Verification of credentials

European Parliament decision on the verification of credentials (2004/2140(REG))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Act of 20 September 1976⁽¹⁾ concerning the election of the members of the European Parliament by direct universal suffrage,
 - having regard to Rules 3, 4 and 9 of and Annex I to its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the official notifications from the competent authorities of the Member States concerning the results of the elections to the European Parliament,
 - having regard to the disputes concerning the validity of the election of certain Members of the European Parliament,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Legal Affairs (A6-0043/2004),
- A. whereas Articles 7(1) and (2) of the Act of 20 September 1976 specify the offices that are incompatible with the office of Member of the European Parliament,
- B. whereas, under Rule 9 of and Annex I to the Rules of Procedure, Members are required to make a detailed declaration of their professional activities and any other remunerated functions or activities,
- C. whereas all of the Member States have notified the European Parliament of the names of the elected candidates, although some have still not forwarded — or have done so belatedly — the lists of any substitutes together with their ranking in accordance with the results of the vote, as is required under Rule 3(2) of the Rules of Procedure,
- D. whereas in some cases Member States provided partial notification of elected candidates and included them only subsequently, with the result that not all Members of the European Parliament were able to take their seats at its constituent sitting,
- E. whereas in some Member States disputes relating to the election of some Members of Parliament are being considered in accordance with national legislation and whereas these procedures could result in the annulment of the election of the Members concerned,
- F. whereas, pursuant to Article 12 of the Act of 20 September 1976, the European Parliament is required to rule on any disputes concerning the validity of the mandate of its Members only where these relate to breaches of the provisions of the abovementioned Act, and not in the case of breaches of the national electoral provisions to which the Act refers,
- G. whereas the amendments made to the Act of 20 September 1976 by Council Decision 2002/772/EC, Euratom of 25 June 2002 and 23 September 2002 have highlighted the inadequacy of the provisions contained in Rules 3 and 4 of the Rules of Procedure, particularly as regards the adoption of measures for the verification of cases of clear incompatibility (in accordance with Article 7 of the Act of 20 September 1976) with effect from the European Parliament's constituent sitting,
1. Declares valid, subject to any decisions by the competent authorities of Member States in which the election results have been disputed, the mandate of the Members of the European Parliament listed in Annex I to this decision whose election has been notified by the competent national authorities and who have made the written declarations required on the basis of Article 7(1) and (2) of the Act of 20 September 1976 and Annex I to the Rules of Procedure;

It-Tlieta, 14 ta' Diċembru 2004

2. Declares the disputes received regarding the validity of the election of certain Members of the European Parliament to be inadmissible and unfounded, for the reasons set out in Annex II in relation to each dispute;
3. Repeats its request to the competent national authorities not only to notify the European Parliament of the names of the elected candidates, but also to forward the names of any substitutes together with their ranking in accordance with the results of the vote;
4. Calls on the competent authorities of the Member States to notify the European Parliament without delay of the names of the elected Members so that all Members of Parliament can take their seats with effect from the constituent sitting;
5. Calls on the competent authorities of the Member States to complete as soon as possible the examination of the disputes submitted to them and inform the European Parliament of the outcome;
6. Instructs its President to refer to the committee responsible the question of the amendment of Rules 3 and 4 of the Rules of Procedure in order for them to be adapted to the Act of 20 September 1976, as amended, and for provisions to be laid down that will enable Parliament to act on any clear cases of incompatibility, so that all Members of Parliament can take their seats with effect from the constituent sitting;
7. Instructs its President to forward this decision to the competent national authorities and the parliaments of the Member States.

ANNEX II

*Summary of disputes referredDisputes referred:

Elias NIKOLOPOULOS, Greek, on behalf of the DI.K.KI Party complains that the party was excluded from the recent elections to the European Parliament in Greece. Specifically, the party's list of candidates was rejected by the First Civil Chamber of the Greek Court of Cassation for failure to meet the requirements of Greek law concerning the legitimisation of persons presenting lists.

As the dispute concerns a breach of national provisions, it should be deemed inadmissible pursuant to Article 12 of the 1976 Act.

Mr Christopher SCIBERRAS, Maltese, who stood as a candidate in the elections, complains of alleged irregularities in the European Parliament elections in Malta. He complains in particular of the difference in the treatment accorded to small and large parties as regards provision of information on amendments to legislation on the ceilings for election expenses for individual candidates and the impossibility of securing access on equal terms to radio and television broadcasting slots. His complaint to the Maltese Electoral Commission regarding this matter has been rejected.

As the dispute concerns matters relating to breaches of national provisions and not of the provisions of the 1976 Act, it should be considered inadmissible pursuant to Article 12 of the 1976 Act.

Mr Juan Pedro PÉREZ BARRERA, Spanish, objects to the election of a Spanish Member of Parliament. The facts of the case in no way concern the provisions of the 1976 Act and the dispute should therefore be deemed inadmissible pursuant to Article 12 thereof.

Mr Stanislav PECKA, Czech, who stood as a candidate in the elections, complains about the deficient law on elections to the European Parliament, other electoral laws and the law on elections to the Czech Senate.

As the dispute concerns matters relating to breaches of national provisions and not of the provisions of the 1976 Act, it should be considered inadmissible pursuant to Article 12 of the 1976 Act.

Mr Friedrich Wilhelm MERCK, German, chairman of the Commission of European Federalists for the European Constitution, is objecting to the election of Members of the European Parliament in the Federal Republic of Germany on the Greens list (Die Grünen). He complains that the Green list has infringed Article 1(3) of the 1976 Act, and in particular the principle of direct universal suffrage. The list provides for alternation between female candidates (in the odd number positions) and male candidates (in the even number positions) thereby giving the former an advantage over the latter. The division of the two sexes into quotas is not based on the principle of equality since, while male candidates could under no circumstances secure an odd number position on the list, female candidates would still be able to secure the even number positions reserved for male candidates.

It should be noted in this respect that the principle of universal suffrage does not appear to be restricted in any way. That principle concerns the right of all Union citizens to vote and stand in elections without discrimination. In the case in point, the rules adopted by a political party or even a free association of citizens to compile a list for elections to the European Parliament involving procedures designed to ensure a fair balance between male and female candidates in no way undermines the universality of the right to vote, since citizens of the Union and the Member State may submit several lists before the poll and subsequently choose one of those submitted, regardless of criteria regarding gender balance or the ranking of male and female candidates.

Furthermore, the measures actually taken to secure a balance between the sexes on the electoral list are fully in line with the principle of equal opportunities widely accepted by the Member States and set forth in Article 23 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. Far from being a merely formal provision, this principle authorises and indeed seeks to promote the adoption of measures to accord specific advantages to the under-represented sex. There is no doubt that, as the European Parliament has repeatedly pointed out, the percentage of female Members of Parliament is still well below half of the total number.

It-Tlieta, 14 ta' Diċembru 2004

Accordingly, the dispute should be considered unfounded pursuant to Article 12 of the 1976 Act.

Mr Tadeus ANDZEJEVSKI, Lithuanian, candidate in the elections, objects to the way in which the European Parliament seats have been allocated in Lithuania. He complains in particular that the list "Together we are strong", representing a coalition of regional parties of the Polish and Russian minorities, was not allocated a single seat, despite exceeding the 5 % threshold for the allocation of seats laid down by Lithuanian electoral law, whereas Lithuania's 13 seats were divided up among six other lists. He maintains that the allocation of seats made by the Central Electoral Commission was in breach of Article 3 of the 1976 Act according to which, "Member States may set a minimum threshold for the allocation of seats. At national level this threshold may not exceed 5 % of votes cast".

In addition to Article 3, it should be pointed out that Article 1(1) of the Act stipulates that the election, using the list system or the single transferable vote, must be based on proportional representation. This is binding as regards the Member States laws, although they may introduce a minimum threshold for the allocation of seats (up to 5 % of the votes cast at national level) in order to avoid fragmentation of the electorate. However, it does not seem possible to interpret Article 3 of the Act as meaning that any list which exceeds the 5 % threshold should be automatically allocated at least one seat, since in the case of Member States with a small number of seats (fewer than 20, as is the case for Lithuania), the mere fact of exceeding the minimum threshold does not imply, for simple arithmetical reasons, the automatic obtaining of a seat.

In the final analysis and in the light of the documentation submitted, the complaint cannot be seen as justified and there are no grounds for not validating the mandate of the Members whose election has been notified by Lithuania.

The dispute should therefore be considered unfounded pursuant to Article 12 of the 1976 Act.

P6_TA(2004)0096Turkey's progress towards accession*European Parliament resolution on the 2004 regular report and the recommendation of the European Commission on Turkey's progress towards accession (COM(2004)0656 — C6-0148/2004 — 2004/2182(INI))The European Parliament,*

- having regard to the 2004 regular report and the recommendation of the European Commission on Turkey's progress towards accession of 6 October 2004 (COM(2004)0656 — C6-0148/2004)⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to its resolution of 1 April 2004 on the 2003 regular report of the Commission on Turkey's progress towards accession⁽²⁾ and its previous resolutions on this subject adopted between 18 June 1987 and 1 April 2004,
 - having regard to the conclusions of the European Council (Copenhagen, 21 and 22 June 1993, Helsinki, 10 and 11 December 1999, Copenhagen, 12 and 13 December 2002, Thessaloniki, 19 and 20 June 2003, and Brussels, 12 and 13 December 2003),
 - having regard to Rule 45 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Foreign Affairs and the opinion of the Committee on Budgets (A6-0063/2004),
- A. whereas the Commission has concluded that Turkey has sufficiently fulfilled the Copenhagen political criteria and has recommended that accession negotiations be opened,
- B. whereas the European Council decided in 2002 that if Turkey fulfilled the Copenhagen political criteria the European Union (EU) would open accession negotiations without delay,
- C. whereas there has been substantial legislative and institutional convergence in Turkey towards European standards, in particular since the 2002 elections,
- D. whereas the Commission has indicated that Turkey's accession would be different from previous enlargements because of the combined impact of Turkey's population, size, geographical location, economic, security and military potential,
- E. whereas a democratic and economically stable Turkey would substantially benefit the whole of Europe,
- F. having regard to the conclusions of the Helsinki and Copenhagen European Councils, which openly recognised Turkey's political desire to join the EU and explicitly accorded it the right to the status of a candidate for full membership,
- G. whereas the Commission proposes a strategy for the accession process consisting of three pillars, respectively on cooperation to reinforce and support the reform process in Turkey, on the specific conditions for the conduct of accession negotiations within the framework of an Intergovernmental Conference requiring decision-making by unanimity (benchmarks for the opening and closure of chapters, the possibility of introducing long transition periods in respect of freedom of movement for workers, agriculture and the implementation of structural policies (the Cohesion Fund), as well as introducing specific arrangements and permanent safeguards) and on a substantially strengthened political and cultural dialogue bringing together the peoples of the EU Member States and of Turkey,

- H. whereas the Commission has not proposed a date for opening accession negotiations and has indicated that the negotiation process is an open-ended process the outcome of which cannot be guaranteed in advance,
- I. whereas the Commission has stated that the irreversibility of the reform process, and in particular its implementation with regard to fundamental freedoms, will need to be confirmed over a longer period of time,
- J. whereas the Commission has stated that, regardless of the outcome of the negotiations or the subsequent ratification process, relations between the EU and Turkey must ensure that Turkey remains fully anchored in European structures,
- K. whereas the Commission will propose revising the Accession Partnership in spring 2005 and will present a yearly general review, starting from the end of 2005, of the way in which the political reforms are consolidated and broadened,
- L. whereas, in line with the Treaty on European Union, in the event of a serious and persistent breach of the principles of liberty, democracy, respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms and the rule of law and of the principles of international law, the Commission will recommend the suspension of negotiations to the Council, which will decide by a qualified majority,
- M. whereas the Commission has indicated that the EU will need to define its financial perspective for the period from 2014 onwards before negotiations can be concluded,
- N. whereas the European Council stated in June 2003 that 'The Union's capacity to absorb new members, while maintaining the momentum of European integration, is also an important consideration in the general interest of both the Union and the candidate countries',
- O. whereas a Commission study on the impact of Turkey's accession has indicated that its accession renders a substantial reform of many EU policies indispensable,
- P. whereas the Government of Turkey, in cooperation with its parliament, has adopted and implemented important constitutional and legislative changes over recent years,
- Q. whereas the opening of the accession negotiations should imply that the political criteria are fulfilled and the EU will have the capacity to absorb Turkey while maintaining the momentum of European integration, and whereas compliance with "all" the Copenhagen criteria has been the basis for accession to the Union,
- R. whereas the new Penal Code and the Law on Intermediate Courts of Appeal were adopted on 26 September 2004 and the Law on Associations on 4 November 2004, while the decision on the Code of Criminal Procedure, the legislation establishing the judicial police and the law on execution of punishments and measures are still to be adopted,
- S. whereas in spite of the important changes introduced in two major packages of constitutional reforms in 2001 and 2004, Turkey has retained a Constitution adopted in 1982,
- T. whereas full parliamentary control over military expenditures and auditing will need to be ensured in practice on the basis of the adopted reforms,
- U. whereas hundreds of cases of torture have been reported to Turkish governmental bodies and human rights organisations in both 2003 and 2004 and more than 2 000 applications for asylum by Turkish citizens were accepted by EU Member States in 2003,
- V. whereas the Commission underlines that legislation and implementation measures need to be further consolidated and broadened, specifically in terms of the zero tolerance policy in the fight against torture and ill-treatment and the implementation of provisions relating to freedom of expression, press freedom, freedom of religion, women's rights, children's rights including the prohibition of child labour and International Labour Organisation (ILO) standards,

- W. whereas, despite the adoption of a major programme of reform, the education and training systems continue to display certain shortcomings, and whereas it is therefore desirable to improve the education on offer in the most disadvantaged regions and to improve school attendance, particularly by girls,
- X. whereas on the reinforcement of religious liberty Turkey should pursue its reform in order to rapidly guarantee equal treatment for all religious communities and minorities, including in the areas of property rights, legal status, schools and internal management, environmental planning rules and the training of clergy,
- Y. whereas the Kurdish people represent an important component of Turkish society and therefore their rights must be fully recognised,
- Z. whereas the Greek Orthodox Halki seminary has not been re-opened despite previous appeals to the Turkish authorities by the European Parliament,
- AA. whereas an integrated strategy to develop the economic, social and cultural needs of the local population in the south-east has yet to be adopted and the return of internally displaced persons in the south-east has been limited and hampered by the village guard system and by a lack of material support,
- BB. whereas Turkey has yet to implement outstanding decisions of the European Court of Human Rights, including the restoration of the right to property in the Loizidou case and the Court's judgment in the case of Cyprus v. Turkey,
- CC. whereas Leyla Zana and her colleagues have at last been released from unjust imprisonment and are now working for the better integration of the Kurds into mainstream political life in Turkey,
- DD. whereas Turkish and Kurdish political forces, civil society organisations, religious organisations and prominent personalities in Turkey warmly support the opening of EU accession negotiations, hoping that the start of these negotiations will deepen and speed up the reform process in Turkey,
- EE. whereas the border between Turkey and Armenia has still not been re-opened by the Turkish authorities, who have thereby missed an opportunity to promote good neighbourly relations with Armenia,
- FF. whereas the Turkish authorities have likewise still not complied with the calls concerning the other Armenian issues made by Parliament in its resolution of 18 June 1987,
- GG. whereas the re-opening to pilgrims of the ruined Armenian churches of Ani, near Kars in Eastern Anatolia, and the remarkable work carried out by the Turkish historian Halil Berktaş on the genocide and the re-establishment of state relations with the Republic of Armenia represent vital steps forward, but whereas this process must be taken to its logical conclusion by re-opening the border between Turkey and Armenia,
- HH. whereas in the context of the broader Cyprus issue, the international community remains concerned about the non-recognition by Turkey of the Republic of Cyprus and the fact that more than 30 000 Turkish troops are stationed in Northern Cyprus,
- II. whereas a continuation of the process of democratisation and the programme of socio-economic modernisation could lead Turkey to:
- play an important role in connection with a number of transnational issues (energy, water resources, transport, border management, the fight against terrorism);
 - have a positive influence on the development of secular democratic states in the Islamic world as a counterweight to religious fundamentalism;
 - have a positive impact on the EU's external policy achievements in a number of potentially unstable neighbouring regions, such as the Mediterranean, the Middle East, the Caucasus and Central Asia,

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

1. Welcomes the political reform process in Turkey and the adopted constitutional and legislative changes that have entered into force, as well as the progress made in implementing those reforms since the European Parliament adopted its resolution of 5 June 2003 on Turkey's application for membership of the European Union⁽¹⁾; none the less, is of the opinion that the Turkish authorities still have to adopt and implement further reforms and put current reforms into practice in order to fully meet the political criteria;
2. Welcomes the impressive efforts of the Turkish authorities to achieve substantial legislative and institutional convergence in Turkey towards European standards;
3. Welcomes the positive developments in the Turkish economy reflected in particular by the reduction of macro-economic imbalances and higher growth rates;
4. Welcomes the continuing strong motivation and the political will demonstrated by the Turkish Government and by the great majority of the representatives elected by the Turkish people to grow closer to the EU; welcomes the significant popular support reflected in poll results;
5. Notes with satisfaction that over the last few years Turkey has fulfilled a number of recommendations and requirements included in Parliament's resolutions regarding in particular, amongst others: the complete abolition of the death penalty, the extension of important fundamental rights and freedoms, reduction of the role of the National Security Council and the lifting of the state of emergency in the south-east; thereby complying with a number of the recommendations set out in Parliament's resolutions; regrets however the reservations expressed on the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights as well as the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights;
6. Expresses its unconditional support for the civil society organisations and actors operating in Turkey in defence and promotion of fundamental rights and freedoms; calls on the Council and the Commission to strengthen cooperation with such organisations in the process of monitoring Turkey's compliance with the political criteria of Copenhagen;
7. Acknowledges that the reforms implemented by the Turkish authorities have given non-governmental organisations greater scope to take action, in particular as regards the promotion of human rights, and calls on the Turkish Government to step up its efforts to eradicate all forms of intimidation and harassment of human rights activists and organisations;
8. Welcomes in particular the reform of criminal procedure, strengthening the rights of the defence; considers however that Article 305 of the new Turkish Penal Code, which sanctions alleged "threats to fundamental national interests", and the explanatory statement of which targets freedom of expression, in particular related to the Cyprus and Armenia issues, is incompatible with the 1950 European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms; calls therefore for its repeal;
9. Welcomes the release of Leyla Zana and her colleagues from the former Democracy Party (DEP), and calls for a fair and equitable retrial and for the immediate release of all imprisoned persons sentenced for the non-violent expression of opinions in Turkey;
10. Welcomes the fact that the Turkish Government has introduced legal changes which enable private language centres to offer courses in mother tongues other than Turkish (Kurdish, Circassian, Armenian et al.), to broadcast media programs and to open and operate stations which broadcast in other languages; calls on the Turkish Government to lift all remaining restrictions in the area of broadcasting and education in minority languages;
11. Strongly urges Turkey to actually extend these legal changes and the implementation thereof to education and broadcasting for non-Muslim minorities (Greeks, Armenians, Jews, Assyrians);
12. Invites Turkey to drastically improve its perception of ethnic and religious minorities, for instance by highlighting their contributions to the cultural heritage of the country; in particular, requests the Turkish authorities to consider some of these specific contributions such as Hasankeyf, Ani, Zeugma or Aghtamar as suitable for registration in the World Heritage List of Unesco;

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

13. Urges, in this respect, the Turkish government to apply EU environmental and human rights standards to large-impact projects like the construction of dams in the Munzur Valley and Ilisu, and gold-mining in Bergama, where historical heritage and unique valuable landscapes are at risk;
14. Urges the Turkish authorities to fully implement a "zero-tolerance" approach at all levels and in all aspects to the complete eradication of torture, as cases are still reported to Turkish governmental bodies and human rights organisations, and as the zero-tolerance approach is put insufficiently into practice;
15. Suggests to the Turkish Government that, when reforming the criminal procedural law, it should abrogate the statute of limitations for all criminal cases when proceedings are opened; calls on the Turkish judicial system, and in particular the prosecutors, to concentrate on cases of alleged torture, given that currently only few judicial investigations and cases against suspected perpetrators are opened; calls on Turkey to increase staffing levels in the public prosecution service in order to achieve results;
16. Calls on the Turkish authorities, in that connection, to redouble their efforts to implement that approach more effectively and, in particular, to take a more resolute approach to the issue of immunity from prosecution, and emphasises the need to step up educational programmes designed to change the attitudes of members of the police and armed forces with a view to ensuring strict compliance with the law;
17. Calls on the Turkish interior ministry to adopt and apply the policy of opening immediately, and as a matter of principle, administrative and disciplinary investigations against any police officer accused of torture or mistreatment;
18. Calls on the Turkish authorities to bring the Law on Associations, the new Penal Code and the Law on Intermediate Courts of Appeal into force and to adopt the decision on the Code of Criminal Procedure, the legislation establishing the judicial police and the law on execution of punishments and measures;
19. Calls on the Turkish authorities to significantly reform the Law on Foundations after consulting — as should be done in the case of all these Laws — those entities affected by this Law such as relevant NGOs and the broad spectrum of religious communities;
20. Calls on the Foreign Affairs Committee and its Subcommittee for Human Rights to follow closely the human rights situation in Turkey and in particular the implementation on the ground, especially regarding implementation of the principle of zero tolerance with respect to torture, the return process of displaced people in coordination with international agencies, the implementation of the campaign and the law to eradicate violence against women and the issue of protection and promotion of minority rights, freedom of religion, freedom of expression, press freedom and freedom for trade unions;
21. Reiterates its call for the electoral system to be reformed by reducing the threshold of 10 %, thereby ensuring a wider representation of political forces in the Grand National Assembly, including predominantly Kurdish parties;
22. Expresses its concern about the DEHAP trial and the danger of dissolution of the party; calls on the Turkish authorities to respect the right of freedom of expression as well as the right of organisation of democratic political parties such as DEHAP;
23. Regards the drafting of a new Constitution as a further and probably necessary reflection of the very fundamental nature of the changes required for EU membership and notes that a modern Constitution may form the basis for the modernisation of the Turkish State;
24. Reiterates the need for continuing efforts to ensure a competent and independent judiciary and calls on the Turkish authorities to ensure that all legislative changes are rapidly implemented, especially with respect to the protection of human rights, and translated into a change of conduct at all levels of the judiciary;
25. Calls on the Turkish Government to reform current inspection services by allocating the tasks involved to independent inspection services which should be given sufficient resources to operate effectively in all regions of Turkey and empowered to investigate any police detention facility at any time while closely co-operating with independent Turkish human rights NGOs;

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

26. Expresses its unconditional support for the civil society organisations and actors operating in Turkey in defence and promotion of fundamental freedoms;
27. Calls on the Turkish authorities to energetically pursue their fight against corruption, which still seriously affects economic, political and social life; welcomes the Turkish authorities' efforts against corruption, including the ratification of the OECD's Anti-Bribery Convention and the UN Convention against Corruption, and membership of the Council of Europe's Group of States against corruption (GRECO);
28. Welcomes the reforms which have strengthened the principle of gender equality and draws attention to the progress on women's rights embodied in the new Penal Code, but reiterates its concern that domestic violence and other forms of violence against women are still widespread, especially in underdeveloped and rural parts of the country, and urges the Turkish authorities to provide full legal protection and judicial and economic aid to victims, as well as shelters and similar facilities, and to support NGOs providing these shelters and similar facilities; calls on the Commission to support such efforts within the EU assistance programmes; calls on the Turkish authorities to introduce programmes to eradicate female illiteracy;
29. Calls on the Turkish authorities to engage in a constant dialogue with the European Parliament on women's rights in Turkey and to take note in this regard of the resolution on the role of women in Turkey in social, economic and political life, due to be discussed in 2005 in the European Parliament;
30. Welcomes the fact that the Turkish authorities have made changes to the Penal Code with a view to repealing all legal provisions which reflect a lenient approach to crimes motivated by honour; nevertheless, emphasises the need to create conditions under which individuals can report such practices to the authorities in complete safety and confidentiality and to ensure that crimes of honour are properly investigated and prosecuted;
31. Urges all parties involved to put an immediate end to the hostilities in the south-east of the country; invites the Turkish Government to take more active steps to bring about reconciliation with those Kurdish forces who have chosen to abandon the use of arms;
32. Calls on the Turkish authorities to step up their efforts to ensure that women whose free access to primary or secondary education is hindered by difficulties stemming from their family or cultural environment are able to assert to the full their right to an education;
33. Stresses that the overall situation in the south-east has improved since 1999, in terms of both security and respect for fundamental rights; calls on the Turkish Government to develop plans to enable people who wish to do so to return to their villages and towns in the south-east and to properly address the problems currently caused by the village guard system; urges Turkey to disarm the village guards and disband the village guard system; calls on Turkey to collaborate closely with international bodies, such as the United Nations, the EU and the Council of Europe, to support and speed up the return of internally displaced persons, in conformity with the UN Guiding Principles on Internal Displacement, and urges the authorities to develop an integrated regional development concept to economically develop the south-east as a region and foster the overall modernisation of society;
34. Calls on Turkey to lift the geographical reservation to the 1951 Geneva Convention relating to the Status of Refugees;
35. Calls on the Turkish authorities to apply the ILO standards for trade union rights and to introduce further legislation prohibiting the employment of children;
36. Calls on the Turkish Government to remove all barriers for trade unions to organise themselves and to promote freedom of association by repealing the clause requiring preliminary authorisation from the Government for the creation of new organisations and to smooth the path towards the development of a real social dialogue dimension as one of the pillars of the economic and social model;
37. Calls on the Turkish Government to limit the political role of the army further through ongoing reforms;

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

38. Welcomes the fact that the principle of the primacy of international law over national law has been enshrined in the Turkish Constitution as far as the European Convention on Human Rights is concerned and calls on the Turkish authorities to respect all its provisions and to implement without delay the still outstanding decisions of the European Court of Human Rights;

39. Calls on Turkey to promote the process of reconciliation with the Armenian people by acknowledging the genocide perpetrated against the Armenians as expressed in the European Parliament's earlier resolutions with regard to Turkey's candidate status (from 18 June 1987 to 1 April 2004);

40. Believes that the Governments of Turkey and Armenia have to continue their process of reconciliation, possibly with the assistance of a bilateral committee of independent experts, in order to overcome explicitly the tragic experience of the past, and requests the Turkish Government to re-open the borders with Armenia as soon as possible;

41. Calls on the Commission and the Council to demand that the Turkish authorities formally acknowledge the historic reality of the genocide perpetrated against the Armenians in 1915 and open the border between Turkey and Armenia at an early date, in accordance with the resolutions adopted by the European Parliament between 1987 and 2004;

42. In the context of continuing to improve regional stability and fostering better relations with her neighbours, asks Turkey to be sensitive to the water requirements of these countries, with particular reference to the lower Mesopotamian Marshes in Iraq and Iran, where water flows have been significantly reduced by the construction of the Ataturk Dam; requests that Turkey set up working groups with her neighbours, including Syria, to ensure the fair and equitable distribution of water from rivers with their headwaters rising in Turkey;

43. Reiterates its call to the Turkish authorities to put an immediate end to all activities discriminating against and creating difficulties for religious minorities and communities, including in the areas of property rights, legal status, schools and internal management, environmental planning rules and the training of clergy, and requests as a first clear sign of implementation the immediate re-opening of the Greek Orthodox Halki seminary and the public use of the ecclesiastical title of the Ecumenical Patriarchate; calls on Turkey, bearing in mind the current difficulties, to act in accordance with the relevant case-law of the European Court of Human Rights; calls for the recognition and protection of the Alevites, including the recognition of Cem houses as religious centres, and for all religious education to be voluntary and to cover not only Sunni religion; calls for the protection of the fundamental rights of all Christian minorities and communities in Turkey (e.g. Greeks of Istanbul, Imvros and Tenedos);

44. Whilst respecting the democratic will of the Greek Cypriot community, regrets that it has not been able to reach a solution, and calls on the Turkish authorities to maintain their constructive attitude in finding a settlement of the Cyprus question leading to an equitable solution, to be negotiated on the basis of the Annan plan and the principles upon which the EU is founded, and to effect an early withdrawal, pursuant to the relevant UN resolutions, of its forces in accordance with a specific timetable; believes that such a withdrawal of Turkish forces is a necessary step forward on the way to further easing tension, resuming dialogue between the parties and preparing for a lasting solution; calls on the Turkish authorities to recognise the Republic of Cyprus; calls the attention of the Turkish authorities to the fact that the negotiations concerned are intergovernmental negotiations between Turkey on the one hand and the 25 members of the EU on the other; the Republic of Cyprus is one of those Member States; the opening of negotiations obviously implies the recognition of Cyprus by Turkey;

45. Calls on the Council to deliver on promises and to put an end to the isolation of the Turkish Cypriot community; expects the rapid adoption of the two regulations on economic aid and trade with the northern part of the island;

46. Reminds the Turkish authorities of the need to resolve any outstanding disputes with neighbouring states in accordance with the UN Charter and relevant Treaties; further reminds the Turkish authorities of the impact on the accession process of good neighbourly relations and abstention from threats and tension-prone military activities; as stated in the Helsinki European Council Conclusions, failing a settlement, outstanding delimitation issues should be brought before the International Court of Justice with a view to a final determination; also invites the Turkish authorities to abolish all existing restrictions applying to ships flying the Cypriot flag and involved in trade concerning a Member State of the EU;

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

47. Calls on the Commission to include all the necessary political reforms in the revised Accession Partnership and stresses the need for continued and effective Community assistance based on a revised Accession Partnership and adapted, as far as possible, to Turkey's needs in terms of compliance with the Copenhagen criteria;

48. Requests the Commission, the Council and the Member States to take all necessary steps in order for the European Constitution to enter into force so that the EU can fulfil the preconditions for its smooth functioning and boost its capacity to absorb new Member States;

49. Welcomes the Commission's recommendation to monitor the implementation of the legal reforms, respect for the principles of liberty, democracy, respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms and the rule of law, and its commitment to recommend, in line with the Treaty on European Union and the Constitution for Europe, the suspension of the negotiations in the event of a serious and persistent breach of these principles; urges the Commission and the Council to consult the Parliament hereon;

50. Recalls the conclusions of the European Council of 21 and 22 June 1993 setting out the Copenhagen criteria for EU membership and calls on the European Council, in its decision on starting negotiations with Turkey, to state that the Union's capacity to absorb Turkey as a member, while maintaining the momentum of European integration, constitutes an important criterion for accession, from the point of view both of the Union and of candidates for accession;

51. Encourages the Turkish authorities to continue with the reforms designed to strengthen mechanisms to safeguard human rights, such as the possibility offered to members of the public to submit a complaint to an independent body; in that connection, therefore, regards as important the establishment in the near future of the office of Ombudsman;

52. Emphasises, in that connection, the importance of exchange and training programmes for judicial officers and judges and of attendance at the symposiums on Community law which Turkey has started to organise in cooperation with both the EU and some of its Member States and with the Council of Europe;

53. Notes with interest the progress made in the context of the economic criteria, and in particular the compliance of Turkey with the acquis communautaire in the fields of energy, industrial policy, research and telecommunications; considers, however, that this has been uneven across the various areas, which makes at least four reforms necessary: an enhanced administrative capacity required to implement and enforce the acquis, an operationally independent authority to monitor State aid, increased funds for science and research because Turkey's capacity remains limited owing to the low level of expenditure as a percentage of GDP and a revised legal framework for the telecommunications sector, with the aim of changing the market structure which is dominated by large, powerful companies;

54. Calls on the Commission and the Council to conduct an annual follow-up of the impact study, to carry out other relevant studies related to the possible accession of Turkey, including the necessary reforms of EU policies, and to present their conclusions to the European Parliament and the national Parliaments of the EU Member States;

55. Highlights that only by demonstrating readiness to embrace EU values through determined implementation and continued reform will Turkey be able to ensure the irreversibility of the process of reform and to gather the necessary support amongst the body of EU public opinion; expects the Commission and the Council to demonstrate on the basis of facts that this has been achieved;

56. Calls in this context on the Commission and the Council to report annually to the European Parliament and the national Parliaments of the EU Member States on the progress made by Turkey in fulfilling the political criteria, and to include in this report all verified cases of torture reported in that year and the number of Turkish asylum seekers accepted by the EU Member States during that year;

57. Urges the Commission, once the negotiations on the various chapters have started, to recommend, in the event of a serious and persistent breach of the principles of liberty, democracy, respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms and the rule of law, and after consultation of the European Parliament, the suspension of negotiations, in line with the Treaty on European Union;

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

58. Notes that the negotiations with Turkey can only be concluded following the definition of the EU's financial perspective for the period from 2014 onwards;

59. Notes that the budgetary impact of Turkey's accession to the EU can only be fully assessed once the parameters for the financial negotiations with Turkey have been defined in the context of the financial perspectives from 2014 onwards;

60. Stresses that the Commission's recommendation to negotiate long transition periods, specific arrangements in areas such as structural policies and agriculture and permanent safeguards for the free movement of workers in the accession agreement should not have a negative impact on Turkey's efforts to align with the acquis;

61. Regards the European Union's capacity to cope with enlargement as a prerequisite, as part of the Copenhagen criteria, and therefore considers that the European Union, for its part, must be capable of political and institutional reform;

62. Underlines the importance of the opinion of the EU citizens about a possible accession agreement; therefore urges the Turkish Government and the Commission, in the light of the third pillar, to initiate campaigns to inform citizens of both the EU and Turkey through exchange programmes and public events that will increase awareness of the integration process and foster mutual understanding; expects from the Commission concrete proposals for action to give effective support to this process and to promote deeper political and cultural dialogue between the EU and Turkish society; stresses that the process of the convergence of Turkey to the EU criteria must be conducted in a fair and transparent way;

63. Stresses that the opening of negotiations will be the starting point for a long-lasting process that by its very nature is an open-ended process and does not lead "a priori" and automatically to accession; emphasises, however, that the objective of the negotiations is Turkish EU membership but that the realisation of this ambition will depend on the efforts of both sides; accession is thus not the automatic consequence of the start of the negotiations;

64. Is of the opinion that in the context of a possible accession it is now up to the Turkish authorities to prove that they can truly fulfil the Copenhagen political criteria and to confirm over a longer period of time that the reform process, which will have to be continued and implemented, is fundamental and irreversible;

65. Calls on the Turkish authorities to encourage frequent visits from and dialogue with the European Parliament, without restrictions;

66. Considers that, regardless of whether or not negotiations are successfully concluded, relations between the EU and Turkey must ensure that Turkey remains fully anchored in European structures;

67. Considers that the opening of accession negotiations is to be recommended so long as it is agreed that:

- in the first phase of the negotiations priority is given to the full implementation of the political criteria; that therefore the agenda of negotiations at ministerial level will start with the assessment of the fulfilment of the political criteria, especially in the area of human rights and full fundamental freedoms in both theory and practice, in the meantime opening up the opportunity to put other chapters on the agenda of the negotiations;
- in accordance with the Commission's requirements, six important remaining pieces of legislation are to be adopted and enforced prior to the beginning of negotiations;
- all mechanisms envisaged by the Commission to ensure close monitoring, intensive political dialogue and a possible suspension of negotiations, if necessary, are fully effective;

68. Considering the overall progress outlined in the report of the Commission and taking into account the above provisions of this resolution, calls upon the European Council to open the negotiations with Turkey without undue delay;

69. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission, the Secretary-General of the Council of Europe, the President of the European Court of Human Rights and the Government and Parliament of Turkey.

Residue levels of pesticides in or on food and feed of plant and animal origin *II

European Parliament legislative resolution on the Council common position for adopting a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on maximum residue levels of pesticides in or on food and feed of plant and animal origin and amending Council Directive 91/414/EEC (9262/1/2004 — C6-0110/2004 — 2003/0052(COD))

(Codecision procedure: second reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Council common position (9262/1/2004 — C6-0110/2004),
- having regard to its position at first reading⁽¹⁾ on the Commission proposal to Parliament and the Council (COM(2003)0117)⁽²⁾,
- having regard to Article 251(2) of the EC Treaty,
- having regard to Rule 62 of its Rules of Procedure,
- having regard to the recommendation for second reading of the Committee on the Environment, Public Health and Food Safety (A6-0049/2004),

1. Approves the common position as amended;
2. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council and Commission.

P6_TC2-COD(2003)0052

Position of the European Parliament adopted at second reading on 15 December 2004 with a view to the adoption of Regulation (EC) No .../2005 of the European Parliament and of the Council on maximum residue levels of pesticides in or on food and feed of plant and animal origin and amending Council Directive 91/414/EEC

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 37 and Article 152(4)(b) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission,

Having regard to the Opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee⁽¹⁾,

Having consulted the Committee of the Regions,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty⁽²⁾,

Whereas:

- (1) Council Directive 76/895/EEC of 23 November 1976 relating to the fixing of maximum levels for pesticide residues in and on fruit and vegetables⁽³⁾, Council Directive 86/362/EEC of 24 July 1986 on the fixing of maximum levels for pesticide residues in and on cereals⁽⁴⁾, Council Directive 86/363/EEC of 24 July 1986 on the fixing of maximum levels for pesticide residues in and on foodstuffs of animal origin⁽⁵⁾, and Council Directive 90/642/EEC of 27 November 1990 on the fixing of maximum levels for pesticide residues in and on products of plant origin, including fruit and vegetables⁽⁶⁾, have been substantially amended several times. In the interests of clarity and simplicity, those Directives should be repealed and replaced by a single act.
- (2) This Regulation directly concerns public health and is relevant to the functioning of the internal market. Differences in national maximum residue levels for pesticides can pose barriers to trade in products included in Annex I to the Treaty and products derived therefrom between Member States and trade between third countries and the Community. Accordingly, in the interest of free movement of goods, equal competition conditions among the Member States, as well as a high level of consumer protection, it is appropriate that maximum residue levels (MRLs) for products of plant and animal origin be set at Community level, taking into account good agricultural practice.
- (3) A Regulation establishing MRLs does not require transposition into national law in the Member States. It is therefore the most appropriate legal instrument with which to set MRLs for pesticides in products of plant and animal origin, as its precise requirements are to be applied at the same time and in the same manner throughout the Community and accordingly permit a more efficient use of national resources.

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

- (4) The production and consumption of plant and animal products play a very important role in the Community. The yield from plant production is continually being affected by harmful organisms. It is essential to protect plants and plant products against such organisms, to prevent a reduction in yield or damage to them and also in order to ensure the quality of the products harvested and to ensure high agricultural productivity. To this end, different methods are available, including non-chemical methods, practices such as using resistant varieties, crop rotation, mechanical weeding, biological control and chemical methods such as the use of plant protection products.
- (5) One of the most common methods of protecting plants and plant products from the effects of harmful organisms is the use of active substances in plant protection products. However, a possible consequence of their use may be the presence of residues in the treated products, in animals feeding on those products and in honey produced by bees exposed to those substances. According to Council Directive 91/414/EEC of 15 July 1991 concerning the placing of plant protection products on the market⁽¹⁾, public health should be given priority over the interests of crop protection, thus it is necessary to ensure that such residues should not be present at levels presenting an unacceptable risk to humans and, where relevant, to animals. MRLs should be set at the lowest achievable level consistent with good agricultural practice for each pesticide with a view to protecting vulnerable groups such as children and the unborn.
- (6) It is also important to carry out further work to develop a methodology to take into account cumulative and synergistic effects. In view of human exposure to combinations of active substances and their cumulative and possible aggregate and synergistic affects on human health, MRLs should be set after consultation of the European Food Safety Authority ("the Authority") established by Regulation (EC) No 178/2002 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 28 January 2002 laying down the general principles and requirements of food law, establishing the European Food Safety Authority, and laying down procedures in matters of food safety⁽²⁾.
- (7) Directive 91/414/EEC provides that Member States, when issuing authorisations, are to prescribe that plant protection products be used properly. Proper use includes the application of the principles of good agricultural practice as well as the principles of integrated control. Where the MRLs arising from an authorised use of a pesticide under Directive 91/414/EEC present a risk to the consumer such use should be revised to decrease the levels of pesticide residues. The Community should encourage the use of methods or products favouring a reduction in risk, and the use of amounts of pesticides at levels consistent with efficient pest control.
- (8) A number of active substances are banned under Council Directive 79/117/EEC of 21 December 1978 prohibiting the placing on the market and use of plant protection products containing certain active substances⁽³⁾. At the same time, many other active substances are not currently authorised under Directive 91/414/EEC. The residues of active substances in products of plant and animal origin arising from unauthorised use or from environmental contamination or from use in third countries should be carefully controlled and monitored.
- (9) The basic rules with regard to food and feed law are laid down in Regulation (EC) No 178/2002.
- (10) In addition to those basic rules, more specific rules are needed to ensure the effective functioning of the internal market and trade with third countries in relation to fresh, processed and/or composite plant and animal products intended for human consumption or animal feed in which pesticide residues may be present, whilst providing the basis for securing a high level of protection for human and animal health and the interests of consumers. Such rules should include the establishment of specific MRLs for each pesticide in food and feed products and the quality of the data underlying these MRLs.

⁽²⁾ OJ L 31, 1.2.2002, p. 1. Regulation as amended by Regulation (EC) No 1642/2003 (OJ L 245, 29.9.2003, p. 4).

⁽³⁾ OJ L 33, 8.2.1979, p. 36. Directive as last amended by Regulation (EC) No 850/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council (OJ L 158, 30.4.2004, p. 7).

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

- (11) Notwithstanding the fact that the principles of the general food law laid down in Regulation (EC) No 178/2002 apply only to feed for food-producing animals, in view of the difficulty of segregating products to be used as feed intended for animals which are not destined for food production and in order to facilitate the control and the enforcement of the provisions of this Regulation, it is appropriate to apply them also to feed which is not intended for food-producing animals. However, this Regulation should not be an obstacle to the tests which are necessary in order to assess pesticides.
- (12) Directive 91/414/EEC lays down basic rules with respect to the use and placing on the market of plant protection products. In particular the use of those products should have no harmful effects on humans or on animals. Pesticide residues resulting from uses of plant protection products may have harmful effects on the health of consumers. It is therefore appropriate that rules for MRLs for products intended for human consumption be defined that are linked to the authorisation for use of plant protection products as defined under Directive 91/414/EEC. Similarly that Directive needs to be adapted in order to take into account the Community procedure for the establishment of MRLs under this Regulation. Pursuant to that Directive, a Member State may be designated as rapporteur for the evaluation of an active substance. It is appropriate to use the expertise in that Member State for the purposes of this Regulation.
- (13) It is appropriate that specific rules concerning the control of pesticide residues be introduced to complement the general Community provisions on the control of food and feed.
- (14) Whilst considering MRLs of pesticides, it should also be recognised that few consumers are aware of the risks arising from pesticides. It would be valuable to fully explain such risks to the public.
- (15) Member States should look into the possibility of publishing the names of companies whose products contain higher pesticide residues than the maximum permitted levels.
- (16) Specific rules for animal feed including marketing, storage of feed and feeding of animals are provided for in Directive 2002/32/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 7 May 2002 on undesirable substances in animal feed⁽¹⁾. For certain products it is not possible to determine whether they will be transformed into food or animal feed. Therefore the pesticide residues in such products should be safe both for human and, where relevant, for animal consumption. Accordingly it is appropriate that the rules set out in this Regulation also apply to those products in addition to the specific rules for animal nutrition.
- (17) It is necessary to define at Community level certain terms used for the setting, control, and reporting on controls of MRLs for products of plant and animal origin. It is important that Member States apply proper sanctions in accordance with Regulation (EC) No 882/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 April 2004 on official controls performed to ensure the verification of compliance with feed and food law, animal health and animal welfare rules⁽²⁾.
- (18) Directive 76/895/EEC provides that Member States may authorise higher levels of MRLs than are currently authorised at Community level. That possibility should cease to exist as, in view of the internal market, it could create obstacles to intra-Community trade.
- (19) The determination of MRLs for pesticides requires lengthy technical consideration and includes an assessment of potential risks to consumers. Therefore, MRLs cannot be set immediately for the residues of pesticides currently regulated by Directive 76/895/EEC or for pesticides for which Community MRLs have not yet been set.

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

- (20) It is appropriate that the minimum data requirements to be used when considering the setting of MRLs for pesticides be laid down at Community level.
- (21) In exceptional circumstances and in particular for unauthorised pesticides that may be present in the environment, it is appropriate to permit the use of monitoring data in setting MRLs.
- (22) MRLs for pesticides should be continually monitored and should be changed to take account of new information and data. MRLs should be set at the lower level of analytical determination where authorised uses of plant protection products do not result in detectable levels of pesticide residues. Where uses of pesticides are not authorised at Community level, MRLs should be set at an appropriately low level to protect the consumer from the intake of unauthorised or excessive levels of pesticides residues. In order to facilitate control of residues of pesticides, a default value is to be set for pesticide residues present in products or groups of products covered by Annex I for which no MRLs have been established in Annexes II or III, unless the active substance in question is listed in Annex IV. It is appropriate to set the default value at 0,01 mg/kg and to provide for the possibility of setting it at a different level for active substances covered by Annex V, taking into account the routine analytical methods available and/or consumer protection.
- (23) Regulation (EC) No 178/2002 establishes procedures for taking emergency measures in relation to food and feed of Community origin or imported from a third country. Those procedures allow the Commission to adopt such measures in situations where food is likely to constitute a serious risk to human health, animal health or the environment and where such risk cannot be contained satisfactorily by measures taken by the Member State(s) concerned. It is appropriate that these measures and their effect on humans and, where relevant, animals be assessed by the Authority.
- (24) The lifetime exposure, and where appropriate the acute exposure of consumers to pesticide residues via food products should be evaluated in accordance with Community procedures and practices, taking account of guidelines published by the World Health Organization.
- (25) Through the World Trade Organisation, the Community's trading partners should be consulted about the MRLs proposed, and their observations should be taken into account before the MRLs are adopted. MRLs set at the international level by the Codex Alimentarius Commission should also be considered when Community MRLs are being set, taking into account the corresponding good agricultural practices.
- (26) For food and feed produced outside the Community, different agricultural practices as regards the use of plant protection products may be legally applied, sometimes resulting in pesticide residues differing from those resulting from uses legally applied in the Community. It is therefore appropriate that MRLs are set for imported products that take these uses and the resulting residues into account provided that the safety of the products can be demonstrated using the same criteria as for domestic produce.
- (27) It is necessary that the Authority assess MRL applications and the evaluation reports prepared by the Member States, taking into account the full range of toxicological effects such as immunotoxicity, endocrine disruption and developmental toxicity, with a view to determining the associated risks to the consumers and, where relevant, to animals.
- (28) Member States should lay down rules on sanctions applicable to infringements of this Regulation and ensure that they are implemented. Those sanctions are to be effective, proportionate and dissuasive.
- (29) The development of a Community-harmonised system for MRLs entails the development of guidelines, databases and other activities with associated costs. It is appropriate for the Community in certain cases to make a contribution to those costs.

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

- (30) It is good administrative practice and technically desirable to coordinate the timing of decisions on MRLs for active substances with decisions taken for those substances under Directive 91/414/EEC. For many substances for which Community MRLs have not yet been set, decisions are not due to be taken under that Directive before the date of entry into force of this Regulation.
- (31) It is therefore necessary to adopt separate rules providing for temporary but mandatory harmonised MRLs, with a view to setting MRLs progressively as decisions are taken on individual active substances as part of the evaluations under Directive 91/414/EEC. Such temporary harmonised MRLs should be based, in particular, on existing national MRLs established by the Member States and should respect the national arrangements by which they were established, provided that the MRLs do not present an unacceptable risk to consumers.
- (32) Following the inclusion of existing active substances in Annex I to Directive 91/414/EEC, Member States are to re-evaluate each plant protection product containing those active substances within four years of the date of inclusion. The MRLs concerned should be retained for a period of up to four years to provide for continuity of authorisations and, on completion of re-evaluation, should be made definitive if they are supported by dossiers which satisfy Annex III to Directive 91/414/EEC, or be set to a default level if they are not so supported.
- (33) This Regulation establishes MRLs for the control of pesticide residues in food and feed. It is therefore appropriate that Member States establish national programmes to control these residues. The results of the national control programmes are to be submitted to the Commission, the Authority and the other Member States and included in the Community annual report.
- (34) To ensure that consumers are kept adequately informed, Member States should, in accordance with Regulation (EC) No 882/2004, publish the results of national monitoring residues annually on the Internet, providing all individual data, including the place of collection and the names of retailers, traders and/or producers.
- (35) The measures necessary for the implementation of this Regulation should be adopted in accordance with Council Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission ⁽¹⁾.
- (36) In accordance with the principle of proportionality, it is necessary and appropriate for the achievement of the basic objectives of facilitating trade whilst protecting the consumer to lay down rules on MRLs for products of plant and animal origin. This Regulation does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve the objectives pursued in accordance with the third paragraph of Article 5 of the Treaty,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

CHAPTER I

CHAPTER II

PROCEDURE FOR APPLICATIONS FOR MRLs

SECTION 1

Submission of Applications for MRLs

Article 6

Applications

1. Where a Member State envisages granting an authorisation or a provisional authorisation for the use of a plant protection product in accordance with Directive 91/414/EEC, that Member State shall consider whether, as a result of such use, an existing MRL set out in Annex II or III to this Regulation needs to be modified, whether it is necessary to set a new MRL, or whether the active substance should be included in Annex IV. If necessary it shall require the party requesting the authorisation to submit an application in accordance with Article 7.
2. All parties demonstrating, through adequate evidence, a legitimate interest in health, including civil society organisations, as well as commercially interested parties such as manufacturers, growers, importers and producers of products covered by Annex I, may also submit an application to a Member State in accordance with Article 7.
3. Where a Member State considers that the setting, modification or deletion of an MRL is necessary, that Member State may also compile and evaluate an application for setting, modifying, or deleting the MRL in accordance with Article 7.
4. Applications for import tolerances shall be submitted to rapporteur Member States designated pursuant to Directive 91/414/EEC or, if no such rapporteur has been designated, applications shall be made to Member States designated by the Commission in accordance with procedure referred to in Article 45(2) of this Regulation at the request of the applicant. Such applications shall be made in accordance with Article 7 of this Regulation.

However, where relevant data are already publicly available, in particular when an active substance has already been evaluated under Directive 91/414/EEC or when a CXL exists and such data are submitted by the applicant, a Member State may also use such information in evaluating an application. In such cases, the evaluation report shall include a justification for using or not using such data.

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

2. The evaluating Member State may, where appropriate, request the applicant to provide supplementary information in addition to information required under paragraph 1 within a time limit specified by the Member State. In no event may this period exceed two years.

Article 8

Evaluation of Applications

1. A Member State to which an application complying with Article 7 is submitted pursuant to Article 6 shall immediately forward a copy to the Authority and the Commission and draw up an evaluation report without undue delay.

2. Applications shall be evaluated in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Uniform Principles for the Evaluation and Authorisation of Plant Protection Products set out in Annex VI to Directive 91/414/EEC or specific evaluation principles to be laid down in a Commission Regulation in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 45(2) of this Regulation.

2. The inclusion of temporary MRLs as referred to in paragraph 1 shall be based on the opinion of the Authority, monitoring data and an assessment demonstrating that there are no unacceptable risks to consumers or animals.

The continued validity of the temporary MRLs referred to in paragraph 1(a), (b), (c) and (d) shall be re-assessed at least once every 10 years and any such MRLs shall be modified or deleted as appropriate.

The MRLs referred to in paragraph 1(e) shall be re-assessed at the expiry of the period for which the essential use was authorised. The MRLs referred to in paragraph 1(f) shall be re-assessed when the scientific studies have been completed and evaluated, but no later than four years after their inclusion in Annex III.

Article 17

Modifications of MRL following revocation of authorisations of plant protection products

Amendments to Annexes II or III needed to delete an MRL following the revocation of an existing authorisation for a plant protection product may be adopted without seeking the opinion of the Authority.

3. By way of derogation from paragraph 1, Member States may authorise, further to a post-harvest treatment with a fumigant on their own territory, residue levels for an active substance which exceed the limits specified in Annexes II and III for a product covered by Annex I where the active substance/product combinations are listed in Annex VII provided that:

- (a) such products are not intended for immediate consumption;
- (b) appropriate controls are in place to ensure that such products cannot be made available to the end user or consumer, if they are supplied directly to the latter, until the residues no longer exceed the maximum levels specified in Annexes II or III;
- (c) the other Member States and the Commission have been informed of the measures taken.

The active substance/product combinations listed in Annex VII shall be defined in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 45(2).

Such authorisations shall immediately be notified to the other Member States, the Commission and the Authority, together with an appropriate risk assessment for consideration without undue delay in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 45(2), with a view to setting a temporary MRL for a specified period or taking any other necessary measure in relation to such products.

Article 19

Prohibition concerning processed and/or composite products

The processing, and/or mixing for dilution purposes with the same or other products, of the products covered by Annex I not complying with Article 18(1) or 20 with a view to placing them on the market as food or feed or feeding them to animals shall be prohibited.

Article 20

MRLs applicable to processed and/or composite products

1. Where MRLs are not set out in Annexes II or III for processed and/or composite food or feed, the MRLs applicable shall be those provided in Article 18(1) for the relevant product covered by Annex I, taking into account changes in the levels of pesticide residues caused by processing and/or mixing.

2. Specific concentration or dilution factors for certain processing and/or mixing operations or for certain processed and/or composite products may be included in the list in Annex VI in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 45(2).

Those measures, which shall be without prejudice to the obligation to ensure a high level of consumer protection, shall be adopted in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 45(2).

Article 50

Entry into force

This Regulation shall enter into force on the twentieth day following that of its publication in the Official Journal of the European Union.

EU-Russia Summit

European Parliament resolution on the EU-Russia Summit held in The Hague on 25 November 2004

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Partnership and Cooperation Agreement⁽¹⁾ between the European Communities and their Member States and Russia which entered into force on 1 December 1997 and the Joint Statement on EU enlargement and EU-Russia relations signed on 27 April 2004 and confirmed by both the European Parliament and the Russian Duma in October 2004,
 - having regard to its previous resolutions on Russia and Chechnya and, in particular, its recommendation of 26 February 2004 to the Council on EU-Russia relations⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to the outcome of the 14th EU-Russia Summit held in The Hague on 25 November 2004,
 - having regard to the Commission Communication to the Council and the European Parliament entitled "Wider Europe — Neighbourhood: a new framework for relations with our eastern and southern neighbours" (COM(2003)0104),
 - having regard to Rule 103(4) of its Rules of Procedure,
- A. whereas enhanced cooperation and good neighbourly relations between the EU and Russia are of key importance to the stability, security and prosperity of the whole of Europe,
- B. whereas both sides underline the importance of the strategic EU-Russia partnership and their intention to further intensify their cooperation in Europe and beyond based on shared interests and common values, in particular democracy, the rule of law and respect for human rights,

⁽²⁾ OJ C 98 E, 23.4.2004, p. 182.

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

- C. whereas the EU after its last enlargement is deeply committed to the implementation of the European Neighbourhood Policy as one of the top priorities of its external actions, with the subsequent further involvement in the resolution of conflicts in Transdnistria and South Caucasus,
 - D. whereas both the EU and Russia regard countries in their common neighbourhood as areas for the establishment and maintenance of whose stability they both share responsibility,
 - E. whereas the EU-Russia Summit in St Petersburg in May 2003 decided to adopt four common areas, adding an area of freedom, security and justice, an area of external security and an area of research, education and culture to the Common Economic Area that had been agreed on two years earlier,
 - F. whereas, at the 14th EU-Russia Summit, the participants agreed to postpone the establishment of the four common areas until the next EU-Russia Summit in Moscow in May 2005,
 - G. underlining that any further development in the building of a genuine strategic partnership must be linked to a concrete improvement in the present situation and that the values of democracy, the rule of law and respect for human rights, which form the basis of this partnership must be fully shared,
 - H. whereas the EU and Russia have a joint responsibility to bring about peaceful solutions to conflicts in their immediate vicinities,
 - I. whereas the lack of viable solutions in Chechnya has resulted in terrorist acts spreading to the neighbouring republics, and whereas human rights abuses linked to Russian security forces are continuing,
- 1. Regrets the lack of substantial progress on the establishment of the four common areas during the 14th EU-Russia Summit in The Hague, but notes the ambition to deepen the dialogue on a variety of issues such as minorities, human rights and fundamental rights and hopes that this dialogue will lead to concrete results;
 - 2. Takes the view that the four areas must be treated as one package and should not be separated from one another;
 - 3. Expresses its intention to strengthen cooperation between the EU and Russia with a view to the creation of the four common areas;
 - 4. Calls on the Commission and the Council to make full use of existing tools and programmes such as TACIS in support of the development of civil society in Russia and insists that future instruments must also strive to enhance democracy and respect for the rule of law;
 - 5. Welcomes the ratification of the Kyoto Protocol to the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change by the Duma on 22 October 2004; stresses the positive impact that signing up to the Kyoto Protocol will have in enhancing the long-term strategic partnership between the EU and Russia; hopes that other global players will be encouraged to follow Russia's example, and calls on all sides to make additional efforts to improve energy efficiency and to develop energies that produce zero CO₂ emissions;
 - 6. Welcomes the extension of the Partnership and Cooperation agreement to the new Member States and the firm commitment of the two sides to continue to work actively to fulfil the commitments contained in the abovementioned Joint Statement;
 - 7. Welcomes the announcement made by President Putin at the Summit that Russia will sign "in the near future" the border agreements with Estonia and Latvia;
 - 8. Stresses the need for the EU and Russia to intensify political dialogue, in particular in cooperating to achieve the common goal of strengthening multilateral organisations such as the UN and the WTO;

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

9. Recognises that Russia has a special interest in maintaining good relations with many of its neighbouring countries such as Belarus, Ukraine, Moldova or those in the South Caucasus; stresses, however, that Russia should adhere to the principle of non-interference in the internal affairs of sovereign states, in particular in the case of elections;
 10. Is concerned about the path of the democratisation process in Russia and the further accumulation of powers by the central government in Moscow, such as the appointment of supreme court judges, governors and mayors of large towns by the President of Russia; expresses its concern at stricter media control and restrictions on the freedom of press;
 11. Strongly condemns the recent terrorist attacks against the civilian population in Russia and other neighbouring countries, and welcomes measures to increase EU-Russia counter-terrorism cooperation measures as long as these measures fully respect human rights and fundamental freedoms and do not lead to an erosion of democratic rights or civil society;
 12. Is seriously concerned about the persistent and recurring mass violations of humanitarian law and human rights committed against the civilian population of Chechnya by Russian forces; calls on Russia to strive for a credible peace and reconciliation process, and reiterates that there can only be an inclusive, negotiated, political solution and not a military solution;
 13. Welcomes the Council's proposal for closer cooperation in crisis management and expects of Russia a more sincere and constructive role as regards the conflicts in Transdnistria and South Caucasus;
 14. Underlines that the development of the Kaliningrad region is an important factor for the overall development of the Baltic Sea area and therefore encourages Russia and other parties concerned to promote the social and economic development of the region through its openness and economic integration;
 15. Deplores President Putin's announcement that Russia is developing new nuclear weapons;
 16. Calls on the EU and Russia to coordinate their positions on the reform of the UN system, and in particular the future reform of the UN Security Council; is concerned about signs of strains within the EU-Russia relationship due to recent events, particularly in Ukraine;
 17. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Member States, the President and Parliament of the Russian Federation, the OSCE and the Council of Europe.

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

- having regard to Rule 45 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs and the opinion of the Committee on Foreign Affairs (A6-0051/2004),
- A. whereas point 26 of the conclusions of the European Council in Thessaloniki called on the Commission “to explore all parameters in order to ensure more orderly and managed entry in the EU of persons in need of international protection and to examine ways and means to enhance the protection capacity of regions of origin with a view to presenting to the Council, before June 2004, a comprehensive report suggesting measures to be taken, including legal implications”,
- B. whereas the Commission's two communications which are the subject of this resolution should be considered together, since although the reasons behind them are different, they constitute the Commission's response to points 26 and 27 respectively of the conclusions of the Thessaloniki European Council, and tackle the premises and basic objectives of a possible new approach to better managed, more accessible and fair asylum systems, exploring new ways of achieving the gradual approach defined at Tampere,
- C. whereas the Geneva Convention and the international obligation to receive any person requesting asylum at borders should remain the rule,
- D. whereas there is a need to conclude agreements between the EU and third countries in order to improve access to durable solutions for refugees or persons in need of protection or political asylum based on the principle of shared responsibility,
- E. whereas protracted refugee situations and lengthy processing of asylum claims may undermine the personal security of genuine refugees, especially in crisis situations, and impel them to resort to illegal means of travel,
1. Urges the EU and the Member States to ensure that those in need of protection may enter the EU safely and have their claims properly processed, and to ensure strict adherence to standards of international human rights and refugee law and in particular to the principle of non-refoulement (i.e. that states must allow bona fide applicants for asylum to enter);
2. Deplores the fact that the progress made in the adoption of the legislative programme for the first stage of a European common asylum system defined in the conclusions of the Tampere European Council has been delayed, that harmonisation is based on the lowest common denominator of the Member States, and that the Council was unable until 29 April 2004 to reach a political agreement on the amended proposal for a directive on minimum standards on procedures in Member States for granting and withdrawing refugee status⁽¹⁾;
3. Thanks the Commission for submitting its communication COM(2004)0410, in which it proposes, in addition to the current European common asylum policy, both measures to develop orderly and better organised entry into the EU of persons in need of international protection and measures to step up protection capacity in the regions of origin;
4. Given that an appropriate approach to asylum systems requires precise knowledge of their characteristics and scale in the various Member States, requests that the EU should have its own sources of information on migratory flows and hence considers it necessary to strengthen the European Migration Observatory as an instrument for centralising asylum statistics in the EU;
5. Believes that much further work remains to be done to safeguard the EU as a single asylum space and ensure that our citizens have confidence in a system which acts fairly, efficiently and promptly both in giving protection to those who need it and in dealing with those without protection requirements;

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

6. Considers that the still only partial establishment of the first stage of the European common asylum policy presents serious structural shortcomings which threaten Europe's humanitarian tradition, and that in order to improve the management of asylum in the context of an enlarged Europe it is necessary to achieve, by means of gradual application, objectives which are to complement rather than replace the European common asylum policy envisaged at Tampere; these are as follows:

- (a) to improve the quality of asylum decision-making in the European Union,
- (b) to be a key player in ensuring capacity-building and to help countries provide effective protection for asylum-seekers and refugees, using international human rights standards as a benchmark,
- (c) to deal with applications for protection at a level as close as possible to needs and to regulate safe access to the EU by means of orderly and managed entry for some of the persons in need of international protection,
- (d) to observe the principle of solidarity and to ensure the fair sharing of responsibility,
- (e) to develop an integrated approach with a view to establishing, in the area of asylum and return, a prompt and efficient decision-making process;

7. Stresses the need for cooperation between third countries and the EU so as to ensure a comprehensive and balanced EU asylum and migration policy; considers that partnership with third countries can be implemented through existing instruments, such as the European Neighbourhood Policy and the forthcoming individual Country Action Plans relating thereto, designed in a flexible and situation-specific manner, as well as other Community programmes — the aid to uprooted people in Asia and Latin America⁽¹⁾, MEDA⁽²⁾, CARDS⁽³⁾, EDF⁽⁴⁾ and Aeneas Programme⁽⁵⁾;

8. Is convinced that one of the instruments for guaranteeing more orderly and better managed entry into the EU of persons in need of international protection may consist in a Community-wide system of resettlement, based on respect for individual wishes and the voluntary participation of all the Member States in the system, whereby such persons would be transferred from a first host country to a Member State, where they would be guaranteed protection and would have prospects of integration and autonomy, with the UNHCR taking part in selecting and forwarding specific cases; to this end calls on the EU to draw up an appropriate legal instrument guaranteeing the prompt application of such a system;

9. Rejects the “outsourcing” of the application process by sending applicants for refugee status to a third country, not least because it makes it more difficult for applicants to be properly represented and removes the process from democratic oversight;

10. Considers that a resettlement mechanism constitutes the way to offer rapid access to protection without refugees falling victim to illegal immigration and human-trafficking networks or having to wait years before their status is recognised;

11. Considers that the resettlement programme is an instrument aimed at responding to the specific protection needs of refugees whose lives, freedom, safety, health and fundamental rights are endangered in the countries where they have taken refuge;

12. Considers that in resettlement schemes particular attention should be paid to those considered most vulnerable in such circumstances and most in need of help: for example, victims of rape and sexual assault, pregnant women, unaccompanied minors, disabled persons, human rights activists or those persecuted for political reasons; flexibility and specific treatment are needed in the examination of individual situations and such an approach would represent real added-value at the EU level;

13. Considers that centres for the holding of would-be migrants in the country of final transit have no place in the consideration of durable solutions in the regions of origin, nor in offering sanctuary to those in need of international protection; indeed, believes that, while such centres may seem to provide a short-term solution to certain migration pressures, they raise many questions about the ability to meet international obligations in terms of human rights, not least on account of the very poor human rights records of the regimes of many of those transit countries;

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

14. Trusts that such resettlement programmes, if properly managed and adequately resourced, and sensibly publicised by Member States and the EU, can assist in the development of a public understanding of refugees and their reasons for seeking protection in the countries receiving those refugees and of others in need of international protection and in enhancing the efficiency of the EU in combating human trafficking;
15. Holds that the active development of such understanding is essential to combating all forms of discrimination, racism and xenophobia within the EU;
16. Calls on the EU to demonstrate in a visible and consistent way its readiness to assist third countries in the regions of origin to enhance their protection capacities in accordance with the UNHCR Convention Plus initiative and other recommendations and to exclude the possibility of the financing of holding camps or any other centre limiting the personal freedom of asylum seekers;
17. Considers that the additional resources required for the improvement of support in the regions of origin must be additional monies allocated and coordinated from existing budget lines and not a re-allocation of the existing aid and development budget; considers that this should be taken into account in deliberations on the Financial Perspective; considers that additional and coordinated funding for the UNHCR will also be necessary given the role it will be asked to play in this process;
18. Calls on the EU to ensure that the necessary budgetary means, other than those already envisaged as development aid to third countries, are made available to enhance the financial and institutional capacity, for protecting refugees, in developing countries on the condition that those means are not employed to establish holding camps or any other centre limiting the personal freedom of asylum seekers;
19. Considers it necessary for there to be clear lines of responsibility and accountability for the agencies involved;
20. Considers that a decisive common foreign and security policy committing the EU as a matter of priority to the resolution of long-term conflicts and to conflict prevention is essential in order to help those seeking protection; therefore welcomes the Commission's proposals to bring forward EU Regional Protection Programmes and asks to be involved in their development and in the necessary assessment and monitoring of their implementation;
21. Considers that such Protection Programmes must contain safeguards against the premature return of refugees, based on the concept of the safe third country;
22. Calls on the Union, for the purposes of dealing with cases of people in need of immediate and urgent protection, to investigate existing problems with Protected Entry Procedures (PEPs) where abuse has been reported by Member States and to further explore the possibility of a legal instrument defining and establishing the elements of a PEP system, which would consist in allowing a third-country national to submit an application for asylum, or another form of international protection, to a potential host Member State, but from outside its territory, and to be able to obtain a provisional or definitive entry permit;
23. Stresses that enhancing protection capacity in the regions of origin and creating the PEPs lead to ensuring an orderly and anticipated manner of entry into the EU, considers that the existing right of application for asylum upon spontaneous arrival in a Member State is to be maintained;
24. Stresses that it is important for the EU to share responsibility with third countries, and in particular with the countries of first asylum, for the handling of refugees and that more effective cooperation is needed for the purposes of stepping up the protection capacity of the countries accommodating refugees, to enable them to become stable providers of real protection;
25. Believes that the European Union should be better prepared to provide urgent assistance to the countries neighbouring states in crisis, in order to help them to address, in accordance with international standards, sudden and large-scale migrations resulting from crisis situations;
26. Recognises the value of supporting those countries which receive the majority of those seeking sanctuary and considers it important that the conditions offered there meet at least those outlined by the Commission in points (a) to (e) of paragraph 45 of communication COM(2004)0410;

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

27. Considers such support in the regions of origin to be a complement to a common asylum procedure within the EU based upon high standards of delivery and in full recognition of our international obligations, and therefore states that such support cannot be a replacement for such a procedure within the EU;

28. Considers that investing in durable solutions will require considerable coordination between different departments and agencies of the Commission, and especially those concerned with development, justice and home affairs, trade and external relations; believes that the Commission should communicate its proposals for such cooperation to the Parliament as soon as possible and report regularly to Parliament on the progress of such cooperation;

29. Welcomes the Commission's submission of its communication COM(2004)0503, the purpose of which is to develop the process which would close the protection gap and lead to the effective implementation of the first stage of the common asylum policy;

30. Welcomes the proposal to "front-load" the assessment procedure to include all relevant information but stresses that this must include the application of full-country information from a variety of sources, high-quality training for those deciding on applications and the full legal representation of applicants, information provided in a language comprehensible to the applicant and the right to in-country appeal;

31. To improve the quality of asylum decision-making in the future, proposes that systems be put in place to monitor the outcome for those returned to their country of origin when their claim has been deemed unfounded, in order to assess whether correct decisions have been made;

32. Stresses the need to devise harmonised approaches, general action plans and special agreements capable of formulating and guaranteeing effective responses for the protection of refugees and/or achieving lasting solutions in the countries of origin, strategies which take account of best practices in the management of administrative acts and allow the exchange of information on the countries of origin and provenance;

33. Backs the proposal for a single procedure for international protection, since it is convinced that a single procedure administered by a single competent authority will save economic resources, but above all will make the procedure swifter and more efficient and provide better guarantees for persons seeking protection, since the single authority would assess the international protection needs of the applicant, either in order to grant him refugee status or subsidiary protection or, if appropriate, turn down his application;

34. Also requests that the EU should have an accelerated procedure for granting asylum, taking not more than 6 months, which would make it easier to deal with unjustified applications and thus streamline formalities for those which actually meet the requirements for the granting of asylum;

35. Requests that, in cases where any of the types of status of international protection should be refused because the requirements are not met, the unfavourable decision should be duly reasoned and communicated in writing in an authenticated document in a language comprehensible to the applicant;

36. Urges the Commission and the Council to reverse the return and readmission policy which paves the way for European charter flights to send back immigrants to countries of origin;

37. Is convinced that a single procedure would not adversely affect the status of refugees as envisaged in the Geneva Convention of 1951, if the application is examined by the same authority in a set order: the request would be examined on the basis of the reasons for protection laid down in the Geneva Convention, and if these were not applicable, it would be determined whether the reasons justifying the granting of subsidiary protection apply;

38. Expresses its deep concern at the serious situation which will inevitably arise in future if, on the one hand, Member States have to apply Council Directive 2004/83/EC of 29 April 2004 on minimum standards for the qualification and status of third country nationals or stateless persons as refugees or as persons who otherwise need international protection and the content of the protection granted⁽¹⁾, the scope of which covers the two types of international protection (refugees and subsidiary protection), whilst, on the other hand, the scope of the future directive on minimum standards on procedures in Member States for granting and withdrawing refugee status is confined to the examination of applications for international protection based on the reasons listed in the Geneva Convention of 1951 and the Protocol of 1967, since applications for subsidiary protection are outside its scope;

39. Calls on the European Union to take appropriate steps to ensure that the scope of the directive on minimum standards on procedures in Member States for granting and withdrawing refugee status is extended to cases of subsidiary protection, so as to give everybody the same procedural guarantees in all the Member States during the examination of their applications for international protection and the same opportunities to defend themselves and exercise their right to appeal against decisions which they consider unlawful, and that such appeals should have the effect of suspending the decision;

40. Is convinced that not extending the scope of the directive on minimum standards on procedures in Member States for granting and withdrawing refugee status to cases justifying requests for subsidiary protection would constitute an unjustifiable legal vacuum in the field of protection, the consequences of which would be aggravated by the fact that when the Member States grant international protection they do so on the basis of the reasons for subsidiary protection rather than on those justifying the application of the Geneva Convention relating to the status of refugees;

41. Demands that the Council indicate urgently when Parliament will be consulted again on the directive on minimum standards on procedures in Member States for granting and withdrawing refugee status and about any minimum common list of safe countries of origin;

42. Maintains that, as soon as possible after the preparatory stage, the European Union should adopt the legislative measures needed to adopt the whole legislative package envisaged in the Amsterdam Treaty and by the Tampere European Council for the creation of the first phase of a European common asylum policy, in order to ensure the fair and effective application of a single international protection procedure in all the Member States;

43. Sees no case for transferring responsibility for deciding asylum claims from the Member States to a central EU authority or EU asylum processing centres in view of the legal, practical and political difficulties;

44. Believes that integration is a fundamental part of any efficient asylum system and EU-wide resettlement schemes and that integration is a two-way process involving both the asylum-seeker and/or refugee and the host society;

45. Believes that an effective European asylum policy should be based on a common analysis of migratory phenomena and that the collection, exchange and use of up-to-date information and data on all relevant migratory developments are of importance;

46. Welcomes the establishment of the European Refugee Fund for 2005-2010 and stresses the urgent need for Member States to maintain adequate asylum systems and reception facilities in the run-up to the establishment of the common asylum procedure;

47. Believes the EU must do more to foster conditions which make it possible for asylum-seekers and refugees to undertake safe, dignified and sustainable voluntary returns;

48. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission.

- B. whereas drug production and trade is the main source of profit for European mafia and contributes to their capacity for corruption and impunity,
- C. whereas, despite the policies carried out to date at international, European and national level, the production, consumption and sale of illicit substances listed in the three above-mentioned United Nations conventions have reached extremely high levels in all the Member States, and faced with this failure it is essential that the EU revise its general strategy on narcotic substances,

- D. whereas the JHA Council decided at its meeting of 8 June 2004 that a new EU Drugs Strategy needed to be implemented for 2005-2012, on the basis of two EU Action Plans on Drugs, each lasting three years (2005-2007 and 2009-2011) and each followed by a one-year evaluation period (2008 and 2012), and that this Strategy would be adopted at the European Council of December 2004,
- E. whereas on 6 July 2004, the Dutch Council Presidency presented the draft EU Drugs Strategy (2005-2012) (Cordroque 53) to the Horizontal Drugs Group, taking account of the conclusions of the Dublin Conference on an EU Drugs Strategy (Cordroque 36) of 10 and 11 May 2004; whereas this draft was subsequently considered at the meetings of 7 and 8 September, 30 September, and 1 October 2004,
- F. whereas the Council negotiated within the Horizontal Drugs Group and the CATS (the committee referred to in Article 36 of the EU Treaty) the contents of the draft EU Drugs Strategy (2005-2012), without knowing the political and technical assessments of either the EU Drugs Strategy (2000-2004) or the implementation of the EU Action Plan on Drugs (2000-2004) drawn up by the Commission and the EMCDDA, the results of which were submitted to the JHA Council on 25 and 26 October 2004 by the Commission and to Parliament on 24 November 2004 by the EMCDDA to enable an assessment to be made of the extent to which the eleven general objectives and the six principal objectives established as part of the EU Drugs Strategy (2000-2004) have been achieved,
- G. whereas the United Nations Commission on Narcotic Drugs will be launching preparations for the UN special session on drugs in 2008, ten years after the 1998 drug summit,
- H. whereas it is necessary to develop precise, quantifiable, operational objectives, in order to be able to ascertain whether and to what extent the goals and measures formulated in the previous strategy have produced results,
- I. believing that to avoid an over-simplistic analysis of the wide range of drug-related problems, the risk represented by drugs should be analysed inter alia from a scientific, sociological and cultural point of view, not only by minutely examining objective and comparable data but also by carefully assessing any other implications and damage to the development of society, and calling for these analyses and assessments to be published,
- J. whereas a national drugs policy must be based on scientific knowledge concerning each type of drug, not on an emotional response, since each drug-related problem calls for a specific approach; whereas a generalised approach undermines the credibility of all aspects of the policy,
- K. whereas it is also vital, on the basis of these assessments and analyses, to begin revising drug policies to make them more effective and efficient in terms of the objectives to be achieved, particular attention being paid to alternative policies which are already producing better results in many Member States, for example, in reducing drug-related deaths and safeguarding the health and ensuring the social and economic reintegration of drug addicts,
1. Recommends to the Council and to the European Council, when defining the future EU Drugs Strategy (2005-2012), and with general reference to EU policy on drugs, that they should:
- (a) redefine European cooperation on a drugs policy aimed at tackling cross-border and large-scale drug trafficking, which takes into account all the implications of the problem, and is based on a scientific approach, respect for civil and political rights and protection of the lives and health of individuals;
- (b) set clear, precise, quantifiable goals and priorities which can be translated into operational indicators and measures in future Action Plans, very clearly establishing responsibilities and deadlines for implementation, and taking account of the subsidiarity principle. In order to facilitate implementation, a multidisciplinary approach should be taken at European level in relation to these clearly defined goals (coordination, information, assessment and international cooperation);

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

- (c) take account of the fact that the assessments made to date of the six main objectives set by the EU Drugs Strategy (2000-2004) show that none of them achieved favourable results and draw political and legislative lessons from this when devising the EU Drugs Strategy (2005-2012) and the related action plans;
- (d) take into account the assessments of the achievement of the six main objectives set by the EU Drugs Strategy;
- (e) base the new strategy more on scientific research and in-depth, structured consultation with those involved in this field in the Member States;
- (f) found the new EU Drugs Strategy on legal, institutional and financial bases which are derived from effective past action and the success of best practices;
- (g) increase social and scientific research on illegal substances for relevant medical and social purposes;
- (h) produce an alternative to the current financial fragmentation by creating a new budget line, closely meshed with all the measures which will need to be provided for in future Action Plans to be adopted by the Commission, since otherwise it will not be possible to achieve the objectives laid down in the Drugs Strategy;
- (i) create a specific budget line in order to facilitate an ongoing process of consultation with affected civil society organisations and independent professional experts about the impact of drug policies at the level of citizens;
- (j) carry out a detailed evaluation of the effectiveness of the implementation of the previous strategy, with particular regard to:
 - prevention of use and dependence,
 - a reduction in the supply of and the demand for illicit drugs,
 - the limitation of social damage (marginalisation),
 - the limitation of health damage,
 - reduction in drug-related petty crime and organised crimeand therefore not to adopt the new EU Drugs Strategy (2005-2012) without knowing the real results achieved by the previous Strategy, as measured by the relevant technical, scientific, legislative and political assessments;
- (k) inform the European Parliament periodically in accordance with the principles of democratic legitimacy, transparency and cooperation between the institutions, of the progress of the negotiations within the Council on the EU Drugs Strategy (2005-2012);
- (l) consult the European Parliament in good time before adopting the EU Drugs Strategy (2005-2012), so that its opinion can be taken into account;
- (m) propose measures totally different from those currently selected to achieve the overall EU Drugs Strategy objective, giving priority to protecting the lives and health of users of illicit substances, improving their wellbeing and protection by means of a balanced and integrated approach to the problem, since the relevant proposals are inadequate;
- (n) step up European cooperation mechanisms as the EU's 25 Member States' borders are closer to the countries in which drugs originate, so as to curb the drug traffic entering the Union and clearly define and extend the new European coordination mechanism on drugs policy, inter alia through the EMCDDA, so as to achieve an integrated, multidisciplinary and balanced approach to the problem of drugs, which is now more necessary than ever following the accession of ten new Member States;
- (o) improve the coordination and exchange of information within the Union on drugs policy following the accession of the ten new Member States so as to achieve an integrated, multidisciplinary and balanced approach to the problem of drugs, which also takes account of the encouraging results achieved and fully documented by the various Member States, and other European countries, that are implementing alternative drugs policies;

L-Erbgħa, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

- (p) establish minimum standards to improve the availability and effectiveness of intervention and rehabilitation measures based on best practice in the Member States, with the goal of reducing the impact of drug use on society;
- (q) take adequate account of the new situation that has arisen following the accession of ten new Member States to the Union, which necessitates more intensive cooperation with the new border states;
- (r) increase the availability of harm-reduction programmes (especially to prevent the spread of HIV and other blood-borne diseases) among drug users;
- (s) set minimum standards for rehabilitation measures, based on best practice in the Member States, in place of too strong a focus on treatment with drug substitutes; to that end, particular efforts must be made to promote social rehabilitation;
- (t) lay much greater stress on harm reduction, information, prevention, care and attention to protecting the lives and health of people with problems caused by the use of illicit substances, and define measures to prevent them from being marginalised, rather than implementing repressive strategies which verge on and have frequently led to violations of human rights;
- (u) set up rehabilitation programmes for offenders/users as alternatives to prison, since such programmes have been found to be effective in those countries which have implemented them;
- (v) step up and provide appropriate funding for the information measures required to provide information on illicit substances and prevent drug use, particularly in schools, as provided for in the 2000-2004 Action Plan, and curb the negative repercussions of drug use and the associated risks;
- (w) place emphasis on stepping up information measures, which should be based on scientific knowledge about the consequences of various types of drugs (above all synthetic drugs), so as to be able to warn everyone in clear, strong terms;
- (x) define and exponentially step up the involvement and participation of drug addicts and users of illicit substances, civil society, NGOs, the voluntary sector and the general public in resolving drug-related problems, in particular by involving organisations operating in this area more closely in the work of the Horizontal Drugs Group and by organising an annual European prevention initiative and by setting up, on an experimental basis, easily accessible informal centres pursuing an anti-prohibitionist strategy and a harm-reduction strategy;
- (y) establish assessment measures which will allow shortcomings in — and more appropriate measures and resources to achieve — the goals set out in the EU Drugs Strategy to be correctly detected and rectified;
- (z) take appropriate steps to prevent the profits from illegal drug trafficking from being used to fund international terrorism and apply current legislation on confiscating goods and fighting money-laundering, while supporting Italian anti-mafia legislation which authorises the assets (profits) confiscated from criminal organisations to be redeployed and used for social purposes;
- (aa) include in all international agreements, and particularly new cooperation agreements with third countries, a specific anti-drug cooperation clause, with “essential clause” status;
- (ab) significantly increase development aid to drug-producing countries, by means of programmes to fund sustainable alternative crops and the radical reduction of poverty, exploring also the possibility of promoting and safeguarding production for medical and scientific purposes, of opiates for example, and to take into consideration the possibility of launching pilot projects for the industrial manufacture of legal products derived from plants covered by the 1961 Convention, such as coca leaf and Indian hemp;
- (ac) provide and ensure access to substitution programmes, with particular reference to the prison environment, while encouraging alternatives to imprisonment for users of illicit substances or for related minor and non-violent offences;

L-Erbgha, 15 ta' Diċembru 2004

- (ad) increase research into the use of plants that are currently illegal or in a grey area, such as hemp, opium or coca leaves, for medicinal applications, food security, sustainable agriculture, generation of alternative energy sources, substitution for tree- or oil-based products and other beneficial purposes;
 - (ae) revise the framework decision on drug trafficking to take account of the views expressed by Parliament, with due regard for the principles of subsidiarity and proportionality enshrined in the Treaties;
 - (af) carry out a scientific study into the costs and benefits of current policies for the control of narcotic substances including, in particular: an analysis of cannabis and its various legal and illicit derivatives, inter alia to assess their effects, their therapeutic potential and the results of criminalisation policies and possible alternatives; an analysis of the effectiveness of programmes to distribute heroin under medical supervision for therapeutic purposes in terms of the objective of reducing drug-related deaths; an analysis of the economic, legal, social and environmental costs of prohibition policies in terms of the human and financial resources required to enforce the law; and an analysis of the impact on non-member countries of current policies under both the EU Strategy and the global drug control system;
 - (ag) urge governments and national parliaments to take effective measures to prevent drugs entering prisons;
2. Instructs its President to forward this recommendation to the Council and the European Council and, for information, to the Commission and the governments and parliaments of the Member States, the European Monitoring Centre for Drugs and Drug Addiction, the Council of Europe and the United Nations and its specialist agencies.

8.3. Abbozz tal-baġit ġenerali 2005, modifikat mill-Kunsill (is-sezzjonijiet kollha) (votazzjoni)

Emendi ta' l-abbozz għall-abbozz tal-baġit ġenerali modifikat mill-Kunsill.

(Maġġoranza kwalifikata)
(Riżultat tal-votazzjoni: Anness I, punt 3)

Tkellem Salvador Garriga Polledo (rapporteur ġenerali) sabiex jithabbru xi modifiki ta' natura teknika:

L-ammonti li jidhru fil-linji tal-baġit segwenti iridu jitnehhew mir-riserva u jitpoġġew fuq il-linja, wara l-adozzjoni tal-bażijiet legali li jikkorrispondu magħhom:

— Linja tal-baġit 19 09 03 — Ghajjnuna lill-nies li kienu imġieghla jhallu pajjiżhom mill-Amerika Latina

Ghandi wkoll modifika teknika x'nagħmel:

— Linja tal-baġit 15 03 01 02 tal-programm Leonardo da Vinci (Emenda 117):

L-ammont li jrid jitniżżel bħala flus li se jintefqu irid jinqara 205 366 880 euro.

(Dawn huma 54 500 euro inqas mill-ammont ippreżentat fid-Dokument 12).

Il-Parlament approva dawn il-modifiki.

Tkellmu Martin Schulz fisem il-grupp PSE, dwar l-emenda 127, u Bogdan Pęk dwar l-intervent ta' Martin Schulz.

L-emendi adottati jidhru bħala anness fit-"testi adottati".

Jan Peter Balkenende (President tal-Kunsill) tkellem:

Sur President, inti għadek kif lestejt it-tieni qari tal-baġit għal 2005 — l-ewwel sena finanzjarja li ntemmet b'Unjoni ta' 25 u l-implementazzjoni ta' l-Istatut il-ġdid. Bi pjaċir ninnota li l-ftehim li ż-żewġ istituzzjonijiet tagħna laħqu matul il-laqgħa ta' konċiljazzjoni tal-25 ta' Novembru, 2004 ġie inkluz/miftiehem fil-baġit għal 2005.

Huwa sinifikanti li, għall-ewwel sena tal-leġislatura ta' dan il-Parlament, iż-żewġ ferġat ta' l-awtorità tal-baġit kienu kapaci jilhqgħu ftehim f'Novembru li għadda. Dan huwa sinjal pożittiv għall-futur, kif ukoll għal dak li jirringwarda il-kooperazzjoni interistituzzjonali li stabbiliet baġit tajjeb għall-Unjoni Ewropea.

B'hekk htaft l-okkażjoni biex nirringrazzja lill-president tal-Kumitat għall-Baġit, is-Sur Lewandowski, u ż-żewġ rapporteurs, is-Sur Garriga Polledo u s-Sinjura Jensen. Nixtieq nirringrazzja wkoll lill-Kummissarju Grybauskaitė, li apprezzajt hafna r-rwol tiegħu.

Il-Kunsill jista' jaċċetta ir-rata massima taż-żieda li irriżultat mit-tieni qari.

Wara talba tal-President tal-Kunsill, Jan Peter Balkenende, ir-rappreżentant tal-Kummissjoni, Dalia Grybauskaitė, iċ-Chairman tal-Kumitat BUDG, Janusz Lewandowski, ir-Rapporteurs, Salvador Garriga Polledo u Anne Elisabet Jensen, flimkien miegħu, il-President tal-Parlament ipproċeda fl-iffirmar tal-baġit.

Mobilisation of the flexibility instrument

European Parliament resolution on the proposal for a decision of the European Parliament and of the Council on the mobilisation of the flexibility instrument according to point 24 of the Interinstitutional Agreement of 6 May 1999 (COM(2004)0402 — C6-0213/2004 — 2004/2087(ACI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission's proposal for a decision of the European Parliament and of the Council (COM(2004)0402 — C6-0213/2004) ⁽¹⁾,
 - having regard to the proposal for a decision of the European Parliament and of the Council on the revision of the financial perspective 2000-2006, presented by the Commission (COM(2004)0666),
 - having regard to the Interinstitutional Agreement of 6 May 1999 between the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission on budgetary discipline and improvement of the budgetary procedure ⁽²⁾,
 - having regard to the outcome of the conciliation meeting of 25 November 2004 with the Council,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Budgets and the opinion of the Committee on Foreign Affairs (A6-0069/2004),
- A. whereas the EU firmly supports the peace process in Northern Ireland and has prolonged the PEACE II programme,
- B. whereas a very substantial increase of decentralised agencies in heading 3 of the financial perspective was not foreseeable when the financial perspectives were adopted on 9 May 1999,
- C. whereas the possibility of EU participation in a major reconstruction programme in Iraq was also not foreseeable at that time,
- D. whereas the Commission proposal for a Decision of the European Parliament and of the Council had to be modified to reflect the outcome of the conciliation meeting of 25 November 2004;
1. Stresses its renewed support for the PEACE II programme and its financing; recalls, however, that a revision of the financial perspective sub-ceilings within heading 2, as originally proposed by the Commission, could have been an alternative solution;
2. Stresses that the mobilisation of the flexibility instrument for the decentralised agencies in heading 3 shows the need to reach a structural solution to the ever increasing volume of funding needed for these agencies and the need to reconcile this with needs for other political priorities in the internal policies field;
3. Stresses that the mobilisation of the flexibility instrument, provided for by point 24 of the Interinstitutional Agreement of 6 May 1999, has been decided for the fifth consecutive year for heading 4 as the needs to face international crises since 2000 could not be financed within the initial ceiling of this heading;
4. Approves the attached decision;
5. Instructs its President to forward this resolution, including the decision annexed thereto, to the Council and Commission.

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

- having regard to Letters of amendment Nos 1/2005 (15180/2004 — C6-0216/2004), 2/2005 (15181/2004 — C6-0217/2004) and 3/2005 (15182/2004 — C6-0218/2004) to the draft general budget of the European Union for the financial year 2005,
 - having regard to Rule 69 of and Annex IV to its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Budgets (A6-0068/2004),
- A. whereas the Budget for 2005 as adopted by the Parliament amounts to EUR 116 554 135 698 in commitments, which represents an increase of 6,1 % on the 2004 Budget, and EUR 106 300 000 000 in payments, which represents an increase of 4,4 % on the 2004 Budget; whereas this level of payments represents 1,004 % of estimated GNI for the year 2005, compared to 1,08 % as established by the Financial Perspective, a difference of EUR 7 935 million,
- B. whereas the Commission's letter concerning the possibility of implementing the amendments adopted to the draft budget 2005 was taken into consideration,
1. Decides to reconfirm its first reading priorities and amendments with the adjustments resulting from the agreement with the Council reached at the budget conciliation on 25 November 2004;

Heading 1: Agriculture

2. Regrets the Council's horizontal reduction on payments in accordance with its prerogative for compulsory expenditure; believes that the level of appropriations proposed in the Commission's Letter of amendment No 3/2005 would have been more appropriate;
3. Supports the agreement reached by the EP delegation at the Conciliation of 25 November 2004 to finance the pilot project on quality promotion and the pilot project on a risk financing model for livestock epidemics as a continuation of initiatives undertaken in 2004;

Heading 2: Structural Actions

4. Welcomes the improved implementation in 2004 and notes the Commission's forecast that this positive development should be sustained for 2005; draws particular attention to the positive effects of the N+2 rule and urges the Commission, also in light of payment claims received from Member States, to continue to clear the backlog of old programmes;
5. Confirms its decision to ensure the effective implementation of structural actions and approves the Joint Declaration annexed to this resolution, which will ensure that further payment appropriations can be made available, if necessary, by an Amending Budget in 2005;
6. Agrees with the Council to ensure the continuation of the PEACE II programme in support of the Northern Ireland peace process into 2005 and 2006 and to make available EUR 50 million for 2005, EUR 45 million of which is to be made available through the mobilisation of the flexibility instrument;

Heading 3: Internal Policies

7. Welcomes the agreement reached at the conciliation of 25 November 2004 whereby an additional EUR 40 million will be made available for 2005 in order to finance decentralised agencies while safeguarding and reinforcing Parliament's priorities, notably in the areas of the Lisbon Strategy to foster economic growth, sustainable development and job creation, Justice and Home Affairs (including the fight against terrorism) and Communication Policy (including information to citizens and the debate on the future of the Union);

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

8. Regrets, however, that the Council has accepted hardly any of Parliament's individual amendments and is especially concerned at the Council's unwillingness to recognise fully the consequences of the ever greater share of heading 3 taken up by the decentralised agencies;
9. Decides to enter appropriations for the decentralised agencies at the level of the preliminary draft budget;
10. Considers, as the 2005 budget procedure has shown, that Parliament's control at political and budgetary levels will be even more important for future years, as the agencies increase in number and their impact on heading 3 continues to grow; therefore calls on its Committee on Budgets to maintain its vigilance with respect to other political priorities for the coming years;
11. Confirms its rejection of the drastic reductions proposed by the Council for actions linked with the Lisbon Strategy and adds an additional EUR 62 million above the Council's proposal, of which EUR 42 million will be used for SMEs and EUR 20 million to boost other actions;
12. Has decided to create a pilot project on the "Fight against Terrorism" for an amount of EUR 7 million for its start-up year 2005; calls on the Commission and the Council to do their utmost to support this project which aims at maximising the impact of joint action to combat terrorism at EU level;
13. Confirms the importance it attaches to anti-pollution measures to protect the seas and has entered EUR 17,8 million in both commitment and payment appropriations for the programme managed by the European Maritime Safety Agency;
14. Approves the proposals for the budgetary items linked with the creation of the executive agencies as expressed in Letter of amendment No 2/2005;

Heading 4: External Policies

15. Welcomes the agreement reached on the overall funding for the external policies, including the mobilisation of the flexibility instrument for an amount of EUR 100 million for the financing of reconstruction and humanitarian measures in Iraq; underlines the responsibility of the Union to honour its commitments on a number of crucial issues such as the global fight against poverty, the promotion of human rights and democracy and the links with partner countries around the world;
16. Recalls that this agreement has been achieved without jeopardising other EU external policy priorities; regrets, nevertheless, that the Council's position has forced some reductions against a few lines where reinforcements proposed in the Parliament's first reading could otherwise have been maintained;
17. Requests the Commission to follow closely the developments in Ukraine and ensure that sufficient financial means are provided in order to support the further democratisation of the country;
18. Has decided to support a preparatory action to encourage vaccine development and fight serious poverty-related diseases in developing countries and therefore enters EUR 10 million against that budget line;
19. Has decided to maintain a separate budget heading for the fight against drugs and drug addiction in view of the need for special actions and visibility in this field; therefore enters EUR 6 million against Article 19 02 11;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

20. Asks the Commission, further to the information provided on financing of non-state actors after Parliament's first reading, to provide a report by April 2005 investigating possible changes to the application of Community rules and regulations, with specific reference to:

- (a) decreasing direct agreements with non-state actors in the external aid domain, among others by reviewing the contribution to international organisations, which may also decrease the visibility of EU aid;
- (b) lowering the maximum EU contribution to projects carried out by non-state actors compared to the maximum rate of 85 % which currently applies, and ensuring that the remainder is financed by non-public funds;
- (c) improving the financial control of non-state actors and coordination between international donors in response to the grave concerns described in the fifth activity report of the European Anti-Fraud Office;

Heading 5: Administrative Expenditure

21. Is willing to provide the EU institutions with the necessary means for 2005 to address the needs created by enlargement; restores, therefore, a significant part of the appropriations cut by the Council in its second reading and agrees to create almost all posts requested by the Institutions in their estimates for 2005;

22. Points out that the 2004 salary adjustment is only 0,7 % instead of 2,6 % as initially envisaged; considers that appropriations in the 2005 budget must be adjusted to take account of this lower than expected salary adjustment level; has, together with the Council, invited the Commission to submit not later than March 2005 an amending budget containing exclusively reductions of appropriations for administrative expenditure of the institutions resulting from the annual adaptation of salaries and pensions;

23. Estimates that, as a result of the salary adjustment, savings and anticipation of certain investments, a significant margin under the ceiling of heading 5 can be created partially in the budget for 2005 and through an Amending Budget adjusting the salaries and pensions during the year 2005;

24. Welcomes the Bureau's decision on the clarification of the rules concerning the parliamentary assistance allowance; invites the Bureau to pursue its work towards achieving a specific regime for parliamentary assistants; is willing, in principle, to release the appropriations entered in the reserve once the transfer request has been submitted;

25. Invites the secretaries-general of the institutions to present the fourth report on trends in heading 5, including an update on recruitment, by 1 April 2005;

Other Sections

26. Has re-introduced its first reading amendments with some modifications to take account of anticipation of expenditure from 2005 to 2004 by some other institutions;

27. Considers that EU Institutions should be able to use each other's facilities and premises, subject to availability, compatibility with their own activities, rules in force and respective decisions, while taking into account the financial implications;

Heading 7: Pre-Accession Strategy

28. Supports the agreement reached by the EP delegation at the Conciliation on 25 November 2004 to enter EUR 120 million for encouraging the economic development of the Turkish Cypriot community; also decides to reinforce the funding envisaged for Croatia to a level of EUR 105 million, in line with the pre-accession strategy for that country, and to transfer existing appropriations from heading 4 to heading 7;

*

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

29. Instructs its President to declare that the budget has been finally adopted and arrange for its publication in the Official Journal;

30. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Court of Justice, the Court of Auditors, the European Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of the Regions, the European Ombudsman, the European Data Protection Supervisor and the other institutions and bodies concerned.

ANNEXJoint declarations

1. "The Budgetary Authority invites the Commission to present each year, together with its PDB, an updated situation of those posts that cannot be occupied or have been redeployed as a result of the creation of Executive Agencies."

Amending Budget for 2005 on administrative expenditure

2. "The Budgetary Authority invites the Commission to submit not later than March 2005 an Amending Budget containing exclusively the reductions of appropriations for administrative expenditure of the institutions resulting from the annual adaptation of the salaries and pensions."

Payment appropriations for Heading 2

3. "If the execution of payment appropriations for Structural Funds exceeds 40 % by the end of July 2005, or if the Commission becomes otherwise convinced of a shortage in payment appropriations, the Commission will, after having examined the possibilities of redeployment of payment appropriations within the totality of the budget, including Heading 2, and evaluated possible sources of additional revenue, present as soon as possible a PDAB to the budgetary authority. The European Parliament and the Council will decide in one single reading on the PDAB in order to have additional appropriations needed available at the latest in early November 2005. This PDAB to be presented and decided in one single reading is exclusively meant for the appropriations needed under Heading 2."

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

- A. whereas it is imperative that at the start of its term of office the new Commission should submit general policy guidelines on which it will base its strategy during the five years ahead and on the basis of which it will draw up its successive annual legislative programmes,
- B. whereas the Commission's proposals for 2005-2009 should constitute a real roadmap for future action, enabling the Parliament to monitor, assess and judge progress made and the results achieved in the coming years,
- C. whereas the installation of the new Commission is a development of great potential in the process of matching the European Union's policy priorities more closely to those of the citizens of Europe,
1. Believes that the central objectives of the 2004-2009 European Commission should be:
- (i) to increase the competitiveness and dynamism of Europe's social-market economy, on the basis of sustainable development,
 - (ii) to ensure the cohesion and consolidation of Europe, underpinned by the success of enlargement,
 - (iii) to develop an area of freedom, security and justice, while protecting citizens' fundamental rights,
 - (iv) to make Europe a stronger and more effective force in building a safer and more prosperous world,
 - (v) to improve the quality of life of European citizens, and
 - (vi) to make Europe work better and bring it closer to the citizen;

A more competitive, more cohesive Europe

2. Invites Commission President Barroso to stand by, and deliver on, his key commitment to making Europe's increased competitiveness the top political priority of his term in office; believes that structural economic reform is central to "putting Europe to work", thus maximising the prospects for employment, investment and growth for European citizens;
3. Reiterates its support for the EU's Lisbon strategy as the best way of achieving a competitive European economy, and maintains that sustainable economic development should be the guiding principle for future policy;
4. Stresses, however, that the EU's Lisbon strategy currently addresses too many, often competing, objectives; urges the Commission, in the context of the Kok report and next spring's mid-term review, to invest significant political capital in streamlining and refocusing the Lisbon strategy on the central objective of generating sustainable growth and employment, with a more precise timetable for the achievement of its goals over the next five years;
5. Calls on the Commission to pursue the objective of strengthening and modernising the European model, stressing the interdependence of economic, social and environmental progress;
6. Points out that the visions of a stronger economy and of a better society are complementary, and that Europe's competitiveness strategy for the 21st century should be based on excellence in education, training and research, high-quality public services and infrastructure, social integration, better working conditions, a better work-life balance and a leading role in the world in terms of technologies and environmental standards;
7. Considers that, in light of the critical problem of ageing populations, together with that of intensifying international competition, the Commission should offer stronger leadership in proposing strategies to improve labour markets and encourage Member States to reform pensions;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

8. Believes that special attention should be given in the EU's agenda for economic reform to specific further action to complete the single market, notably in the energy, transport, telecommunications and financial services sectors;
9. Calls on the Commission to put in place an internal market policy which gives priority to the interests of consumers and social cohesion; believes that the adoption of social and environmental standards should be encouraged and particular attention paid to the rights of consumers, and that the development of the internal market should not be at odds with citizens' rights to services of general interest that are accessible and of a high quality;
10. Recalls that active participation in the labour market makes a substantial contribution to a decent standard of living, regional development and social cohesion, although investment in education and research, as well as government action in cases of serious market failure, also have a key role to play;
11. Believes that, if Europe is to emerge as a genuinely "knowledge-based" economy and society, higher priority will need to be given by the EU and its Member States to investing in knowledge and skills through better education and life-long learning;
12. Affirms that cohesion is a fundamental principle of the Treaties and of the future European Constitution which strengthens relations between Europe and its regions and reinforces economic, social and territorial cohesion; reaffirms that the financial instruments for achieving the Union's objectives, including cohesion, should be adequately funded;
13. Believes that the Commission should give greater priority to the development of a credible regional policy for all the Member States; believes that the structural and cohesion funds should contribute positively to reducing regional disparities, modernising the European economy, and ensuring regional and social cohesion;
14. Believes firmly that a robust and dynamic economic environment can only be established if the new Commission commits itself to reviewing the Stability and Growth Pact so as to ensure that it combines the role of providing a strong bulwark against fiscal irresponsibility with that of offering the necessary flexibility to ensure that Europe maximises its growth potential without endangering price stability;

An area of freedom, security and justice

15. Believes that the domestic and international fight against terrorism and organised crime — and the structures which sustain them — is critical to building a safer Europe for its citizens; believes that Europe should pursue a stronger common approach to security and an effective, coordinated counter-terrorism policy; stresses the importance in this process of ensuring the right balance between the requirements of law enforcement and the protection of fundamental freedoms and personal data;
16. Believes that the Commission should as a matter of urgency continue work on clearer common definitions of certain serious crimes with a cross-border dimension — notably terrorism, trafficking in drugs and human beings, money laundering, and cyber crime — backed by agreed minimum sentencing rules, where appropriate;
17. Invites the Commission to attach much higher priority to securing closer coordination of the police, judiciary and intelligence agencies of the Member States as a central prerequisite for effective policy in this field; calls for stronger EU measures to enable the freezing of the assets of and the cutting off of funds from individuals involved in terrorism and other serious crimes;
18. Invites the Commission to come forward with further proposals to strengthen Europol and Eurojust, while ensuring full parliamentary accountability and respect for data protection standards;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

19. Endorses the need for greater clarity in respect of the right of asylum, for quicker procedures for determining who qualifies for asylum and for the conclusion of readmission agreements with third countries; calls for clearer distinctions between, and differentiated treatment of, asylum seekers, economic migrants and temporary refugees in time of war; believes that the Commission should promote a fair common asylum and immigration policy backed by an active policy of social inclusion and integration; highlights the need for more coherent and consistent visa rules, and for effective partnerships with third countries to reduce illegal immigration at source;

20. Highlights the continuing need for action to strengthen the EU's external borders, backed by the creation of a European corps of border guards;

21. Calls for the establishment of a European Agency for fundamental rights to monitor their application effectively;

22. Asks the Commission to take all necessary action to ensure the adoption of a proper third-pillar data protection instrument which would guarantee the same standards as those already established in other fields by Community law;

23. Believes in the importance of continuing the integrated approach, based on the Community method, in the field of Justice and Home Affairs, as set out in the Tampere and Hague programmes;

A stronger Europe in a safer world

24. Believes that, in the interests of prosperity and peace, it is important that Europe use the next five years to project stability among its neighbours, promote democracy, human rights and good governance around the world, extend international free trade, and encourage sustainable development; believes that the promotion of regional stability and democracy is a distinct added value which the EU can offer to the international community, often with striking success; believes that every effort should be made in this process to give more consistency and coherence to the external actions of the Union;

25. Attaches great importance to the recently launched New Neighbourhood and Wider Europe policies and believes that these new policies can be powerful tools in promoting stability, prosperity, human rights, democracy, good governance and the rule of law in Europe and its immediate neighbourhood, including the Mediterranean; considers that the Northern Dimension of such policies also needs to be given new impetus;

26. Reaffirms its commitment to the continuing enlargement of the Union in accordance with the principles laid down in the Treaties and European Council decisions; stresses the individual merits of the candidate countries in fulfilling the membership criteria;

27. Reaffirms that multilateralism remains the best way to identify and meet threats, achieve global peace and security and, indeed, combat climate change; calls for continuous support, therefore, for the creation and implementation of multilateral instruments by the EU within the framework of the United Nations;

28. Believes that the Commission should continue to recast EU development policy as a vehicle for (i) advancing democracy, human rights and good governance in less advantaged nations, and (ii) achieving economic progress, sustainable development and the Millennium Development Goals, in a process underpinned by greater conditionality, coherence and decentralisation of assistance programmes; believes that the EU and its Member States should aim to increase total spending on development aid to 0,7 % of GDP by 2015;

29. Calls upon the transatlantic partners actively to support and strengthen international institutions, to reaffirm the value of international law, and to work together to define a common agenda for reform, particularly of the United Nations and the Bretton Woods institutions, in order to strengthen their effectiveness, credibility and democratic legitimacy;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

30. Calls on the Commission to strengthen and adapt to today's challenges its partnership strategies with the present leading global actors, in particular the United States, with which the Commission must create conditions fostering closer cooperation, particularly in:

- the fight against terrorism and the causes of terrorism, while striving for fair globalisation that is respectful of human rights, democracy and sustainable development;
- the revitalisation of the Middle East peace process with a view to the recognition of a viable Palestinian State and a guarantee of Israel's security;
- the successful launch of the new Doha Development Round, believing that any failure could have serious implications for the future credibility of the multilateral free-trade system; and
- the removal of the remaining barriers to transatlantic trade and investment, based on a joint commitment at the 2005 EU-US Summit to completing the transatlantic market by 2015;

A better quality of life

31. Calls on the Commission to work, in the domestic policy field, to increase the quality of life in Europe through policies designed to:

- enable citizens to take full advantage of their freedom to work, study and travel within the EU;
- build a society in which all citizens enjoy equal opportunities, in which the rights and freedoms of the disabled are respected, and in which poverty is reduced;
- enhance air quality in our towns and water quality in our rivers and on our coasts;
- improve food safety and other safeguards for the consumer;
- promote more efficient and self-sufficient energy use, backed by trans-European energy networks and greater security of supply;
- pursue an active transport policy, based on the balanced liberalisation of markets, improvement of infrastructure links and the continued promotion of safety; and
- encourage sustainable farming and fisheries, protect our countryside, rivers and seas, and bring new life to rural and coastal areas;

32. Urges the Commission to redouble its efforts, in particular, to secure global action on climate change, moving to Phase II of the Kyoto Protocol, whilst exploring increased ways of developing market mechanisms for tackling this and other environmental challenges;

33. Invites the Commission to sustain the significant progress that has already been made in reforming the Common Agricultural Policy, whose effect is, and should be, to make the policy more open, efficient, decentralised, market-responsive and consumer- and environment-friendly; calls for continued parallel reform of the Common Fisheries Policy, including the creation of a European Fisheries Fund;

A Europe that works better and is closer to the citizen

34. Invites the Commission to come forward with innovative ideas for giving greater substance to the concept of European citizenship, so that Europe delivers visible benefit to real people in their daily lives;

35. Encourages the Commission to accelerate work in the field of better law-making, with a view to:

- (i) simplifying and reducing the volume of existing legislation,
- (ii) ensuring that consistent principles are applied in the drafting of new legislation, and
- (iii) securing agreed procedures between EU institutions for the prior assessment of the likely impact of all substantive legislative proposals;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

36. Believes that the EU should focus more than in the past on the effective implementation of existing law; calls on the Commission to take speedier, more consistent action in ensuring the proper transposition and enforcement of EU law in Member States, with more pro-active legal action against being taken against serious offences;

37. Believes that the financial perspectives already proposed by the Commission for the period post-2006 should take proper account of developments since last spring, reflect the new Commission's priorities (in line with this resolution), and run for a financing period in line with the length of the mandates of the Parliament and the Commission;

38. Stresses the need for the Commission to continue its internal reform drive, with a view to turning its administration into a world-class international civil service that uses modern management practices and offers full openness and accountability in the use of public money;

39. Demands that the specific commitments made at the hearings of the Commissioners designate regarding possible conflicts of interest be adhered to and feature in any new code of conduct agreed between the Parliament and the Commission;

40. Underlines the important role of the Commission in communicating to citizens why Europe matters and what Europe is trying to achieve; believes that the Commission should draw up, as a matter of urgency, an appropriate communication and campaign strategy which presents the new Constitution to Europe's citizens in as clear, fair and understandable a way as possible;

41. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council and the Commission.

Bulgaria's progress towards accession

European Parliament resolution on Bulgaria's progress towards accession (COM(2004)0657 — C6-0150/2004 — 2004/2183(INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission's 2004 Regular Report on Bulgaria's progress towards accession (SEC(2004)1199) and Strategy Paper (COM(2004)0657 — C6-0150/2004),
 - having regard to the Presidency Conclusions of the Copenhagen European Council of 12 and 13 December 2002, the Thessaloniki European Council of 19 and 20 June 2003 and the Brussels European Council of 12 and 13 December 2003,
 - having regard to its resolutions since the beginning of the accession process,
 - having regard to Rule 45 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Foreign Affairs and the opinion of the Committee on Budgets (A6-0065/2004),
- A. whereas Bulgaria is a part of the current inclusive and irreversible enlargement process,
- B. whereas the accession process must be based on the own merits principle and the timing of Bulgaria's accession should not be linked to that of any other candidate country, and whereas Bulgaria should therefore accede to the EU on the basis of an individual accession treaty,
- C. whereas Bulgaria continues its steady progress on the path to accession to the European Union, having provisionally closed all 31 negotiating chapters, and is therefore well on course for accession in January 2007,

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

1. Welcomes the Commission's conclusion that Bulgaria continues to fulfil the Copenhagen political criteria, that its economic structures and performance have again significantly improved and that the level of alignment and implementation of commitments all place Bulgaria on track for accession within the envisaged timeframe;
2. Strongly supports the ongoing reform of Bulgaria's public administration and the amendments to its Civil Service law strengthening the merit principle;
3. Welcomes the channelling of significantly increased resources into judicial reform and calls for further increased efforts to counter organised crime and corruption as well as trafficking in people; urges the Bulgarian authorities to take effective action to prevent abuse of powers by state authorities against persons entering or transiting Bulgaria; calls on Bulgaria further to take steps to improve conditions for those held in police custody by introducing adequate training for police officers;
4. Calls on Bulgaria to take further effective action to prevent trafficking in people, especially women and children, including the establishment of a reliable data base for abused and missing persons as well as a reliable system of witness protection;
5. Commends Bulgaria on its efforts to develop a framework to tackle the problems faced by minorities; calls on Bulgaria, assisted by greater targeted action on the part of the Commission, to take determined measures to expedite the integration of the Roma into mainstream society, particularly through provision of educational and employment opportunities, improved living conditions and access to health care and family planning, while at the same time recognising the need for the Roma themselves to adapt and to assume responsibilities in all those areas;
6. Welcomes the progress made in child welfare but calls for clarification and strengthening of ministerial responsibility within a single, well-resourced agency, greater transparency in the international adoption system and significant improvement in the situation of children in institutions and special schools; calls on Bulgaria to pay special attention to the situation of persons placed by public authorities in homes for adults with mental disorders;
7. Supports the Commission's conclusion that Bulgaria is a functioning market economy and commends Bulgaria on its continuous GDP growth, significant decrease in the rate of unemployment and record levels of foreign direct investment while noting that unemployment is still high, many people still fail to see improvement in their economic situation, and the emigration of highly qualified people, together with low mobility of regional labour forces, is creating shortages in some key sectors;
8. Commends Bulgaria on developing the administrative capacity to implement the "acquis" and notes that it is on track for early completion of the required legislative transposition;
9. Points out that for the years 2000 to 2004 total financial pre-accession assistance to Bulgaria has amounted to around EUR 178 million annually from PHARE, EUR 57,6 million from Sapard and between EUR 93 and EUR 127 million from ISPA; supports the decision to provide additional PHARE funding of EUR 550 million over the period 2000 to 2009 to facilitate the changing of the Kozloduy nuclear power plant;
10. Calls on the Commission to improve the management and targeting of Community funds in order to maximise their cost-effectiveness;
11. Assures Bulgaria that the Parliament will continue to monitor Bulgaria's further progress in its accession preparations;
12. Calls on the Council and the Commission to reward the progress and achievements made by Bulgaria in its preparations by adhering to the principle of "own merits" and concluding negotiations and signing the Accession Treaty as early as possible in 2005, preferably in the early spring, thus enabling timely ratification and accession on 1 January 2007;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

13. Calls on the Council and Commission, once the Accession Treaty is concluded, to examine the possibilities of increasing pre-accession financial assistance;
 14. Expresses its grave concern over the plight of the Bulgarian and Palestinian medical workers arrested in 1999 as suspects in a criminal case and the death sentences handed down against them on 6 May 2004; pending the appeal process, trusts that Libya, upon re-examination of existing evidence, may wish to conclude that justice would be served by their release at the earliest opportunity;
 15. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission and the Bulgarian Government and Parliament.

Romania's progress towards accession

European Parliament resolution on Romania's progress towards accession (COM(2004)0657 — C6-0151/2004 — 2004/2184(INI))

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission's 2004 Regular Report on Romania's progress towards accession and to the Commission Strategy Paper on progress in the enlargement process (COM(2004)0657 — C6-0151/2004),
 - having regard to the Presidency Conclusions of the Copenhagen European Council of 12 and 13 December 2002 and the Brussels European Council of 12 and 13 December 2003,
 - having regard to all its resolutions since the start of the accession process,
 - having regard to Rule 45 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Foreign Affairs and the opinion of the Committee on Budgets (A6-0061/2004),
- A. whereas Romania has made significant efforts to move towards accession,
 - B. whereas the assessment of Romania is based on strict observance of the Copenhagen criteria and the Presidency Conclusions of the Helsinki European Council of 10 and 11 December 1999, as well as on the principle of a differentiated approach,
 - C. whereas further efforts are needed, especially in the sphere of justice and home affairs as regards combating corruption and organised crime and as regards border checks, and in the area of competition as regards state aid, and also in the field of the environment as regards the implementation of legislation in all sectors and the alignment of horizontal legislation,

Political situation and criteria

1. Acknowledges that, as the Commission's report concluded, Romania is satisfying the Copenhagen political criteria and has strengthened the stability of its institutions, thereby guaranteeing democracy, the rule of law, human rights, and respect for, and protection of, minorities, those of the Hungarians no less than those of the Roma, although the need remains for further reforms in the spheres of justice and public administration and greater efforts to combat corruption;
2. Congratulates Romania on the progress achieved as regards administrative and judicial reforms and on the launch of the strategy to reform public administration, essential for decentralisation and devolved organisation of the civil service and for policy coordination; is confident that Romania recognises the importance of continuing to pursue administrative and judicial reforms as a priority and that considerable efforts will continue to be devoted to implementing these reforms across the board;

3. Urges Romania to press swiftly ahead with Civil Service reform as a priority, as it has to do in order to integrate smoothly into the Union; recommends that particular attention be paid to implementing the provisions of the public administration reform strategy of May 2004, with specific emphasis on adequate remuneration for civil servants, promotion on the basis of merit and open competition, and improved management and training; welcomes the adoption of the Code of Ethics for Civil Servants in February 2004;

4. Welcomes the efforts that Romania has made in the area of decentralisation and local government, and in particular the strategy of May 2004; is concerned, however, that Romania has yet to address the problems identified by the Commission's 2003 report in this area; emphasises the importance of strengthening administrative capacity and financial management at the local level, while ensuring that local government has sufficient revenues and human and material resources;

5. Acknowledges that, in keeping with its request, emergency ordinances have been used only in the "exceptional circumstances" provided for in the Romanian Constitution, but regrets that, in reality, reliance on this type of practice has not decreased; repeats its call for the Romanian Government to refrain from resorting to emergency ordinances and to employ ordinary legislative procedures; calls for a clearer and more explicit definition of what is meant by "exceptional circumstances" in the context of emergency ordinances;

6. Congratulates Romania on the October 2003 revision of its Constitution, which has helped to rationalise parliamentary procedures in that the two houses have each been given primary responsibility for different types of legislation; is of the opinion that efforts need to continue with a view to improving policy-making and law-making;

7. Calls on Romania, and in particular the judicial authorities, to give full effect to the laws on freedom of information; calls on the Romanian Government and Parliament to bring greater openness to law-making so that the media can scrutinise their work more easily;

8. Believes that, as far as freedom of expression is concerned, the legal position for journalists has improved, but is alarmed at the growing number of serious physical assaults on investigative journalists and calls for efforts to be made to shed light on these cases; is concerned also at the fact that many organisations active in the media field remain in a precarious economic situation, enabling the authorities to exert pressure; considers that further efforts are needed to guarantee the independence of the media more effectively; therefore encourages further steps to guarantee the complete assertion of freedom of expression;

9. Calls on Romania to intensify the strategy and action plan adopted by the Government with a view to completing the reform of the judicial system, focusing on practical enforcement of the laws adopted; to that end, calls on Romania swiftly to provide the human and financial resources needed to make the reform effective;

10. Welcomes measures taken thus far to disentangle the executive from the judiciary, such as removing the Minister of Justice's power to make judicial appointments or promotions; expresses disquiet at the Commission's finding referring to official surveys which confirm that the executive continues to influence the outcome of judicial proceedings; renews its call for the judicial system to be made more independent and professional; calls on Romania to create an environment more conducive to the exercise of judicial authority by recruiting more judges and offering them greater opportunities to follow in-service training, including through the use of best practice as tried and tested in the EU countries; calls on Romania to follow all the recommendations of the Commission's regular report in this area in order to ensure the proper rule of law;

11. Urges Romania to make significant progress in the area of decentralisation and local self-government by awarding more and adequate financial as well as personnel resources to local authorities, by modernising working methods, by increasing salaries and by providing effective training;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

12. Congratulates the Government on adopting a set of three laws concerning the Judicial Service Commission, organisation of the judicial system, and the status of judges; calls on the authorities to start enforcing these laws, which entered into force on 30 September 2004, with the aim of making the judicial system markedly more independent and effective;
13. Expresses disquiet that, despite the concern expressed by the Commission regarding the freedom of association legislation, the registration of alternative political organisations representing national minorities has encountered considerable administrative obstacles, preventing them from participating in elections;
14. Notes that corruption remains a source of serious concern; is alarmed, in this context, at the Commission's assessment that the number of successful prosecutions for corruption in Romania remains low, especially for high-level corruption; calls on the Romanian Government to step up its efforts to fight corruption, focusing especially on high-level corruption; calls on Romania to make further efforts to confer greater responsibility on the Corruption Enforcement Office and to guarantee its independence and effectiveness; welcomes Romania's positive response to the European Parliament's call to increase the staffing levels of the National Anti-Corruption Prosecutor's Office and her positive participation thus far in the Council of Europe's Group of States against corruption (GRECO), and urges her to make further moves in this direction;
15. Calls on Romania, given that it is a country of origin, transit, and destination for victims of people-trafficking, to take specific law enforcement measures in that area, such as closer cooperation between the Romanian authorities concerned (border police, national police, public prosecutor's office, department of aliens, national refugee office, etc.) and their counterparts in neighbouring countries, and to submit accurate annual figures to enable the progress of those measures to be gauged;
16. Congratulates Romania on its July 2004 action plan on adoption of the Schengen criteria and calls on it to implement the plan rapidly and in full so as to speed up modernisation of its equipment, facilities and human resources and to improve policing and surveillance of its borders with Ukraine, Moldova, and the Black Sea;
17. Congratulates Romania on responding to international appeals and Parliament's requests by introducing national child protection standards and strict rules to govern inter-country adoption; considers that, if properly enforced, this new legislative framework should serve to protect children's rights even more effectively; points out that all families affected by the moratorium should continue to receive a reply and therefore supports the idea of creating an international commission to study certain cases in the near future;
18. Asks that special attention be given to children and young adults leaving institutional care who need to be adequately reintegrated and supported in the community and protected from abuse;
19. Congratulates Romania on aligning its legislation with the practice of the European Court of Human Rights regarding the prevention of ill-treatment at detention centres, but is alarmed by the continuing reports concerning cases of ill-treatment at police stations, prisons, and mental hospitals; calls on the Romanian authorities to investigate effectively all abuses and bring to justice those responsible for human rights violations;
20. Expresses its deep concern at the fact that people with mental disabilities are subjected to arbitrary detention in mental hospitals and at the inadequacy of conditions and lack of appropriate care in many mental hospitals and other residential institutions for people with mental disabilities; calls on Romania to address this situation as a matter of the utmost urgency and to ensure that hospitals and institutions have adequate resources for treatment and living conditions;
21. Considers that the Roma strategy, aimed expressly at combating discrimination, is admittedly being implemented, but voices its disquiet about the Commission's view that violence and de facto discrimination against the Roma minority, even in official institutions, are still very widespread; urges the Romanian Government to continue to expand its action in this area and to prioritise education and capacity-building together with special measures to counteract discrimination; and welcomes the recent establishment of the National Agency for Roma Affairs;

Economic criteria

22. Congratulates Romania on the conclusions of the Commission's report that Romania fulfils the criteria indicative of a functioning market economy and has been vigorously implementing a structural reform programme that should enable it to cope with competitive pressure and market forces within the Union;

23. Calls on Romania to make the improvements required to bolster macroeconomic stability and consolidate the structural reforms; points out that, in order to continue reducing the public sector deficit, it is necessary to ensure financial discipline, continuously adjusting energy prices so as to enable costs to be covered and improving the financial performance of public enterprises;

24. Calls on the Government to bring privatisation to completion, settle the disputes which have arisen from that process, and rapidly dismantle enterprises which are not viable; considers that progress is needed as regards the operation of the judicial system and public administration so as to enable the law to be enforced consistently and predictably and to create a favourable environment for business and foreign investment;

25. Points out that poverty remains an extremely serious problem in Romania, even though the indicators measuring this scourge have fallen slightly within the last two years (2003 and 2004); applauds the work of the Romanian Government, which has set out to fight social exclusion and poverty as a matter of priority and has done a great deal to identify the main challenges, namely those posed by children leaving public institutions, young people who cannot enter the labour market, farming families, pensioners, the homeless and the Roma, and urges it to seek the most appropriate solutions; welcomes the fact that a legal framework has been laid down to govern welfare provision and that an attempt is being made to involve non-governmental organisations in the distribution of the welfare aid; calls on the Romanian authorities to continue to develop poverty statistics and to finalise the memorandum on social inclusion compiled jointly with the Commission;

26. Congratulates Romania on adopting a substantial body of social welfare legislation, increasing public spending in that area, and adopting a social programme for 2003 and 2004 aimed at fostering solidarity; at the same time stresses that Romania should take more rigorous measures than hitherto to create opportunities for new business start-ups in the country as a basis for future prosperity; and urges Romania to continue the reform of the social security and welfare system, particularly with regard to improving health services, including a comprehensive reform of mental health care and ensuring the social inclusion of people with disabilities;

Criteria related to the "acquis"

27. Considers that Romania has achieved a satisfactory degree of alignment in the vast majority of areas and that, if it continues to advance at the current rate and honours its undertakings, it will have every prospect of completing the requisite legislative transposition before the scheduled accession date;

28. Supports Romania's efforts to boost its administrative capacities in most of the areas covered by the "acquis"; points out to Romania that improvements to legislation and the adoption of action plans are not enough, but that implementation and enforcement arrangements should be adopted in all areas; considers that specific steps should be taken to monitor the application of laws and that accurate annual figures should be supplied to enable the progress of these measures to be gauged;

29. Calls on Romania to address itself energetically to the measures which have still to be transposed in the areas of the free movement of goods, the free movement of capital, customs and financial control;

30. Calls on Romania to do much more to implement the legislation in all sectors related to the environment; calls on Romania to improve the alignment of horizontal environmental legislation, especially in the sectors of air quality, waste management, water quality and nature conservation, and in a number of other sectors;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

31. Supports the ambitions of the Romanian Government to develop the Danube delta as a Natura 2000 area and calls on the Commission to accompany these activities by supporting them as a cross-border measure with Ukraine and also by mediating in the ongoing conflict of interests, which could otherwise present an obstacle to the full protection of this important European nature area;
32. Believes that, as far as state aid is concerned, there is still room for great improvement in the record of the Romanian authorities regarding enforcement of the legislation;
33. Urges Romania to ensure that consistently high standards of public procurement and tendering rules and procedures are adhered to, in accordance with the "acquis";
34. Considers in general that the administrative and enforcement capacities of the agencies responsible for managing Community funds need to be boosted substantially; believes, as far as agriculture is concerned, that Romania must further strengthen the administrative and enforcement capacities of the Sapard Agency;
35. Calls on Romania, as regards social policy and employment, to ensure that the Labour Inspectorate has sufficient resources to enable health and safety provisions to be enforced; calls on it, in addition, to focus its efforts with a view to improving the business climate;
36. Urges the Romanian Government to improve the conditions for the implementation of the European Social Fund, and thereby also the absorption capacity for the funding of employment strategy measures;
37. Notes that the alignment of Romania's legislation with the "acquis communautaire" is relatively satisfactory in the fields of energy, industry, research and telecommunications; nevertheless calls on the Government to bring the utmost attention to bear on the legislation related to industrial policy, given that the structural weaknesses in the sector limit the capacity for enforcement; considers that measures to ensure the security of energy supplies are also urgently needed, since decommissioning inefficient heating systems and dealing with unviable coal mines are still key challenges, which require social measures to be taken to relieve labour hardship, and that the liberalisation of the telecoms sector needs to be rethought;
38. Points out that for the year 2004 the total financial pre-accession assistance to Romania has amounted to around EUR 825 million, i.e. EUR 405,3 million for the PHARE National Programme, EUR 158,7 million from Sapard and between EUR 289 and EUR 343 million from ISPA; thus, the total volume of assistance is equal to around 1,4% of the country's GDP;
39. Calls on Romania to continue its efforts as regards regional policy and coordination of structural instruments so as to raise its administrative capacities to a level that would enable it to benefit to the full from the structural instruments;
40. Calls on Romania to bring the utmost attention to bear on implementation of legislation in the field of justice and home affairs and to strengthen the law enforcement agencies and institutions, which are still hampered by staff shortages and a lack of training capacities; and calls on it to speed up the restitution of property and to adopt legislation on the restitution of churches;
41. Expresses its deep concern about the long transitional periods agreed regarding the environment chapter, particularly as regards the Rosia Montana mine development, which poses a serious environmental threat to the whole region;

Conclusion

42. Hopes and believes that the negotiations can be brought to a swift and satisfactory conclusion by the end of 2004, if Romania, the Council and the Commission make the necessary efforts, so as to enable the accession treaty to be signed as early as possible in 2005 and to enter into force on 1 January 2007;
43. Points out that Romania will be subject to the same provisions as Bulgaria and the new Member States, and will therefore be made subject to specific safeguard clauses in the event of serious shortcomings (under Articles 37, 38, and 39 of the Athens Treaty);

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

44. Points out to Romania that, in addition, a specific safeguard measure could be invoked in relation to it — and, for that matter, in relation to Bulgaria — whereby the Commission, were it to consider that there existed a serious risk that Romania might not be able to fulfil the obligations deriving from accession, especially as regards implementation of the “acquis” and compliance with the Copenhagen political criteria, could recommend that the Council, acting unanimously, put back its accession by one year; the accession of Romania must be accomplished on merit and on the strength of its performance;

45. Will keep a close watch on developments during the time between the signing of the treaty and accession proper; in this connection, calls on the Commission to continue to keep Parliament regularly informed via its Committee on Foreign Affairs;

46. Urges Romania, therefore, to show singleness of purpose and perseverance in giving full effect to the commitments that it has entered into during the negotiations; will ensure that the Commission provides for close ongoing monitoring and assistance arrangements to help Romania on that path;

47. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to Council, the Commission and the Government and Parliament of Romania.

The European Parliament,

— having regard to its previous resolutions on the situation in Zimbabwe, most recently that of 15 January 2004 ⁽¹⁾,

— having regard to Rule 115(5) of its Rules of Procedure,

- A. whereas 75 % of the Zimbabwean population, some nine million people, are now living below the poverty line, and the World Food Programme has only been able to provide food aid for 1,6 million people in December 2004, owing to interference from the Mugabe regime,
- B. whereas the Mugabe regime is intensifying its political oppression under the Public Order and Security Act and other such measures, as well as through additional repressive legislation, for example the Non-Governmental Organisations Act, which infringes fundamental human rights such as freedom of association,
- C. whereas a case of particular and urgent concern is that of opposition MP Roy Bennett, who, in the five years since his election, has been the subject of a vicious campaign of persecution by the Mugabe regime; whereas Roy Bennett MP was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour on 28 October 2004 on spurious charges and is now being held in appalling conditions in Mutoko,
- D. whereas a general election is scheduled to take place in Zimbabwe in March 2005, but whereas the regime's Zimbabwe Electoral Commission Bill and Electoral Bill fall short of the required Southern Africa Development Community (SADC) standards for free and fair elections,

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

- E. whereas the main opposition party, the Movement for Democratic Change (MDC), is reluctant to confirm participation in the March 2005 elections until the basic conditions for free and fair elections have been guaranteed,
- F. whereas the MDC leader Morgan Tsvangirai, who has been subject to constant intimidation by the Zimbabwean authorities, was again subject to harassment on his recent return to Zimbabwe from visits to the European Parliament and European and African capitals,
- G. whereas deep splits have recently emerged in Zimbabwe's ruling party, the Zimbabwe African National Union — Patriotic Front (Zanu-PF),
1. Insists that all political interference in the distribution of international food aid be halted without delay, to prevent the Zanu-PF government from using food as a political weapon;
 2. Insists that repressive legislation such as the Public Order and Security Act be repealed and that the forthcoming elections in Zimbabwe be held in accordance with the SADC principles and guidelines governing democratic elections, including those agreed in Mauritius on 17 August 2004, with unimpeded access for international observers and an end to intimidation of opposition supporters;
 3. Demands the immediate release of Roy Bennett MP and the cessation of all violence and intimidation towards his family and employees;
 4. Calls upon Zimbabwe's neighbours, and in particular President Thabo Mbeki of South Africa, who recently addressed the European Parliament, to undertake on behalf of the people of Zimbabwe to bring about change for the better and ensure that the Zimbabwean Government fully cooperates with the SADC and the wider international community to guarantee free and fair elections and a robust and timely international monitoring presence;
 5. Welcomes the steps taken by the African Commission on Human and People's Rights to report on abuses in Zimbabwe, and stresses that the African Union must continue to monitor, and also act in regard to, the human rights, civil rights and political situation in Zimbabwe and to keep up this process of peer review throughout Africa;
 6. Reiterates its demand to the Council and the Commission that loopholes in the EU's targeted sanctions against the Mugabe regime be closed, and that the sanctions be rigorously enforced; also requests that the Council and the Commission provide maximum support for international efforts to ensure free and fair elections in Zimbabwe, and in particular technical support to local, regional and international observer missions;
 7. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the Governments of the Member States, the Government and Parliament of Zimbabwe, the Government and Parliament of South Africa, the UN Secretary-General, the Chairpersons of the Commission and Executive Council of the African Union and the Secretary-General of the SADC.

— having regard to Rule 115(5) of its Rules of Procedure,

- A. having regard to the solemn undertakings given at the UN Conference on the African Great Lakes in Dar es Salaam in the presence of 16 African heads of state,

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

- B. whereas less than a week after the end of the conference, Rwandan troops again entered the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC), for the third time in ten years,
 - C. whereas as a result of the resumption of hostilities the civilian population of eastern DRC are daily being made victims of war crimes and grave human rights violations, whereas Parliament is shocked by the sexual violence and rape used as weapons of war against Congolese women and whereas most of the victims do not have access to the health care which their condition necessitates,
 - D. shocked by the news of rapes, paedophile acts and other acts of violence perpetrated by certain members of the military and civilian personnel of the United Nations Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (MONUC) against the civilian population,
 - E. whereas the DRC is struggling to recover from a devastating six-year conflict that has caused over 3 million deaths and continues to destabilise central Africa and cause immense suffering to the country's civilian population,
 - F. whereas the DRC is in an extremely delicate transitional phase, with the difficult task of setting up viable institutions, and stressing that the cooperation of all parties concerned is needed for the success of the transition,
 - G. whereas for the past 10 years the presence of Rwandan armed forces emanating from the authorities which fell from power in 1994 has served as a pretext for the presence in the DRC of troops of the current Rwandan authorities,
 - H. whereas the need for action against the Interahamwe and the ex-FAR (Rwandan armed forces) has been underestimated by the international community,
 - I. whereas the report of the UN Commission of Inquiry of August 2004 stresses the role played by Rwanda in supporting and arming rebel forces fighting the Government of the DRC, particularly those which occupied the town of Bukavu in June 2004, and the storage of arms in Kivu by Rwandan forces,
 - J. whereas, by August 2003, the United Nations estimated that 3,4 million Congolese had been internally displaced as a result of armed conflict, the majority in eastern DRC,
 - K. having regard to the African Union's intention of participating more actively in the disarmament of the illegal armed groups, particularly those which are Rwandan, based in the east of the DRC,
 - L. whereas, according to the report by the United Nations Security Council, illegal arms continue to flood into the DRC from abroad,
 - M. whereas it is more vital than ever to disarm the armed groups which are within the territory of the DRC, as provided for in the Lusaka Agreement of 1999 and the Pretoria Agreement of 2002,
 - N. whereas the district of Ituri and the provinces of North and South Kivu are still not at peace and whereas the persistent illegal exploitation of natural resources continues to foment the conflict,
1. Condemns the unilateral military action by Rwanda and calls for the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of its troops from Congolese territory;
 2. Considers that this unilateral action may have serious consequences for the peace process and stability in the Great Lakes region; stresses that all commitments must be respected;
 3. Calls on the Government of Rwanda to respect the territorial integrity of the DRC, and on all parties to the conflict to respect and comply with the 2003 peace agreements and United Nations Security Council resolutions;
 4. Stresses that at the International Peace and Security Conference on the Great Lakes, held on 20 November 2004 in Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania, the heads of state committed themselves to ending conflicts in the region;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

5. Strongly condemns the numerous instances of sexual violence and rapes committed in the DRC by armed groups and by certain members of the military and civilian personnel of MONUC;
6. Calls on the Government of the DRC to implement an emergency medical programme for victims of sexual violence in the eastern part of the DRC;
7. Calls on the Government of the DRC, in the context of the restoration of the rule of law, to bring to justice all the individuals responsible for acts of violence;
8. Welcomes the decision by the United Nations to carry out an inquiry into the allegations of acts of sexual violence against women and, pending the conclusions of the inquiry, calls for the persons involved to be suspended;
9. Calls on the Council to take all measures to support the African Union which are necessary in order to organise, in liaison with MONUC and under a UN mandate, the disarmament of the illegal armed groups within the territory of the DRC, particularly those emanating from the former Rwandan authorities (the Interahamwe and ex-FAR);
10. Hopes that the armed forces of Member States of the European Union will participate actively in the formation of the peace-keeping forces of the African Union and of the Congolese unified national army;
11. Urges the Council to consider, as a matter of urgency, a new European Union mission to the DRC, along the same lines as the Artemis operation, to increase security in the east of the country, particularly along the border between Rwanda and the DRC;
12. Calls for the arms embargo to be respected and for effective arrangements to be instituted to control international and national arms shipments;
13. Calls on the United Nations Security Council to impose sanctions (travel restrictions, bans on banking services) on persons who are known to have participated in the pillaging of assets and on any person whose actions jeopardise the peace process;
14. Calls for the timetable for the elections to be respected so that the people of the DRC can freely and democratically choose their leaders;
15. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the African Union, the Governments of the DRC and Rwanda and the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Bhopal

European Parliament resolution on Bhopal

The European Parliament,

— having regard to Rule 115(5) of its Rules of Procedure,

- A. whereas 2004 is the 20th anniversary of the Bhopal tragedy, which was the worst industrial disaster in history,
- B. whereas, on the night of 2 December 1984, over 35 tons of toxic gases leaked from a pesticide plant in Bhopal owned by the US-based multinational Union Carbide Corporation (UCC)'s Indian subsidiary, Union Carbide India Limited (UCIL), consisting in the main of at least 24 tons of extremely poisonous methyl isocyanate,

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

- C. whereas in the next two to three days more than 7 000 people died and many more were injured, and whereas over the last 20 years an estimated 15 000 to 30 000 people have died from illnesses related to gas exposure; whereas the 2003 annual report of the Madhya Pradesh Government's Bhopal Gas Tragedy Relief and Rehabilitation Department revealed that, by October 2003, compensation had been awarded in 15 248 cases of death and 554 895 cases of injury or disability,
- D. whereas today more than 100 000 people affected by the gas exposure continue to suffer chronic and debilitating illnesses for which treatment is largely ineffective, which often condemn them to a life as social outcasts in deprivation and misery, and which have led to them being perceived as the "living dead",
- E. whereas Union Carbide clearly did not apply the same standards of safety in design or operations to Bhopal as it had in place in the USA, notably any comprehensive emergency plan or system in Bhopal to warn local communities about leaks, despite warnings as early as 1982 of major safety concerns regarding the Bhopal plant,
- F. whereas, even today, the chemicals that Union Carbide left behind continue to poison the water supply, causing cancer and birth defects,
- G. whereas, in 1999, local groundwater and well-water testing near the site of the accident revealed mercury at levels between 20 000 and 6 million times those expected; whereas chemicals causing cancer, brain-damage and birth-defects were also found in the water; and whereas trichloroethene (a chemical that has been shown to impair foetal development) was found at levels 50 times higher than US Environmental Protection Agency safety limits,
- H. whereas, since the purchase of Union Carbide by Dow Chemicals in 2001, for more than USD 10 billion, the new owners have refused to clean up the Bhopal site, which continues to contaminate, and to fund medical care for those affected,
- I. whereas, 20 years later, the survivors still await just compensation, adequate medical assistance and treatment, and comprehensive economic and social rehabilitation,
- J. whereas, in 1989, Union Carbide and its Indian subsidiary entered into a legal settlement with the Government of India in the sum of USD 470 million to cover all claims, which was affirmed by the Supreme Court of India and pursuant to which that sum was paid out in full to the Government of India immediately after the Supreme Court decision,
- K. whereas the amount of USD 470 million, after payment of lawyers' fees and alleged bribes to corrupt Indian officials, was reduced to a derisory sum of USD 300 for each victim of the catastrophe, an amount which did not even cover medical expenses,
- L. whereas in July 2004 the Supreme Court of India ordered the Government of India to release all additional settlement funds to the victims,
- M. whereas over the years the money meant for 105 000 victims has been distributed amongst more than five times the number of dead, injured and disabled used by the Supreme Court to calculate the settlement, which has resulted in grave injustice to victims, and whereas payments of whatever little money was finally distributed only started in 1992,
- N. whereas the Indian Government has done little to protect people from additional exposure and injury and there has still been no assessment of the damage or plan for remediation,

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

- O. whereas, pursuant to the settlement, the Government of India assumed responsibility for providing medical coverage to citizens of Bhopal in the event of future illnesses,
- P. whereas the poor quality of the health care system has meant that most survivors have had to spend most of their compensation money on private medical treatment,
- Q. whereas despite a Supreme Court order in May 2004 to provide clean drinking water to communities affected by the contaminated water the Government of Madhya Pradesh has not yet implemented the order in full,
- R. acknowledging that both UCC/Dow and the Indian and Madhya Pradesh Governments failed to comply with their respective obligations and responsibilities to prevent the gas leak and fully address its consequences, as well as to prevent and stop the continuing pollution of the environment and water through the dispersal of toxic and hazardous substances,
1. Expresses its sincerest sympathy to the relatives of the deceased and those still suffering from the after-effects of exposure to the gas, and calls for better compensation and treatment for the victims;
 2. Condemns the fact that inhabitants still do not have access to anything near their daily requirements in clean water while lawyers continue debating who should shoulder responsibility for those affected by the disaster;
 3. Calls on the Governments of India and Madhya Pradesh to
 - (a) ensure the effective and prompt decontamination and clean-up of the Bhopal site,
 - (b) ensure regular supplies of adequate safe water for domestic use by the affected communities, in line with the order issued by the Supreme Court, and ensure adequate and accessible health care for all survivors,
 - (c) reassess the compensation received by victims, following the 1989 settlement, and make up any shortfall, in line with the Supreme Court's 1991 order;
 4. Deeply regrets that the 1989 settlement between Union Carbide and the Indian Government has never had any positive impact on those exposed to the gas, or indeed paid any attention to the environmental impact thereof;
 5. Stresses that the overall efforts by survivors to get proper justice through both the US and Indian courts have so far been unsuccessful;
 6. Calls for an independent inquiry into the current situation in Bhopal, possibly under the auspices of the UN Commission on Human Rights, engaging the relevant Special Rapporteurs to visit India in order to examine the effect of UCIL/UCC activities and the Bhopal disaster on contamination of the groundwater and the environment, and consequently on the human rights of affected communities;
 7. Supports the World Health Organization initiative launched in December 2001, through the International Programme on Chemical Safety, for improving both national and global chemical incident preparedness and response through the development of an early warning system and a programme of capacity strengthening in Member States;
 8. Underlines that bad working conditions, the lack of any proper security systems and totally inadequate risk assessment in the plant in Bhopal, elements which were well known to the executive management of the plant as well to the Indian authorities, were the main causes of the disaster;
 9. Considers that ensuring health and safety in the workplace should be a prerequisite for all corporations investing in developing countries, if such a disaster is to be avoided in the future;

Il-Hamis, 16 ta' Diċembru 2004

10. Calls on the Commission to look into ways in which the European Union could assist in the comprehensive and definitive decontamination of the site and, in the meantime, in ensuring the supply of drinking water;
 11. Welcomes the Commission's legislative proposals (COM(2003)0644) to make more information available about some 30 000 chemical substances currently in use;
 12. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission, the UN Commission on Human Rights, the Governments of India and Madhya Pradesh and the Dow Chemical Company.
