Infringement of Article 107(1) TFEU in applying a test to determine whether the activities of Hochschul-Informationssystem GmbH ('HIS') are economic in nature that is incompatible with the case-law, since the Commission failed to have regard to the content of the 'inseparability' criterion and the autonomous significance of the 'connection' criterion.
2. Infringement of Article 107(1) TFEU in characterising HIS' activities for German public universities as non-economic.
3. Infringement of Article 107(1) TFEU in failing to differentiate between HIS' various fields of activity.
4. Infringement of Article 108(3) TFEU and Article 1(b)(v) of Council Regulation (EU) 2015/1589 <sup>(1)</sup> in classifying the direct funding as 'existing aid' on the basis that a market existed in 1976.

7. Infringement of Article 108(3) TFEU and Article 1(b)(v) of Regulation 2015/1589 in classifying the direct funding as an 'aid scheme', since there was in fact a series of individual aid awards approved annually.
8. Infringement of the right to have one's case heard within a reasonable period of time as part of the right to 'good administration' under Article 41 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union.

Pleas in law and main arguments

In support of the action, the applicant relies on two pleas in law.

1. First plea in law, alleging an infringement of the competition notice by the Examining Board in so far as the eligibility criteria that it laid down unlawfully restrict the scope of that notice. The applicant claims in that regard that, by adopting eligibility criteria which had the effect of excluding the taking into account of experience similar to that of the applicant, experience nevertheless compatible with the requirements of the competition notice, the Examining Board infringed the latter.
2. Second plea in law, alleging manifest errors of assessment vitiating the contested decision and relating to the question whether the applicant's professional experience is related to the responsibilities described in the competition notice.
